NEW SEPARATE SCHOOL BOUNDARY

Pupils South of Sherbrooke Street to Attend Lake Street School

The Lake Street School has not yet opened for the fall term, the new addition not being entirely completed. It is not definitely known when the children will return, but it is expected that it will be within the next few weeks. Another innovation will be instituted when the school opens, namely, all the children south of Sherbrooke street will have to attend the Lake Street School, that is, all the Catholic children. This is for the purpose of providing for the equal distribution of the scholars among the several schools, and to prevnet overcrowding in any particular school. In the past there were no definite boundaries to the Separate School districts, but the increased number of children necessitates the determining of specified boundaries.

CAPTURED LUNGE ON MINNOW HOOK

Mr. Ray Best's Remarkable Angling Feat at Chemong Monday

While fishing at Chemong on Monday morning, two local young men, Messrs. Ray Best and D. B. McRae, made a somewhat unusual capture. They were fishing for minnows for bait, when Mr. Best, who was angling, with a thin line and a No. 1 minnow hook, got fast to a five pound lunge which was landed after a hard struggle.

The story looks rather remarkable but as the information was supplied by a newspaper man it is, of course, absolutely authentic.

WEDDING BELLS

THORNBURY-BACON

A wedding of interest to many Peterborough persons takes place this evening in Pasadena, Cal., when Miss Lilian Emma Bacon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bacon, residents of this city about nine years ago, will become the wife of Mr. Frank Simpson Thornbury, D. D. L., also of Pasadena. The wedding will take place in the Lake avenue Methodist church. Mr. and Mrs. Thornbury will be at home after November 1st, at 893 North Orange Grove avenue, Pasadena.

MOHER-O'DONNELL

A very pretty wedding was solemnized this morning at eight o'clock, at St. Peter's cathedral, when Miss Maggie O'Donnell, formerly of Caher, county of Tipperary, Ireland, was united in marriage to Mr. Will Moher, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father McColl, in the presence of a large number of friends of the young couple.

The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. P. Cahill, while the wedding march was played by Miss Doherty, and Miss Mollie Cahill made a charming maid of honour.

The bride was prettily attired in a handsome gown of white silk entraine, with bolero of all-over lace. She wore a veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaid was Miss Annie Moher, sister of the groom, who wore a charming gown of white crepe de chine, with a lace hat to match, and carried pink chrysanthemums. Mr. Ernest Lefevre supported the groom. After the ceremony a delightful wedding dejeuner was served at the residence of the groom's parents, Water street.

Many beautiful and costly presents were received, including a handsome sideboard, the gift of the groom's fellow employees of the Lock Works.

HAVELOCK WOMEN FOUND DEAD IN TORONTO HOTEL

Examiner Special.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—Two women, Mrs. Shannon and Mrs. McEwen, both of Havelock, Ont., were found dead this morning in their room at the Osgoode House, the room being full of gas. The ladies, who were Exhibition visitors, evidently had turned off the gas, and turned it on again by mistake, as the tube was turned on full. Coroner W. J. Greig decided that the case was one of accidental death. "The two had never been in the city before, and did not understand how to operate gas," said the coroner."

It is not likely that an inquest will be held.

Appointment Is Made Of Public School Inspector

Mr. A. Mowatt, B. A., Principal of Brockville Collegiate Institute is Given the Position — Twenty-nine Applications

A TEMPORARY ASSISTANT

The Public School Inspector to succeed Mr. Duncan Walker was appointed last night by the Board of Education. The gentleman decided upon is Mr. A. Mowatt, B.A., principal of the Brockville Collegiate Institute, and, according to his recommendations and history as a teacher, he is well qualified to occupy that important position. The applications numbered in all 29, among whom were a couple of local men, the decision being reached in committee, to which the representatives of the press were not admitted.

Mr. Hill read the report of the Committee on Appointments in the Board meeting as follows:

Your Committee on Appointments begs leave to report and recommend the following:

As instructed, your committee advertised for applications for the position of Supervising Principal and Inspector of Public Schools. For the position we received 29 applications, many of them from principals of various leading collegiates throughout the Province.

Your committee, after carefully considering these applications, recommend that Mr. A. Mowatt, B.A., of Brockville, principal of the Collegiate Institute, be appointed to the position at the minimum salary of $1,600, increasing to $2,000, according to schedule. This gentleman has the necessary inspector's certificate of qualification, and stands high in the teaching profession.

For the position of junior assistant there have been received 20 applications, none of which is considered wholly satisfactory. Your committee therefore recommend that the chairman be authorized to again advertise, offering an initial salary of $1,000, increasing to $1,200, as per schedule.

Mr. Hill moved the adoption of the report, which was seconded and carried.

Mr. Hill read a letter handed him by Mr. Fessenden, by Mr. McDougall, Kemptville, stating that he would be willing to perform the duties as junior assistant for a short period if the Board so desired it. Mr. McDougall, who has taught for some years, is now attending medical college, and has some time to spare before entering.

On motion, it was decided to accept his offer, so that Mr. McDougall will be assistant for one month at a salary of $65.

Cavan Man Was Robbed Of One Hundred Dollars

William Stuart Cashed a Cheque Last Night and This Morning Was Penniless—Arrested as a Drunk by the Police

NO CLUE TO THE THIEF

Yesterday William Stuart came in to the city from Cavan, cashed a cheque for $100.00 and this morning he did not have enough to pay a two dollar fine. The question that is puzzling the man who was touched is, "How did I loose it?" He was arrested last night and this morning was charged with being found drunk in a public place. He pleaded guilty at least he said he must be guilty or he would not be in the prisoner's dock.

He has been engaged by the township of Cavan at general work on roads, bridges and culverts and came to Peterborough with the money he had earned. He declared that he drank only three glasses of wine and then went to see a lady friend. He was confident that she did not take his roll and yet he does not know how he lost it.

The police found him intoxicated and he must have been relieved of his purse while in that condition.

Hunting Knife and Pistol Is Produced in Evidence

IS AN UNSAVORY CASE

An unsavoury case was ventilated in County Police Court this morning before Magistrate Edmison. The principals were from Cavendish township where Constables Cochrane and Moore travelled last week and arrested Wm. O. Haines in a Cavendish forest. He was charged with three offences, viz.—that of carrying a pistol to the house of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Westlake, of using obscene language to her, and of committing an assault upon her.

Considerable evidence was given which cannot well be reproduced here, but it told of family feuds and troubles which apparently have been existing for some time between Haines and the Westlake family.

An interesting feature of the trial was the presentation as evidence of a diabolical looking dagger and pistol done up in a cartridge belt. The blade of the knife was about 7 inches long and some traces of blood had been left on it—the life blood of an animal no doubt.

After hearing the evidence the Magistrate decided to defer judgment until 4 o'clock this evening. Mr. G. Gordon looked after the case for the complainant, Mrs. Westlake, and Mr. R. F. McWilliams for the prisoner.

FATHER OF LOCAL MAN IN WRECK

Mr. W. A. Hillhouse Was Injured Near Orangeville

Among the injured in the awful railway wreck near Orangeville yesterday was Mr. W. A. Hillhouse of Shelbourne, Ont., father of Mr. Wm. E. Hillhouse, of Peterborough. His son has made inquiries as to the nature of the injuries and has learned that Mr. Hillhouse has only received a slight scalp wound not at all dangerous and will recover in a short time.

Mr. Hillhouse was visiting his son here last week and returned home on Monday and unfortunately rode on the ill-fated train.

MR. DOBBIN AND HIS FIRST BIG FISH

Thought He Had Caught It on Tw Trawling Lines

Mr Lewis Dobbin, of Adamson & Dobbin, has been spending the past week at Jubilee with his wife and family and in the meantime has been after the fish which every true sport delights in catching. Mr. Dobbin started out early determined to make good, but the fish were seemingly biting at every hook but his, much to his chagrin and disappointment. Finally on Friday he was out rowing with Dr. Armstrong, of Oshawa, who was rowing and Mr. Dobbin was trawling with two lines, one on each side of the boat. Finally a big 'lunge grabbed his own line with that seductive swerve which tells of a strike and this was Mr. Dobbin's first. The fish was tugging away and Mr. Dobbin, for a short time, did not know on which line the 'lunge was o aught, he was so excited. Finally he started landing the fish which put up a game fight, and Mr. Dobbin landed a twelve pounder into the skiff, dispatched, and then coolly put his first notch in the club he used. It was a fine specimen for a first catch and Mr. Dobbin will tell of it every season now when at the lake.

You have Not One Reason for Not Using

Zutoo

Some people think that all headache cures are alike—that they all undermine the health, even if not perceived at the time of taking them.

Well, we'll admit that some cures do this, those, for example, which contain opium, morphine, antipyrene or chloral.

But this is no reason why you should not use Zutoo.

Zutoo [illegible] of any of the drugs above mentioned. They do not contain a single ingredient that does not come from Old Mother Earth herself.

One ingredient is soda—just old-fashioned soda that our grandmothers used to take to settle the stomach when they had sick headache.

There is not one ingredient in Zutoo tablets that is not approved by both the British and American Pharmacopoeias. And the world has no higher authority in medicine than these.

Your family physician, even if a personal friend, would approve of and prescribe every ingredient.

There is absolutely no reason why you should not use Zutoo.

If you suffer from headache there is every reason why you should.

Taken in time, two tablets will ward off a headache. Taken later, they will stop it in twenty minutes, and leave you feeling bright and well in both mind and body.

It is Harmless as Soda

COOKING VOTERS' LISTS

The Conservative party seems to appreciate fully the value of votes. It also seems to have the courage of its sentiments, and means are not neglected to secure all the names of probable Conservative voters for the lists, and keep off the names of people likely to vote against the candidates of the party. We have the audacious attempt to stuff the Trenton voters' list a green memory, and now we learn from the "Soo," that there has been a deliberate attempt to pack the voters' list of that town. The Sault Ste. Marie Express refers to the "crooked" manner in which the voters' lists have been prepared. The methods used are, it says, condemned by all citizens in favour of fair play and honesty. Even the better element of the Conservative party condemns the improper methods; but, unfortunately, the better element of that party is not in control. It is alleged that the attempt has been made to "rob scores upon scores of honest working men of their votes." In particularly the west end of the town, the workingmen's centre, voters have been left off wholesale. The Whitney party in Ontario, assumes to itself a monopoly of the virtue of righteousness of political methods, but the facts discredit their claim. If the desire to gain undue advantage in a political contest, begins at the fountain head — the preparation of the lists of voters, we have no guarantee that corresponding crookedness will not follow the vote to the ballot box.

BRITISH MONEY IN CANADA

The Quarterly Review of London has collected some interesting statistics as to British investments abroad. It is estimated that the aggregate of British capital invested outside of the British Isles is £3,150,000,000, representing the accumulated savings of centuries. Of this sum, nearly thirteen hundred million dollars are invested in Canada, the figures in pounds, sterling, being:

	Market Value
Government stocks... .....£	46,000,000
Railways...	158,000,000
Corporation stocks, Banking, financial, land, etc.	29,300,000
Mines.....	3,000,000
Miscellaneous...	20,000,000
	£262,400,000
	$1,311,000,000

The writer in the Quarterly Review estimates that this capital, which has been "put to work" in Canada, is yielding between five and six per cent. interest on the average. In proportion to population, British investment in Canada is much greater than in the United States. This country owes an immense debt to British investors, extending form the earliest days of its development down to the present time, when British capital is financing some of our greatest undertakings, like the new Transcontinental Railway. The tendency of British capitalists, however, is to restrict their Canadian investments to securities of a public or semi-public character. The bulk of the oustide money that has gone into the industrial development of this country in the past few years has probably come from the United States.

The English bishops are greatly displeased with the legislation authorizing the marriage by a man of his deceased wife's sister. While their action may, by some, be regarded as extreme, there is this to be said, that there is great social danger in any attempt or tendency to relax anything in the rigid sanctity of the marriage tie. Marriage, and the home it stands for, are the very foundation of society, and the foundation disturbed means disastrous collapse of the superstructure, called society, with corresponding calamity to the state.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The French people want an operator for their guillotine, but it seems that nobody is anxious for the place. The Toronto News recommends Mayor Judd, of London.

The opening of the schools is as pleasing to adults as it is displeasing to the youngsters. There will be seven or eight hours daily for five days in the week when the average boy will not operate as an eye-opener.

The town of Brockville is a great supply centre, a veritable magazine of gray matter. It furnished a Liberal leader for Ontario, and in the same person a Minister of Railways and Canals. The last order it has filled is a Supervising Principal and Inspector of the Public Schools of Peterborough.

The county postmasters have received an increase in salary of about thirty per cent., with a corresponding increase in the scale of commissions and allowance for night duty. This increase is doubly justified—by the deserts of the rural postmasters and by the buoyant nature of the post-office revenue.

It is expected that the bye-elections in St. John's, N.B., and Brockville, made necessary by the appointment of Cabinet ministers, will be held about September 25. There are three other bye-election contests in sight to fill vacancies in London, North Wellington and East Northumberland, and it is probable that they will be brought on without much delay.

According to a writer in the London Quarterly Review, there are thirteen hundred millions of dollars of British capital invested in Canada, and that it carries on an average between five and six per cent. We have sometimes felt and said that British capitalists pass by Canada in placing their surplus funds, but, according to the writer in the Review, there is a much larger quantity of British capital invested in Canada in proportion to the population, as compared with the United States.

Mr. Foster and Mr. Fowler have both spoken from the same platform with their leader within a week, remarks the Fredericton (N. B.) Herald. It may just be possible that the two land dealers forced themselves on their leader, or it may be that Mr. Borden was hypocritical enough to declare against graft and for clean politics in one breath, and in the next call a couple of the discredited politicians to his aid. It is evident that the Tory party assumes responsibility for the acts of Foster and Fowler, acclaims these worthies, and must share the reproaches of their record as revealed by the Insurance Commission.

No private corporation, as the Kingston Whig has pointed out on different occasions, would run its business like the city council. Economy and efficiency are only secured by harmony of relations, by the placing of every man employed by it in the place for which he is peculiarly fitted. No company or contractor would think of handling the work as the city is doing, with collision between departments, with no desire to undertake any care or responsibility which does not come within a certain domain. All this is wrong in principle and practice, and the sooner it is changed the better.

The Brantford Expositor gives the following as the scale of wages in the various lines of labour in that city:—

Bricklayers, 40c per hour.
Builders' Labourers, 20c to 25c per hour.
Carpenters, 22 1-2c to 35c.
Stair Builders, 22 1-2c to 35c per hour.
Plasterers, 35c per hour.
Painters, 20c to 22c per hour.
Plumbers, 30c to 35c per hour.
Machinists, 20c to 25c per hour.
Moulders, 21 1-2c to 25c per hour.
Blacksmiths, 20c to 25c per hour.
Day Labourers, 13 1-2c to 15c per hour.

In yesterday's issue there are incidents reported of "Americans," that is people from the United States, sojourning at Stony Lake, abusing this country's hospitality by maulting the flag under which they enjoy shelter, by giving the "Yankee" flag positions of prominence and pre-eminence over the British flag. This display of bad taste may be unpleasing to Canadians; but there is the reflection that it is due either to ignorance of ill-breeding, or both, and is discreditable only to the perpetrators, who exercise the boorishness that may be at the bottom of offensive display of an alien flag, and a discourteous abuse of hospitality.

A despatch states that on the arrival of a batch of Chines immigrants, that when they came in sight of the statue of Liberty in New York harbour, they fell down and worshipped it, thinking it an idol of a superior kind. Poor heathens! If they landed in the United States, they would soon be undeceived—they would find that no "American" worships the Goddess of Liberty, except with lip service. The Statue of Liberty, and the effigy of Liberty on coins, are largely empty emblems.

The Globe quotes the following instance of popular discrimination in the United States: American manufacturers sell to foreigners at a reduction of 46 per cent. from the domestic price; manufacturers of agricultural implements favour the foreigner by something like 20 per cent. discount; the manufacturers of carpenters' tools give a discount of 37 to 53 per cent. to foreigners; and the manufacturers of percussion caps demand from domestic dealers an advance of 88 per cent. over the foreign price. The United States Steel Corporation sells steel rails at home for $28 a ton, while to Mexicans and Canadians it sells for $21 a ton. These conditions work out this way. The protected manufacturers have it in their power, by virtue of a high tariff, and exercise the power, to charge the citizens of the United States upon the five articles, or classes of articles, an average of 46 per cent. more than they charge the people of foreign countries. That is to say, the tariff permits protected manufacturers to charge domestic consumers sufficiently high a profit to warrant them disposing of the surplus products, in foreign countries, in order to keep up prices at home. The law of supply and demand operates in the direction of a drop in prices when a superfluity of articles for sale is available, but in this case the superfluity is eliminated, and the domestic consumer continues to be a victim.

DELEGATE SELECTED BY LABOUR UNION

Mr. T. J. Begley Will Go to Winnipeg to Attend Dominion Congress

A special meeting of the local Trades and Labour Council was held last night, when the chief matter of business was the selection of a delegate to attend the Dominion Trades Congress Convention which will be held in Winnipeg between September 16 and 21. Mr. T J Begley, secretary of the local congress, was decided upon, and he leaves next Tuesday for the western city. Before reaching Winnipeg, Mr. Begley will visit friends in Dakota.

The programme arranged for the committee will consist of addresses of welcome by Hon. R. P. Rotslin, Premier of Manitoba, and J. H. Ashdown, Esq., Mayor of Winnipeg; grand reception and get-together meeting, orchestra, refreshments, etc. sight-seeing with street car ride, and visit to the Provincial Agricultural College and other places of interest, excursion to Selkirk, mass meeting of union men in one of the large halls; and delegates entertained by their various unions. Delegates will also be entertained at the theatre. A committee of Winnipeg ladies will entertain the lady visitors.

DON'T PUT IT OFF LONGER

Get Rid of That Indigestion at Once by Using Mi-o-na

Many people in Peterborough are slowly poisoning themselves by chronic indigestion. Their neglect to cure sluggishness of the important organs of digestion fills the system with fermenting and decaying food, that results in sick headache, heartburn, bad taste in the mouth, and many other symptoms.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets are for special relief of such sufferers. They quickly cure the worst cases of indigestion and when used a few days the pain and distress often felt after meals will disappear.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets cost but 50 cents a box and do more good than a dozen boxes of the ordinary digestive tablets. Mr. Madill gives an absolute, unqualified guarantee to refund the money if Mi-o-na fails to cure.

DR. MARSH SUCCEEDS IN PHOTOGRAPHING SUN SPOTS

The presence of sun-spots of unusual size, are again recorded by Rev. Dr. Marsh, who informed the Examiner to-day that three days ago he noticed a disturbance, which covered an area of 16,000 by 65,000 miles of the sun's surface, and this fact was responsible for the beautiful auroral display noticed recently.

Dr. Marsh photographed the disturbance yesterday, and obtained a good negative. He states that the disturbance is so marked that it can virtually be seen with the naked eye, and one looking at the sun through a glass cannot help noticing it.

THE PAN TOP RAISES FOR BROILING

The flues throughout are lined with asbestos, around which there are two thicknesses of steel. Even the flues under the oven are thus lined, practically insuring the GREAT IDEA steel range against dampness, the enemy of all steel ranges.

BISHOP HOLSEY SAYS: "PE-RU-NA IS A BLESSING."

He Declares Pe-ru-na to Be a Triumph of Medical Science,

A Magnificent and Sovereign Remedy.

Tried Pe-ru-na and Was Promptly Relieved.

After Twenty Years Bondage to Catarrh

He Is Relieved By Pe-ru-na.

A public speaker cannot afford to have catarrh. Even a slight catarrhal hoarseness of the throat becomes intolerable.

This is especially true of the minister who is called upon to preside at religious functions of all sorts.

L. H. Holsey, Bishop C. M. E. Church, Atlanta, Ga., writes:

"I have found Peruna to be a great remedy for catarrh. I have suffered with this terrible disease for more than twenty years, until since I have been using Peruna, which has relieved me of the trouble.

"I have tried many remedies and spent a great deal of hard-earned money for them, but I found nothing so effectual in the cure of catarrh as the great remedy Peruna.

"I feel sure that Peruna is not only a triumph of medical science, but it is also a blessing to suffering humanity.

"Every individual who suffers with respiratory diseases will find Peruna a magnificent and sovereign remedy."—L. H. Holsey, Bp. C. M. E. Church.

NO FURNACE FOR THE WEST WARD

School Board Turns Down Proposal by A Tie Vote Last Night

THE ROUTINE BUSINESS

The Board of Education held its regular meeting last night when, besides the routine business, some important questions arose. The proposal embodied in the report of the Property Committee to install a new furnace in the West Ward School was the cause of some members waxing warm in words and ended in the proposal being turned down by a tie vote.

Those present were Chairman Robt. Fair, Messrs. Jno. Crane, Wm. Pringle, D W Dumble, W S Robinson, Dr. Burnham and Dr. Morrison.

Accounts Presented

The following accounts presented were referred to the Finance Committee:—

Finance Report.

Mr. Crane, acting chairman of the Finance Committee, presented the following report:—

Your Finance Committee begs leave to report and recommend the payment of the following accounts:

A H Stratton & Co.	$2 25

Peterboro Light & Power Co.	5 00
Peterboro Light & Power Co.	1 00

Adam Hall	5 20

We also recommend that the secretary-treasurer be paid the sum of $15 for petty cash.

Property Committee

Mr. Crane read the report of the Property Committee as follows:—

Your Property Committee beg leave to report that we asked the different dealers for quotations for soft coal required for the schools for the ensuing year and we recommend that the contract be awarded to the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Co. at the price of $5.10 a ton, the coal to be weighed on the market scales and delivered as required. The Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Co. had the contract last year and fulfilled it to the satisfaction of the Board.

Secondly, the Committee also recommend that two flag poles be purchased from J. J. Turner & Sons at a cost of $75 for the King Edward and Queen Alexandria Schools.

Your Committee also recommend that a furnace be installed in the West Ward School of sufficient size to properly heat the building and provide good ventilation.

A Deadlock

Some discussion arose over the third clause of the Property Committee's report respecting the installing of a furnace in the West Ward School. Mr. Crane read the report but declined to move the adoption of the final clause. Mr. Dumble immediately moved that the whole report be adopted, considering that the pupils of that school deserve heating accommodation as efficient as that they receive in their own homes.

Mr. Crane considered that if any money were to be expended on the school, the lavatories should be looked after.

Mr. Robinson condemned both the West Ward and South Central Schools and advocated the disposal of them and the erection of a handsome building in the West Ward to take their places.

After more heated discussion it was moved by Messrs. Dumble and Hill, that the report of the Property Committee be adopted. In addition to the mover and seconder the chairman voted for the adoption, but it was turned down by the votes of Messrs. Crane, Pringle and Robinson. Clauses 1 and 2 were, however, moved and adopted.

The sewer question at the new King Edward School was again touched upon. Mr. Pringle informed the Board that if the sewer was not in readiness for school opening, board closets would be erected temporarily.

Moved by Mr. Crane, seconded by Mr. Pringle, that the thanks of the Board be tendered to Mr. Cole Barrett for the handsome display of bouquets on the Board room desk.—Carried.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was thought to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses of from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous membrane of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

THE KNOX CHURCH BOYS FORM CLUB

Hustling Organization to Provide Pastime for the Youths

At Knox church last night a meeting of the young men and boys was held for the purpose of forming a Boys' Club, or rather, a Junior Guild. The meeting which although not largely attended was an enthusiastic one resulted in a committee being formed to outline a constitution and look after the work of instituting the Club. The members constituting it are Messrs. Wilkie, R. Thompson, W. Perks, W. Byers and W. Shannah. They will meet next Friday evening and complete their work and will also nominate officers and on Friday evening, Sept. 13th, an open meeting will be held when the officers will be elected.

The pastor, Rev. H. J. Keith, was present last night displaying a warm interest in the movement. The purpose of the club is to keep the boys together by providing wholesome fun in the line of indoor games, entertainments and socials.

At the conclusion of the meeting on the 13th a social will be held for the boys and every effort will be put forth to make the first meeting a success. SERVICES NOT REQUIRED ANY LONGER

Mr. Wm. Henry Loses Position Recently Given Him by School Board

Mr. William Henry, recently appointed caretaker of the new King Edward School, has lost his position again. This decision was arrived at last night, and was due to the board not being satisfied with his conduct towards them. It was stated that Mr. Henry left the city, intending to be away a couple of days, contrary to the wishes of Mr. Pringle, the chairman of the Supervision Committee, and that he remained away longer than he first intended. Other things were charged against Mr. Henry, which in the opinion of some of the members were not conducive to smoothness in connection with his position. It was, therefore, moved by Mr. Hill, seconded by Dr. Burnham that the secretary be authorized to notify him that his services are no longer required by the Board, and that the Committee on Appointments be authorized to advertise for a successor. — Carried.

PARENT STRONGLY RESENTS RIDICULOUS ARRANGEMENTS

In Regard to Accomodation of Collegiate Institute Commercial Classes

Dear Sir, — Allow me to draw the attention of those interested, to the ridiculous proposed arrangements about to be made for the accommodation of those desiring to take the Commercial Course at the local Collegiate Institute. On attending the Institute yesterday for the opening day, the pupils assembled were informed that those wishing to take a Commercial Course would be required to attend the new King Edward School. On objection ing being made to walking such a distance they were informed that walking was good exercise, and that perhaps arrangements might be made to supply the more distant pupils with free street car tickets.

Now, Mr. Editor, I object most strongly to any such arrangements. It is not right to ask young girls to walk a mile and a half, two miles and two miles and a quarter—as some would have to do—to attend their classes. As to the street cars, they would be of little use to many, and as for the free tickets, some of the trustees are decidedly opposed to giving them. Gentlemen, the winter season, with its snow and impassable sidewalks will soon be here, and other arrangements will have to be made for the accommodation of those wishing to take the course named.

Dr. Marsh has been successful in getting some splendid photographs of the disturbances, photographing the phenomena on Aug. 28th and 31st, and also on Monday last.

The City Council at its meeting last night decided to invite the Hon. Geo. P. Graham, the new Minister of Railways and Canals to come to Peterborough before the close of navigation this season and view the lift lock and canal. It is intended to impress upon Mr. Graham the desirability of going ahead with the construction of the Trent Canal as fast as possible. A committee will be appointed to look after the matter in the event of Mr. Graham accepting.

Jubilee Hotel Had Many Visitors During Past Week

All the Guests Were Successful in Landing Large Fish---Large Number of Power Boats Over the Holiday ---Several Successful Dances Held

Labour Day practically closed the summer season at Rice Lake and it was a fitting climax to one of the most successful seasons in the history of the lake. The various resorts have been well patronized this year but during the past week the number had reached its maximum and a jolly week resulted. In fact on Friday Proprietor Gillman, of the Jubilee Hotel, had to turn away a party of Rochester people, owing to lack of accommodation. The fishing in the river and lake has been excellent and the Indians and the other fishermen declare that it is the best that they have experienced in thirty years. The honour of catching the largest fish of the season and in fact one of the largest that has ever been seen at the lake, fell to Mr. A. Metherall and his daughter Helen, who landed a 32 pounder which they caught in the river a little north of Jubilee. Without any exception the guests at the hotel at Jubilee were all successful in their fishing expeditions and returned to their homes with large catches.

The guests and visitors registered at the house during the past week were: Mr. Donald Herald, of the Toronto Conservatory of Music; Dr. and Mrs. Armstrong, Oshawa; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Stetzenmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. A Belcher, Mr. and Mrs. C C Hellems, Rochester; Mr. Jas. Squires, Misses E. Payne and A Gillman, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Dobbin, and children, Mr. and Mrs. Frank LePlante and child, Mr. and Mrs. D Coughlin, Peterborough; Mr. A Seward, Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Adams, Mr. and Mrs. B O'Dette, Peterborough; Mr and Mrs. Geo. Tovey, Jr., Schenectady, O.; Alderman and Mrs. Tovey, Ernest Tovey, A Fuller, Walter Conway, Harry Gillman, "Knockers" B Holland, A Cranfield, B Monorief and Fred Holland, of the Knocker Camp at Hattrick's Point; Mr. and Mrs. A Metherall and family, Mrs. Jas Tully and children, Alderman Duncan, Art Harron, Vernon O'Dette, Len Naylor, John O'Dette, Mrs. Shearer, Ford Turner, Roy Turner, Will Turner, Art Emmerson, Mr. and Mrs. Wm R Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Wright, Jack Frazer, E Saunders, J McCabe, B Howden, Misses Margaret O'Dette and Lizzie Pope, Messrs. Hurrell Dodds, Jas. McNurn, Will Abbott, Chas and Harry Dummitt, Peterborough; Messrs. Codey, Morris and Daly, Oshawa.

Dances

On Saturday evenings, the 24th and 31st, two dances were held in the pavilion and were largely attended, proving the real idea for passing the week ends. Music was supplied by Messrs. A. Harron, W. Conway, A. Cranfield and B Holland. The pavilion was gaily decorated and those present had an enjoyable time.

Flotilla of Boats

On Sunday and Monday there was a large number of boats at the Jubilee dock, including skiffs, canoes and launches. In fact although there was no special trip to the point still a large number of people spent the day there. Mr. B. O'Dette had his family boat down and with Mr. A. Harron went down in the Peterborough Canoe Company's fast motor boat. Mr. O'Dette was the envy of all the people as this manufacture of the Canoe Company sped through the water. The general opinion among those who saw this boat travelling is that with a stronger engine it can show its heels to any boat on these waters.

Mr. L. Dobbin of the city, had a fine fish to bring home, and those who were most successful were Dr. and Mrs. Armstrong, of Oshawa, who had a long string of lunge and bass, as also had Mr. Stetzenmeyer and Mr. Hellems of Rochester.

Stony Lake and the others of the Kawartha chain have hosts of admirers but the coterie of lovers of Rice Lake is rapidly increasing and it will be only a matter of a few years when Rice Lake must see a great change. The fishing is unsurpassed, the boating is excellent and the game birds make the lake and river their feeding grounds.

Council Holds The First Meeting Of Fall Term

Routine Business Was Taken up Last Night---Parnell Street Sewer Problem to be Investigated---Council Chamber Needs Cleaning at Once

When the council gathered last night for their first meeting, after the summer holidays, and had brushed off the dust which had been accumulating on the chairrs for the last month, it was found that only six out of the twelve aldermen, with the Mayor, were present. Ald. Leary arrived however a few minutes after. The session was not a long one, and very little was done, outside of the routine business. Several reports were read and a number of bylaws passed.

There were present the Mayor, Ald. Johnston, Elliott, Bradburn, Duncan, Wilson, Phelan and Leary.

A number of communications were read and referred to the proper committees.

Parnell Street Sewer

Mr. J. W. Hales waited on the council and asked why the sewer on Romaine street was not opened out through and put in working order, so as to give sewer connection with Parnell street.

Ald. Duncan said that the Board of Works had been trying hard to get the sewer on Romaine street open, but did not think it would be possible this year. He was of the opinion that a sewer off Parnell street to the Romaine street sewer would not be of any use.

Ald. Johnston said that he was prised to learn that there was not fall enough from Parnell street.

Ald. Wilson said that the building of a sewer on Parnell street under the present conditions would be a piece of folly. What was needed was a trunk sewer on Park street. He thought that the drain there should be cleaned out to get rid of the surplus water.

Ald. Phelan wanted to know if there was any information as to the sewer on Romaine street.

The Mayor replied that he understood that the sewer was in working order on Romaine street, and was being tested.

The Board of Works will take up the matter of the Parnell street sewer as soon as possible.

Finance Committee

The Finance Committee reported as follows:

1. That the payment of $5,562.50 to the City Trust Commissioners, to pay interest on waterworks debentures be confirmed.

2. That the city solicitor be requested to prepare a bylaw to increase the rate of interest on debentures to be issued for $9,359.10, to pay the city's share of the cost of sewers, from 4 per cent. to 4 1-2 per cent.

3. That the witness fees in the case of the King v. Morrison be paid in accordance with the certifiate of the County Attorney and Crown Prosecutor.

4. That the following accounts be paid:—

Bylaws Passed

The following bylaws were passed:—

Bylaw No. 1335, a bylaw amending Bylaw 1325, regarding the interest on the debentures issued to pay the city's share of the cost of sewers.

Bylaw No. 1337, a bylaw to authorize the execution of an agreement in reference to the diversion of the water course between Victoria avenue and Dublin street.

Council Chamber Duty

Ald. Wilson called attention to the bad condition of the Council Chamber. He referred to the fact that the storm windows had never been taken off since the winter, the chairs were covered with dust, and the clock was not going. He moved, seconded by Ald. Duncan, that the caretaker be instructed to thoroughly clean the Council Chamber.

Bugs in Police Cells

Ald. Duncan said that the police cells were also in a disgraceful condition. There were insects of the B. B. variety running at large there, and the sewer was also plugged up. It was a terrible place in which to put prisoners.

"It's worse than Siberia," remarked Ald. Elliott. He thought that the police should bring such matters to the attention of the Council.

It was moved by Ald. Duncan that the Property Committee be instructed to have the police cells placed in a satisfactory condition.

Removal of Poles

The Mayor brought up the question of the removal of poles from George street. He stated that good progress was being made by the Bell Telephone Company, and their poles would soon be off the street. He was of the opinion that the Council should enter into negotiations with the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company to remove their poles. If this was done the only poles left would be those of the Peterborough Light & Power Company, and the trolley poles.

The matter was referred to the Manufacturers' Committee, which will act as soon as possible.

The Mayor stated that some arrangement should be made with the Water Commissioners for the purpose of having water service for watering the streets early in the spring and late in the autumn. He pointed out the difficulty that had existed in the past.

On motion of Ald. Phelan and Bradburn, the matter was referred to the Board of Works.

Better House-numbering

His Worship, referring to the postal delivery which is to be established in this city, said that something should be done to have the houses of the city numbered in a systematic manner. In the centre of the city the numbering was not so bad, but in the outskirts it was irregular.

On motion of Ald. Elliott and Johnston, the question was referred to the Legal Committee.

It was moved by Ald. Bradburn, seconded by Ald. Elliott, that the matter of placing a gong in the house of the engineer of the firehall be left in the hands of the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.—Carried.

Peterborough Hydraulic Power Company Complain to Council

At the meeting of the City Council last night a letter was read from Mr. J. H. Larmonth, of the Peterborough Hydraulic Power Company, complaining that the fire brigade had refused to do anything to extinguish the recent fire in the sawdust pile on the company's property.

The Mayor stated that he had sent a copy of the letter to the chief, and thought that that official would have sent in a report, but none had been received.

Ald. Wilson was of the opinion that the company should do something to protect their own property. It was not fair to expect a volunteer brigade to respond to perhaps two of three calls a week because there was a fire in the sawdust pile. He thought that the company should engage the fire engine and a couple of the men to extinguish the blaze, without calling out the brigade.

Ald. Johnston was of the same opinion, and agreed with Ald. Wilson that the best thing for the company to do was to rent the engine until the fire was extinguished. The sawdust pile had always been a bone of contention, even before the present owners came into control of the property.

The matter was referred to the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee to investigate, and report to the Council.

WEDDING BELLS.

CUNNINGHAM-MILANEY

This morning at St. Peter's Cathedral a pretty wedding took place, when Miss Marguerite Milaney, second daughter of Mr. Luke Milaney, Union street, was married to Mr. Jos. Cunningham of Lindsay. The bride, who was attired in a becoming travelling suit of brown chiffon broadcloth, with hat to match, was attended by her sister, Miss Lauretta Milaney, who wore a neat suit of fawn, with hat to match. The bride was given away by her father. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Art. Cunningham.

After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's parents, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served.

The bride was the recipient of a number of useful and beautiful presents.

The happy couple left on the 11.40 train for Toronto, Niagara Falls, and Guelph. On their return they will reside at 108 Gladstone avenue.

AFRAID OF THE POWDER MAGAZINE

Mr. David Doig Waits on Council to Ask That Some Precaution be Taken

That the powder magazine in North Monaghan is liable to blow up at any moment and obliterate the neighbouring scenery seemed to be the fear of Mr. David Doig, of North Monaghan, who waited on the council last night to protest against the careless manner in which the magazine is looked after. Mr. Doig delivered an impassioned speech in the course of which he said that irresponsible parties have access to the building the door of which is often left open. He proposed that there be only one key to the building and that it be left in the hands of some one who would see that only responsible parties had access to the magazine.

The matter was referred to the Property Committee to investigate and take such action as is deemed necessary.

CHEESE REACHES 12 3/16 TO-DAY

Highest Price so far This Season—Light Cheese Episode is Considered By the Board

MANY FACTORIES UNSOLD

Cheese reached the highest price of the season this morning on the local board, when a number of factories disposed of their products at 12 3-16c. per lb.

There were in all 4,612 boxes boarded, but a large quantity of this remained unsold as the salesmen were in hopes of obtaining larger prices than those offered.

One of the features of the morning's sale was the discussion over the light weight cheese episode which occurred at the market last week when a number of cheese were discovered to have been lighter than the weight marked on the box, and when shrinkage was not allowed on others. Mr. Cook brought up the question and a lengthy discussion ensued after which on motion of Messrs. Kennedy, of Buckhorn, and Young, of Ennismore, the following resolution was carried:

"That salesmen weigh their cheese at the market; take them to the car, present that weight to the buyer and if he is not satisfied to take it, that he may be allowed to pick out a number and at his own expense have them weighed, the final weight to govern."

The following cheese were then boarded:—

The Bidding

Mr. Squires opened the bidding at 11 1-2c, which was rapidly followed as follows: Cook, 11 3-4c; Weir, 11 7-8c; Squires, 12; Cook, 12 1-16c; Kerr, 12 1-8c; Cook, 12 3-16, when the bidding ceased.

Mr. Cook, getting first choice, called Benafort, Crown, Keene, all of which accepted.

Mr. Squires, at the same price, called Ormonde, Norwood, Indian River, Oakdale, all accepting.

At 12 1-8c, Mr. Weir called and obtained Selwyn, Myrtle and Lang, Central Smith refusing, and at 12 1-16c he obtained South Burleigh, Cedardale, North Dummer, and Warminster. Shearer, Villiers, Lakefield, Pine Grove, Otonabee Union and Central Smith refused 12 1-16c.

Mr. Weir offered 12c for further cheese, but this was advanced by Cook to 12 1-16c, and raised by Mr. Kerr to 12 2-16c for the balance of the Board. Mr. Cook, at 12 1-8c, however, took Shearer, Central Smith, and Trewern, and at 12 1-16 he obtained Warsaw and Lakefield. The same buyer offered 12c for further selections, but was raised to 12c for the balance of the Board by Mr. Kerr. Mr. Weir raised to 12 1-16c, and received Young's Point and East Emily.

Mr. Kerr offered 12c for the balance of the Board again, obtaining Fraserville, Cavanville, Mt. Pleasant, the rest refusing.

At 12 1-16c, Fleetwood accepted Mr. Cook's offer.

Mr. R. Gillespie offered 12c for the balance of the Board, obtaining none, and no further cheese was bought.

The Board then adjourned to meet again September 18.

Rice Lake Resounded With Prolonged Fusilade

Season For Duck Shooting Was Opened Yesterday Morning by Many Hunters From This Vicinity—Results Were Not the Best

THE BIRDS SEEM SCARCE

Monday morning had scarcely dawned at Rice Lake when the duck shooting season was ushered in with a salute of shot guns that rolled over the lake for several hours to the dismay and destruction of the ducks and other game birds and the amusement of those who chanced to be within hearing. One would think that there was guerilla warfare being waged along the river and lake so general were the reports and so continued. If every shot had been sent home there could not possibly be a bird left in that vicinity. Some of the old sports who were out declare that the younger blood were firing at everything from mudhens to blackbirds. Whatever the result was the huntsmen were persistent in their efforts for the firing was heard for hours.

The number of ducks seen on the opening day about the lake was disappointingly small but the general opinion is that in a few days the prospects will be brighter. There were many hunters out yesterday and the majority of them intend to remain for some time. Mr. Baptiste O'Dette, Mr. Art. Harron, Vernon O'Dette and Len Naylor were out and bagged a fine bunch of birds. Mr. O'Dette, Sr., having the honour of getting the most ducks. Alderman Duncap with a number of fellow artists were out during the night and were in position by daybreak in the eastern end of the lake. They met with good luck and each man bagged his share. Hurrel Dodds, Chas. Dummit, Harry Dummit, W. Abbot and J. McNairn were also out and had a hand in the killing. There are only a few of the large number who formally declared the season open and were there for the early worm. The game birds are not as plentiful as they were in by-gone days, according to the patriarchs around the lake, but at the same time there seems to be enough to lure the sportsmen to the feeding grounds every year and the men declare that they meet with fair luck. There will probably be the usual list of stories as the hunters keep up the work and return to the city with their spoil.

UTILIZE THE KING EDWARD

Decision Reached By Board of Education Regarding the Collegiate Institute

NO CAR TICKETS GIVEN

The question of the lack of accommodation in the Collegiate Institute, was brought before the Board of Education last night for a solution.

It will be remembered that at an informal meeting of the Board held last week, the over-crowding was discussed, when it was thought that the best way out of the difficulty was to place the Commercial room of the Institute in the new King Edward school.

Mr. Pringle said that he had approached the Y.M.C.A. authorities, and the city officials, but could get no accommodation in the buildings under their control. The Central School proposition was looked into, but several things prevented accommodation in that quarter; and he next referred to the advisability of utilizing two rooms in the King Edward for the Commercial pupils of the Collegiate.

Mr. Fessenden explained that those in the Commercial Department were taking a special course covering about two years, and that Mr. Serigley, one of the Collegiate masters, took almost full charge of them. It could be arranged, he said, to have him at the Institute, a couple of afternoons per week to attend to these classes.

Mr. Dumble was in favour of placing the Commercial department in the King Edward school, and did not believe that any appropriation should be made for street car fares, which had been suggested, for those residing in the north end of the city.

Mr. Crane did not conform to this idea as he did not believe the parents should be called upon to send their children so far.

Mr. Robinson concurred in Mr. Dumble's opinion, and considered that a mile or two walk was only exercise to pupils who would attend.

Dr. Morrison believed that half the fee should be refunded to those Collegiate pupils going to the King Edward school north of Hunter street.

Mr. Pringle suggested that the fee for the first form be allowed the pupils attending.

The chairman considered that if tickets were given to those pupils, others in other parts of the city, could rightfully demand the same consideration.

Mr. Dumble moved, seconded by Mr. Robinson, that two rooms in the King Edward school be set apart for use of the Collegiate Institute Commercial pupils.—Carried.

The Ideal Laxative for Children

Mothers cannot be too careful in what they give children to move the bowels. Calomel, cascara, senna, salts, cathartic pills, castor oil, and purging mineral waters irritate the bowels—upset the stomach—and eventually lead up to chronic non-action of the bowels—Constipation.

John R. Dundas Was Sent Up For Trial This Morning

Charged With Forging Mr. W. J. Johnston's Name to a Cheque---Gang of Boys Were Fined For Disorderly Conduct---Their Rendezvous is at Mervin's Corner

Chief Rousel and his lieutenants had a large number of offenders before the court this morning, and, from the variety of the cases, the usual police court crowd were entertained for a few hours until the last man was disposed of. To start with, there were a few heavy-eyed drunks who had spent the night in the cells. Wm. Stewart was charged with having been found drunk in a public place yesterday. Asked as to whether he was guilty or not, he said, "I suppose I am, or I would not be here." He was fined $2.

Jacob Williamson went through the same performance, and was asked to pay his fine forthwith, which he did.

Hunter Street Gang

Six boys between the ages of 14 and 18 years answered to the charge of having been disorderly in a public place. The boys were Wesley Crouter, Albert Wright, Howard Innis, J. Buller, Conroy and Condon. They have frequented the corner of Aylmer and Hunter streets in the past, creating a disturbance, and making themselves a nuisance to decent people who have to pass along the street. The boys were proved guilty and fined $2 each.

P. C. McDonald testified that on Thursday night, after 9 o'clock, he was called to the corner, and while in the dark he heard the boys yelling and swearing, and when two girls went by the lads used insulting language. The officer declared that the boys are a continual source of trouble, and complaints are regularly received about their bad conduct. When the police appear the boys scurry away like rats.

John Hopkins, a tall man, of rather unusual appearance, said that the boys are always annoying him, when he chances to pass the corner, and a gang of them are always loafing about the corner. A young lady who resides over Mervin's butcher shop, also gave evidence regarding the buffoonery of the boys. She said that there were eighteen of them in the gang, and they are bad ones. Some of the boys paid their fines immediately.

Boy Stole Bicycle

Wesley Crouter pleaded guilty to having stolen a bicycle belonging to another lad, Archie Rose, on Aug. 26th. Young Rose wheeled to Jackson Park, in the evening, and put his wheel to one side; when he went to get it he could not find it. Young Crouter told his chum that he had bought the wheel, and to others he said he had taken it in mistake for his own, which the court said was another falsehood. He sold the wheel to a boy, but it was regained. Young Crouter was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $19.

Committed for Trial

J. R. Dundas was sent up for trial before Judge Weller on the charge of having forged a name to a cheque which Charles Coleman had cashed in the latter's store. Mr. Coleman said that Dundas had been dealing a little with him of late, and on or about August 10th last he offered witness a cheque for $15.00, with Mr. W. J. Johnston's name signed to it. Witness cashed it, but the Bank of Commerce returned it later as being valueless.

In the meantime Dundas told Mr. Coleman what he had done, and expressed his sorrow, saying he would make good the money. Mr. Coleman said that he had not yet received any money.

Mr. W. J. Johnston testified that he had no knowledge of the note, and was not indebted to Dundas; he had never had any transactions with him.

The boy and the Dog

The prisoner offered no defence, and was committed for trail. He will probably be tried next week.

Mr. Robert Redmond, an old man living on Donegal street, was the plaintiff in a case against Mr. John Deannard, in which Deannard was charged with cruelty to animals. The particular charge was that of having hit Mr. Redmond's dog with a stone on Sunday evening. Mr. Redmond, in stating his part of the story said that he was picking flowers in his garden after 6 o'clock, when a boy who was passing stopped in front of his residence and started to climb the fence. Mr. Redmond asked him what he wanted, and the boy replied that he wanted to see a wagon which Mr. Redmond had advertised for sale. The boy persisted, and Mr. Redmond called his dog, and said, "Speak to him, Jack," but did not set the dog on the boy. Mr. Deannard threw a stone at the dog when it jumped on the boy. Mr. Redmond said that he is continually tormented by young boys.

Mr. Deannard testified that he was sitting on his father's verandah, adjoining Mr. Redmond's property, when a boy passed and stopped to read a "For Sale" sign that Mr. Redmond had on a buggy. The old man saw him and called to him, "What do you want? Go on out of that." The boy answered, "Wait a minute." Mr. Redmond then started towards the street, calling his dog and saying "Sic him, Jack, sic him." The boy ran, and witness picked up a stone. He ran out, and just as the dog jumped at the boy's throat witness threw the stone, hitting the dog. At the same time the boy gave it a kick. Mr. Redmond was very angry and called witness many insulting names. In fact, Mr. Deannard said that this latter is a frequent occurrence.

His Worship dismissed the charge and gave Mr. Redmond some sound advice. He said he was too crabbed and sensitive, and took offence too readily. Mr. Redmond said he would give his life for the dog, and if anyone kicked it they had to first kick him. Mr. Dumble advised Mr. Redmond to live at peace with his neighbours, and especially to mind his own business.

DOCK LABOURERS RAID BRITISH SHIPS

DISTURBANCE AT ANTWERP

Antwerp, Sept. 4.—The rioting dock laborers boarded the British steamer Agenoria on Monday, destroyed her freighting implements and seriously injured one of the engineers. They also took possession of the British steamer Sydney, tossed a number of tools and trucks overboard and did other damage.

Their violence so terrified the men at work on board a number of vessels that they fled to the shore.

The stokers lay in wait at the railroad station and made attempts to interfere with the English and German strike-breakers as they arrived. The strikers captured an omnibus to convey strike-breakers to and from the wharves and threw it overboard.

The violence increased to serious proportions yesterday, when at least a dozen persons, including strike-breakers, were attacked and badly wounded. The police charged repeatedly, firing their revolvers at the rioters.

TRIED TO WRECK TRAIN.

Two Foreigners Charged With Placing Ties on the Tracks.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 4.—The police have arrested two young foreigners, who are unable to speak English, in connection with an attempt made early yesterday morning to wreck the Buffalo special, a fast passenger train on the New York Central, at Jordan, 20 miles west of here.

Ties were placed on the track, but luckily the train was signaled to stop a short distance from the station, because there was an excursion train, carrying New Jersey people back to Hoboken from Niagara Falls, on the next block.

The passenger train resumed its journey under slow speed, and when the obstruction was encountered the pony trucks of the locomotive were derailed, but there was no further damage.

Harvest About In.

Winnipeg, Sept. 4.—The weather is fine throughout the whole of the west and the crop outlook is vastly improved.

Cutting in Southern Manitoba is progressing rapidly and the harvest will be over by the end of the week.

In Northern Manitoba and Saskatchewan cutting will be started about the end of the week or the first of next week.

Eight Drowned.

Alburque, N. M., Sept. 4.—News has just reached here that Mrs. Louis Hill Garabat, wife of a farmer, and seven children, were drowned in a flood resulting from heavy rains in Alamo Creek last Friday night.

Venezuela Will Pay.

Brussels, Sept. 4.—It is declared here that the Venezuelan Government has informed the Government of Belgium that it intends to begin at once the payment, in monthly instalments, of its debts to those powers which treated Venezuela with consideration when the powers united in their demand that she meet her obligations.

FAULTY STEEL WORK WAS CAUSE

CHORDS WERE DEFLECTED

No Error In Plans Followed by Contractors—Will Build Bridge Again—Company to Dissolve — Federal Government Will Take It Over —Lord Elgin Cables Sympathy —Writs Issued for Damages.

Quebec, Sept. 4.—The coroner inquest has not so far thrown any new light on the cause of the bridge collapse. The investigation by the Government commission of experts commences to-day. Many railway and bridge engineers are here to inspect the ruins.

Mr. Deans, chief engineer of the Phoenix Bridge Co., told the jury yesterday that the company's engineers were doing their utmost to ascertain the cause of the disaster, and he thought they would be able in a few days to satisfy legitimate anxiety on the subject. He had never heard of any apprehensions of the safety of the structure, and if he had to erect another bridge would not hesitate to build on the same plans.

The International Bridge Workers' Union is represented by counsel.

Hon. S. N. Parent, in the course of his examination, said he had wired Theodore Cooper concerning his alleged interview in New York, and Mr. Cooper had replied that he had been misrepresented and had never either sent a message to cease operations on the bridge or had stated that he had done so.

It is understood that the Bridge Co. will be shortly dissolved and the work taken over by the Federal Government. The Government can take over the shares at any time by paying a 10 per cent. advance on their cost.

A Possible Cause.

In the engineer's report, submitted to the annual meeting yesterday, Mr. Hoare stated that on Aug. 27, the resident inspecting engineer reported that the ribs in one of the lower chords of the west truss of the anchor arm showed an inward side deflection. The matter was reported the same day to the consulting engineer, and Phoenix Bridge Co., and Mr. Clure left the next day for New York and Phoenixville to discuss the question. Soon after these interviews the structure very suddenly collapsed, but it is at present undetermined whether the chord in question was the cause of the accident.

Mr. Hoare's report created a mild sensation, and it is believed that the cause of the disaster will now shortly be fixed.

First Damage Suit.

The first of the damage suits to follow the Quebec bridge disaster was launched yesterday morning, when Zephirene La France issued a writ for $26,000 for the death of her son. The damage claims on a similar basis would amount to $1,025,000.

Condolence From Lord Elgin.

Please convey to your Ministers the deep regret with which His Majesty's Government have heard of the Quebec bridge disaster, and express my personal sympathy with those who have suffered and with the Canadian people. (Signed) Elgin.

Eloped With Heiress.

Winnipeg, Sept. 4.—Joseph B. Lawrence of London, Ont., a farm hand, was in court yesterday morning, on a charge of abducting Francis Otter of Otterville, Man.

He eloped with the girl, who is only 17 years of age and an heiress. They had reached North Bay, when captured. As soon as her father heard of it he took after them.

He is still in the east, and has not yet been located.

Russell Registrar Dead.

Ottawa, Sept. 4.—Alexandre Robillard, registrar of the County of Russell, is dead of paralysis, at the age of 75.

He sat for 15 years in the Ontario Legislature as Liberal member for Russell.

Honor for Col Hendrie.

Ottawa, Sept. 4.—His Majesty the King has appointed Col. the Hon. J. S. Hendrie a commander of the Royal Victorian Order.

Not So Definite.

Ottawa, Sept. 4.—Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux stated last night that the reduction of drop-letter postage in cities to one cent was being contemplated by the Department. Nothing definite has been decided, and the question at any rate will have to come before the Governor-General-in-Council.

Five Killed In Wreck.

Charleston, W. Va., Sept. 4.—A revised list shows that five persons were killed and eleven injured when a Chesapeake & Ohio local train was derailed a mile below Kanawha Falls Monday night.

Spreading of the rails is supposed to have caused the accident.

Farmer Trampled to Death.

Meaford, Sept. 4.—Joseph T. Taylor of Griesville, a much respected farmer, 46 years of age, was trampled to death by one of his horses while removing the harness after the day's work. It appears that the horse had been frightened by a pig which had got into the stable.

Chinese Smuggling Plot.

Ottawa, Sept. 4.—The officials of the Customs Department expect, as a result of the capture of 13 Chinamen, landed illegally in Cope Breton, to unearth a systematic organization for smuggling Celestials into Canada from Newfoundland.

Boy Drowns.

Dresden, Sept. 4.—Geo. Stevens, the 8-year-old son of Charles Stevens, was drowned last evening. He was out in a boat with a number of other boys, when the boat upset. The others being able to swim, escaped.

JUNIOR O.R.F.U. TEAM FOR PETERBOROUGH THIS FALL

Peterborough will in all probability have a junior team in the O.R.F.U. this autumn. Already some of the leaders of the organization of last year's City League are talking up the question and their intentions are to join the Union. From the Bankers, C. G. E., and Quaker teams which played last year, there should be no reason why a junior team of ability should not be gotten to together. A few of those who belonged to the team have left the city, but there are easily enough of good men left to make up a couple of teams.

If the proposal is to be carried out it is now time the leaders would call a meeting for organization purposes and get into practice immediately.

PORT HOPE IS JUBILANT OVER GAME

The Port Hope Guide has the following to say of Saturday's game with Peterborough:

Much interest has been aroused in both towns over this series of games, and the local nine was accompanied by a large number of loyal supporters. Baseball was the chief topic in Peterborough, and having trimmed Cobourg with an Eastern League battery a week previously, the Johnstonites were feeling a little conceited, and thought there was nothing to it but a sound trimming for Port Hope. But the Port Hopers had every confidence of winning, and the result was that considerable money changed hands.

The grand stand was packed; the fence enclosing the diamond was lined three deep, and many worked their way inside the fence. There were at least 1,200 in attendance, and they were all talkers. The melodious voice of our old friend, Fred Whitcroft could be distinctly heard handing out some hard cracks.

But here we are, and haven't yet told you who won the game or what the score was. Well, it was 9-4, and Port Hope had the 9. And for the benefit of our friends seven miles to the east we will repeat the joyful news—9 to 4! The question at once arises, how did [illegible] and, like the majority of other victories, the winning team played better ball. It was a pitchers' battle, and Surphlis did the better work. He was touched up for seven safe singles, while Port Hope only secured seven, but his work was steady. On two occasions, with the bases full and one out, he retired the side without a score. He kept his hits well scattered during the whole game, and all praise to Henry for his great work.

The local nine played a great game. Every man was out to win, and that infield worked like a piece of machinery. They took in everything high and low, and they biffed the ball around to the different bases with steam and accuracy. Two nice double plays were pulled off, and, as John Magill remarked, it would do your heart good to see them work. And we took six of those nine runs in the first innings off Corney Burns. They banged Corney for four safe hits, his fielders made the same number of errors, and he gave two bases on balls. This was where Corney saw his finish, and after this innings he replaced Connors in centre field, and Quinlan took the box. Quinlan is certainly a Jonah to Port Hope, and the best they could do was to hit him safely three times in the remaining eight innings.

However, we won the game fairly and squarely, and that was all Manager Crawford asked for. Peterborough will tell you that if Quinlan had pitched the whole game there would be a different story. But these "ifs" make a great change in a ball game; the score might have been a little closer, but we would have had the big number. The locals were all hitting the ball when Quinlan was in the box, but they had the misfortune to send it in the air. Only two men failed to connect with his delivery.

It was the snappiest game in the Midland League this season.

When Your Health Fails, What Then?

Good health is the capital of persons who earn their livelihood with brain and muscle. Success is for sthee strong and alert — for those whose blood is rich and whose nerve cells are filled with vigour and energy. It is not pleasant to contemplate what might happen with failing health and for this reason and for this reason it is well to heed the first symptoms of nervous exhaustion and to keep health at high water mark by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE RUGBY CLUB

Will be Held To-morrow Evening in the Oriental Hotel

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Rugby Club will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Oriental Hotel parlours, when reports will be presented and officers for the year elected. It is desired that there should be as large an attendance as possible of those interested in the game, as some decision will have to be arrived at as to what series the team will play in this season. There is plenty of good material in the city and a strong team can be placed in the field.

BASEBALL

The Peterborough baseball team will not run an excursion on Saturday to Port Hope as it is not possible to secure train accommodation. The team is confident of being able to make up for the defeat on Saturday by trimming the Crawfordites on their own stamping grounds. The team will be strengthened for the occasion and with Flaherty on the rubber will make Port Hope travel all the way. There will no doubt be a monster crowd on hand for the occasion.

HOCKEY

Mr. W. Johnston, manager of the Kenora Hockey team, has been in the city for a few days and called upon his friend, Mr. Fred Whitcroft.

Crushed by Train.

Chatham, Sept. 4.—Patrick Scully, aged 35, of Paris, had his two legs cut off while trying to board a freight train at the C. P. R. station Monday night, from the effects of which he died in the baggage room of the station a few minutes later without regaining consciousness.

Three Squares In Ashes.

Houston, Texas, Sept. 4.—Flames licked up half a million dollars' worth of property and reduced three squares of the business and residence section to ashes Monday night. The biggest loss was to the plant of the Standard Milling Co., which covered the entire block.

FORESTERS' OUTING A SUCCESS

Delightful Excursion Was Held to Idyl Wyld Monday —The Sports

DANCING WAS ENJOYED

Despite the threatening weather of Monday, the excursion to Idyl Wild, under the auspices of Court Chemong, No. 530, I.O.F., was one of the most successful of the season. The steamer Otonabee carried some 400 happy excursionists, when she left the Wolfe street wharf at 8.20 a.m. The sail down the river was most enjoyable, and to those for whom the scenery had no attractions delightful music was provided for dancing by Messrs. Nichol and Howarth of the opera house orchestra.

At Idyl Wild, after dinner had been partaken of, a very interesting programme of sports was run off, with the following results:

Little Girls' Race — Cora Peters, Myrtle Clitheroe.

Little Boys' Race—W Murphy, W Crothers.

During the afternoon the arrival at Idyl Wild of Bros. C. D. Clarke, Assistant Supreme Physician, of Toronto, and G. H. Warde of Cobourg, High Chief Ranger for Eastern Ontario, caused much interest. They were introduced by Bro. A. Allison, S P C R, and briefly addressed the gathering on the subject of "Forestry."

Dancing was the principal pastime on the return trip, and Mr. W. Graham, who made a very efficient floor master, kept things moving. Messrs. Duncan Campbell and T. Clitheroe rendered a number of songs which were much appreciated.

To the following committee the success of the affair is due: Bros. Wallace, McKee, Webb, Metcalfe, Allison, Byers, Rooke, Powell and Miles.

FRUITER ADVISES TO BUY NOW

Says Fruit is to Become Dearer and Market is Dull at Present

A prominent fruiter, speaking of the fruit market to-day, said that at present business was rather dull, and gave as an explanation, that the people are waiting to make their purchases with the idea that prices are going to drop. In the meantime, the wholesalers are losing a certain amount through waste, and this loss will have to be made good later on, and the people will have to pay the money in any case. This gentleman declared that fruit will not sell at any lower price, but that it will, rather, become dearer. He said the people would save money by buying the fruit they want now, when the market is rather dull, and not delay until everyone is buying. The price of fruit in general will be dearer this year than last and the supply is not the most abundant.

This merchant was strong in his opinion that the housewives are making a mistake by delaying and that the way to save money on their preserving is to buy now, when there is no rush, and not delay until the season grows late.

CHAS. BURGOYNE WAS SENT TO REFORMATORY

The young lad has been given many opportunities to reform, but has never tried to do anything for himself. He was out on suspended sentence, and his last offence was that of stealing $2 on Sunday, September 3.

NEW HAY NOW SELLING AT SEVENTEEN DOLLARS

The price of hay at the local market is still soaring upwards. To-day hay sold at $17 a ton for the best quality, and the demand was again greater than the supply. This price establishes a record for new hay so early in the season, and demonstrates that there is not a great deal in the country.

Prohibition Is Forced Upon The License Commissioners

Yet They Cannot Exercise Local Option—Injunction Issued Restraining Them From Transferring Kelly License

WRIT AGAINST MR. KELLY

An injunction, staying the proceedings in the transference of the license of the Royal Hotel from Mr. Jas. Kelly to Mr. Flaherty was granted in Toronto to-day. The circumstances leading up to this action began on August 30, when a writ was issued by Messrs. O'Connell & Gordon against James Kelly for $800 on behalf of a man named McCrohan, of Toronto.

The latter claims that he had purchased the business of Mr. Kelly and had paid the sum of $800 on account of purchase. Later proceedings indicated that the License Commissioners had been requested to transfer the license to Mr. Flaherty, disregarding the first contract.

Acting on behalf of Mr. McCrohan, Mr. O'Connell, in Toronto to-day, secured the injunction, restraining the proceedings of the License Commissioners and Inspector in regard to the transference of the license.

The present injunction holds good for one week, when a similar request will be made by the plaintiff in the suit until legal proceedings have been taken. Mr. R. F. McWilliams is acting for Mr. Kelly in the matter.

AGAIN IN THE WATERS OF RICE LAKE

Mr. Walter Conway Fell Over a Small Railing Off the Dock

Mr. Walter Conway has a strong affinity for water, especially that of Rice Lake. Not long ago, with a companion, he had a narrow escape while the lake was rough, and was rescued in an exhausted condition. Last night, with a party of young ladies and gentlemen, he crossed the lake to Gore's Landing, and, when returning, fell off the dock when just about to enter the boat. The wharf was very dark, and Mr. Conway did not see an iron rail, over which he fell and went into the water. He received a thorough drenching, but was otherwise none the worse for his experience.

WOMAN KIDNAPS GIRL FROM HUSBAND THUS TURNING THE TABLES ON HIM

Des Moines, Ia., September 5.—Mrs. Margaret Homan to-day turned the tables on James Payton, who stole her daughter several days ago, and herself spirited away the bride.

As soon as Mrs. Homan learned of the marriage of her daughter, at Manitou, Col., after she had for over a year kept them apart, through injunctions, jail threats, and attempts to place him in the insane asylum, she took the first train for Denver.

How she located the bridal couple, no one knows, but a despatch from Denver last night, indicates that the angry mother secured possession of her daughter soon after her arrival in Denver, and is again defying the young husband.

The kidnapping is reported to have occurred at the hotel, where Payton was staying with his bride, while the husband had left the hotel for only a few hours. The mother is reported to be on her way back to the city with the daughter in her possession, while Payton is following on the next train.

Trustees Appointed To Take Over Church Property

Congregational Meeting is Held at Knox Church—Gallery Subscription Fund Opens

CHANGE OF SEATS ORDERED

A congregational meeting of the Knox Presbyterian Church was held last evening, when considerable business of importance was transacted. A Board of Trustees was appointed to take over the Knox Church property from St. Paul's, which was some time ago sanctioned by the Presbytery. The Board of Trustees is composed of the following gentlemen: Messrs. Carruthers, Mulligan, W. Galley, A. McKenzie and Jonathan Smith. The transference is now a wholly legal proceeding, and will be made as soon as possible.

In addition to the above proceedings, a subscription list for the payment of the new gallery was opened and a large sum collected. A committee was also appointed to canvas the congregation of the church for further subscriptions in aid of the gallery fund.

It was also decided to change the position of the seats in the church for the present. Before Sunday they will face the choir, and the pulpit will also be transferred to the front of the choir. This alteration is only considered temporary, and may be again changed.

Independent Telephones Are Discussed In Convention

Mr. B. A. Lillie, Local Manager of Machine Telephone Tells of the Rapid Progress in Three Years

ATTENDED THE CONVENTION

Remarkable progress is being made in the advancement of the independent telephones in Canada, as was shown yesterday at the annual convention of the Canadian Independent Telephone Association, held in the city hall, Toronto. Mr. B. A. Lillie, local manager of the Canadian Machine Telephone, attended the convention, and in an interview with an Examiner representative this morning, gave some interesting figures regarding the surprising advance the independent telephones had made in the three years they have been placed before the public.

At the convention yesterday there were over 125 delegates present, embracing almost every province in the Dominion. The eastern provinces were well represented, and representatives were there from the northwestern section as far west as Saskatchewan. The delegates were welcomed at the city hall by Ald. Church, and were given a hearty reception.

The chief conditions over which the convention felt grateful, said Mr. Lillie, was the rapid growth of the independent phones in the Dominion of Canada. Although they have only been in existence for the past three years, the delegates at yesterday's big congress represented about 20,000 phones in the districts from which they came. The convention considered that this number, compared with the 90,000, the property of the Bell Telephone Company, was remarkable when the relative lengths of time the two have been in existence, is taken into consideration. The managers and executives were greatly pleased and surprised at the rapid strides made along independent lines.

Mr. Lillie also stated that from reports received from the United States, it was learned that the independent phones are more widely represented in the country to the south than the Bell machines, and stated that the former were about 40,000 to the good. The Canadian movement, he said, had every opportunity to profit by the experiences of the people to the south.

She wore a travelling suit of cream chevoit cloth with a white felt hat trimmed with pale blue velvet to match. She carried a bouquet of cream roses.

NEEDLESS CONCERN

One indication of the independecen of the Toronto News is found in its report of the meeting of the Ontario Reform Association in Toronto yesterday, in the blow it attempts to give the Liberal party in its heading of its report. The four-column heading declares that there was "a vigourous kick from the Liberal stalwarts because Sir Wilfrid Laurier took Mr. Graham." The report itself hardly bears out this comment. At the convention, two persons alone raised objection to the promotion of Mr. Graham, and only as it left the party in Ontario without a leader. This is a natural feeling, and one fully justified. It constitutes the only objection to Hon. Mr. Graham's appointment to the Liberal Cabinet, and, while Liberals are inclined to regret this feature of the affair, few are selfish enough to insist upon translating their feeling into obstructive action by making even a "vigourous kick." Mr. Graham made a capable leader, though many feared he might not measure up to the requirements of the position. But he disappointed the pessimist, and justified the action which promoted him from the ranks to the leadership. There is, therefore, no reason to fear that a worthy and satisfactory successor can, and will not, be found. As the Examiner has pointed out, from a party consideration, Hon. Mr. Graham will still be an important element in promoting the interests of Liberalism in Ontario. His enlarged influence as a Cabinet minister will assist him in giving, incidentally, important service. It is to be admitted that there are members of the Liberal party, of positive character, who feel strongly upon the subject of the withdrawal of Hon. Mr. Graham from a definite and official position in Provincial politics—it would be a poor tribute to his good qualities if this feeling were not entertained. But calmer second thought will mitigate the feeling of regret. Ontario is not so poor in capable men as to forbid the hope that a satisfactory successor to Mr. Graham as Provincial leader will be found. It will take more than a highly sensational newspaper heading to stampede the Liberal party in Ontario. It has always had capable leaders, and there is not the slightest reason to fear that the future will shame the past.

SHORT SIGHTED

It is remarkable to what lengths prejudice and—ignorance, even if it be wilful—will go in combatting the construction of that important link in Canadian transportation,—the Trent Canal. For instance, the Farmer's Sun, in its last issue, uses this language: "The Trent valley (sic) is a joke. But it is rather an expensive piece of jocularity for the people of Canada. The cost of construction and repairs to date is $5,000,000." And the Globe is not above knifing the project by a side blow. In discussing the Georgian Bay Canal project, it says, by way of introduction: "We are preparing to complete the Trent Valley Canal, which is utterly insignificant for navigation purposes in comparison with" the Georgian Bay Canal. Is it? There is all the difference in the world between the two. The Trent Canal is practically an accomplished fact, while, according to the Globe itself, the most optimistic do not regard the Georgian Bay Canal otherwise than a splendid, but indefinitely remote, possibility. A canal that can carry to advantage and the relief of transportation congestion, Northwest wheat to the seaboard, cannot be insignificant, in comparison with a canal with, on paper, ten times the transportation capacity, which has no existence, except in the dim and distant, possibly next century, future. The Farmer's Sun affects to speak for the farmers of Canada, but it cannot do anything more hostile to the interest of the farmers of the country than obstruct their means of access to the best market for their products. Such a means the Trent Canal offers to the farmers of the Northwest and to the farmers of Central Ontario. Not to speak of the local transportation advantages the Trent Canal represents, a most important local stimulus to development of natural resources, and to the manufacturing industries, which in themselves constitute an auxiliary to a wider market for farm produce. The Globe argues, wisely, for a betterment of transportation facilities between Montreal and the sea. The way to force this improvement is to increase the transportation facilities to Montreal. No Government, seeing the traffic of the country blocked at Montreal, could afford to hesitate to open the way for its passage to the Motherland.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Mr. Borden can sympathise with the Sultan of Morocco. Abdul Asiz is short of ammunition.

A southern negro has invented a piano which whistles. No wonder Georgia deprives the blacks of votes.

If Hon. George P. Graham is to be looked to to o a the Trent Canal from lake to lake, why not give him a little practice in opening the great Peterborough Industrial Exhibition?

Nothing but personally conducted whisky is allowed on the Toronto exhibition grounds. Richard Smith included flasked whisky in his refreshment booth menu, and the "law is being had on him."

The Toronto News says:

"Mr. Borden is shockingly ill-supplied alike with loyal supporters and with fighters. Everybody knows how weak his following is in public debating power. What is not generally known is that it is very weak in men suited for the turbulent but necessary work in committee.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has a weakness for provincial leaders. He began his career by taking into his cabinet the premiers of Ontario, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and has now summoned an ex-premier of New Brunswick, and the leader of the Ontario Opposition. The process is strengthening for the central authority, but, asks the Brantford Expositor, what about its effects on the provincial governments?

Said Sam Hughes, M.P., a "Tory" irreconcilable, a military enthusiast, and president of the Dominion Rifle Association:

"Sir Frederick Borden is a good friend of the militia of Canada. I think he is, without exception, the best friend the militia of Canada ever had, occupying the position of Minister of Militia."

Mr. Hamar Greenwood correctly indicated, says the Globe, the secret of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's pre-eminence among the statesmen of Greater Britain, or the "outer empire," when he attributed it to his seniority among colonial Premiers, to the importance of the Dominion he represents, to his "reasoned moderation," and to his "clear thinking and dignified eloquence." Mr. Greenwood is also right in saying that his French descent does not lessen the feeling of respect for him either personally or officially; perhaps it increases the interest taken in him by English-speaking people.

Mr. Goldwin Smith, the Saze of the Grange, draws fine distinctions. He says Canada is not a nation, and defines a nation as "a body of people inhabiting the same territory, and having in itself supreme and independent powers of legislation, of negotiation, and of government." Does not that apply pretty well to this country? We have all the conditions except the treaty-making power to its unlimited extent. For all practical purposes, Canada is a nation with a perpetual alliance, cemented by blood and affection, with the most powerful and influential Empire of the world.

Twelve out of the thirty-five chartered banks, which report to the Government, have $84,352,511 loaned to outside countries, chiefly the United States. Of course, that's their business, but, it is to be remembered that the banks of Canada have made their money in Canada and, therefore, Canada has the first claim upon them. If, tempted by a higher rate of interest, to send good Canadian money out of the country, the banks cripple domestic conditions, and retard development. They are not only inconveniencing their best—their regular—customers, but, in a certain sense, killing the goose that lays the golden eggs.

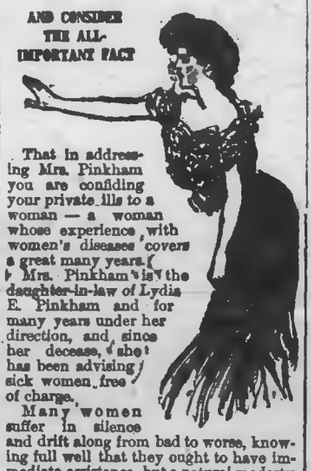
The Courier of Buffalo, which is celebrating Home-comers' Week, has the following:—

Buffalo will have a great many Canadian visitors this week. Our neighbours will receive a most cordial welcome. They will realize that Buffalonians sincerely rejoice over the fact that Canadian commerce showed a great growth during the year ended June 30, 1907; that the foreign trade of Canada during the year was 138 per cent. larger than it was ten years ago; and that, in proportion to population, no other country in the world can be compared to the per capita production and trade of the Dominion. A statistician has shown that if the per capita foreign commerce of the United States were as large as that of Canada, our foreign trade would be much more than double what it is to-day.

Our imports from Canada last year were $73,000,000, compared to $40,000,000 ten years ago, and our exports to Canada were $183,000,000 compared to $65,000,000 in 1895. Our sales to all Asiatic countries combined do not equal one-half our sales to Canada. In proportion to population, Canada is the best customer we have to-day in the world. But apart from all commercial considerations, there is every reason why, socially and politically, the two peoples should be exceptionally strong in friendship. Buffalonians have especial pleasure in extending to their neighbours across the border the hand of good fellowship in a spirit of hearty good-will.

STOP, WOMAN!

AND CONSIDER THE ALL-IMPORTANT FACT



That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are confiding your private ills to a woman — a woman whose experience with women's diseases covers a great many years. Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for many years under her direction, and, since her decease, she has been advising sick women free of charge.

Many women suffer in silence and drift along from bad to worse, knowing full well that they ought to have immediate assistance, but a natural modesty impels them to shrink from exposing themselves to the questions and probable examinations of even their family physician. It is unnecessary. Without money or price you can consult a woman whose knowledge from actual experience is great.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. All letters are received, opened, read and answered by women only. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established the eternal confidence between Mrs. Pinkham and the women of America which has never been broken. Out of the vast volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than possible that she has gained the very knowledge that will help your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and her advice has relieved thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, is very foolish if she does not take advantage of this generous offer of assistance.

If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice.

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health so many women, you cannot well say, without trying it "I do not believe it will help me."

MORE BOYS APPEARED IN POLICE COURT

Youths of City Show Continued Propensity for Petty Crime

By means known only to himself, P. J. McDonald successfully spread his net for the spoilers of William Stuart, who was robbed of about $100.00, on Tuesday night, and yesterday afternoon had four boys locked in the cells charged with the robbery. They were Earl Fredenburg, Fred Worboy, Jos. Reynolds and Geo. Fowler.

A special session of the police court was held at 3.30 p.m., when the boys were given a hearing. Young Reynolds, about 16 years of age, pleaded guilty to the theft, and said that Stuart had a livery rig and took the boys for a drive. Stuart, who was very drunk, pulled out his watch, and in so doing brought forth a wad of money. Reynolds also told of having given some of the money to other boys. In all there was about $80 in Stuart's roll. Two of the boys, Worboy and Fredenburg, were discharged, but the other two were locked up and will appear on Saturday.

Geo. Fowler, in his evidence, contradicted the statements of Reynolds, who was self convicted. Reynolds, however, insisted that it was Fowler who took the money from Stuart. A large portion of the money has been returned.

Just before the trial was over, Mr. Stuart himself arrived in court, apparently under the influence of liquor. His memory was a blank as far as Tuesday evening's occurrence was concerned, and all he could say was that he had lost all his money. He was told to sober up and appear on Saturday morning. He wanted some of the money that had been recovered for expenses, but the Magistrate told him to wait until Saturday, when he would be given his all.

PLAIN TALK FROM THE DOCTOR

A prominent physician, famous for his success in the treatment of kidney and bladder troubles, stated that to the following prescription is due a great deal of his success:

One ounce fluid extract dandelion;
One ounce compound salatone;
Four ounces compound syrup sarsaparilla.

Mix and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime, drinking plenty of water.

This mixture will, he says, positively cure any diseases arising from weak, clogged or inactive kidneys, and will assist these organs to cleanse the blood of the poisonous waste matter and acids, which if allowed to remain, cause lumbago, lame back, rheumatism and sciatica, and at the same time will restore the kidneys to healthy normal action. The ingredients, which are purely vegetable and entirely harmless, can be procured from any good druggist and mixed at home at very little cost.

This advice will undoubtedly be much appreciated by many readers.

Purchase May Be Made Of Juniper Island Point

Offer to Sell Three or Five Acres By Mr. Rogers is Reported—Cottagers to Hold Conference

A MEETING NEXT WEEK

The difficulty which has arisen over the selection of a permanent site at Stony Lake for the dancing pavilion may soon be overcome. The present trend of proceedings to procure a pavilion location seem to point to the securing by purchase of three or five acres of the northern section of Juniper Island, which if the present negotiations are carried out will leave the building and the central general store in the same position as at present.

It is understood on good authority that Mr. G M Roger has approached the Stony Lake Cottagers' Association with a view to selling the extreme northern point of Juniper and it is possible that the deal will be consummated.

Messrs. E. Henderson and Jas. Aston of Toronto, have the question in consideration and they are expected back at Stony Lake towards the end of the present week to remain there for a few days. A meeting of the executive will probably be held next Tuesday night to consider the proposal made by Mr. Roger. Just how the land will be taken over has not yet been considered and neither have the members of the Association decided upon the amount which they will attempt to obtain.

Should the exchange be made the pavilion will be remodelled and made larger as well as Mr. T. W. Robinson's general store. New developments are therefore expected about the beginning of next week.

New Steamer Proposed For Otonabee Next Year

Mr. W Harris and Mr. D. McAllister of the Steamer Monarch Intimate That They Will Put a New Boat in the Water Next Spring

BUSINESS HAS INCREASED

According to the men on the different steamers that navigate the Otonabee between the city and Rice Lake, the present season, so far, has been a good one though not much better than that of last year. However, there is yet a great deal to be done although it is mostly tug work conveying grain, lumber and wood between points on the river and lake. Speaking with Captain Wilbert Harris of the steamer Monarch, he intimated that in all probability a new steamer will be put in the water next summer and he and Mr. D. McAllister of the Monarch, will be its proprietors.

The Otonabee Navigation Company have two good steamers, the Otonabee and Water Lily, but their excursions have in almost every case been taken to Idyl Wyld. This resort is owned by the company and having their own boats they can easily bring excursions to their own grounds with increased profit for themselves. The only remaining boats are the Monarch and Rainbow. The former has an established daily service between Gore's Landing and other points and Peterborough, while the Rainbow is mostly confined to work at Rice Lake. Both these boats are not spacious enough for excursions and the opinion is that another steamer about the dimensions of the Stony Lake would be a paying proposition.

The general public is aware of the fact that there is a strong rivalry existing between the Otonabee Company and the other boat owners, and the latter claim they have not lost any of their business by the Navigation Company's institution and their apparent efforts to control the navigation of the river and lake. The steamer Otonabee has had nearly all the excursions and it is believed that another vessel capable of handling the ordinary excursions would complete the present rivalry and also get its share of the picnics.

Mr. Harris did not definitely state that it was their intention to construct a new steamer, but he spoke as if the matter was being carefully considered by himself and Mr. McAllister and there is a strong likelihood that these gentlemen will have a new vessel. If they do construct one it will be in the neighbourhood of ninety feet in length with an 18 foot beam, thus providing a trim vessel which can be depended upon to meet any emergency. Messrs. Harris & McAllister would then own two boats and would be in a position to handle any excursion business offering.

Mr Harris stated that a boat similar to that described would be a profitable proposition and during the coming winter he and Mr. McAllister may build one after their ideas. The farmer's weekly traffic has greatly increased of late and a fast boat is needed with small draught so that calls can be easily made at the many landings on the river and lake. Mr. Harris expressed his opinion that a side or stern wheeler makes a better river boat than those using the propeller. It does not draw as much water and can travel at a fast rate. It is likely that if Messrs. Harris & McAllister build a vessel it will be equipped with side wheels or one at the stern like those used in British Columbia. Whatever the real issue may be it remains that the general opinion is that the traffic is becomeheavier every year and an addition to the fleet now on the river will find its share of business without diminishing that enjoyed by the present steamers.

Nerves Gave Out, Almost in Despair

TWO SEVERE CASES OF NERVOUS PROSTRATION WITH WHICH DOCTORS COULD DO NOTHING CURED BY

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Mr. Wm. Graham, Atwood, Ont., writes: "My wife had been ill for some time with nervous prostration, and we had two of the best doctors we could get, but neither of them did her any good. She gradually became worse and worse, could not sleep, and lost energy and interest in life. She was almost giving up in despair, when a friend advised a trial of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

"From the first box of this preparation my wife used we noticed an improvement, and after using six boxes she is completely cured, and as well as ever she was—eats well and sleeps well, and feels fully restored. I cannot say too much in praise of this valuable medicine, and am satisfied that my wife owes her life to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food." This cure is certified to by Mr. C. H. McFarlane, druggist, Atwood, Ont.

Mrs. Ald. Stevens, Burgessville, Oxford County, writes: "Two years ago last November I was run down, and did not know what was wrong. I could not sleep nor eat, and at last my nervous system gave way entirely, and I had to go to bed. The doctor told me I had nervous prostration, and, though the doctored me for some weeks, I did not get any better.

"I then began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and by the time I had used six boxes I was entirely cured. People remarked how well I looked, and I said, 'Yes, and I feel well, that is the best of it, and Dr. Chase's Nerve Food did it.'"

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures diseases of the nerves in the only natural and effective way—by enriching the blood and creating new nerve force; 50c a box, six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.—4

FENELON FALLS CLAIMS LARGEST 'LUNGE

"Pacer" McDougall Hauls in Lengthy Specimens of Finny Tribe

To "Pacer" McDougall, of Fenelon Falls, belongs the credit of catching the largest maskinonge that has been caught in the Kawartha waters this season. While paddling to his father's camp on Monday and passing Rosedale bridge, a terrific tug on his line indicated that he had hooked a fish of more than ordinary proportions. After playing the big fellow until he was thoroughly tired "Pacer" rowed ashore and landed his fish on the beach, and his prize proved to be a monster maskinonge weighing 23 1-2 pounds. When held up it measured from the ground to the shoulder of a tall man.—Lindsay Post.

Note.—Mr. A. Metheral rather spoils the Post's brag. He caught a 32-pound lunge in Rice Lake a few days ago.

HAINES IS FINED FOR CARRYING GUN

Other Two Charges Dismissed—Fine is $10.00 and Costs

The triple trial of Mr. O. Haines, of Cavendish township was concluded yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock before County Magistrate Edmison, when the prisoner was found guilty of committing one of three alleged offences assigned to him by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Westlake. The charges of using insulting language to her, and of committing an assault were dismissed but Haines was convicted of carrying a revolver to her residence and of having it in his possession while there.

The Magistrate imposed a fine of $10 and costs upon him for the last named offence, amounting in all to about $40, or 10 days in gaol. The revolver was confiscated.

ENQUIRY SHOWS A FLAW IN IRON WORK

Sensational Evidence at Enquiry Into Quebec Disaster.

WORKMAN KNEW OF CRACK

Claims Arch Had Opened Twenty Inches at Bottom of Main Pier—Plate Was Not Bolted—Engineer Hoare on Stand—Chords Had Bulged—No Danger Was Anticipated by the Inspector.

Quebec, Sept. 5.—Young Alexander Ouimet, a painter, who had worked on the bridge, gave some sensational evidence at the inquest yesterday into the bridge disaster.

"There was a crack," he said, "in the bottom lath plate at the bottom of the ironwork on the main pier on the Montreal side. It was twenty inches long and three-quarters of an inch wide."

He startled Engineer Hoare; he startled the coroner; he startled everybody. Questions in French and English were fired at him and he answered both. He insisted that the crack was there, and pointed out the spot in the blue print with a wealth of technical detail in French and English.

In spit of it all Mr. Hoare could not locate just where he meant, so the inquest was adjourned until today, when blue prints showing details of spots will be submitted.

Young Ouimet indicated the root of the huge iron column that once rose 400 feet high from a mound of solid granite, known as the May pier, that rent the river; from this arm the cantilever arm hung out 712 feet. It was at the base of this, he swore, there was a crack—where the plate was bolted, not through the bolt holes, but near them.

E. A. Hoare, chief engineer for the Quebec Bridge Co., first took the stand yesterday before the coroner. He said the plans for the bridge were approved by the Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals Aug. 31, 1898, after which tenders were called, Jan. 3, 1899, being the date for receiving them. The Phoenix Bridge Co. made plans in detail of the work as it went on, subject to the approval of Theodore Cooper. Their tender was not for the work in lump sum, but at so much per ton.

Mr. Cooper gets a report every week by mail. On Tuesday, the 27th, Mr. McLure, an inspector, reported verbally that at No. 9 lower chord on the west side the main pier was a deflection inward; it showed just a slight curve.

Mr. Hoare explained to the jury that the chord was composed of three or four bars with small spans between. Instead of these being perfectly straight they showed a bulging inward, quite slight at the middle, just as if they were too long. It was not a direct indication of collapse, because frequently the ironwork is bent a little in raising or transportation.

McLure did not consider it in serious condition. Hoare visited the bridge early next morning, went over the whole construction with Mr. McLure and Mr. Kinlock and Mr. Birks, and discussed the matter. The engineer on the bridge had checked all the levels, the alignments of the posts, finding everything in perfect condition.

Then McLure went to New York. The accident happened that night.

"You never thought the condition of that chord was a serious thing?"

"I never thought it would cause an accident, but I thought it worth consulting Mr. Cooper about."

A Lucky Escape.

London, Sept. 5.—W. H. Butler, a foreman employed by the Pere Marquette, fell 40 feet from the bridge over the river at the south end of the city late yesterday afternoon, alighting on a cement pier and escaped without injury.

Prominent Cheese Man Talks Of The Conditions

Mr. D. Derbyshire in the City---Says Season Will be Little Behind That of Last Year---Eulogy for the New Public School Inspector

Mr. D. Derbyshire, M.P., the veteran dairyman from Brockville, was in the city to-day, and for a few minutes this morning was "at home" to the reporters at the Oriental. "Dan." as his host of friends know him, had some interesting information about the cheese industry, which ce believes is much better than one would suppose.

The prices, Mr. Derbyshire stated, had been unusually high, the average at the Brockville Board being about 12 cents. The year has been rather backward for a good supply of cheese, but he considers the deficiency in that respect will be overcome by the good prices prevailing. It is the expectations of the dairymen that the grass will be well provided with rain before the autumn closes, and that the amount of cheese exported will not be lessened very much. If such turns out to be the case, Mr. Derybshire assured the newspapermen that the season, financially, will be just as good as last. All that was necessary was an open autumn, and if similar years of the past were any criterion, the desired conditions would be forthcoming.

Mr. Derbyshire is honourary president of the Eastern Dairymens' Association, and considering his long connection with the dairy industry, should be in an excellent position to judge the cheese situation.

Brockville men all Good

Mr. A. Mowatt, the recently appointed Public School Inspector for Peterborough schools, resides in Mr. Derbyshire's native town, and the latter gentleman has many kind things to say of the new inspector. Mr. Mowatt, he states, has been principal of the Collegiate Institute there for 11 years, and is universally liked by the citizens, who were sorry to learn of his decision to come to Peterborough.

"If we only had known," said Mr. Derbyshire, "that he wanted more money we would have given him $1700 to stay." He congratulates Peterborough, however, on securing Mr. Mowatt as Inspector as he "could not be beaten in the Province."

Political Situation

During the conversation, a reporter belonging to a Philistine journal with more nerve than delicacy, asked Mr. Derbyshire when he intended taking his seat in the Senate. This suggestive question to the member who had recently resigned his seat in Brockville as a member of the Dominion Parliament to permit of the entrance of Hon. G. P. Graham to the Dominion Cabinet, was quietly answered. "I have never, on any occasion been approached by any person regarding the future in politics. I resigned unconditionally and of my own free will and I will tell you how it happened," he said. "I was called to Ottawa by Sir Wilfrid, and by coincidence on the same train as the Hon. Mr. Graham. On reaching the station we took a cab straight to the buildings without speaking to anyone and a few minutes later were ushered into Sir Wilfrid's office. He shook hands with us and turning to Mr. Graham said, 'Mr. Graham I offer you the portfolio of Minister of Railways and Canals in my government,' to which the new Minister briefly replied, 'If it is your desire I accept.'" "And what about the constituency?" asked Sir Wilfrid.

Mr. Derbyshire immediately addressed the Premier, stating that he, (Sir Wilfrid) had been very kind to the constituency of Brockville and he would willingly resign his seat in favour of Mr. Graham, but nothing in connection with the future was mentioned.

Mr. Derbyshire left for his home at 2 o'clockt his afternoon.

Cost the Company $100 Each and Are Works of Art

Mr. A. W. Cressman, the local representatie of the Semi-Ready Company has received from the head office of the concern two pictures that when exhibited will attract much admiration and attention. They are exact reproductions of the Semi-Ready's fall over coats and the work is admirable. The pictures were drawn by one of the leading American artists and are valued at $100 each. They form not only an accurate representation of the latest overcoat models but are in themselves genuine works of art.

The pictures will be on exhibition this week in the north window of the establishment.

JEWS WILL BE ABSENT ABOUT THREE WEEKS

They are Reported Going to Toronto—Buildings Will be Locked

It was reported to-day that the members of the firm of Mendall Bros. and their employees will be absent from the city during the next three weeks, while they are in Toronto. This will mean that the buildings will be closed and work will be stopped for a time. The horses, about ten in number, will be put in pasture, until the men return.

THE POLICE WANTED IN EAST CITY

Complaints are again made of further depredations made by the same gang of young boys in East City, which the police had to go after not long ago. Residents in the vicinity situated between Robinson and Mark streets, are almost constantly annoyed with these boys pillaging their gardens for fruit, and doing other damage. They are so daring and persistent, that it requires a constatn watch to keep them from trespassing. This youthful gang make a rendezvous on the vacant lot east of the flour mill, where they gather at night, and on holidays, to muster their forces. The police should surprise them some night, and break up the organization which is becoming a menace to the gardens and comfort of East City residents.

A PRESENTATION TO MR. DAN SIMONS

Is Made in Lowell Where He is With the Adam Good Company

Mr. Danny Simons, the well-known Peterborough actor, who is now with the Adam Good Company, was given a pleasant surprise in Lowell, Mass., recently, which will be of interest to his many friends here. The Lowell Sun says of it:—

The ever poupiar Danny Simons of the Adam Good Company, at Lakeview Theatre, was a very much surprised man last evening, and for a time, he felt, knowing not the reason, that he was to be embraced by the law's strong arm as he was summoned to the starter's office at the park, where Officer Peter Donahue awaited him in company with others. Peter and Danny are fast friends, and he was the one selected to make a little presentation speech. The employees and business men stationed at the park decided to make Danny a little present, and just before the time for the theatre to open the trick was pulled off. The presents consisted of a soil leather cigar case, a beautiful meerschaum cigar holder, and a box of cigars. The presentation speech was a very neat one, and although taken entirely by surprise, Mr. Simons made an eloquent and appreciative response. He said that he would always look upon it as one of the most pleasant occurrences in his life.

BOYS STOLE FRUIT AND WERE FINED

East City Lads Have Strong Tendency For Neighbour's Fruit

Two East City boys were fined $2 each at the Police Court this morning for stealing fruit from an orchard over there, and were locked up in the cells until their relatives paid their fines. Their names were Quinlan and McMahon, and they could not have been over fourteen years of age. According to the authorities, there is an increasing number of lawless boys, who show their disregard for the rights of their neighbours in some way or other. Stealing, robbing, disrespect for the aged, swearing, and many other acts of a reckless nature are reported daily, and the problem of how to deal with these boys is an important one.

Boys have a universal weakness for orchards that are rich in fruit, and complaints have been received by the police about boys in various parts of the city stealing fruit after the owners devoting their spare time to the care of the trees.

Magistrate Dumble has sustained considerable loss from boys entering his orchard, and was rightly incensed when this East City lady laid her complaint. He fined the boys and told them that they would go to jail unless their fines were paid.

PROPERTY COMMITTEE TO MEET

Some Important Business Will Probably Be Taken Up

The Property Committee of the City Council will meet in all probability to-morrow night, when some important business, including the considering of the milk report, and the report of the deputation which visited the Western Ontario public libraries, will be presented. It had been the intention to hold a meeting of the whole council on Monday evening, but owing to the fact that some of the committees have not yet prepared their reports it has been decided to postpone the meeting for another week to allow the committees a chance to get through their work.

COTTAGERS TO MEET IN NORWOOD

East End People Will Take Up Question of Telephone Connection

THE DAILY MAIL SERVICE

Crowe's Landing, September 5th. — The annual meeting of the Upper Stony Lake Cottagers' Association, will be held in Norwood about October 12th, when the officers for the ensuing year will be elected, and other business transacted. This was decided upon by the cottagers last week and Norwood was selected as the meeting place because the majority of those interested come from there.

The first year of the Association has been crowned with great success. A handsome and commodious pavilion has been erected and has been patronized very largely during the season. The first regatta was a gratifying success and altogether the year has been a good one.

An important question that will be taken up by the Association at the meeting will be that of telephone connection with the outside world. A good start has been made, some 250 telephone poles having been donated to the Association by various people who are interested in the development of that portion of the lake. A daily mail service is another question that will be taken up by the Association.

Market Somewhat Larger Wednesday —Latest Quotations

The citizens of Peterborough are apparently unaware of the fact that there is a Wednesday market now, judging by the small number of people that attended it yesterday. There was quite a number of farmers present with their produce, but the housewives were not on hand to make any purchases. There was a good supply of red and blue plums and green gages. The prices asked were very reasonable, and from six to eight cents a quart was asked for this fruit. New potatoes were sold at $1 per bag, and new hay was high, some of the farmers demanding $17 a ton, but it is not known whether they received that price. Vegetables sold at their usual prices.

A mid-weekly market should be a boon to housekeepers, and if they would turn out in large numbers the farmers would come in with their produce.

CONDEMNS KING EDWARD FOR COMMERCIAL CLASSES

Distance Does Not Lend Enchantment to the Idea

Editor Examiner,—

Kindly permit me to enter a protest against the unreasonable arrangement made respecting the commercial classes of the Collegiate Institute, whereby young boys and girls are ordered out of their seats to make room for others. Some of these boys and girls have about four miles a day to walk, as it is, in going to and from school. Most men would think that enough. But Messrs. Dumble and Robinson think ten miles the proper thing. Ten miles a day is the distance that some will have to go if they attend the King Edward School. Perhaps some will have to walk further through winter's sleet and snow. Now, if walking is good for the goose, it's good for the gander, too. Therefore, I would suggest that the above mentioned gentlemen take a walk and make way for men having a finer sense of justice.

Free railway tickets will not mend the matter. All cannot make use of the cars, and, furthermore, the cars do not go within a reasonable distance of the King Edward School. And anyone knows what it is to stand waiting in the storms of winter for a car.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am,

Yours truly,

PARENT NO. 2.

Peterborough, Sept. 4, 1907.

A PIMPLE CAUSES BLOOD POISONING

Wife of Belleville Alderman is in Serious Danger

A case which began very simply and has since assumed alarming proportions is that of Mrs. Butler, mother of Ald. Butler, who resides on Forin street.

It seems that some days ago Mrs. Butler had a small pimple on the back of her neck, which, when it became dry, she brushed away. Shortly afterwards the matter assumed grave proportions, medical aid was called in, and the case diagnosed as blood poisoning. The entire back of Mrs. Butler's head is now affected. Several operations have been performed, but this morning Mrs. Butler was reported as being in a very precarious condition. Her son, Mr. M. J. Butler, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, came from Ottawa last night, but had to leave again this morning, his attention at present being directed to the recent bridge horror near Quebec. Mrs. Butler's many friends will hope for her speedy recovery.—Belleville Intelligencer.

SEARCHING ENQUIRY ORDERED

Crown Attorney Visits Scene of C.P.R. Wreck — Dominion Inspector Also Investigating — Company Wanted to Abolish Curve—Injured Doing Well With One Exception —Evidence of Eye-Witnesses.

Toronto, Sept. 5.—Hon. J. J. Foy, Attorney-General and acting Premier, acted promptly yesterday morning in ordering an enquiry into the railway wreck at Caledon on Tuesday when seven lives were lost.

Although not doubting the possibilities of the coroner's jury, which had already opened an inquest at Caledon, Hon. Mr. Foy took advantage of the fact that one of the victims had died in Toronto to consult Dr. Arthur Jukes Johnson, chief coroner for the city, and request him to commence what will really be a Government enquiry into the causes leading up to the wreck.

The Attorney-General placed the services of Inspector Rogers of the provincial detective force at Coroner Johnson's disposal, and he is now at work upon the case.

A stenographer will be present, and the evidence will be taken in full tonight and at any subsequent sittings.

A. Bell, son of the dead man, was called. He had viewed his father's body and he wiped his eyes as he was sworn. He told of driving his father to the Carleton station from his farm in Melancthon Township, Dufferin County.

The train was an hour late, and he left his father there. This was the last time he saw him alive. At six o'clock that evening he learned that his father was seriously hurt, but it was not until he arrived in the city yesterday that he learned of his death.

His sister, who lives near the homestead, is critically ill, and has not been told of her father's death, nor will she be at present. The rest of the family, two daughters and three sons, living in Winnipeg, have been notified, but will not be able to attend the funeral. The body will be sent home to-day, and the funeral held there at once.

The son came to the city by the same route on which his father had come. He passed the scene of the wreck where the cars are still piled in disorder.

Dr. A. J. Harrington, who made the post mortem, said that Mr. Bell came to his death from hemorrhage and shock, due to tearing of the spleen.

After the session Dr. Johnson said to the press:

"We will go into this matter to the end. If blame or responsibility can be found and fixed it will be done no matter who is hit. Every scrap of evidence that can be had will be heard."

It is reported that the inquest at Orangeville was opened on the bodies of five dead and that the foreman of the jury is one of the chief witnesses. This will place the whole responsibility of placing the cause of the disaster on the shoulders of the Toronto investigation. It is likely that several sittings will be needed to complete the hearing of evidence. The railway company will be represented by counsel.

The condition of the injured at the Western Hospital was last evening reported to be quite satisfactory, except Mrs. Ronson, who has a broken back and for whom there is little hope of recovery.

While passengers on the train persist in saying that the speed was unusual and excessive, Engineer Hodge and Fireman Ross declare that the train was running only between 15 and 20 miles an hour. Conductor Grimes refuses to make a statement.

The inquest at Caledon presents two unusual features: one, that the enquiry is being held as to the death of the entire six instead of only one, as is the custom, and the other that the foreman of the jury is Alexander McLeish, the farmer who saw the accident occur and who is therefore an important witness.

There were three witnesses to the run-off. Mr. McLeish, Jos. Ferguson and a neighbor farmer, who refuses to talk until the inquest, and James Cannon of Caledon East. The latter named was driving down the hill in the face of the oncoming train and saw the whole catastrophe.

M. J. McCall, one of the Dominion Railway Commission inspectors, has left for the Horseshoe to make an investigation.

C. P. R. claims-agents are reported to have gone promptly to work endeavoring to effect settlements with the families of the victims of the accident rather than have the matter taken to the courts.

James Ross, residing at 70 East Dupont street, fireman on the engine of the wrecked train, sustained a scalp wound and was scalded about the face and right arm. His injuries, however, are not serious.

C. P. R. Wanted to Abolish Curve.

The Ontario Government is more than ordinarily interested, perhaps, in view of the following statement made to The Toronto World yesterday by Andrew Dods, who writes:

"I notice your strictures in to-day's World in reference to the C. P. R. maintaining dangerous curves at Caledon Mountain, and while the railways are often to blame, I feel they are not in this case.

"About three years ago the C. P. R. applied to the Government for leave to change their route so as to join the Credit Valley line at Inglewood and cut out this dangerous curve, but the Government refused to allow it at the solicitation of William Stubbs, the member for Cardwell.

"Now, this was a case where the people's representative prevented the railways from avoiding the danger, and the railway is not to blame for the trouble. The curve is extremely dangerous, and should be abandoned."

Angus MacMurchy, counsel for the C. P. R., last evening corroborated the above.

ELEVEN INJURED IN WRECK.

Express Derailed, Supposed Work of Russian Anarchists.

Berlin, Sept. 5.—The Prussian railway administration has offered a reward for the discovery of the person who wrecked the St. Petersburg-Berlin express between Strassburg and Rehfelde, near Berlin, shortly before midnight, resulting in eleven persons being injured. Presumably it was the work of an Anarchist or Russian revolutionist, who hoped to kill a member of the Russian Imperial family who is said to have been on board the train.

The train was derailed, several cars were telescoped, and afterwards caught fire. An examination of the scene of the wreck at daylight showed that the bolts had been removed from fish-plates of a fifty-foot rail, resulting in the latter becoming deranged after the locomotive had passed over it. The persons injured were mostly inhabitants of Berlin, postal clerks, commercial travelers and two army officers. It does not appear that any Russian of high rank was a passenger on the train, but the Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaievitch, with a staff of six officers, is expected to arrive here to-day on his way to the German army manoeuvres, when he will be the guest of Emperor William. The officials of the Prussian railroads are unusually alert at present owing to the frequent accidents, which have recently occurred.

GARDENER'S TRAGIC END.

George Atkinson Breaks His Neck at Lambton.

Lambton Mills, Sept. 5.—A shocking accident, by which George Atkinson, a well-known young market gardener, lost his life, took place a short distance from here last night.

Atkinson had been to the city with a load of produce. It was while passing through his own gate, on his return, that the accident occurred. While no one was near at the time and saw the affair, it seems that Atkinson had a projecting board on the wagon, which had probably been used as a seat, caught the young man between the wagon and the gatepost, jamming him and breaking his neck, the horse being brought to a stop. He was in this position three-quarters of an hour before release came, Mrs. McPherson, a neighbor, being the first to see the unfortunate young man.

When released it was found that Atkinson was dead, his neck having been broken.

VISITORS SUFFOCATED.

Two Women Found Dead In Hotel at Toronto.

Toronto, Sept. 5.—Two women visitors to the exhibition are dead as a result of blowing out the gas at the Osgoode Hotel, West Queen street, Tuesday night. They are Mrs. Janet McEwing, Harlock, Huron County, 22 years, and her mother, Mrs. John Shannon, 50 years, same address.

With Alex. McEwing, the husband of the younger woman, and John Watts of Harlock, the two came to the city Tuesday morning. Engaging the room, they spent the afternoon and evening at the fair.

Returning, they retired, the two women occupying room 4, while the men slept in another part of the house. Mr. McEwing turned out the gas for them.

Mr. McEwing became alarmed because he could not arouse them in the morning. The door was forced, but the women were dead and the room filled with gas. The jet was turned on.

BOY SHOT DEAD.

Another Has Hand Shattered—Purser Seriously Hurt.

Fort William, Sept. 5.—Purser O. B. Gordon fell down the hold of the steamer Rosedale Tuesday and fractured his skull. His condition is precarious.

S. Worrall, the 16-year-old son of George Worrall, who was accidentally shot on Monday, is dead.

Invermay, Sask., Sept. 5.—Two gunning accidents occurred here Tuesday, one of which resulted in the death of William Condon, aged 16. The other, George Snell, had his hand shattered. Condon was riding with the loaded gun in a buggy, when it slipped into the wheel, and both barrels were discharged into his body.

Suicides At Falls.

FOLLOWED HER MOTHER'S EXAMPLE.

AND KEPT DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY IN THE HOUSE.

Mrs. W. J. Wilson, Tessier, Sask. tells of her experience in the following words: "I wish to tell you of the good I have found in DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY. Last summer my little girl, aged two years, was taken ill with Summer Complaint, and as my mother always kept DR. FOWLER'S in the house, when I was a child, I seemed to follow her example, as I always have it also. I at once gave it to my baby as directed and she was at once relieved, and after a couple of doses were taken was completely cured."

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY imparts a healthy tone to all mucous surfaces, corrects and heals all forms of canker and counteracts all tendency to pain and inflammation, while it gives tone to the debilitated system when weakened by exhaustive discharges and fluxes of whatever nature, thus making it the best and safest remedy for Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Pain in the Stomach, Sea Sickness, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus and all Summer Complaints.

—"Pay 24c. a gallon extra if you drink imported beer."

You don't get any better beer, remember.

The brewers, themselves, can only say that the lager they ship to Canada is "just the same" as the lager sold in the States.

STRIKE SENT HIM MAD.

Man Tries Twice to Hang Himself, Then Takes Poison.

Pittsburg, Sept. 5.—Harry Iden of Long Island, N. Y., a telegraph operator, died in the Allegheny General Hospital Tuesday night. Desperate, Iden twice tried to hang himself, then he took carbolic acid.

Although not a union man, Iden, who was 40 years old, quit work when the strike was declared. He said it would not last long and came home with his wife and two children. No money came to Iden from the strike benefit. He grew moody and behaved so strangely he was arrested. In his cell Iden tried to hang himself with his suspenders and again with his cravat, and was then stripped.

The police let Mrs. Iden take her husband home. He escaped from her and was found five miles from the home, fatally poisoned.

Firemen May Die.

New York, Sept. 5.—An exploded tank of gasoline in the cellar of a burning building on Havenmeyer street, Brooklyn, yesterday seriously injured four firemen. Two will probably die of their injuries.

The fire broke out in a tenament house cellar, where there was stored a quantity of paint and oils.

The firemen, who had flooded the cellar with water, rolled out a tank of gasoline, when it exploded.

Sixteen Years For Assault.

New York, Sept. 5.—That it is the intention of the judges in whose hands their fate may be placed to deal severely with men convicted of attacks upon women and children, was evidenced yesterday, when Frederick Shonland was sent to prison for not less than 16 nor more than 18 years. He had assaulted a 16-year-old girl.

Annual Meeting Of Rugby Club Will Be Held To-night

A Full Attendance of Those Interested Is Requested--Prospects are Bright for a Fast Team This Season

The annual meeting of the Peterborough Rugby Club will be held to-night at 8 o'clock in the Oriental Hotel parlorus, when all those interested in the game are cordially invited to be present. The reports of last year's officers will be received, officers elected, and the plans of the club for the coming season will be discussed.

With the change in the rules and the reversion to the old scrimmage game, Peterborough will have a better chance than under the Burnside rules. There is plenty of material in the city for a strong team, which should by all means be put in the senior series. The people of the city will give far better support to a team in the senior ranks than they would to an intermediate team, even if the club did not win out. There is no doubt that a team could be selected from the material available that would give all the teams in the senior ranks all kinds of trouble to turn down, and all those who are interested in the project should be on hand to-night.

PETERBORO' OR VICS NOT WANTED IN NEW RUGBY UNION

While the proposed Rugby Football Union composed of the Ottawa Rough Riders, Hamilton Tigers, Toronto Argonauts and Montreal, will meet with approval from the four teams interested, there can be little doubt that the Victorias of Toronto, Peterborough, St. Patrick's of Ottawa, and the Westmounts of Montreal will enter strenuous objections to the proposition going through. Especially from the St. Patrick's and Westmounts would the objections be be strongest, as such a move would leave the Quebec Union derelict.

A leading member of the Rough Riders speaking on the subject stated that while personally he favoured the movement he did not think it fair to throw down the St. Patrick's and Westmounts, especially as it would break up the old union.

"I believe, however, that if we did join the Ontaro Union St. Patrick's would join and we would enter as one team. Football is on the wane here and we have lost money for the last two years. Going into a new league of the same calibre as the National Lacrosse Union or the Eastern Canadian Hockey League would be a great thing for the game in this section," stated this gentleman.

The Ottawa View

The Argos, Tigers and Rough Riders are heartily in favour of the movement. The Ottawa team look at it from a financial point of view. The Rough Riders would benefit the most as they look at it in the light that they cannot fare any worse financially than they would in the Quebec Union.—Toronto News.

Don't Want Victorias or Peterborough

During the discussion there was a suggestion that Ottawa and Montreal should join the Ontario Union, and that it should be split into two divisions, one composed of the two eastern and one Toronto club, (Argonauts,) and the other made up of the remaining Toronto club (Victorias,) Hamilton, and Peterborough. This, however, seemed to meet with little favour, and was passed up with little comment.—Toronto Star.

A STORY THAT IS NOT TRUE

Port Hope Guide Denies Report That Saturday's Game is Fixed

The posters for the big game next Saturday are out and everything is in readiness for the greatest game ever seen in Port Hope.

It is regrettable that a story has been spread about town that the game in Peterborough last Saturday was fixed, and that Peterborough is to win here next Saturday. We referred to this matter some time ago and endeavoured to convince these "wise ones" that everything was on the square, but that seems an impossible task. However, you can take this tip as genuine, that Port Hope is out to win on Saturday. We are not here to uphold any crooked work of a baseball club, and when we make the assertion that the game will be played on its merits we know what we are talking about. It is Manager Crawford's intention to strengthen last Saturday's line-up, and if things were fixed it is hardly likely that he would expend $150 for Toronto men to visit here and lose to Peterborough. All we can add is that if Peterborough wins here on Saturday it will be because they have the strongest team.—Port Hope Guide.

JIMMY REYNOLDS OFFERS TO RACE HARTLEY

Reynolds Agrees to Wager Any Sum That Local Man Wishes

Jimmy Reynolds, the walking barber o Port Hope, who made the sensational attempt some time ago to walk to Toronto and back in 36 hours is not content with his past performances and before long will be engaged in another onslaught on the record. This time, however, Jimmy will have things a little different, inasmuch as his attempt will be in the form of a race.

Since Reynolds' last attempt the citizens of Peterborough have been startled by the performances of one David Hartley, whose latest feat has been a thirty-four mile walk from Peterborough to Bailliboro and return, in five hours and 48 minutes. Hartley thinks that he is a better man than Reynolds, and he has accordingly challenged Reynolds to a race over the Port Hope to Toronto route.

Reynolds is willing to arrange the match, but only under certain conditions.

He will not walk in the hot weather under any circumstances, and, as Hartley is much younger, Jimmy Reynolds being 57 years of age, and as Hartley is confident of his powers, Jimmy will demand a handicap of four hours. He will then undertake to walk to Toronto and back with the Peterborough chap and beat him. He says it is now up to Hartley to put up or shut up. Jimmy will wager any sum Hartley likes to name.—Toronto News.

OPENING AUTUMN GOLF TEA ON SATURDAY

Mixed Foursomes to be Played—Captains Request Good Attendance

On Saturday afternoon the golf links of the Peterborough Golf Club promises to be the scene of a delightful time. The opening tea for the autumn term will be held during the afternoon and the mixed foursomes will also be played, beginning at 3 o'clock.

The captain of the lady golfers requests as many as possible of the playing members to be present, and the captain of the gentlemen invites all the masculine players to be on hand to make up plenty of foursomes.

BELLEVILLE WANTS TO GET INTO THE O. H. A.

Intelligencer Proposes a District Which Includes Peterborough

What do you think of this from the Belleville Intelligencer?

Winter is coming on apace, and hockey-lovers in this city are asking what is to be done next winter. The proper tip for Belleville, many people think, would be an intermediate team in a district with Peterborough Port Hope, Cobourg, and, perhaps, Picton. There is no doubt that hockey was never on so good a footing in this city as it was in the good old days of the intermediates. Why not let history repeat itself? A district composed of Belleville, Peterborough, Port Hope and Cobourg would be a winner and hockey would boom like it did a few years ago. What do our neighbours think about it? They have been none too well pleased since they dropped away from Belleville.

RUGBY

A meeting of the Quaker Rugby Club is called for to-morrow (Friday) evening at 7.30 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. All interested in the Quakers' team are requested to be present, as election of officials will probably take place.

• • • •

The meeting of the Crescent rugby club that was called for this evening has been postponed until to-morrow evening at eight o'clock in the Y.M.C.A.

• • • •

So far as the Hamilton Football Club is concerned, both players and management would welcome the change. The Tigers would be able to put up a better game if they had more hard battles like Montreal and the Argos gave them last year. The Victorias and Petes, although good sports and good fellows, were not strong enough to keep the Tigers on edge, and the result was that they were inclined to be over-confident when they went into a game with teams strong enough to make them extend themselves.—Hamilton Spectator.

BASEBALL

In another column appears an article from the Port Hope Guide, denying the absurd report that the game with Peterborough was fixed. The same story has been going the rounds here since Saturday's game, and, strange to say, is believed in some quarters, though how any one can give credence to such an absurd story is something that once cannot readily understand. Anyone who had anything to do with the ball team or with its manager will know that the game was on the level, although in the selection of twirlers the management made a bad mistake in judgment.

• • • •

The Peterborough ball team will have a strong line-up for the game with Port Hope on Saturday, and is confident of pulling out a victory. Arrangements are being made by which the locals will be able to return to Peterborough after the game, although no special excursion has been arranged.

THE POWER OF STEAM

Many may see but it Takes Genius to Realize

When James Watt saw the steam causing the kettle lid to jump up and down, he said "There must be power in that steam that it can lift such a weight."

There was.

Millions prior to him had seen the same mystery and regarded it as an unexplained mystery.

Recent scientific research has put its finger on the "cause" of Dandruff, Falling Hair, and consequent Baldness, and has unearthed a tiny germ which eats the life from the roots of human hair.

Some Hard Luck

A North Ward man who believes in the saying, "See a pin and pick it up, and all the day you'll have good luck," one day recently saw a pin on the street. Bending down to get it, his hat tumbled off and rolled into the mud, his eye-glasses fell off and broke on the pavement, his brates gave way behind, he burst the button hole on the back of his shirt, and he lost his new front teeth. But he got the pin.

A FALSE ALARM AT WESTWOOD

Villagers Thought That Breckenridge's Mill Was on Fire

Examiner Special.

Westwood, Sept. 4.—Threshing is all the rush now, and the farmers talk as if they have plenty of room for either straw or grain.

Owing to the rush of business in the post office the postmaster has secured the services of another assistant.

Mr. James Robb has purchased Mr. J. McMillan's blacksmith shop and business. Mr. Robb has closed his old shop and is doing all the trade in Mr. McMillan's old stand.

The trustees of our school have purchased an additional half acre of ground for $100.00 and have given the school a general overhauling. Mr. M. Fortune and Mr. D. Brackenridge did the work in a very satisfactory manner.

The residents of our quiet little hamlet were disturbed one night recently by hearing the whistle at Squire Brackenridge's mill. Mr. Ed. Lynch was the first on the scene and not seeing any fire he entered the engine room, lit a few matches and found a monkey wrench tied to the cord attached to the whistle. It appears mostly every one within hearing was out and saw the matches blaze and headed for the saw mill, while the caretaker of the hall pulled away at the rope of the town fire bell. The joke might have been suitable for the 1st of April, but it came in a very unpleasant hour and the Squire intends to have the one that did the trick punished sufficiently to change his lofty ideas.

BOARD OF HEALTH

Will Try to Discover Cause of Tyhoid Epidemic

To Hold Meeting Next Week When Inspector's Report Will be Received and Considered

Mr. William Eyres, chairman of the Health Board, will call a meeting of the Board for next week, which will probably be held on Monday morning. The chief matter of importance to be taken up will be will be the consideration of the report of Sanitary Inspector Ball, on the subject of the sanitary conditions as he saw them at the Kawartha Lakes on his recent tour there.

The chairman believed that the Board is up against a difficult problem in attempting to extinguish the typhoid epidemic which, he believes, to be existing, both in the city and at the lakes. The numerous cases reported during the last few weeks, have alarmed the health officers, and the question that now confronts them is how to become masters of the situation and eliminate the cause of the disease.

"Something has got to be done," said Mr. Eyres to the Examiner yesterday, "and the little we can do to all appearances, will only assist in lessening the existing evil."

Supposed Pickpockets Said To Have Been Here

A couple of alleged pickpockets one of which is a woman, have been captured in Toronto who are said to belong to a clever gang, some of whom, it is stated, have recently been operating in Peterborough. A Toronto despatch says of the arrest:—

In the persons of George and Mary Ross, who appeared in the Police Court on Tuesday morning on charges of vagrancy, the police say that they have got in touch with the cleverest gang of pickpockets who ever visited Toronto.

Two men and a woman were operating at Hanlan's Point last Sunday. A lady who did not give the police her name, telephoned the detective office to say that while in the waiting room at the Point on Sunday she saw the woman put her hand into the pockets of three men. On the boat, the lady saw the same woman put her hand in her father's pocket. She promptly seized the wrist of the intruder. The woman wrenched herself free and got away in the crowd.

The lady later called at the detective department and detailed the dress and appearance of the woman with much faithfulness as to cause the police to believe it was Mary Ross.

Harvey Cox is said to be another of the light-fingered gentry. He was arrested at the Exhibition grounds on Monday. He gave his name as Richard Le Blanche. He has served an eight-year term in Paris, France, for the theft of diamonds.

The police are quite anxious to learn the identify of the lady who saw the woman picking pockets on the ferry.

PETERBORO' YOUNG MAN'S NARROW ESCAPE ON RIVER ST. LAWRENCE

Mr. Harry Rogers and Two Companions Upset Out of a Canoe While on Way to See the Ruins of the Quebec Bridge

WAS IN WATER TWO HOURS

Mr. Rogers Seized a Plank and Got Ashore in Safety—Friends Rescued From Their Predicament

Examiner Special.

The Mr. Rogers referred to in the following despatch, translated from La Presse, Montreal, is Mr. Harry Rogers, son of Mr. R. B. Rogers, East City, who is a student in Civil Engineering, and is on the staff of the inspection company in connection with the Quebec bridge construction.

St. Nicholas, P. Q., Sept. 4. — Mr. Rogers, of Peterborough, accompanied by Messrs. White and Keel, visited the scene of the catastrophe (Quebec bridge), in a canvas canoe. The three men left Cap Rouge about seven o'clock. The voyage to the scene of the wreck was safely made, but when the time came to return, about eight o'clock, the wind had risen and the frail craft was soon knocked about by the waves. All at once a cry was heard and the three men were precipitated into the water. Messrs. Keel and White were able to seize each an end of the over-turned canoe, and Mr. Keel, an excellent swimmer, attempted to reach the bank, but the current was too strong. They shouted for help and their cries were heard by Messrs. Vital Plante and Victor Mercier, who, with Messrs. Emile and Albert Plante, hastened to inform Mr. Onesime Guenard, fisherman, who lives on the shore, opposite the village of Cap Rouge. He hurried his skiff into the water; the cries of the unfortunates guided the rescuers, for the night was very dark. They were unable to reach the ship-wrecked men before ten o'clock. It was time, for they were exhausted, having been in the water for two hours. Their companion, (Mr. Rogers) was more fortunate, for he had been lucky enough to seize a piece of timber, and had been able to reach the shore at the time that Mr. Guenard's fishing boat was leaving to rescue his companions in trouble. The good offices of the rescuers restored the unfortunates, who passed the night with Mr. Guenard, who next morning conveyed them in his skiff to Cap Rouge.

Early Blaze on Elm Street Did Small Damage To-day

Home of Mr. N. Guerin Was Visited by a Fire This Morning—Rear Portion Gutted

CHILDREN WERE SCARED

A disastrous fire occurred shortly after seven o'clock this morning at the residence of Mr. N. Guerin, Elm street, which caused considerable damage to the house and its contents before being extinguished. The blaze is supposed to have originated from a defective chimney, and started in the second storey under the roof.

Several of the children of the family were in bed when the fire broke out, and were badly scared, although they were gotten out before they were in any danger.

The damage was confined to the rear portion of the building which is a clap-board structure. The bedroom at the rear upstairs was gutted, and the kitchen below was also damaged, while some damage was inflicted by water in other parts of the building. Most of the furniture was taken out of the building so that the loss on the contents, will not amount to much more than $10. There was no insurance on the furniture. The damage to the house, which belongs to Mrs. Hurley, will be about $150, covered by insurance.

Norwood Woman Here In Search Of Lost Nephew

Freddy Buck, Aged 13 Years' Disappears From His Home Over a Week Ago—Worked For Milkman Near Here

MOURNFUL STORY IS TOLD

The aunt of little Freddy Buck, aged 13, who left his home in Norwood, about a week ago, was in the city this morning, almost heartbroken, because the search for her lost nephew had borne no fruit up to the present time. Mr. Buck has traced him from the station at Norwood to Havelock, and back to Peterborough, but here the trail seems to have been hopelessly lost. She called at the police station this morning, but no person answering to her descriptions had come under the notice of the officers. She has discovered many places where the boy has been in the city, but her visits to these always occurred after the bird had flown, so that this morning the 13-year-old lad was still missing.

Her story of his disappearance is that he happened to board a train at the Norwood station about a week ago, and before he could get off it had left the station with him on board. Getting off at Havelock, he is supposed to have become afraid of the consequences, should he return home, and was there advised to go to his brother's in Toronto.

His next appearance was in Peterborough, so far as Mrs. Buck can determine, and her visit here is to ascertain if possible, his whereabouts. She has learned that the youth had been to the office of Dr. Bradd, on August 30th, where he purchased some medicine and powders.

Dr. Bradd stated to the Examiner to-day that the boy was a bright-looking youth, fairly well dressed, and that he paid him for the medicine. He told him that he was working for a milkman near the city, and that he obtained 75 cents per day and his board. The doctor did not know at the time that he had run away from home.

His aunt heard from a woman in the north end of the city that he had been carrying a route for the Examiner, but upon inquiry at this office nothing was known of him here. She also learned from some persons that Freddy had been seen at the station, with his head on the rails. When asked what he was doing there he replied in a mournful tone, "I have no place else to go!"

He was also traced to the residence of a relative of Mrs. Buck in the city, but when his aunt wrote her a card to obtain particulars he had again disappeared.

Such is a portion of the melancholy story told by Mrs. Buck to the police and to the Examiner to-day, and she will certainly be a pleased woman if information be given her which will terminate her diligent search.

LAKEFIELD SINGERS WERE NOT MENTIONED

Inadvertently Left Out of Report of Stony Lake Concert

In the account of the concert given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Davis, at Stony Lake, last week, no mention was made in any of the Peterborough papers of the excellent singing of two of our best Lakefield vocalists, who assisted materially towardst he success of the evening's entertainment. This, of course, was not done intentionally, but simple justice compels us to state that in Miss Myrtle Kline and Mr. Robt. Norris the programme committee found two of its choicest performers. Miss Myrtle Kline is well known to many audiences in various parts of the district as a fine soprano and an accomplished performer on the piano. Mr. Norris, who has lately come amongst us, was until recently a member of Mr. Geo. Edwardes's Stock Company in London, and in "The Cingalee" scored a very high success.—Lakefield News.

ABOUT OURSELVES

The Examiner which, for the past three months, has issued at 12.30 on Saturdays, will to-morrow revert to the usual hour of publication, four o'clock. The beginning of September marks the close of the holiday season for the people generally, and the Examiner, with the rest of the world, gets back into the work-a-day way. While the normal hour of publication will be resumed, ministers, who have got into the good habit of handing in their church service notices on Friday evening, need not deteriorate in this regard.

A Boomerang Contract.

The author of "A Temperance Town" and "A Texas Steer" spent much of his time in his country home, but one day he appeared unexpectedly in New York at the Lambs' club. Going straight to the cafe, he made one large, inclusive gesture, which brought every man present about him. "It's on me," said Mr. Hoyt. Then he told his story.

It was before the days of electric and gasoline motors, and he had bought a little steam yacht. He engaged as his engineer one of his Yankee neighbors and offered him liberal wages, with the provision that the engineer should find his own coal. It was a long way to the nearest coal yard, and Mr. Hoyt had all the trouble he was looking for to keep his own furnace fed.

"But where shall I get the coal?" the new engineer asked.

"I don't care," said the foremost of American stage humorists. "Steal it."

So the bargain was struck. All went well until in the early autumn Mr. Hoyt went into his cellar to see how much more coal he would have to purchase for the winter. Of several tons on hand in the spring only two or three scuttlefuls remained. The theft was speedily traced to the engineer.

The Sun and the Telescope.

The popular notion is that the astronomer points his telescope directly at the sun and fires his vision point blank across the chasm of millions of miles. Instead, says a writer in the Ohio Magazine, the errant sun rays are lassoed by a coelostate—a great circular mirror driven by clockwork in such a manner that it throws its light into another mirror above, and this in turn sends the long, concentrated beam far into the interior of the telescope house. The two mirrors move in automatic adjustment to each other, so that the solar beams may be shot into the building, no matter in what portion of the sky the sun may be situated. At the farther end of the building the reflected sunbeam strikes a concave mirror which catches the light and, flashing it back toward the opening whence it first entered, focuses it into a perfect image of the sun.

CITY IMPROVEMENT

In an article printed elsewhere on this page, the Brantford Expositor deals with the subject of beautifying the city, under the heading, "To Get Rid of Unsightly Spots." Brantford is often referred to by its citizens as "Beautiful Brantford," but anyone who has has seen both that city and Peterborough, will concede that Peterborough is much ahead of the western city in regard to beauty of situation and tree growth. Peterborough can boast of an abundance of shade trees on residential streets, something in which Brantford is deficient; therefore, Brantford has more reason than this city to inaugurate a crusade of civic beautification. But Peterborough can, however, do likewise with good results. The Horticultural Society is doing a little in this direction by offering prizes for the best kept lawns and gardens. But this is not enough —it simply "films and skins the ulcerous spot." That is to say, very few feel warranted in entering such a competition, and only a few beauty spots, here and there are developed for purposes of competition. There are numerous "ulcerous spots" in Peterborough — unsightly street surroundings, and unsightly premises, and these could very easily be tidied, and their repulsiveness replaced with beauty by the exercise of almost no expenditure of money—with only a little expenditure of time, labour and taste. Our citizens, many of them, seem to have become infected with the spirit of our civic authorities, and there is an utter absence of any sort of system in beautifying premises. Upon some fine residence streets, one will see a beautiful lawn and grounds, kept in neat order, both within and without — on the grounds and the abutting street—standing cheek by jowl with an untidy, unkept, scrubby lawn and premises, a foul, littered, unsightly street front, which recurring here and there constitutes blots upon the beauty of the whole street. What the Horticultural Society should aim at, to make its crusade of civic improvement effective, is to devise some scheme for enlisting general co-operation. On one part of a street is seen a beautiful, handsome, well-kept lawn, with the street, kept clean, free from stones and weeds, while next to it may be seen a boulevardless stretch, rough, weedy, and in the same state in which the slatternly city street workers invariably leave it. The city is largely responsible for this apathy on the part of citizens, in regard to keeping tidy surroundings, for street workmen seem to act as if they had received instructions to leave the scene of any work as sloppy and as untidy as possible, especially if they are called upon to rip up a nicely kept boulevard. One can see all over the city the marks of corporation vandals. A crossing or a pavement is constructed, or a sewer laid down, and the resulting rubbish is left to litter the street in a manner disgraceful to the city, and discouraging to the owners of adjacent property. What can we expect from indifferent citizens, when the city itself does nothing to help and encourage the public in keeping the street in front of their premises in a neat condition, but, practically, places obstacles in the way? Boulevards are a charge of the city, and the city should help citizens in their construction, and should assist, and not hinder, in keeping them in good condition. What is indicated is a movement on the part of some public spirited citizen, to organize a civic improvement society, and enrol on its register of membership every householder in the city, with a nominal fee to cover the cost of educational literature. With a little general co-operation, Peterborough can be made positively, as it is potentially, the most beautiful, as it is one of the most thriving and progressive, cities, in the Dominion.

It is stated by a Dominion post-official that 30,000 post-cards, mailed by "Americans" touring or holidaying in Canada, were sent to the dead letter office because they bore United States stamps. The United States is not America by any means, nor the biggest half of it, either.

Canadian artillerists who outshot the British artillery experts made more than one bull's-eye. Col. Hendrie of Hamilton, who did so much to make the stay of the visitors in Canada pleasant, has doubtless, upon the strength of the reports of the returning artillery cracks, been made a member of the Victoria Order, and it can now be written, Col. J. S. Hendrie, C.V.O.

A GOOD RECORD

Not to specify the great volume of legislation beneficial to the interests of labour, enacted by the Liberal Government in the past ten years, it is timely to refer to the effectiveness of the legislation passed last session, called, sometimes, the Lemieux Act, but properly the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act. Though the Act has been in force less than a year, Canada has been spared on two occasions the disaster which would have resulted from a complete tie-up of the Grand Trunk Railway system through a general strike, also a prolonged strike on the Intercolonial Railway; a grave industrial war in the coal fields of the West, injurious strikes of the dock labourers at Montreal and Halifax. It is due to this Act that, to-day, 3,000 employees of the Valleyfield cotton mills are at work, pending a frank and fair discussion of their grievances by an impartial tribunal. It is not improbable that the difficulties between the Toronto Street Railway and its employees were adjusted by a mutually satisfactory agreement, and a great strike averted in order to avoid a public investigation, such as would have been required under the Act before a strike could have been legally declared. Anyone who reflects upon what would have resulted in the way of loss and calamity to the public, to labour and to capital, if the disagreements above referred to had not been amicably adjusted, cannot withhold approval of the Lemieux Act —cannot but acknowledge the incalculable benefits of adjusting industrial differences by conciliation and compromise under the sanction of the law of the land.

EDITORIAL NOTES

In 1855 Canada had 563 miles of railway; at Confederation—1867 — 2,000 miles, and, in 1907, the mileage of Canadian railways is 23,706.

Astronomers tell us of spots on the sun, but they are nothing compared with the spots on the daughter—just home from her stay at the holiday haunts.

The Russians, who are almost daily hanged for plotting against the Czar, would, if Russia had a free constitutional government like England, and the Czar was a ruler like King Edward, be the props of his throne and the champions of his person.

TO GET RID OF UNSIGHTLY SPOTS

(Brantford Expositor.)

In some of the cities of the United States a crusade has been opened against unsightly spots. The Municipal League of Los Angeles, for example, has been offering prizes for their discovery with the intention of getting rid of them. Rubbish, weeds and bill boards have afforded the camera abundant material, and the showing of delinquencies is likely to be followed by some much-needed cleaning up. Seattle had a similar campaign not long since under the leadership of The Post Intelligencer, and the results were for the time being excellent. The Massachusetts Civic League voiced the sentiment of the crusaders, when it declared that "an awakened public conscience which recognizes certain things are ugly is the first step in civic improvemnet." The billboards have everywhere been made the subject of an organized crusade. A goodly number of bills were introduced at the recent sessions of the state legislatures, along teh lines suggested by the American Civic Association, to give the local authorities power to license and tax them. The above association, at its last annual meeting, declared that the next great war which improvement workers would have to wage would be that against the billboard, because, to quote the report of the Massachusetts league, once more, "In many communities the abuse of the billboard is directly in opposition to all organized movements for civic betterment. As a result its restraint is fast becoming the most pressing question with all local improvement organizations."

The Expositor has often thought of entering upon a campaign against the ugly spots of Brantford, and with this object in view enlisting the support of the camera. The reason we have not done so is because the task has such a hopeless appearance. We often speak of "Beautiful Brantford," and there is certainly much to be proud of in our residential districts, with their many charming homes and well-kept lawns. But there is a reverse side to the picture. Can there be a place in Canada of equal size which has more ragged edges and frayed ends than this city has? There is not one block of project pavement, not one block which has been uniformly curbed, scarcely one block which has been uniformly boulevarded, while in many other respects untidiness and neglect are manifest. It may not be pleasant for a public journal which desires to be loyal to its own habitat to speak thus plainly, but is not every word true?

We have a Parks commission here which is doing splendid work in its own peculiar field, but its efforts might well be supported by some sort of Civic Improvement League, such as has become popular in the neighbouring republic.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery, and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, the glow of health disappears, and beauty curves give place to leanness an dangles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, weak and nervous.

STONY LAKE COTTAGER MAKES MISTAKE

Mr. Samuel Pearson Contradicts Some Statements About Cause of Typhoid

Mr. Samuel Pearson, of Bethune street, who was but recently bereaved of his wife, the cause of death being due to typhoid fever, called at the Examiner office yesterday evening to contradict wrong impressions which have been spread by some persons who, he thinks, appear to have nothing to do except to injure the business of others. Mr. Pearson has learned that a Stony Lake cottager has been busying himself looking up the names of those unfortunate enough to become ill with typhoid fever, and tracing the cause of the trouble to the spring at McCracken's Landing.

The person referred to, Mr. Pearson stated, had erroneously traced the cause of the fever in the case of his deceased wife to the spring water there, and in fairness to the proprietors of the Victoria House, he wished to contradict such a story. His wife, he said, spent a week or so at Boschink, but he knew positively that she had never been near McCracken's Landing, and he believed and stated he had good reasons for doing so that she did not get the fever at Stony Lake at all.

Mrs. Furber, his sister-in-law, is now in the hospital with the same disease. She has not been at Stony Lake this year, he stated, yet he learned that she, too, was included in the list of those who caught the disease from the germs in McCracken's spring.

HOW ZAM-BUK SAVED A GIRL'S HAIR

When eczema, ulcers, or ringworm break out on the scalp, the first thing the doctor orders is to have the hair cut off. Don't do it before trying Zam-Buk, because it can cure these diseases without causing such a sacrifice. Mrs. J. Butler, of 5 Bannockburn avenue, Montreal, has proved this. She says:—"My eldest daughter, Annie, caught eczema. It broke out on her face and scalp, and the disease was quickly transmitted to Herbert and Edith, and in their cases, not only their heads, but their hands and faces were covered with sores and scaly places.

I tried various blood-purifying remedies in vain, and then consulted a doctor. He applied all kinds of lotions, but the sores remained the same. He next ordered that the hair be all shaven off from the girls' heads in order to get down to the disease on the scalp. They each had nice long hair, and I thought it such a pity to cut it all off. I refused. He thereupon withdrew his services altogether.

"After that I bought first one thing and then another, but it was all no good until we got Zam-Buk. That proved equal to the case, and in a few weeks it cleared every trace of skin disease from each child. With it in use there was no need to cut off the girls' hair, or take any other extreme measure, it just went to work and healed the sores sores in fine shape."

Zam-Buk cures blood poison, cuts, bruises, old wounds, running sores, ulcers, boils, eruptions, scalp sores, eczema, itch, barber's rash, burns, scalds, and all skin injuries and diseases. Best cure for piles yet known. All druggists and stores at 50c a box, or from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

THE DANGER WAS KNOWN TO SOME

Defects In Quebec Bridge Were Not Reported.

NOT CONSIDERED SERIOUS

Inquest Is Adjourned — Government to Take Drastic Action—Engineers Try to Minimize Bridge Worker's Evidence—Plate Was Crimped on Delivery — Company Responsible—Suits for Damages.

Quebec, Sept. 6.—The coroner's inquest into the bridge disaster was yesterday adjourned until the Government's commissioners complete their investigations.

Alexander Ouimet, who testified that there was a crack of three-quarters of an inch broad and 20 inches long in the shoe of the main pier, was called to complete his evidence. He testified that the plate in question was six feet long and three-quarters of an inch in thickness, the crack was the full depth of the plate and 20 inches in length. There were bolts and rivets in the plate.

He had first noticed the defect in May last, and in July, but did not inform the inspectors or engineers of the bridge. Alfred Esmond and Zephirin La France, to whom he had shown the defect, were both victims of the accident.

Rabal La France, the next witness, corroborated the evidence of the previous witness; the crack went right through the plate.

Mr. McLure, C. E., was recalled, and asked if he had noticed the crack referred to. He said that he had not, also that he had inspected the plate on different occasions. In reply to the coroner, he said the crack in question or any piece would naturally weaken the structure. He said, on May 23, July 24 and Aug. 28 of this year, he inspected the plate in question. The crack would not cause the wreck of the bridge. He had a record that the plate was bent, but it was not a fault, being crimped when it left the shops, some of the rivet holes were cut out later, and an enforcement place used. It was possible for an inexperienced eye to take the crimp in the plate for a crack. It was intended for a wind bracer. He would not have considered a crack of sufficient importance to have reported it to the chief engineer.

Mr. Kinlock, inspector for the Quebec Bridge Co., said he had made his last inspection 15 minutes before it went down. The plate in question was crimped, but not cracked. He had seen No. 9 chord since the accident, and it was bent almost in the shape of an "S." There must have been strain at both ends. He knew of the defection, having discovered it at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, Aug. 27, and considered it a serious matter. The end damaged was subsequently repaired, and the report conveyed the impression that it was perfectly safe.

Must Complete Bridge.

Montreal, Sept. 6.—On Tuesday last Sir Wilfrid Laurier paid a visit of inspection to the ruins of the Quebec bridge.

The Premier expressed his profound grief to those about him, and, later, to relatives of workmen who lost their lives.

Sir Wilfrid had no formal interviews with officials of the Phoenix Bridge Co., but made a number of enquiries into the immediate circumstances connected with the collapse.

Although no official announcement has yet been made, it is stated on the highest authority that the Dominion Government has decided to take a very firm and definite stand in the question of responsibility.

If, as now appears to be certain, the result of the official enquiry proves that the piers were in no way responsible for the collapse, the Dominion Government will hold the Phoenix Co. in all details, strictly to the actual text of the contract.

That is to say, the company will be held directly responsible for the disaster, will be required to rebuild the bridge as if no accident had occurred, and in addition the Federal Government will require the company to meet all requirements of such penalties as may be provided in the contract for non-completion by date specified.

Sir Wilfrid is determined that the bridge shall be completed, and with this end in view the Government will, if necessary, take the most drastic steps to enforce the completion of the contract.

Four More Suits.

Montreal, Sept. 6.—Four actions for damages, aggregating $25,000, were entered in the Montreal court yesterday against the contractors of the Quebec Bridge Co. by the relatives of four Indians who were killed.

Diver's Awful Sight.

Quebec, Sept. 6.—A diver who went down beside the bridge wreck tells a gruesome tale of what is to be seen. He says that he could see several bodies pinned under the ironwork in the deep water in all sorts of positions, and some standing upright.

The diver declared that he would not go down again, as the sight was a terrible one.

30,000 MOORS MOBILIZED.

Situation In Morocco Assumes Serious Aspect—Europeans Leaving.

Paris, Sept. 6.—While there has not been any more fighting at Casablanca since the fierce engagement of Tuesday, the seriousness of the general situation in Morocco and the possibility of its leading France into diplomatic difficulties with the other powers of Europe, notably Germany and Great Britain, to say nothing of the apparently growing necessity of increasing the size of the French force on the Moroccan coast, is occupying the attention of the French people.

The press is calling attention to the difficulty of keeping within the terms of the Algeciras convention and the call to convoke Parliament to discuss and decide what course the nation should pursue is becoming more insistent. There is a growing feeling that the important decisions in the matter of France's policy in Morocco should not be left entirely to the members of the Cabinet.

The situation is now referred to as a "war" and no longer as heretofore, as an "expedition of pacification."

The situation at Mazagan is reported to be growing threatening, and the exodus of Europeans from Tangier continues. Premier Clemenceau, however, announced yesterday there was no reason to believe that neither Abdel Aziz, the reigning Sultan, nor Mulai Hafig, his brother, who has been proclaimed Sultan in the south, intended to make war against France.

Native advices received at Tangier declare that 20,000 hostile Moors have concentrated not far from Casablanca, and that 10,000 Kabyle tribesmen have mobilized near Alcabeza.

Spain is preparing to send reinforcements of men and ships to Morocco. One Spanish battleship, the Emperador Carlos V., arrived at Tangier yesterday.

Better Relations Between Britain and Czar's Empire.

Marienbad, Bohemia, Sept. 6.—The Russian Foreign Minister, M. Iswolsky, who recently signed the Anglo-Russian agreement in behalf of Russia, was received in audience by King Edward here yesterday.

The Minister, who was presented to His Majesty by Sir Edward Goschen, the British Ambassador to Austria-Hungary, remained to take luncheon with the King.

Satisfaction In London.

London, Sept. 6.—The conference at Marienbad between M. Iswolsky and King Edward was arranged to discuss the recently-concluded Anglo-Russian agreement. The meeting gives the greatest satisfaction here, placing the final seal on better relations between Great Britain and Russia.

It is understood that Great Britain, while she has secured all that the specialists deemed necessary in Persia, has made concessions there in order to obtain advantages in Afghanistan which were considered essential to safeguard India.

Among the concessions thus made is one enlarging the fact, that while Russia and Great Britain define the spheres in Persia, in which each country will not interfere with the commercial interests of the other, the door is left wide open for the merchants of other powers.

PROHIBITS SUNDAY FISHING.

London, Sept. 6.—The negotiations for a renewal of the Newfoundland fisheries modus vivendi have practically been concluded, and a new agreement, covering the present season, probably will be signed within a few days.

The delay was caused by repeated proposals of the Newfoundland Premier, Sir Robert Bond, of a substitute for the modus vivandi, to which the American and British officials have given every consideration. The matter, the Associated Press is informed, has now been disposed of, and an agreement has been reached to renew the modus vivendi, with some modification.

The most important change relates to Sunday fishing, a prohibition of which, it is understood, the United States has agreed to.

Engineer's Spine Fractured.

Brockville, Sept. 6.—A young locomotive engineer named J. McMahon lies in a local hospital badly cut up from injuries received in a railway wreck.

While running a train about ten miles out of Depot Harbor the engine jumped the track, and falling down an embankment carried McMahon and his fireman with it. McMahon was caught between the tender and the engine, sustaining a fracture of the spine.

French-Canadian Line.

London, Sept. 6.—Marseilles is anxious to have a line of steamers direct to Canada. A subvention awaits the firm enterprising enough to establish it.

Uric Acid Stones In the Kidneys

CAUSED EXCRUCIATING PAIN—CURE EFFECTED SIX YEARS AGO BY

The passing of stones or gravel, as the uric acid formation is called, from the kidneys through the ureters to the bladder probably produces the most terrible pain that human being was ever called upon to bear.

Mrs. Walter Hornbrook, Coddy's, Queen's county, N.B., writes:—

"I was a great sufferer from kidney disease, which the doctor described as the uric acid stones passing from the kidneys to the, bladder. I heard of similar cases being cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and sent for some. Altogether I used seven boxes and was completely cured. That was six years ago, and I have never had a pain in my kidneys since. We are never without Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house."

Mr. Daniel Brown, English River, Ont., writes:—"For three years I suffered with urinary troubles, partaking of the nature of stones in the bladder or gravel, and the pain which I endured can scarcely be described. I was unable to do any work, and frequently discharged blood. Though I spent hundreds of dollars in doctors' bills I received no relief, and at last decided that I would never be able to work again.

"While in this condition I was advised to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and though I had no faith in them or or in anything else, I decided to give them a fair trial. After using one box I felt a decided change for the better, and after taking five boxes I feel like a new man. I am entirely out of pain, and have no more discharge of blood. I can honestly recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to any fellow-sufferer, and will cheerfully verify this statement to anyone writing me."

There could scarcely be a more severe test of any treatment for the Kidneys and when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills prove successful in such cases as this they can surely be depended upon in less severe kidney ailments. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Former Smith Farmer Is Doing Well Near Moose Jaw

Mr. John Hart Has Returned From Western Trip and Reports That This Year Will See a Three-Quarter Yield

LABOURERS ARE SCARCE

Mr. John Hart, who returned on Monday evening from a five weeks' trip in the West, gives as his opinion regarding the harvest that if prevailing conditions continue favourable, this year's yield should, at least, be three-quarters of what is generally expected. He was as far west as Moosejaw, and the work of gathering the crops is in full swing, especially in the Saskatchewan district. Hail has done considerable damage in parts, as have other natural conditions, but there is no need for serious alarm, according to Mr. Hart, as the results will be fairly good.

The people in the West are not sure of their yield until they have it harvested. It is stated that even after it is cut the frost affects the grain, and it is only when they have finished threshing that they are certain of their yield. Mr. Hard said that he had heard that the bankers are withholding money, believing that the crops are going to be much below par, and it may be on account of this uncertainty of the crops that money is not abundant just now. If this be true, and a fairly good crop is harvested, the rumours about dull times in the West will surely not materialize.

Mr. Hart said that from what he had seen there should be a good three-quarter yield generally, though in some parts it is very small. In speaking of the West, Mr. Hart says that Mr. D. Campbell of Moosejaw, formerly of Smith, has a bumper crop this year, and has met with good success. He has 129 acres of wheat, which, if harvested without hail or frost, will at least yield on an average 35 bushels per acre. He has also 80 acres of barley and oats which should produce about 60 bushels to the acre. Mr. Copeland has 190 acres of fresh breaking, well cultivated and ready for wheat next year.

Labour Scarce

Mr. Hart says that farm help is very scarce in southern Manitoba, many of the men having gone farther west. The farmers could not get help, and were greatly handicapped in their work. The prices offered are $2.50 per day with board for harvesters, and $1.50 to $2. for men to do general work in the fields.

Mr. Hart is, like many others, who have gone to the Canadian land of promise, captivated by its opportunities. He believes that there are chances for bright young men that do not exist here.

Mr. Hart was accompanied west by Dr. Morrow, but the latter returned two weeks ago.

Lady Narrowly Averts A Serious Accident At Crossing

Mrs. Anderson Drove Into G. T. R. Train as It Crossed Hunter St. This Morning—Wheel of Vehicle Smashed—Occupant Uninjured

GATES ARE NEEDED THERE

Mrs. Anderson, an elderly lady, whose home is near Crawford's Grove, had a narrow escape from serious injury this morning about 10.30, while crossing the G.T.R. tracks on Hunter street. She was driving west with a horse and buggy, and saw a train which was shunting, pass north over the street. Thinking that it was going on, Mrs. Anderson started to drive over the tracks, but the train began to shunt back to cross the switch just south of Hunter street. The result was that the horse ran into the train, but was uninjured, as it veered to one side and dashed the vehicle against a car. A front wheel was smashed, and Mrs. Anderson was thrown to the ground. Fortunately, the lady was not injured, as the train was moving slowly and Mrs. Anderson was not driving very rapidly. She was badly shaken up and frightened as a result of the accident, but had recovered her usual composure in a short time.

This incident might have been averted had there been gates at the crossing, and it is remarkable that serious accidents have not occurred there. Eye-witnesses of the affair state that no blame could be attach to the railway men, but it was just a misunderstanding on the part of Mrs. Anderson.

CHARLOTTE STREET BRIDGE COMPLETED

Is Left Open To-day for Traffic—Some Painting Yet to be Done

The new bridge on Charlotte street was to-day thrown open to traffic, after being closed for about three weeks. The work with the exception of the painting of the railing on the south side, and some cleaning up, has now been completed and the traffic Charlotte street to-day resumed its former proportions. The street cars crossed again to-day after being excluded from their overland railroad for the past couple of days.

The bridge is apparently of a substantial character and will no doubt bare up at burdens that will be likely to cross.

MAKING REPAIRS AT THE POLICE STATION

Police Court Was Otherwise Idle This Morning

To-day was an off day at the police court, "Nothing doing" being the card that was hung out. The old building is resounding with the sound of hammer and saw, and the cells were empty to-day, except for several workmen who were engaged in making repairs in the dingy dungeons. It is the first time that the Chief had occasion to let a man in who was going to work.

OATS STOLEN FROM SMITH FARMER'S BARN

Mr. W. G. Preston is the Loser—Prepared for Next Raid

Farmers in Smith had better keep their barns locked in future. On Saturday night last Mr. W. G. Pearson's barn was entered and a considerable quantity of oats stolen by some party who, no doubt, was short on that particular kind of feed. Mr. Pearson will be prepared for the next midnight visitor.

Mr. Turner Receives Answer From London in Three Hours

Mr. J. J. Turner to-day pointed out to the Examiner the value and rapidity of the ocean cable. At 8.45 o'clock this morning he sent three cable messages to London, Eng., and at 11.45 he had received answers to two of the three. The other reply came shortly after dinner.

ENGLISH PRELATES FOR CANADA

This Country is Now Attracting Many Clergymen From the Old Land

ST. ALBAN'S BISHOP COMING

There seems to be a great development of interest in Canada among the episcopal heads of the Church of England in the home country. Several leading prelates are understood to be more or less seriously considering a visit to this country, but letters recently received by Montreal clergymen indicate that a trip which is being generally talked of in English clerical circles is an assured event for the visit to Montreal and Toronto, of the Right Rev. Edgar Jacob, D. D., Bishop of St. Alban's.

Dr. Jacob, who from 1896 to 1903 was Bishop of Newcastle, is one of the most prominent and broad-minded members of the episcopal bench. He is well known here as the author of several works on pastoral theology and as a prominent figure in the most successful mission work carried on in South London. He was for several years honorary chaplain to Queen Victoria.

The Bishop of St. Alban's comes of an old clerical family, his father having been archdeacon and Canon of Winchester, and his maternal grandfather another Canon of the same Cathedral.

Should Dr. Jacob's projected visit come to pass it will be somewhat more of a public affair even than that of the Bishop of London. He will undoubtedly spend a Sunday in Montreal and occupy the pulpit of the Cathedral, which is unfortunately not available for Mr. Ingram's visit owing to the work of repair, which is now in progress. It is hoped that the Cathedral will be ready for re-opening in about six weeks at the latest, while the Bishop of St. Alban's will probably arrive in Canada a month or more later.

Farewell To Mr. Burnham By Young Conservative Club

Presented With an Address and Gold Watch at a Largely Attended Meeting Last Night---The Guest's Reply and Eulogies By Others

The Young Conservative Club rooms were the scene of a pleasant function last night, when the members of the club formally said farewell to Mr. J. H. Burnham, president of the club since its institution, and presented him with an address and a handsome gold watch. There was a large number of men present, some being non-members of the club, and the general sentiment expressed was one of regret that Mr. Burnham was about to remove to Toronto, where he intends to reside in the future. Many remarks were made by gentlemen who were present, eulogizing Mr. Burnham's work in connection with the club and with the welfare of the city.

Programme

Mr. J. G. M. Wilson, vice-president of the club, acted as chairman. A musical programme of good quality was presented, to the pleasure of the gathering. Mr. Fred C. Freeland sang "The Friar of Orders Gray," with good effect, and responded with another bass number, entitled "The Diver." Mr. Frank Pratt pleased his hearers with two solos, rendered in his usual manner. They were "Goodwin Sands" and "Alone on the Raft." Mr. Wm. McLaren was heard in two humourous monologue songs, sung in his own good style. Mr. Croft made a hit in a monologue, in which a lawyer addresses a jury who are to pass verdict upon his client.

Presentation

At the conclusion of the musical entertainment, Mr. Wilson expressed his regret that Mr. Burnham was departing from the city, and paid a tribute to his unfailing services in behalf of the club. He called upon Mr. W. H. Moore to read the following address to Mr. Burnham:

J. Hampden Burnham, Esq., barrister, etc., President Peterborough Young Men's Conservative Club.

Sir,—The members of the Peterborough Young Men's Conservative Club have learned with unfeigned regret of your intended removal from the city, thus necessarily severing the extremely pleasant relations which have existed between them and you.

This club was brought into being very largely through your suggestion and instrumentality, and the success it has attained is justly attributed in large measure to your strenuous and untiring exertions in its behalf. As you know, this association was formed primarily to bring together for pleasant intercourse, healthy recreation and better acquaintance with one another, the young men in our city who were in sympathy with the great principles of Liberal-Conservatism, and so that by their united action to make these principles more effective. The objects held in view have thus been greatly advanced, but it was due almost entirely to you, and that naturally from the tastes for which you are distinguished, that a highly literary flavour was given to many of the meetings during the past winter, when the club's doors were thrown open to citizens generally and addresses on various public subjects alike entertaining and instructive were given by yourself and others. You have in all things laboured unceasingly on behalf of the club and in consequence it has prospered beyond expectation. The members, one and all, gratefully acknowledge the splendid work you have done. Nor do they overlook your constant diligence for many years in support of the great political party to which you and they are proud to be allied, and the eminent ability with which you publicly advocated the adoption of opinions that they are convinced make for the best interests of our beloved country; nor do they fail to remember the deep interest you have ever taken in various public affairs that concerned the welfare of the city of your birth, in relation to which your absence will be most keenly felt.

But since you are determined to change your habitation, we join in heartily wishing you every success in your new sphere of life, not doubting you will never forget your old home, and the many and active associations with which you have grown up and lived, in no manner selfishly, but with the generous and constant purpose of being a living factor for good among your fellow men.

In conclusion we pray you to permit us to enjoy the lively expectation that you will find it convenient to return, not infrequently, to aid in maintaining the good work in which we have been engaged, and to which we consider you should to some extent at least, still stand sponsor.

As a slight acknowledgement of our grateful feelings and good will, we beg your acceptance of the accompanying watch, which we trust will frequently remind you of your friends in the club which you served so well.

On behalf of the Peterborough Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Club,

JOHN G. M. WILSON, M. MOWRY,
Vice-President. Secretary.

Peterborough, 5th Sept., 1907.

Mr. Jas. Kendry then presented Mr. Burnham with a beautiful gold watch, also expressing his regret that the club was about to lose the services of its president, and the city one of its foremost citizens.

Mr. Burnham's Reply

In replying to the kind remarks that had been said of him, Mr. Burnham disclaimed the praise that he had received.

He did not deserve all the praise that he had heard. He had tried to help the club, and if in any way he had been of use, it had been a great pleasure to him. He had learned to esteem and love the members of the Young Men's Conservative Club, he said, for during the three years in which he had been associated with it, he had always found the men of the highest and most manly type. Men, such as these, said Mr. Burnham, are the foundation of a mighty people for they embody all that is noblest in manhood.

Other Speakers

After Mr. Burnham had spoken, short addresses were given by other gentlemen present.

Rev. Canon Davidson, who was present as a citizen, with no connection with the club, being called on, remarked that Mr. Burnham had been addressed as "Barrister, President, et cetera." The speaker was there present solely as a citizen of Peterborough, to do honour to a departing citizen and to direct attention to certain "et cetera" of his name which he thought far outweighed political services. Many years ago Mr. Burnham had been chiefly instrumental in founding the Board of Trade, and thereby made a valuable contribution to the commercial prosperity of Peterborough. Again, he had been the honoured founder of one of the city's most needed and splendid charities, the "Children's Aid Society," and if many neglected children were now in healthy and happy surroundings, it undoubtedly was largely owing to his enterprise and enthusiasm. Moreover, Mr. Burnham had earned distinction as a public-spirited citizen, boldly raising his protest against iniquities of all kinds, and demanding higher ideals and practices. He had been criticised and abused, as all such men are, but his influence would long be felt, and Peterborough could ill afford to lose a citizen, so bold, capable and public spirited. Lastly, Mr. Burnham had lived among us a refined, pure and honourable life, and in this direction had created perhaps his strongest and most valuable influence, vigorously opposing what was mean, dishonest and impure. Many of Peterborough's leading citizens were now absent from town, and civic and society life were still in a drowsy "holiday state" of inaction, which, unfortunately, prevented a more general testimony being given to the widely acknowledged worth of a striking and unique public character," and a distinguished citizen of Peterborough.

The applause which punctuated Mr. Davidson's remarks, showed the warm concurrence of the audience in the sentiments expressed.

Further remarks were made by Colonel Miller, Messrs. R. E. Layfield, G. B. VanBlaricom, Ald. Phelan and Mr. Peter Gardiner. The chairman read a letter from Rev. Dr. Langfeldt expressing his regret at not being able to attend the meeting.

The meeting was brought to a close by all uniting in three hearty cheers for Mr. Burnham.

FORMED A STONE-CUTTERS UNION

Mr. Wm. Taylor is President of New Organization

An important meeting was held last night at the residence of Mr. John O. Moss, 59 Aylmer street, when the stone-cutters of the city met and established a branch of the Journeymen Stone-Cutters' Union of North America. There has been no union hitherto among the stone-cutters of this district, and it is felt by the members of the craft in Peterborough that the organization will prove of much benefit to them. The new union starts out under most encouraging prospects, and with a membership of nine.

At the meeting last night, Mr. Wm. Taylor was elected president, and Mr. John O. Moss was appointed secretary-treasurer. The union will secure rooms for meeting places at once.

MANY ATTEND CARNIVAL AT ROLLER RINK

Delightful Time Spent With Masqueraders on Roller Skates

The masquerade carnival at the Charlotte street roller rink last night was an event of especial pleasure to the many who assembled there during the evening. In spite of the unpropitious character of the weather, almost a thousand were present, either to enjoy the skating or to witness the manoeuvres on the rink.

The floor was never in better condition for skating, and the costumes of the masqueraders were particularly interesting. The 57th Band was in attendance and supplied the music in their usual excellent style.

The judges of the costumes and races were Dr. Leach and Messrs. McDermid and J. G. Armstrong, who decided on the following winners:—

Ladies' Best Costume—Miss Maud Penrose.

Gentleman's Best Costume—Mr. M. Bennett.

Ladies' Best Comic Costume — Miss Nora Fitzgerald.

Gentleman's Best Comic Costume—Mr. Bert McWilliams.

Best Representation of Canada — Miss Myrtle Penrose.

DON'T PUT IT OFF LONGER

Get Rid of That Indigestion at Once by Using Mi-o-na

Many people in Peterborough are slowly poisoning themselves by chronic indigestion. Their neglect to cure sluggishness of the important organs of digestion fills the system with fermenting and decaying food, that results in sick headache, heartburn, bad taste in the mouth, and many other symptoms.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets are for special relief of such sufferers. They quickly cure the worst cases of indigestion and when used a few days the pain and distress often felt after meals will disappear.

Mi-o-na stomach tablets cost but 50 cents a box and do more good than a dozen boxes of the ordinary digestive tablets. Mr. Medill gives an absolute, unqualified guarantee to refund the money if Mi-o-na fails to cure.

Ill Temper From a Bad Liver

Carlyle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. Nothing makes one feel more gloomy and discouraged, than liver complaint and consequent biliousness and dyspepsia and nothing so promptly and thoroughly sets the liver right and overcomes these ailments as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the great family medicine.

RACE AGAINST TIME SAYS EVIDENCE

Excessive Speed Caused Wreck Say Witnesses at Inquest.

ENGINEER HODGE'S EVIDENCE

Track Repairer Saw Danger—Expected Train Would Leave Track—Brakes Were on at Time of Accident—Was Driver's Third Time Out—Funerals of Victims—Fourth Wreck at This Curve.

Toronto, Sept. 6.—Samuel Mossop, for 25 years employed on a bridge and track repair gang about the fatal Caledon "horseshoe curve," and who saw the ill-fated train leave the track at the time of the accident Tuesday, swore last night, before Coroner Johnson, that the train was going 35 miles an hour when it left the rails. He jumped the fence enclosing the right of-way, fearing that the train would leave the rails. He had seen many trains round this curve before, but had never entertained this fear.

The train left the rails before it reached him.

George Hodge, the 23-year-old engineer, who ran a passenger train for the third time in his life when he took out the packed special, declared that the speed of the train at the point of leaving the rails was between fifteen and twenty miles, and that the brakes were on.

He swore, however, that he had advanced a considerable distance along the curve and down the grade before he applied the brakes, but that he had shut off steam and advanced under the gained speed at the slow-board sign before the grade. He said that he was not over-worked, and had had plenty of sleep, although he had not been off duty the night before.

It is likely that the investigation opened here will be the only one at which evidence will be heard.

Crown Attorney W. H. MacFadden of Brampton, who is conducting the enquiry for the crown here by order of the Attorney-General, and who is acting at the Caledon inquest, said last night:

"The other inquest will likely be abandoned. It would be foolish to hear the witnesses twice, and they will all be heard here."

The first witness heard was Geo. A. Walker of the C. P. R. solicitor's department, who stated that he had the will of Richard Bell while on the train coming to Toronto.

Train Despatcher's Evidence.

W. H. Allison, the train despatcher of the railway at Toronto was an important witness. He was on duty at the time of the wreck, and said that the wrecked train was a special with a special schedule. The train started from Markdale, and was to stop for passengers between that point and Orangeville. He was not on duty when the train started, but it left at 7.35, an hour and 20 minutes late. It arrived at Caledon Station at 9.20 and left at 9.21 o'clock. The train had four coaches behind engine 555, leaving Markdale. These were all passenger coaches.

His first word of the accident was from the agent at Cardwell Junction, who wired at 10 o'clock that the train had been ditched at Caledon Mountain. He could not fix the exact time of the wreck definitely. It went the 45 miles between Markdale and Orangeville in an hour and 20 minutes without about five minutes off for stops. The regular took one hour and 38 minutes to run 37 miles, taking as much time off for stops. The despatcher said that the regular would take up more time in stops.

On the schedule the train was given two hours between Orangeville and Toronto, while the regular steamboat express makes the run in an hour and 20 minutes.

John Fairbairn, C. P. R. division engineer, identified a blue print of the curve. The maximum grade was 1.8, and at the scene was 1.6. The curve is the sharpest under his jurisdiction. He examined the track afterward and found it in good shape. He could only account for the accident by excessive speeding.

Engineer's Story.

George Hodge, the engineer on the ill-fated train, was next called. Mr. Robinette, his counsel, objected to the witness giving evidence. He also asked that Coroner Johnson should give him protection against criminal prosecution. It was ruled by Coroner Johnson) that the witness must answer all questions, but his answer to any question likely to criminate him to which he objected would not be used against him.

The witness went on to tell of his trip, beginning at the start from Markdale. He shut off steam about 250 yards before the slow board at grade. On the first curve he applied the brake, and felt it take hold about a quarter of a mile before the engine left the rails with seven pounds pressure on the air brakes.

He judged that the speed was sufficient to ensure safety. He was about to release the brake, having reached the toe of the horseshoe, but did not do so. He felt the engine jolt.

He thought that the engine was running 15 to 20 miles an hour on the curve.

He repeated his testimony as to precaution at this point. He was not trying to make up time, having left Caledon only one minute behind the time of his orders. These orders were filed by Mr. Robinette.

His conductor, he said, in answer to Mr. MacFadden, had not remonstrated with him as to the speed he was making on the next trip. The slowboard is the only order special for the horseshoe. This means "slow down," but the degree of speed is left to the engineer. It is the most dangerous curve on the road, and the grade makes it more so. Anything less than 25 miles an hour, the witness thought, would be a safe speed on the curve.

The witness did not know what caused the jolt which released the brake. He had been in a wreck before. When the jolt came the engine had not left the rail. He applied the emergency brake, because he felt the engine leaving the tracks. When he went back to the engine the throttle was slightly open, but the witness could not possibly have done this. The brake was on, but not quite to the emergency position.

The witness could not say what was the cause of the accident.

In answer to a juryman the witness said that 20 miles an hour would be his maximum speed between Caledon and the scene of accident.

The inquest adjourned to meet again Wednesday of next week.

Funerals of Victims.

The funerals of several victims of the wreck took place yesterday, amid scenes of general mourning. At Flesherton, the arrival of the body of Robert Carr was delayed owing to the remains of James Buller of Priceville having been placed in the wrong casket. It was not until the body of Robert Carr had reached Fleshertor that the mistake was made known to the railway authorities, and no time was lost in returning the body to Shelburne.

It is said that there is not a house between Markdale and Caledon but what has felt the effect directly or indirectly of the disaster. At every station between the two places a crowd of people awaited the arrival of some of those whom they had not seen since Tuesday, and there were many pathetic welcoming scenes.

William Whitehead of Shelburne is said to be in a serious condition.

A farmer who lives not far from the scene of the wreck stated that no less than four wrecks have occurred below this place in the past six months, nine of them serious. In one case, where several freight cars were derailed, the auxiliary itself left the track while hurrying to the scene.

Charles Bellamy, who is in the Western Hospital, says that for some time he was pinned down on top of the bodies of three of the killed.

Toronto, Sept. 6.—C. M. Gripton, president of the Grimsby Park Co., has received word from Colorado of the murder of his nephew, Charles R. Gripton, a young man recently married, and who had just graduated from the State Agricultral College.

Mr. Gripton was about to purchase a farm to work scientifically and was, in company with his wife, looking over a piece of land. He got out of the buggy to fix the top, when an unknown man appeared and shot him. Mrs. Gripton got her husband into a rig and took him to a farm house. He died next day.

Persons in the upper storeys were entirely cut off from the stairway, and at least seven or eight jumped from the windows before help could reach them. Ten are known to be dead, and one dying.

All but three were killed by jumping from windows.

Enthusiastic Meeting Of Rugby Men Last Night

Prospects for Season Are Very Bright---Another Meeting Will be Held Next Week for the Purpose Of Electing Officers

Judging by the interest displayed at the annual meeting of the Peterborough Rugby Club, held last night in the Oriental Hotel parlours, the game should boom in the city this autumn. The attendance was not large, but those present seemed very much interested in the game and anxious to work for the success of the team. The prospects for the season are very bright, and no difficulty should be experienced in putting a strong team in the field.

Mayor McWilliams, on motion, took the chair and called the meeting to order. The first business was the reading of the minutes of last year's meetings, which were passed as read. Secretary-Treasurer T. W. McDonough presented the financial statement of the season's operations. The report showed that the total amount taken in from all sources, including donations, gate receipts, etc., was $547.95, while the expenditure for railway fare and all other expenses was $576.10. This had been cleared by amounts from different sources, leaving the club practically even, with the exception of one small account to be paid. Mr. McDonough referred to the fact that the team had laboured under difficulties, inasmuch as the weather for some of the home games had been very bad and had interfered with the gates.

There was some discussion over what series the team should play in, but it was felt that nothing could be done along this line until it was seen what action the O R F U Executive intends to take in connection with the proposed new union comprising the Argos, Tigers, Rough Riders and Montreal. Mr. McWilliams expressed the opinion that such a union would be in the best interests of the game, inasmuch as it would mean that there would be only two series in the O R F U.

It was decided to postpone the election of officers for a week, and in the meantime a committee, consisting of Messrs. W F Crowley, T W McDonough, Eugene Hurtubise, Mayor McWilliams, J E Sullivan, E Ford, E S Clarry, A Quinlan and A A Hollingshead, was appointed to look up available material, and report at the next meeting, which will be held next Thursday night.

Mr. McWilliams was nominated as manager of the club by Mr. McDonough, who pointed out that he was qualified for the position by his long experience in the game. The Mayor, however, had to decline to accept the nomination.

A vote of thanks was passed to Messrs. Fred Whitcroft, A Poe and other gentlemen who assisted the team in various ways last season, and to the proprietors of the Oriental, for permission to use the hotel parlours as a meeting place.

THE FIRST PRACTICE OF SEASON

All Those Intending to Play Rugby Asked to Turn Out To-morrow

The first rugby practice of the season will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3.30 o'clock at Riverside Park and a general invitation is extended to any one wishing to play or learn the game to turn out to-morrow and at the succeeding practices of the club. Never in the history of the club has there been more chance for the younger players than this season. There will be vacancies on the senior line-up which will necessarily have to be filled from among the juniors, and the youngsters should get into the game with renewed interest with the prospect of getting a place on the senior team before them. Every one will be given a fair chance to try for a place on the team, and no favour will be shown, as the best men either senior or junior will be chosen. Every one who wants to play the game this season should be on hand to-morrow at Riverside Park.

WELL KNOWN LACROSSE AND HOCKEY PLAYER

Mr. E. E. Armstrong Takes Up Residence in Peterborough

Peterborough's athletic forces have been strengthened during the past few days by the arrival in the city of Mr. E. E. Armstrong, formerly of Port Arthur, who has accepted a position at the National Hotel. Mr. Armstrong is a hockey and lacrosse player of considerable prominence, and should prove a source of strength to the local teams.

RUGBY

BASEBALL

The Peterborough baseball team will leave for Port Hope on the 11.45 G.T.R. train to-morrow to play the second game in the Midland League finals. The team is in good shape and confident of reversing last week's score. There will be new faces on the Port Hope line-up, but with Flaherty in the box, the locals should hold the Hopers safe at every turn. There will be a monster crowd present at the game. There will only be a few rooters from here as the train connection is not very good and there is a prospect of having to spend Sunday in Port Hope.

* * * *

Fred Anderson, the big second-baseman of the Peterborough Baseball Club, arrived in the city last night to get some practice for the big game with Port Hope to-morrow.

HOCKEY

The Vancouver Province says:

Hoxie Beaudro, the speedy right wing of the famous Kenora Thistles hockey team, arrived in the city recently. Beaudro is one of the fastest skaters and best stick-handlers that ever donned a hockey garb. His speed is said to exceed even that of the great Tom Phillips.

Beaudro, during a conversation, stated that a strong effort would be made by the Kenora club to organize a team which would not only win the Stanley Cup, but hold it.

SAYS SACRILEGE WAS COMMITTED

Citizen States That Many Trampled on Graves Last Sunday

A local gentleman to-day called the attention of the Examiner to what he considered to be the committing of a sacrilege by many of the citizens of Peterborough who attended the military funeral last Sunday There were about 2,000 people, he said, inside the Little Lake Cemetery gates, and the greater number of them did not seem to realize that they were in the city of the dead. They trod over flowers and the graves of the long past dead in a most scandalous manner, he stated, there being only a few who realized that they were stepping on ground made sacred by the dust of the dead.

The military funeral was all right in his estimation, but he believed that the general public should hereafter excluded on such occasions from entering the cemetery.

COBOURG PRISONER ESCAPES

Great Excitement Was Caused — Chief Ruse Was Hurt in the Mixup

WAS RE-CAPTURED THOUGH

It would appear that prisoners take all kind of liberties with jail and police officials at Cobourg. Just the other week Norman Frame, who passed forged checks on John Curtis and J. B. White, escaped from the jail, and on Thursday morning another one created considerable excitement. This time it was Reginald Travers, the young man who passed the bogus check bearing the signature of Steven O. Taylor, on the Bank of Toronto. For this offence he was committed from here to Cobourg for trial and on the 1st day of May was sentenced to four months in the County Jail. His term expired on Thursday and as he was wanted in Cobalt and Ottawa on similar charges he was taken from the jail to the police court for a preliminary hearing. Chief Ruse was escorting him along when suddenly Travers gave him the foot, knocked him down, and then bolted for liberty. The Chief drew his billy and Travers thinking it was a revolver halted. The prisoner was placed in safe keeping and no doubt will get all that is coming to him before he gets beyond the clutches of the law. Chief Ruse had his knee severely injured and his trousers were ruined.

NEW UNION WOULD PROVE OF BENEFIT

Would Help Peterborough and Other Small Rugby Centres

Any person who wants to play rugby this season should communicate their intention to one of the committee which was appointed at last night's meeting, who are looking up new material and who will report next week.

There will be a meeting of the executive of the O.R.F.U. to-night in Toronto, when the proposal of forming a senior series composed of the Hamilton Tigers, the Toronto Argonauts, the Montreal team and the Ottawa Rough Riders, will be considered. Looking at it from down this way such a union would be decidedly beneficial to teams outside of the larger cities. At present towns like Peterborough have little chance to battle successfully with the big teams, but with the Tigers and Argos. out of the way, a good senior series could be formed with Peterborough, Toronto Victorias, London Dundas, Brockville and other clubs of that calibre, who would be evenly matched and put up a better argument than was the case last year when the Tigers were so far superior to the other teams that there was little interest in the race.

By all means let the new senior series be formed. Whatever effect it will have on the teams themselves it will certainly be of benefit to those clubs which they are deserting.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 6.—There was a disposition on the part of small holders to realize this morning, and prices eased off, but the offerings were so well absorbed that the decline was not only received, but an advance of 2 1-8c was scored. The position of wheat to-day is the strongest in years past. Europe will requite all our surplus and considerably more. New York reports 130 loads of wheat for export. There is a large short interest outstanding in wheat, and they will have to take their medicine pretty soon, for this market is going up where 105 will look very cheap for May wheat. Wheat continued strong until the finish.

Corn, in sympathy with wheat, sold off on profit-taking, and some short selling, but the reaction was short-lived.

Not only will the corn crop be lacking in quantity, but corn will sell much higher, and on any setback it is a safe purchase. Market closed unchanged, September and December, 3-8.

Oats have followed other grains There is little to say about this market. The biz operators can do as they choose with it. Our advice is to let it alone. Market closed 1-2 to 3-4 higher than last night.

The provision market seemed to be neglected. Fit traders and small packers did all the business. We feel very friendly to provisions, and advise purchases of the January product.

WOMEN CROSS CHARLOTTE STREET BRIDGE FIRST

Drove to Market Along New Sidewalk For Several Yards

The first vehicle to pass over the new Charlotte street bridge was driven by two women from the country who in spite of the barriers at either side, found an open space the other day.

They were driving towards the market from the west, when their horse suddenly came to a standstill in front of the barrier.

Nothing daunted the feminine driver turned her pony's head towards the gateway leading into the Snowden House yard, and again eastward. By driving along the cement sidewalk about 20 yards she reached the crossing leading out from the Machine Telephone office, turned out and continued her journey to the market unmolested.

Undoubtedly had the driver been a man he would have been stopped long before he crossed the bridge but the woman from the country was easily queen of the situation.

FARMERS NOW WANT $20 A TON FOR HAY

They Discover Its Scarcity and Price is Advanced

Farmers on the market to-day raised the price of hay another notch and asked $20 per ton for the new quality. Hay, as predicted some time ago in this paper, has soared in price in leaps, if not by bounds. It was only about two weeks ago that it sold at the local market for $12 and $14 per ton, and the advance has therefore been remarkable and beyond all precedents.

BRIDGENORTH BOYS ARE CAUGHT

They Attempt To Run Away But Are Found at Midnight in Peterborough

SENSATION AT THE VILLAGE

Bridgenorth village was recently stirred by a sensation in connection with the disappearance of two youths who attempted to run away from home. The young men who are but a few years short of the one score mark, were captured in a Peterborough hotel at midnight previous to the day of their departure for the outside world and taken back to their homes.

The youths were Harry Jopling and Lyman Ball. They left the village with Mr. Jno Heard, whom they paid $1.50 for bringing them to the city. Their story to him was that they intended going to the opera on that evening and in Peterborough they disappeared from his sight. Mr. Heard returned to Bridgenorth without the boys and a search party including members of the two families interested came to Peterborough. They arrived at the Cavanaugh House on Simcoe street after midnight and by loud knocking awakened some of the inmates.

The young men were found sleeping soundly in their beds, were captured and taken home.

It is stated that they intended taking the Port Hope train on the night they arrived in the city but were too late and tickets were found in their pockets ready for an early morning start for the western part of the Province.

WEDDING BELLS

SNOWDEN-THOMPSON

A very pretty wedding took place yesterday, when Miss E. Alice Thompson, youngest daughter of Mrs. Chas. Thompson, 337 Grosvenor avenue, was united in marriage to Mr. John Walter Snowden, son of Mr. James Snowden, Westmount. The ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Mr. Clark, of Melville Church, took place under a large white wedding bell, in the bay window of the drawing rom, which was prettily banked with asparagus, ferns and white astors. The bride, who entered the room on the arm of her brother, was gowned in ivory Duchess satin, with conventional veil and wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by two bridesmaids Miss Muriel Brodie and Miss Beatrice Fowler, who were gowned alike in palest pink radium silk, and carried shower bouquets of pink peas and asparagus fern. Little Miss Doris Anderson, who acted as flower girl, wore a frock of pale pink organdie, and carried a basket of pink sweet peas, which she scattered before the bride on entering. The groom was supported by Mr. William Cochrane, formerly of Peterborough. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold signet ring; to the bridesmaids he gave cut glass perfume bottles initialed in silver; to the flower girl a little pearl brooch, and to the best man a pearl tie pin. Shortly after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Snowdon left for a tour of some of the principal cities of the United States, and on their return will reside on Burton avenue, Westmount.—Montreal Herald.

CALDER-HAFNER

The marriage of Miss Catrie A. Hafner to John A Calder of this city occurred yesterday at 2.30 p.m., at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hafner, of Fifth street. Only a small family party was present. Rev. W E Cadmus performed the ceremony. The home was prettily decorated for the occasion, blossoms of golden glow imparting a touch of warmth to the bridal bower. The bride was handsomely attired in white. Following the ceremony, a simple wedding dinner was served, and the happy couple left for the groom's former home in Norwood, Canada. After the honeymoon they will return to this city, Mr. Calder being employed as master mechanic of the Dean Electric Works. The bride is a graduate of Elyria High School and has hosts of friends in this city.—Elyria, O., Telegram.

DAVIDSON-DAVIDSON

Havelock, Sept. 6.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Davidson, a short distance from Havelock, by the Rev. Mr. Balfour, of town, when their eldest daughter, Effie, was united in marriage to Mr. John Davidson, both being residents of town for some time past. The young couple were unattended. The bride was married in her travelling suit of light grey with pretty blouse to match and picture hat of white. After the ceremony the guests, being only the relatives of the contracting parties, assembled in the dining room, where a dainty repast awaited them. The young couple took the morning train for Toronto and other points west, and on returning will reside in town.

GHENT-SPURR

Examiner Special.

Havelock, Sept. 6.—At the residence of the bride's parents in Madoc, on Thursday afternoon, Miss Spurr was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. C .A. Ghent, of Havelock. Rev. Mr. Caplan, of St. John's church, Havelock, performed the ceremonies among only the immediate friends of the contracting parties. Mr. Ghent is well known in town, where he has made himself many friends, also the bride, who spent one season as milliner in our little town about two years ago, when she met the one of her choice. Mr. and Mrs. Ghent will arrive in town on Friday, and will reside on Matheson street for the present. Their many friends will wish them every joy and happiness in their wedded life.

MR. STUART RECEIVED GOOD ADVICE

But Paid No Heed and Was Stung the Very First Day

The exact precedents to Mr. Wm. Stuart's coming to Peterborough on Labour Day were learned to-day from his employer, for whom he has been working during the past summer. Mr. Stuart had determined to go east and made arrangements with his employer to leave. On Monday he was given a cheque for $100, and also had $10 in his pocket. On Monday he wanted to come to Peterborough to get the ready money, but was advised not to do so, but to leave his money with his employer, who would give it to him as he needed it. His employer thought that to might go on a spree, but Mr. Stuart wanted to bet $5 that he would keep sober. He is an excellent worker, and had not tasted strong drink this summer.

The result of his visit to Peterborough was a disaster to himself, and he is now, not as well off as he was at the beginning of the week. His employer read about Mr. Stuart's mishap, and came in to help him, if possible. He also wants to get another man, and said he would take Stuart back if he would go. It is learned that Mr. Stuart was touched for a roll of bills in Toronto last year, and apparently has no idea of the value of money.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was thought to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses of from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous membrane of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

How The Great Metropolis Of The West Treats Settlers

Immigration Hospital of Winnipeg Proves Source of Untold Benefit to Suffering Colonists—Progress of One Year Remarkable

FREE TREATMENT FOR SICK

Foreign Patients Are Looked After With Greatest Care—A Full Description of the Big Institution With Its Uses

(From Free Press.)

Perhaps nowhere in all Canada could be found an institution similar in its purposes to the Immigrant Hospital in Winnipeg. Although over a year in operation, its work and existence is known to few, though many have carried away memories of kindly treatment within its walls. If you walk along the pathway facing the many buildings devoted to the use of the Immigration Department you will see a flag staff beckoning in the east, and just beyond it, the last building of all, distinguished by a jutting balcony framed in glass. This hospital is in no way similar to the huge detention hospital in Quebec, or the others at St. John, Halifax, Montreal, etc. For these patients, either their own friends or the steamship companies which brought them over, must pay. In Winnipeg the treatment is free, for the hospital is but one of the many agencies of the Immigration

Department—that most paternal of organizations—which strives to help in every way, and at every stage, the man, woman or child coming out under its auspices.

Isolation Wards

Almost every colonist train will bring in to the C. P. R. station a worried, worn-out mother and a child or two ill with measles. On the journey up, the little one may have been taken ill and kept by itself as much as possible, perhaps in the smoking car. But when the immigration agent learns of the case he hurries the little sufferer to Dr. Corbett, in the immigration building, and soon mother and child find themselves in the quiet and seclusion of the third flat of the hospital. The cribs and the bed adjoining it are clean and inviting, and everywhere is the same neatness and convenience of arrangement apparent. There is a kitchen and a dining-room on this floor, and on the next as well, so accommodation for sixteen patients, but in some seasons of the year all the beds—twenty-two in number—are sure to be occupied.

There is no charge for treatment in this hospital. Seven days is the allotted time, but many patients stay longer. At times, minor operations are performed, such as removing a frozen finger, but all cases that are likely to prove severe are sent to the General Hospital, if that is found practicable. In the winter, many of the patients are brought in suffering from frozen feet, while the following list will give an idea of the maladies treated, for varying periods: Anaemia, epilepsy, bronchitis, whooping cough, scarlet fever, rheumatism, pneumonia, dislocated shoulder, mastoid abscess, frozen feet, synovitis, pleurisy, tubercular trouble, exhaustion, mental weakness, general debility, sore throat, tonsilitis. Sometimes just a day's treatment is needed, and, again, weeks go by, as in the case of a scarlet fever patient.

Gratitude of the Patients

The patients are very often foreigners. One trait very noticeable among the Ruthenians and Poles is their gratitude for any kindness shown them. Nurse Campbell gave an instance that she thought showed this most forcibly. A woman who was scrubbing in the hospital ran a sliver into her nail, so deep that it could not be taken out by the fingers, nor easily extricated at once. As she was in great pain, the nurse bent down and pulled it out with her teeth. As soon as it was removed the poor woman took the nurse's hand and kissed it over and over again, much to the latter's embarrassment.

Miss Struthers has been matron of the hospital since its opening a year ago, but as she was away on her holidays, I interviewed Miss Campbell, who took her place during this period. When there is need, an additional nurse is engaged for a short time. The work varies greatly, some months scarcely any patients being treated, while at other times every train has its quota for the hospital.

The men's sitting room is a pleasant one, with lounge, harmonium, etc., while on the tables there are periodicals, more of which would be welcomed. This room opens on to the sun verandah before mentioned. Downstairs the matron has a pretty sitting-room for her own use.

In the farther west, Cottage Hospitals are made use of when necessary, but the Immigration Hospital in Winnipeg has a place of its own, and fills admirably a very real need.

Housing of the Immigrants

In the immigration hall proper there is a room fitted up for the use of the doctor, who is a pretty busy man some days. Here, too, are four bedrooms, nicely appointed, for the use of the emigration agents, who must meet night trains. The watchman sees to it that they awake in time, if vigorous and constant ringing of their door bell can do it.

The housing of the immigrants is carried on under the direction of the matron, Mrs. Saunders, who is ably assisted by her daughter, Miss Edge. The latter was my cicerone as we explored every room that bore upon this housing problem. About 1,700 people can sleep in the three buildings, five hundred on one floor; but the rooms are "elastic," for in some cases besides the three double beds, a stretcher is put up and a mattress is put down. Pillows and blankets are lent when required.

The British, English-speaking foreigners, and Galicians have each separate quarters. They are kept very clean by the men employed for this purpose, and while of course there is no attempt made to do more than give comfortable lodging, that certainly is accorded. Those who complain, if any, are they who have not had as good a resting place in their own homes. In the semi-foreign quarters, the brighter rooms in the "mezzanine," or half-floor, are given over to the use of families, while single men take willingly enough the rooms on the dark side of the corridor. There are seven ranges in the building, and some days these are literally covered with pots and pans, the use of which is given by the department.

Temporary Home for Hundreds

In cases of necessity food is distributed, but as a rule the immigrants have sufficient money to tide them over the interval of waiting. Seven days' lodging is available free of charge, but in many instances, women with children have staid for a much longer period, when there was little money in the family exchequer and the husband and father had not secured work, or when the latter had gone out into the country to arrange for their coming. The officials are not anxious to have anyone linger when there is no reason why they should. Free lodging appeals to some, but they are quickly made to understand that loafers are not wanted. "These need a crowbar sometimes," Mr. Smith, the commissioner, said laughingly.

And this reminds me of the story told of the man who asked Mrs. Scott, of the nursing mission, for a pair of stockings, so that he might "shift his socks." Apparently a crowbar would not have come amiss in their prying off!

Woman's Work in the Kitchen

But most of the immigrants are self-respecting men and women, to whom the Immigration Hall is just

J. OBED SMITH,
Commissioner of Immigration.

the temporary resting place it is intended to be, and these the department gladly shelters. In the kitchen given over to the use of the Britishers, some of the newly arrived were cooking their dinner when we came upon the scene. The wood stoves are somewhat of a puzzle to those unused to them, and one woman had stuffed in a log much too big for the range, when Miss Edge entered and saved the situation. "One day I discovered a man who had built a fire in the oven!" she said. In the room adjoining, the dining room, several pretty, flaxen-haired little English girls, with soft voices and nice manners, were playing "Old Maid," to while away the tedium of the rainy day. Here the children are allowed to romp and enjoy themselves, playing tag, "horse," or any

A FEW WORDS IN CONFIDENCE.

King Palmetto Compound is a distinct product of the twentieth Century conditions. It is not a secret or patent nostrum, on the contrary the formula is plainly printed on the wrapper. It is the result of the modern investigations into the cause and cure of all disorders of the stomach, liver and kidneys.

Science has demonstrated that ninety per cent. of the diseases to which the body is subject have their origin in the retaining of waste and poisonous matter in the system, and that if the bowels and kidneys are properly performing their respective functions, all the other organs and the nerves will continue in a condition of rebounding health. King Palmetto Compound is a kidney and liver tonic and blood purifier of wonderful virtue, and the diseases which arise from impure blood and sluggish liver and kidneys are quickly cured by its use, as cystitis, catarrh of the bladder, nervous prostration, general debility and rheumatism.

One dose a day. Pleasant and convenient to take. It contains no dangerous poisons and no narcotics, but just pure vegetable remedies of universally acknowledged efficacy.

Price $1.00 a Bottle.

Sold and guaranteed by McDermid & Jury, druggists.

DOES THIS INTEREST YOU?

A prominent physician, famous for his success in the treatment of kidney and bladder diseases, attributes a great deal of his success to the following simple vegetable prescription:—

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;

One ounce Compound Saletone;

Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mix, shake well, and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

Your druggist can supply the ingredients, and the mixture can be prepared at home at very little expense.

This, the doctor says, acts directly on the kidneys, assisting them to filter the poisons from the blood and expel same in the urine, at the same time restoring the kidneys to healthy, normal action.

We feel that a great many readers will be pleased to learn of this simple prescription, and knowing the ability of the physician whose formula it is, we do not hesitate to recommend it to any sufferer.

A STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE

BY BERTHA RUNKLE.

With Lucas's own knife the grinning Jules slashed his doublet from throat to thigh to extract a folded paper the size of your palm. Vigo pondered the superscription slowly, not much at home with the work of a quill save those that winged arrows. M. Etienne, coming forward, with a sharp exclamation snatched the packet.

"How came you by my letter?"

"M. le Comte was pleased to consign it for delivery to Martin."

"What purpose had you with it?"

"Rest assured, dear monsieur, I had a purpose."

The questions were stormily vehement, the answers so gentle as to be fairly caressing. It was waste of time and dignity to parley with the scoundrel till one could back one's queries with the boot. But M. Etienne's passion knew no waiting. Thrusting the letter into his breast ere I, who had edged up to him, could catch a glimpse of its address, he cried upon Lucas:

'Speak! You were ready enough to jeer at me for a dupe. Tell me what you would do with your dupe. You dared not open the plot to me—you did me the honor to know I would not kill my father. Then why use me blindfold? An awkward game, Lucas."

Lucas disagreed as politely as if exchanging pleasantries in a salon.

"A dexterous game, M. le Comte. Your best friends deemed you guilty. What would your enemies have said?"

"Ah-h," breathed M. Etienne.

"It dawns on you, monsieur? You are marvellous thick-witted, yet surely you must perceive. We had a dozen fellows ready to swear that your hand killed monsieur."

"You would kill me for my father's murder?"

"Ma foi, no!" cried Lucas airily. "Never in the world! We should have let you live, in the knowledge that whenever you displeased us we could send you to the gallows."

M. le Comte, silent, stared at him with wild eyes, like one who looks into the open roof of hell. Lucas fell to laughing.

"What! hang you and let our cousin Valere succeed? Mon dieu, no! M. Valere is a man!"

With a blow the guardsman struck the words and the laughter from his lips. But I, who no more than Lucas knew how to hold my tongue, thought I saw a better way to punish this brazen knave. I cried out:

"You are the dupe, Lucas! Aye, and coward to boot, fleeing here from—nothing. I knew naught against you—you saw that. To slip out and warn Martin before Vigo got a chance at him—that was all you had to do. Yet you never thought of that, but rushed away here, leaving Martin to betray you. Had you stuck to your post you had been now on the road to St. Denis instead of the road to the Greve! Fool! fool! fool!"

He winced. He had not been ashamed to betray his benefactor, to bite the hand that fed him, to desert a wounded comrade; but he was ashamed to confront his own blunder. I had the satisfaction of pricking, not his conscience, for he had none, but his pride.

"I had to warn Grammont off," he retorted. "Could I believe St. Quentin such a lack-wit as to forgive these two because they were his kin? You did better than you knew when you shut the door on me. You tricked me, you marplot, you sneak! How came you into the coil?"

"By God's grace," M. le Comte answered. He laid a hand on my shoulder and leaned there heavily. Lucas, grinned.

"Ah, waxing pious, is he? The prodigal prepares to return."

M. Etienne's hand clinched on my shoulder. Vigo commanded a gag for Lucas, saying, with the only touch of anger I ever knew him to show:

"He shall hang when the king comes in. And now to horse, lads, and out of the quarter; we have wasted too much time palavering. King Henry is not in Paris yet. We shall do well not to rouse Belin, though we can make him trouble if he troubles us. Come, monsieur. Men, guard your prisoner. I misjudge if he is not dropful of the devil still."

He did not look it. His figure was drooping; his face purple and contorted for one of the troopers had crammed his scarf into the man's mouth, half strangling him. As he was led past us, with a sudden frantic effort fit to dislocate his jaw he disgorged the gag to cry out wildly:

"Oh, M. l'Ecuyer, have mercy! Have pity upon me! For Christ's sake, pity!"

His bravado had broken down at last. He tried to fling himself at Vigo's feet. The guards relaxed their hold to see him grovel.

That was what he had hoped for. In a flash he was out of their grasp, flying down the alley.

"To Vigo! Vigo is attacked," we heard him shout.

It was so quick we stood dumfounded. And then we dashed after, pell-mell, tumbling over one another in our stampede. In the alley we ran against three or four of the guard answering Lucas's cry. We lost precious seconds disentangling ourselves and shouting that it was a ruse and our prisoner escaped. When they comprehended we all rushed together out of the passage, emerging among frightened horses and a great press of excited men.

CHAPTER XII.

"Which way went he?"

"The man who just came out?"

"This way!"

"No, yonder!"

"Nay, I saw him not."

"A man with bound hands, you say?"

"Here!"

"Down that way!"

"A man in black, was he? Here he is!"

"Fool, no; he went that way!"

M. Etienne, Vigo, I and the guardsmen rushed hither and thither into the ever-thickening crowd, shouting after Lucas and exchanging rapid questions with every one we passed. But from the very first the search was hopeless. It was dark by this time and a mass of people blocked the street, surging this way and that, some eagerly joining in the chase, others, from ready sympathy with any rogue, doing their best to hinder and confuse us. There was no way to tell how he had gone. A needle in a haystack is easy compared with him who loses himself in a Paris crowd by night.

M. Etienne plunged into the first opening he saw, elbowing his way manfully. I followed in his wake, his tall bright head making as good an oriflamme as the king's plume at Ivry, but when at length we came out far down the street we had seen no trace of Lucas,

With a cry Monsieur sprang toward me. "You lie, you cur!"

"He is gone," said M. le Comte.

"Yes, monsieur. If it were day they might find him, but not now."

"No. Even Vigo will not find him. He is worsted for once. He has let slip the shrewdest knave in France. Well, he is gone," he repeated after a minute. "It cannot be mended by me. He is off, and so am I."

"Whith'r, monsieur?"

"That is my concern."

"But monsieur will see M. le Duc?"

He shook his head.

"But, monsieur"——

He broke in on me fiercely.

"Think you that I—I, smirched and sullied, reeking with plots of murder—am likely to betake myself to the noblest gentleman in France?"

"He will welcome M. le Comte."

"Nay; he believed me guilty."

"But, monsieur"——

"You may not say 'but' to me."

'Pardon, monsieur. Am I to tell Vigo monsieur is gone?"

"Yes, tell him." His lip quivered; he struggled hard for steadiness. "You will go to M. le Duc, Felix, and rise in his favor, for it was you saved his life. Then tell him this from me—that some day, when I have made me worthy to enter his presence then will I go to him and beg his forgiveness on my knees. And now farewell."

He slipped away into the darkness.

I stood hesitating for a moment. Then I followed my lord.

He slackened his pace as he heard footsteps overtake him, and where a beam of light shone out from an open door he wheeled about, thinking me a footpad.

"You, Felix?"

"Yes, monsieur; I go with M. le Comte."

"I have not permitted you."

"Then must I go in despite. Monsieur is wounded; I cannot leave him go unsquired."

"There are lackeys to hire. I bade you seek M. le Duc."

"Is not monsieur a thought unreasonable? I cannot be in two places at once. Monsieur can send a letter. The duke has Vigo and a household. I go with M. le Comte."

"Oh," he cried, "you are a faithful servant! We are ridden to death by our faithful servants, we St. Quentins. Myself, I prefer fleas!" He added, growing angrier, "Will you leave me?"

"No, monsieur," said I.

He glowered at me and I think he had some notion of chasing me away with his sword. But since his dignity could not so stoop he growled:

"Come, then, if you choose to come unasked and most unwelcome!"

With this he walked on a yard ahead of me, never turning his head nor saying a word, I following meekly, wondering whither, and devoutly hoping it might be to supper. Presently I observed that we were in a better quarter of the town, and before long we came to a broad, well-lighted inn, whence proceeded a merry chatter and rattle of dice. M. Etienne with accustomed feet turned into the court at the side, and seizing upon a drawer who was crossing from door to door despatched him for the landlord. Mine host came, fat and smiling, unworried by the hard times, greeted Yeux-gris with acclaim as "this dear M. le Comte." Pondered

"For the second time," I said, "monsieur saved my life." And I dropped on my knees beside the bed to kiss his hand. But he snatched it away from me and flung his arm around my neck and kissed my cheek.

"Felix," he cried, "but for you my hands would be red with my father's blood. You rescued him from death and me from worse. If I have any shreds of honor left 'tis you have saved them to me."

"Monsieur," I stammered, "I did naught. I am your servant till I die."

"You deserve a better master. What am I? Lucas's puppet! Lucas's fool!"

"Monsieur, it was not Lucas alone. It was a plot. You know what he said"

"Aye," he cried with bitter vehemence. "I shall remember for some time what he said. They would not kill me to make my cousin Valere duke! He was a man. But I—nom de Dieu, I was not worth the killing."

"It is the League's scheming, monsieur."

"Oh, that does not need the saying. Secretaries don't plot against dukedoms on their own account. Some high man is behind Lucas—I dare swear His Grace of Mayenne himself. It is no secret now where monsieur stands. Yet the king's party grows so strong and the mob so cheers monsieur the League dare not strike openly. So they put a spy in the house to choose time and way. And the spy would not stab, for he saw he could make me do his work for him. He saw I needed but a push to come to open breach with my father. He gave the push. Oh, he could make me pull his chestnuts from the fire well enough, burning my hands so that I could never strike a free blow again. I was to be their slave, their thrall forever!"

"Never that, monsieur; never that!"

"I am not so sure," he cried. "Had it not been for the advent of a stray boy from Picardie I trow Lucas would have put his purpose through. I was blindfolded; I saw nothing. I knew my cousin Gervais to be morose and cruel, yet I had done him no harm; I had always stood his friend. I thought him shamefully used; I let myself be turned out of my father's house to champion him. I had no more notion he was plotting my ruin than a child playing with his dolls. I was their doll, mordieu! their toy, their crazy fool on a chain. But life is not over yet. To-morrow I go to pledge my sword to Henry of Navarre."

"Monsieur, if he comes to the faith"

"Mordieu! faith is not all. Were he a pagan of the wilderness he were better than these Leaguers. He fights honestly and bravely and generously. He could have had the city before now save that he will not starve us. He looks the other way and the provision trains come in. But the Leaguers, with all their regiments, dare not openly strike down one man—one man who has come all alone into their country—they put a spy into his house to eat his bread and betray him; they stir up his own kin to slay him, that it may not be called the League's work. And they are most Catholic and noble gentlemen!

way, I am done with these pious plotters who would redden my hands with my father's blood and make me outcast and despised of all men. I have spent my playtime with the League; I will go work with Henry of Navarre!"

I caught his fire.

"By St. Quentin," I cried, "we will beat these Leaguers yet!"

He laughed, yet his eyes burned with determination.

"By St. Quentin, shall we! You and I, Felix, you and I alone will overturn the whole League! We will show them what we are made of. They think lightly of me. Why not? I never took part with my father. I lazed about in these gay Paris houses, bent on my pleasure, too shallow a fop even to take sides in the fight for a kingdom. What should they see in me but an empty-headed roysterer frittering away his life in follies? But they will find I am something more. Well, enter there!"

He dropped back among the pillows, striving to look careless, as Maitre Menard, the landlord, opened the door and stood shuffling on the threshold.

"Does M. le Comte sleep?" he asked me deferentially, though I think he could not but have heard M. Etienne's trading half-way down the passage.

"Not yet," I answered. "What is it?"

"Why, a man came with a billet for M. le Comte and insisted it be sent in. I told him monsieur was not to be disturbed; he had been wounded and was sleeping; I said it was not sense to wake him for a letter that would keep till morning. But he would have 'twas of instant import, and so"—

"Oh, he is not asleep," I declared, eagerly ushering the maitre in, my mind leaping to the conclusion, for no reason save my ardent wish, that Vigo had discovered our whereabouts.

"I dared not deny him further," added Maitre Menard. "He wore the liveries of M. de Mayenne."

"Of Mayenne," I echoed, thinking of what M. Etienne had said. "Pardieu, it may be Lucas himself!" And snatching up my master's sword I dashed out of the door and was in the cabaret in three steps.

The room contained some score of men, but I, peering about by the uncertain candle light, could find no one who in any wise resembled Lucas. A young gamester seated near the door, whom my sudden entrance had jostled, rose, demanding in the name of his outraged dignity to cross swords with me. On any other day I had deemed it impossible to say him nay, but now with a real vengeance, a quarrel a outrance on my hands, he seemed of no consequence at all. I brushed him aside as I demanded M. de Mayenne's man. They said he was gone. I ran out into the dark court and the darker street.

A tapster lounging in the courtyard had seen my man pass out, and he opined with much reason that I should not catch him. Yet I ran a hundred yards up street and a hundred yards down street, shouting on the name of Lucas, calling him coward and skulker, bidding him come forth and fight me. The whole neighborhood became aware that I wanted one Lucas to fight; lights twinkled in windows; men, women and children poured out of doors. But Lucas, if it were he, had for the second time vanished soft-footed into the night.

I returned with drooping tail to M. Etienne. He was alone, sitting up in bed awaiting me, his cheeks scarlet, his eyes blazing.

"He is gone," I panted. "I looked everywhere, but he was gone. Oh, if I caught Lucas"——

"You little fool!" he exclaimed. "This was not Lucas. Had you waited long enough to hear your name called I had told you. This is no errand of Lucas, but a very different matter."

He sat a moment thinking, still with that glitter of excitement in his eyes. The next instant he threw off the bedclothes and started to rise.

"Get my clothes, Felix. I must go to the Hotel de Lorraine."

But I flung myself upon him, pushing him back into bed and dragging the cover over him by main force.

"You can go nowhere, M. Etienne; it is madness. The surgeon said you must lie here for three days. You will get a fever in your wounds; you shall not go."

"Get off me, 'od rot you; you're smothering me," he gasped. Cautiously I relaxed my grip, still holding him down. He appealed: "Felix, I must go. So long as there is a spark of life left in me I have no choice but to go."

"Monsieur, you said you were done with the Leaguers—with M. de Mayenne."

"Aye, so I did," he cried. "But this—but this is Lorance."

Then at my look of mystification he suddenly opened his hand and tossed me the letter he had held close in his palm.

M. de Mar seems to consider himself of very little consequence, or of very great, since he is absent a whole month from the Hotel de Lorraine. Does he think he is not missed? Or is he so sure of his standing that he fears no supplanting? In either case, he is wrong. He is missed, but he will not be missed forever. He may, if he will be forgiven; or he may, if he will, be forgotten. If he would escape oblivion let him come to-night at the eleventh hour to lay his apologies at the feet of Lorance de Montluc.

"And she"——

"Is cousin and ward to the Duke of Mayenne. Yes, and my heart's desire."

"Monsieur"——

"Aye, you begin to see it now," he cried vehemently. "You see why I have stuck to Paris these three years, why I could not follow my father into exile. It was more than a handful of pistoles caused the breach with monsieur; more than a quarrel over Gervais de Grammont. That was the spark kindled the powder, but the train was laid."

"Then you, monsieur, were a Leaguer?"

"Nay, I was not!" he cried. "To my credit—or my shame, as you choose—I was not. I was neither one nor the other, neither fish nor flesh. My father thought me a Leaguer, but I was not. I was not disloyal, in deed at least, to the house that bore me. Monsieur reviled me for a skulker, a fainéant; nom de diable, he might have remembered his own three years of idleness."

"Monsieur held out for his religion"

BUSINESS TRAINING FREE

Business Systems Commercial School Limited, founded upon practical up-to-date business lines, formed from new scientific methods, to teach business as business is done, basing their instructions upon forms and supplies identical with those now used in the most modern business houses, has an idea regarding advertising.

To work out this idea they want your assistance, and are willing to pay you, yes, to pay you well for it. Is your brain fertile, is it active, is it in good working order? If so "get busy".

We want a good "catch phrase" to use in our advertising, we want the best "catch phrase" obtainable. We have some good ones, but they may not be the best. We want the best, the best is none to good for Business Systems Commercial School, "The Best for Business Training". We now have the best rooms, best equipment, the best teachers, the best plan of work, and will undoubtedly give by far the best courses of training. We also want to do the best advertising, that young people from all parts of the country will know of the special advantages provided for them by this school, "The Essence of Essential Education", "The Pith of Practical Principles".

We are prepared to give to three persons, six months, four months, and two months, respectively of this "best business training" free of any tuition charges. The three persons mentioned will be the first three who send us three best "catch phrases" or should the one selected as the best be sent by three persons, they will rank in order as received, first received will be given first place, second received, second place, and third received, third place. All other contestants who send in the phrase selected as the best and who subsequently enter our school for at least a three month's course, will be given one month as a bonus, free of tuition charges.

The conditions of the competition are easy of fulfillment.

All contestants must be candidates for a business training for at least a portion of the School Year of 1907-1908, or in other words, all persons competing must be elegible for, and purpose taking before June 1908, at least a one month's course in Day or Evening Classes in some Commercial School or Business College.

It costs nothing to try except a little brain exercise, and a few moments time writing to us. Talk it over with your friends, and those who are not competing, get their ideas with your own, remembering that two heads are better than one.

The shorter the phrase the better, as long as one or more good ideas are conveyed.

All answers must reach us not later than September 30th. If at a distance mail in time.

In order that you may the better know something of the special advantages of this school, and thus get ideas to use in the forming of the phrase, we will be pleased to mail all contestants upon request, a Booklet descriptive of our school and it's courses of study. Fall Term begins Tuesday, Sept. 3rd. Mention this paper when writing.

CLERGYMAN TELLS HOW KING LEOPOLD'S GOLD IS OBTAINED.

Natives In the Congo Lose Their Lives Gathering Rubber to Pay Tax—"Reform" Means Death — Negroes Set to Accomplish Impossible Tasks—Story of Terrible Atrocities —Women Implore Help.

The following letter has only just been received from the Rev. G. S. Jeffrey of the Congo Balolo mission, dated Ikau, Upper Congo, May 30:

"Perhaps you would like to hear how King Leopold's reform is being worked out, and of its effect on the poor natives. Inspecteur d'Etat Gerard arrived at Basankusu on April 7, and the day following he visited the mission. He said the purpose of his visit was to hear any complaint and receive any suggestion I wished to make for the bettering of the condition of the people. I thereupon took the opportunity to bring to his notice what the people called 'the double tax'—i.e., every Wednesday and Saturday the men had to supply one bundle of fish and the women two bundles of cooked manioca. He noted it, and said it would have his attention.

"This is how he 'improved' on it. Several days previous to his visit a state official with between forty and fifty armed soldiers went through all the villages, house by house, and took the names of all men, women, and boys. Everything was in readiness, and after his visit to us he called up these villages and served each individual male and female over 15 years of age with a printed tax sheet on which every Saturday when they take their 'imposition' it is entered against them.

An Impossible Task.

"Every male has to supply two large bundles of fish—note the 'improvement' (?)—per week, and every woman one bundle per fortnight. As the size of the bundles of fish had been increased, the people of the villages Etonjolo, Lolingo, Bongidima, Bokalo, and Bombeka refused to accept their tax papers, as this increase could not possibly be met in time. The result was that nearly all the inhabitants of these villages were thrown into prison, where they received some rough treatment at the hands of the soldiers.

"Having evidently reconsidered the matter, the inspector reduced the bundles to their former size. The people were brought out, and, each receiving his paper, returned home. Although the size and number of the bundles are the same as before, the work of the people is considerably increased, for lads who were able to help their fathers and relatives have now themselves to supply two bundles.

"The majority of them leave their homes Monday morning, travel long distances to their fishing camps, and return generally Friday afternoon, ready to take to the state the result of their week's toil.

"The same systematic taking of census has been carried out in the farther villages, which have to supply live antelope, palm oil, and rubber. Three weeks ago the entire eligible male population of Lisafa, with their wives, were marched to Basankusu, a distance of several miles, where they were put on board a state steamer and conveyed up the Lopori river to a village called Lifumba, on the Bontoku tributary. From there they were escorted by soldiers, in charge of a white officer, far into the country of the cannibal Ngombe tribe, with whom the Mongo people have ever been hostile. When near Likungu they were attacked by the Ngombe of that village, who said: 'Here are our old enemies; come, let us kill them.' They came with spears and knives, and but for the intervention of a Roman Catholic priest many would certainly have been killed.

Getting Leopold's "Gold."

"From there they were taken to a river called Bosolo, which, judging from their description of it, and the presence of the Catholics, must have been well through towards Bangala, on the main river. They were then scattered through the forest, and told they must get a certain amount of rubber. Soldiers stood at the roots of the trees while these poor creatures climbed for King Leopold's 'gold.' If they were unsuccessful or staid up the tree longer than the sentry thought necessary, the hippo chicotte was applied unsparingly, as well as the butt of the rifle. To add to their sufferings the soldiers stole what little food they had taken with them for their own sustenance. They were brought home again last Wednesday week, and awful are the tales which have daily since been poured into our ears.

"On Saturday four women come in from Lisafa to implore my help, but what can we do out here? Will not civilization move to liberate these people? Their husbands had to be carried home from the steamer in improvised hammocks of hunting net, and since Wednesday night of last week four have joined the ever increasing death roll. Four others, whose names I also have, are lying at death's door, due to exposure, hunger, and chicotte.

"One young man came in person to show us what he had to suffer. His buttocks, thighs, and loins were a mass of open sores and wales, while all up his back were marks caused by the butt of a rifle. The above mentioned women brought their deceased husbands' rubber in the original 'state' baskets to show us how much they had been able to procure in the three weeks they were in the Ngombe country. Two had one pound each, and the other two one and a quarter pounds and one and three-quarter pounds respectively.

"Bought with the life's blood of four men, what is the price of five pounds of (wet) rubber?

Worse Than Ever Before.

"Some little time previous to the inspector's arrival we had a visit from an important chief, whose name and village, judging from past experience, must not be mentioned for fear of bringing further trouble upon him. He and his people had that day brought in 100 baskets of rubber, for which they received 150 rods and twelve fathoms of the flimsiest cloth, to be divided between 100 men. It took them five days to reach the part of the forest where it was possible to find any rubber, and they are allowed thirty days to get it.

"The vines they are now working are as small as one's finger, and when cut only a few drops come from them. With this pressure and scarcity of rubber vines it takes three men to get sufficient for one, and when they return from the forest they are reduced in body and exhausted. To use the old chief's own words, 'It was hard before in the time of Bokukulu (Abir); it is much harder now. It is death to us.' I trust something will be done soon to alleviate these sufferings. Even as I write a messenger has just come in to tell me that the fifth man has died out in Lisafa."

In a further letter Mr. Jeffrey says:

"When Mrs. Jeffrey and Mr. McVie passed through the state post on Monday they saw one of our inquirers working in the chain gang, because he had got behind in his fish. Poor lad—he is but a boy—he smiled when he saw the missionaries, and when he spoke to them he was rebuked by the sentry. He replied, 'Can I not even speak to "my mother"?' Suffering with a heavy chain round his neck, fastened to several others, as if he were a desperate criminal, his crime—not sufficient fish! Will not civilization come to his aid? We pray God the world may be stirred to right this terrible wrong."

Too Impulsive.

A man who had figured in two street car accidents made an attempt after his second recovery to renew his accident insurance policy. The company refused to insure him again.

"We can't afford to," said the agent, "on account of your habits."

"My habits?" explained the man. "What's the matter with my habits? I don't drink or anything like that."

"No," said the agent, "perhaps not, but you do something just as bad from our standpoint. You are impulsive, you take unnecessary chances in crossing streets, and, what is worst of all, you get off a car backward. We know, for we have watched you. So far as this company is concerned, no more insurance can be issued to a man who habitually leaves the car crab fashion. The liability to accident is too great."

Bamboo Pole Pails.

The Moros, who live in the thatched houses built along the shore of a lake or river, have a curious way of conveying water from the lake or river to their Filipino kitchens. They use large bamboo sticks from which have been removed all the partitions characteristic of the bamboo, leaving only one at the bottom. The bamboo trunk is thus made to serve the purpose of a bucket. It is like a long narrow pail and holds several gallons of water, for the bamboo trunk is quite thick. The Moro women are the water carriers, as this is a part of the household duties which naturally fall to them. They grind the rice and other grain in a large hollowed out log, using a heavy pole to crush the kernels.

Clock Tower Replaces Famous Obelisk In St. George's Circus.

Southwark recently put on its gala dress to welcome London's Lord Mayor, who came in state to inaugurate the new clock tower in St. George's Circus, presented to the borough by Messrs. Faulkner. Because of the vast amount of traffic that passes the site, the greater portion of the ceremonies took place in the Passmore Edwards Library, a few yards distant in the Borough road, where a large company assembled. On the arrival of the Lord Mayor Mr. Attenborough, the deputy-mayor, and chairman of the Clock Tower committee, opened the proceedings by giving a short sketch of the inception of the new tower and the removal of the Obelisk.

The latter, he remarked, perpetuated an inaccuracy for years, and their new clock tower would do the same, for a tablet on it stated that it was erected when the late Mr. R. D. Hilton was mayor. Mr. W. B. Faulkner having requested the Lord Mayor to formally open the tower and present it to the mayor of Southwark, to be maintained by the Borough Council, the whole party proceeded to the new clock tower. The Lord Mayor, in setting the clock, unconsciously recorded another inaccuracy, for the bell struck twelve, when the actual time was ten minutes after that hour. After having removed the three Union Jacks that covered the bronze tablets that commemorated the removal of the Obelisk and the gift of the tower, and recorded the names of the civic officials of the borough, the Lord Mayor declared the tower open. He referred to his early life in Southwark, and remarked that Southwark and the metropolis generally owed a debt of gratitude to Messrs. Faulkner for their handsome gift. Mr. W. B. Faulkner, in acknowledging a vote of thanks, said they felt that Southwark, though so near the city, was too often treated like a poor child—as something to be shunned. He hoped others of their fellow-townsmen would take a pride in Southwark, and that the next memorial erected in the borough would be one to Shakespeare, who, at any rate, was once a resident.

She Said No.

Mrs. Mannerly to her daughter, who has just returned from tea with friends)—I hope you said "No, thank you," oftener than you did "Yes, thank you."

Mabel—Yes, I did. I hadn't been eating more'n half an hour before they began saying, "Don't you think you've eaten enough?" "Aren't you afraid you'll make yourself ill?" And I said "No, thank you," every time.

How to Roll an Umbrella.

"Why is it," asked an inquisitive customer in an umbrella shop, "that one can never roll up an umbrella as compactly and neatly as it is rolled when he buys it?"

"You can if you only know how," said the shopkeeper, "but if everybody knew how it would mean less business for us. The umbrella would last longer, and there would be much less work for the repairers. Perhaps I ought not to tell you how, but it's so simple you should know. If you have noticed, nearly everybody who rolls up an umbrella takes hold of it by the handle and keeps twisting the stick with one hand, while he folds and rolls with the other.

"Now, that's just where the mistake comes in. Instead of twisting with the handle he should take hold of it just above the points of the cover ribs. These points naturally lie evenly round the stick. Keep hold of these, pressing them tightly against the stick, and then roll up the cover. Holding the ribs prevents them from getting twisted out of place or bending out of shape. Then the silk will fold evenly and roll smoothly and tightly."

To Iron Lace.

Lace is never improved by ironing while it is wet, but if it is wanted quickly or the time for working is limited it should be placed right side down on a pad of flannel and covered with a piece of muslin to keep the iron from touching the lace. This will prevent the lace from having a shiny appearance and will also keep it from sticking to the iron, which very often tears it to tear.

A Plausible Inference.

"Miriam," said her mother, "have you ever given young Mr. Stapleford any reason to believe you cared for him enough to marry him?"

"He seems to think so," answered the daughter, "because I told him the other evening that he was sending me too many costly flowers and ought to begin to save his money."

PANDORA RANGE

A Strikingly Handsome Range

The owner of a Pandora is always proud of the impression this strikingly handsome range makes upon her neighbors.

The solid, compact appearance of the smoothly finished body, the bold, large pattern of the carving, and the brilliance of the heavy nickel coating, combine to produce an effect that is distinctly pleasing to the eye of the most critical observer.

The Pandora Castings undergo a "special process" to make them easily and quickly take a lustrous shine.

The Nickeling is done with extraordinary care—will not chip and crack like the nickeling on ordinary stoves, but will retain its smoothness and brightness for years.

Because of the absence of any fine, fancy carving, which catches and holds the dust, the Pandora is much more easy to polish and will remain clean longer.

A WATCH PROBLEM.

Telling the Time In the Dark With the Hands Removed.

Some time ago a poor old peasant who had invoked the king's wrath was seized by the king's soldiers and placed in a dungeon, says the Scientific American. His majesty was present and had the old man searched before being incarcerated. All his personal property consisted of a cheap watch, a small penknife, a shilling in cash and a lead pencil. The poor old man begged for mercy, but his pleadings availed him nothing, and he finally asked to be granted the privilege of knowing the length of his sentence. In reply the king took his knife and watch, which lay on the table, and, after taking the knife and prying the hands off the watch, returned to him his watch, saying, "When you have learned to tell the time correctly by this watch in your dungeon cell you will be liberated." The poor old man, knowing that the king meant a life sentence, staggered into his cell and wept bitterly. Nevertheless he was liberated in twenty-four hours, having accomplished the wonderful task of telling the correct time in the dark with a watch without hands. How did he do it?

A watch derives its power of motion from the recoil of the mainspring, and the recoil is governed by the balance and lever. For instance, if it takes twenty-four full turns of the stem to wind the watch and the watch runs twenty-four hours when fully wound, then for each turn of the stem it will run one hour.

A more simple method is to hold the stem firmly between the fingers and turn the watch around. In winding the watch to run for one hour the ratchet on the mainspring will click, say, thirty times, which proves that this watch runs two minutes for each click of the ratchet which is attached to the mainspring. We will suppose it was 12 o'clock noon when the watch was last wound up and you now wish to know the time. Beginning to wind it up, you count the clicks and find that before it is again wound up fully the ratchet clicks 130 times. By dividing this by thirty we get four and one-third, or four hours and twenty minutes, which added to 12 o'clock makes the hour 4:20 p. m.

While watches are not all exactly alike, the principle is the same, and it is simply a case of mental arithmetic in order to be able to tell the time. But you must always remember the time of the starting point or first winding and after that the time at the last winding.

Death In a New Guise.

In a little village on the Hungarian frontier not far from Presburg a peasant woman recently received 400 kronen ($85) from her husband in America. She promptly deposited it in the local branch of the postoffice savings bank and then the next day went to withdraw the whole amount. The bank official was somewhat surprised and asked for an explanation, when she said that Death had appeared to her during the night and threatened to take her away with him unless she had the 400 kronen ready for him the next night. The gendarmerie were communicated with, and when Death made his promised appearance he was found to be very much alive in the person of the local judge. The woman's money, adds our Vienna correspondent who sends the story, is still in the bank, and the judge is in jail.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Denmark Original of Thule?

Was Denmark the original Thule, the world's end land of the ancients, beyond which lay only the Sluggish sea? Pytheas of Massilia, who was about contemporary with Alexander the Great, is believed by some to have referred to what we now know as Jutland by this name; but, as there is nothing to show that Pytheas had visited Thule himself, he was probably rather vague about it. Since he seems to have represented it as a land of the midnight sun, others have identified it as Iceland or even Greenland, and the Thule of the Irish monks of the ninth century A. D. was certainly Iceland. But the Thule of Tacitus, which lay near the Orkney islands, must have been part of the Shetlands.—London Chronicle.

Comparatively Lucky.

A young woman settlement worker who is well known in Boston's social circles observed that one of her proteges had a black eye, and, guessing its source, she wished to be sympathetic and said kindly, after speaking of the woman's eye: "Never mind, Mrs. Mc—, everything will be all right. Your troubles might be worse."

"Sure it might be worse," answered the woman philosophically, "I might be like yourself, Miss, with no husband at all."

Foolish to Quit.

"Why don't you buy it?" asked her husband, who had consented to go shopping with her. "You say it is just what you want, and the price seems to be reasonable, so why waste time looking further?"

"Gracious, George, how foolish you talk! I'm not half tired out yet."

Couldn't.

"Tell me the old, old story," she said.

"I can't," he replied. "I have made a vow never to repeat a mother-in-law joke."

A REWARD OF FAITH.

The Story of a Church Twice Struck by Lightning.

A congregation in a hilly district in Ohio, says the Youth's Companion, bought a small tract of land and erected a church building upon it. Then the question of insurance came up. Mr. Sipes, the wealthiest member, who had contributed more than half the money needed for the new structure, declared that he did not believe in insurance. "This is the Lord's building. He'll take care of it," he said.

His view prevailed, and there was no insurance. In a few weeks the building was struck by lightning and almost totally consumed by fire. Another one was erected, Mr. Sipes contributing the greater portion of the fund as before. This time the demand was almost unanimous that it be insured, but Mr. Sipes again objected on the same ground.

"If it burn down again, brethren," he said, "I'll agree to rebuild it myself."

Again he carried his point. In less than a month the new church was struck by lightning again, and although strenuous efforts were made to save it, the loss was almost total.

"There must be some reason for this, brethren," said Brother Sipes. "I am going to find out what it is."

Thereupon he employed a force of men to sink a shaft on the site of the twice destroyed church. Within a few days a rich vein of ore was found, and the church property was sold for many times the amount needed to buy land in another locality and build again.

"I tell you, brethren," said Brother Sipes, "it pays to trust the Lord. He's a great deal better business manager than anybody in this congregation."

Saved the Situation.

An example of Lord Cromer's presence of mind is related by M.A.P. as having occurred at a dinner party given in honor of a great Mohammedan prince at which he, as Mr. Evelyn Baring, was present. As the world knows, anything to do with a pig is tabooed by all faithful followers of the Prophet, and the chef had been specially warned not to allow any pork or bacon to appear on the table. All went well for some time, until all at once there came an odor which was suspiciously like fried ham. Looking up, Mr. Baring beheld a servant carrying a dish with some of the forbidden animal upon it, and to the surprise of all present he jumped up from his seat and bundled the astonished offender out of the room, dish and all. The situation was saved, and the distinguished Mohammedan finished his repast in happy ignorance of the indignity he had so narrowly escaped.

The Sign of Value

People instinctively give attention and preference to the man who displays good taste and judgment in his dress. The quality of the man, real and yet indefinable, stands out from the back-ground, and enforces the advantage of good form.

Semi-ready clothes are designed by men of artistic taste, and are tailored from fabrics chosen by men of cultured experience from the British makers of fine woollens.

Send to-day for the authoritative book on men's fashions, "As Seen by Him." If you cannot call, tell us what you want and we will show you how you can get it from the book.

The price on a Semi-ready Suit—whether it be $18, $20 or $25—is as fixed a sign of value as the numerals on a government money bill.

SAVES LITTLE LIVES

Most liquid medicines advertised to cure stomach and bowel troubles and summer complaints contain opiates, and are dangerous. When the mother gives Baby's Own Tablets to her little one she has the guarantee of a government that this medicine does not contain one particle of opiate or narcotic. Therefore she can feel that her little ones are safe. There is no other medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets in preventing summer complaints or curing them if they come on suddenly. Keep a box of Tablets always at hand—they may save your child's life. Mrs. C. E. Hancock, Raymond, Alta., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for summer complaints, constipation and sleeplessness, and always with the best results." Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PIGEONS DON'T LIKE SOUND OF THE BELL

By Dropping Sticks in Works They Stop the Clock

Peru, Ind., Sept. 6.—Pigeons that have been eating away the sandstone pillars of the Kosciusko County court house, have "turned another stunt" that is worrying the county commissioners.

The bell connected with the clock in the top of the court house has not sounded for more than a month, and Clark Hatfield, custodian of the building, says that the birds have shown a dislike for the sound of the bell and have time after time dropped various small articles into the works in such a way as to obstruct the wheels.

The local jeweller, who is employed to look after the clock and bell, has made several trips up the long stairway and ladders leading to the clock to remedy the trouble, but the birds apparently know the reason for his coming and immediately set about carrying sticks, grass an feathers to the works.

MAKES CORPSE PAY ITS OWN BURIAL EXPENSES

Relatives of Murderer Refuse to Settle Body is Exhibited

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 6. — The skeleton of Wm. Ludwick, who shot and killed his sweetheart and then committed suicide in Des Moines on July 4, 1899, has been placed on exhibition at the State Fair, and Des Moines people are paying 25 cents apiece for the privilege of viewing it.

Ludwick's relatives refused to pay the funeral expenses, and the body was left on the undertaker's hands. Now it is being exhibited in a museum, and the police threaten to break up the show on the ground that it is immoral.

ENGLAND

Bow street, London, has lost "the man with the memory." After a quarter of a century of service, Assistant-gaoler Soper has retired on a pension, and his place in the court is filled by another. Soper was the guide and friend of juveniles and the man whose memory the old offender feared even more than the records in the book at the officer's elbow. "Do you know this man?" the magistrate asked recently. "Yes, sir," replied Soper promptly, and without looking at the book he gave the actual date and offence of the man who had not been at the court for four or five years. The book seemed indeed unnecessary while Soper himself was present. More than one magistrate had expressed himself amazed at the accuracy of Soper's recollection. Soper not only never forgot a face, he had a faculty of remembering its associations. No officer has perhaps had a more remarkable collection of celebrated criminals through his hands than the "Memory-man." The railed enclosure of which Soper was custodian, held, for instance, Gallagher, Wilson, Curtin and Whitehead, the desperate dynamitards, who plotted to overthrow the Tower of London and the government buildings in 1884.

On a lonely road half a mile beyond the village of New Inn, Carmarthenshire, recently, a man ran furiously, bolowing a whistle. He was followed by a woman in a carriage frantically waving a paper. A few hundred yards further on, beneath the shade of a tree, sat General Booth in his motor-car. The Salvationist chief had been scheduled to speak at the village, but had driven through without recognizing it. The paper which the woman waved was the address of welcome. The man with the whistle was the village schoolmaster, who explained to the perplexed General that the village had been waiting for him for hours. The school children were all out with flags, the village choir wanted to sing, and all were ready to give the General a royal welcome. "We have not time to go back," replied General Booth, "but if you will bring the village up here I will speak from beneath this tree." Another blast on the schoolmaster's whistle brought the entire population to the spot, and the speaking proceeded.

At Feltham recently a man named Richard Townley was brought before the magistrates and fined for literally setting the Thames on fire. A new by-law regarding motor launches on the Thames is to the effect that whilst a motor-boat is waiting to enter a lock or is in a lock the can containing the petrol must not be opened or manipulated. The case against Townley was that he, whilst waiting for his craft at Molesey Lock, opened a two-gallon can of petrol for the purpose of replenishing his tank. The operation was carried on near some launch lamps and the vapor of the petrol burst into flames. Then Townley did a foolish thing. He threw the can of petrol into the river and the burning spirit, spreading over a considerable area, floated on the surface of the river to the menace of other boats which happened to be near.

A remarkable defence was made at the Bury Police Court recently by Pietro Mulber (45), general dealer, who was remanded on a charge of kicking Harrison Simpson and breaking his leg. Mulber's statement to the magistrate was that he and another man had made a bet that Mulber was to eat two dozen boiled eggs in a given time, the wager being 5s each. Mulber got the eggs and his wife cooked them. He was sitting outside his house eating the eggs, and had quite comfortably eaten ten of them when someone jumped on the others and smashed them, making him lose the bet. Mulber jumped up and ran after the man. He did not know who jumped on the eggs, but he saw Simpson running away. He ran after Simpson, who fell down and broke his leg.

A dramatic story of a soldier's dive through a hospital window was told at an inquest held at Hackney, London, recently, on the body of John Walker, aged 32, who went through the South African war from beginning to end. Walker was admitted to the Metropolitan Hospital, in Kingsland road, suffering from lung trouble. He remained in the medical ward until the night of the above occurrence, when, without giving the slightest sign of his intention, he placed his hands above his head, like a man about to dive and hurled himself through the large closed window. Such was the force with which he fell that he carried the entire lower sash with him, and man, woodwork, and glass went crashing down to the ground, three storeys below, a distance of fifty feet. Walker fractured his skull and spine.

SCOTLAND

One morning recently a tourist who was staying on the west coast of Invernessshire left his lodgings with the intention of climbing in the vicinity. He had been walking for some hours when suddenly the mist came rolling down and hid everything in its clammy folds. Alarmed, he began to retrace his steps but in the darkness lost his way and wandered for miles over the hillside. Being very tired, he at length sat down and while resting was mystified to see the figure of a man rise out of the ground and disappear in the mist. The uncanny occurence terrified him. Summoning up all his courage he approached the place from which the figure had risen. He was astonished to see a hole in the ground and on making his way down, found himself in a chamber which had been dug out of the bank. A man was bending over a copper pot, which stood upon a peat fire, and the tourist at once realized that he had discovered a smuggler's plant. The owner was far from pleased to see a stranger, and he was a good deal relieved to learn that his visitor was not an excise officer. After being hospitably entertained, the tourist was conducted back to the road.

An interesting point was raised for the defence in a motor car prosecution heard before Sheriff MacLeod, in Haddington Sheriff Court, recently, when Daniel Stewart, motor car driver, Kilkintilloch, pleaded not guilty to driving at seventeen miles an hour at Westbarnes, near Dunbar, where there is a ten-miles-an-hour restricted area. After the police had given particulars as to timing the car, Mr. Robert White, solicitor and town clerk, Dunbar, who represented the accused, went into the witness box and deposed that one-half the road for a distance of 88 1-2 yards included in the 400 yards over which the car was timed, was within the boundary of the burgh of Dunbar. There was no speed limit within the burgh. Mr. White explained that the town council had wanted a limit imposed, but had been put off by the Secretary of Scotland. Therefore, he contended that a speed up to twenty miles an hour was legal. His Lordship said it was a point requiring careful consideration, and postponed judgment. The same point was also made in the case of a Coventry driver named James Lowe, and judgment was delayed.

A curious incident was reported at Alexandria, Dumbarton county, recently. While two men were taking a row across Loch Lomond from Tarbet to Rowardennan, they landed near the foot of Ben Lomond, when they discovered a little boy, about ten years of age, lying on the shore in an exhausted condition. They applied restoratives and he revived a little. On being questioned as to how he came to be in such an isolated spot, it was found that the lad could not speak English, so they put him in their boat and conveyed him with all speed to Tarbet Hotel, where the lad had his wants supplied. He thus explained in German that he had ascended Ben Lomond with his friends a couple of days previously, but had lost sight of them, and had wandered to the place where he was found. It was found that his friends had gone on to Oban, and he was duly forwarded there. The little fellow stated that he belonged to Berlin, and was touring with his friends.

Seven policemen carried John Forrest to the dock at Preston Police Court recently, to answer a charge of being drunk and disorderly. For an hour previously he had been shrieking "Murder! Detectives! Police!" and moaning in a blood-curdling fashion so vigourously as to interrupt the business of the court. In the dock three constables held him. He was raving like a madman and saying, "I want to die. I've got something on my mind." The police stated that he was only shamming, and he carried on this sort of conduct in the street to gain sympathy. He had 13 convictions against him. The Bench ordered him to find securities to keep the peace or go to prison for six months. Owing to his shrieks he could not hear the decision until Warrant-Sergeant Simpson shouted in his ear "Six months." The Court was convulsed with laughter as the prisoner immediately ceased his raving and was taken to the cells.

IRELAND

An uproarious scene took place at a Sinn Fein meeting in Monaghan, recently, held with a view to establishing a branch of that organization there. Mr. Seagan MacDermott, organizer, and Mr. Bulmer Hobson addressed the meeting. The former spoke without interruption, and said that allegiance to the British King meant that the Irish people were satisfied with the present system of government. Mr. Hobson followed in a fiery speech, in which he said they proposed taking the Irish members from Parliament, and when they worked in Ireland they would be backed by the whole people, who would destroy every vestige of English rule in the land by refusing to recognize it, and refuse to allow Irish youths to join the Army, police and Navy, refuse to pay taxes or recognise British institutions and their officers; in short, would make British rule impossible. Such a policy would succeed in the future, and bring British Ministers to their knees. The old Fenian movement largely brought about many reforms in the land, especially the Land Act of 1881. The speaker was repeatedly interrupted, and asked how his movement was to be brought about. There were cheers and counter-cheers and shouts for the interruptors to be thrown out. Several were speaking at the same time, and many uncomplimentary epithets were uttered. No order could be restored for a time. Mr Hobson proceeded to his speech. He referred to the fact that they would fill the jails if coercion were used, but there would be others to continue the fight.

A distressing bathing fatality occurred at Courtown Harbour, Co. Wicklow, recently, when a man named Thomas Myler, a native of Arklow, aged 40 years, lost his life. Deceased, who was a powerful swimmer, whilst bathing swam about a quarter of a mile to sea. On returning to the strand, he was noticed to falter, and fall forward in about three feet of water. Some onlookers thought he had dived, but as his body remained motionless with the face downwards in the water, it was thought something had gone wrong. Investigation proved that Myler had become exhausted, and was lying unconscious in the water. The body was brought ashore, but all attempts to revive animation failed. Myler was a man with a romantic and historic career. Being in America previous to the outbreak of the Spanish-American War, he joined the navy and immediately went into active service. He was present at most of the naval engagements in that struggle, and crowned a highly adventurous career in the rush of the American sailors from the battleship after the fall of Santiago de Cuba, to plant the Stars and Stripes on that hard-won citadel. Myler proved the swiftest man in the party, and it was he who hoisted th eflag. In doing so he received a serious wound, being rendered a complete invalid. For his services h erceived a pension of $300 a year for life.

A holiday tragedy took place in the presence of a large crowd recently, at Raheny station on the Great Northern of Ireland Railway. The 9 p.m. train from Howth to Dublin, carrying a large number of holiday-makers, was entering the station, when a man named Martin Roche, who had booked to Raheny, foolishly leaped out of the carriage on to the platform while the train was still in motion. His coat, it appears, caught on the handle of the door and he was jerked from his feet, and to the horror of the many onlookers on the platform was thrown between the buffers of two of the moving carriages. The train was stopped as soon as possible, and efforts were made to extricate the unfortunate man from underneath the carriages, several of which passed over him. He was found to be horribly mutilated about the lower part of the body, his legs were practically severed, and he survived only a few minutes.

In the Land Judges Circuit Court, recently, six men were sentenced to three months' imprisonment for contempt of Court in interfering with the Receiver in th earrangement of an estate at Shrah, Co. Roscommon, by driving sheep off the lands. In the course of his remarks Mr. Justice Ross expressed regret that the question of cattle driving was being made a party battleground. He suggested there was a very easy way of ending cattle driving by the Estates Commissioners resolving not to advance money for the purchase of land in places where intimidation was practised. The Commissioners were the servants of the executive, and found to obey the executive. It was unthinkable that public money should be used for the purpose of, what was really furthering a conspiracy against property.

Can't Eat Enough of

Appetite comes with eating and each square of crisp deliciousness seems but to make room for more.

Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas

are different from any other cracker. Nothing heavy or doughy about them but so light and crisp that they are transparent. Mooney's biscuits will be a regular dish on your table if you will try them.

Say "Mooney's" to your grocer.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W. 61, Windsor, Ont., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child; the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night. 6

BITES OFF TONGUE: DOCTOR SEWS IT ON

Is Kicked in Mouth by Horse But Will be Able to Talk Again

Eldora, Ia., Sept. 6.—An inch of his tongue, which he bit off when he was kicked in the mouth by a horse, has been sewed on successfully, and Robert Hammond, a five-year old Correctionville lad, will again be able to articulate well and, perhaps, perfectly, according to the surgeon.

Robert had seen his father whip the horse to make him kick, and thought it would be fun to do it himself. The horse responded to the lash, but the child, being too close, was hurled unconscious twenty feet away. Two ribs were broken by one hoof, while the horse's other hoof struck the lad in the mouth, fracturing the jaw and cutting off an inch of the boy's tongue. The severed part hung by a thread, and the parents did not know whether to cut it loose or wait for a physician. They left it, and the doctor has succeeded in saving the tongue.

Popular Cure For Croup

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for croup, will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success. It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages and soothing the excited nerves. Many mothers who realise the suddenness with which croup comes on keep this great medicine constantly on hand for use in case of emergency.

HAPPY WOMEN PRAISE PE-RU-NA

It Is Works, Not Words, That Has Made Pe-ru-na Famous Throughout the Land.

The miss and the matron alike praise Peruna. Girls and women have all discovered the value of Peruna. The Miss and Mrs. have been ill, each in her own peculiar way, and have found relief by taking Peruna.

Fair girls and beautiful women, frail daughters and ailing mothers everywhere have taken Peruna and know its value in the relief of ailments peculiar to their sex. From the grandmother to the girl babe the gentler sex are under numerous obligations to Peruna.

All this being true and the woman does not hesitate to tell it, her words win the confidence of other women, and thus the fame of Peruna spreads from household to household, until millions of homes acknowledge Peruna as their favorite and reliable family medicine.

Peruna is good for many minor ills. It can be relied upon to mitigate the many disagreeable effects of colds and irregularities so common among women. All the ailments of a catarrhal nature belong within the scope of Peruna's remedial action.

Mrs. Sophia Caldwell, 1128 McGavock street, Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"After doctoring for a year and finding no relief from leucorrhea resulting from prolapsus uteri, and which was sapping my life forces away, I finally tried Peruna and when I found that it was helping me every day it seemed almost too good to be true.

"But, it not only helped me, it cured me and in a very short time. I am now enjoying the best of health. I am strong and free from pain, and I certainly feel that all praise and honor are due to Peruna."

Miss Annie Hendren, Rocklyn, Wash., writes:

"I feel better than I have for over four years. I have taken several bottles of Peruna and one bottle of Manalin. I can now do all of my work in the house, milk the cows, take care of the milk, and so forth.

"I think Peruna is the most wonderful medicine. I believe I would be in bed to-day if I had not written to you for advice. I had taken all kinds of medicine, but none did me any good. Peruna has made me a well and happy girl. I can never say too much for Peruna."

"I suffered with female troubles for thirteen years, and tried the best doctors in Louisville, Ky., without relief. I spent thousands of dollars at the Springs. The doctors desired that I have an operation performed to remove my ovaries, which I would not consent to. I saw an advertisement of your Peruna and bought one bottle, and before I had taken it all I could get out of bed and walk about. After taking three bottles I was as well and hearty as ever. I gained in flesh from one hundred and eighteen to one hundred and eighty-six pounds. If it had not been for your great and wonderful medicine I would now be in mygrave. I would advise all women sufferers to try it. I would not be without it for the world."—Anna Munden, Hollygrove, Ark.

"I was troubled with very serious pelvic weakness, which exhausted me so that I feared I would lose my mind. I suffered agony with my back, the pain extending down my left leg. The pain was so severe that I would have welcomed death as a relief. Peruna cured me of this trouble,—no wonder I recommend it so highly. It will soon be two years since I found relief from the pain and not a sign of it has returned. I am glad that there is a way in which I can speak of this, as many a sufferer may read my testimonial, and not only read, but believe."—Mrs. Wm. Henderson, Craik, N. W. T., Can.

"I feel it my duty to write and tell you of the good Peruna has done me. I was subject to female weakness. For six years I suffered more or less. We consulted various doctors, who gave me relief, but no cure. I have suffered a great deal, and my husband had very large bills to pay.

"In my despair I decided to try Peruna, and the first bottle taken according to your directions gave me relief. I have had no backset since then. Since we have used Peruna, a doctor has seldom been in our house."—Mrs. Martha Fredrich, Central Park, L. I., N. Y.

MAORI SAVAGERY.

The Women Slaughtered the Victims For the Cannibal Feasts.

Mrs. E. M. Dunlop of Auckland, New Zealand, writes of the Maori women: "The Maori woman can keep at will. She has practiced the art, which has formed an important part of her training. She weeps so genuinely and so copiously as to melt the heart of a sympathizing witness. The Maoris hold 'tnagis,' or weeping parties, to mourn their dead, and in these gatherings the women play a conspicuous part. While weeping they utter a low, mournful cry, which has a very weird effect when produced by a number of voices. The mourners sit in groups, with their heads partially covered, giving forth their monotonous wailing and shedding copious tears.

"The Maori woman of past ages almost excelled her lord in savagery. On the return of a triumphant war party they usually brought home a number of prisoners and slaves. It was the privilege of the women of the tribe to fall upon these, slaughtering them in preparation for the cannibal feast which followed. The women bore the painful ceremony of the tattoo without shrinking. Spiral marks were cut into the flesh of their chins, lips and faces; a soot made by a peculiar method was rubbed into the wounds, causing an indelible blue-black stain.

"The Maoris, even in their former state, treated their women with a certain amount of consideration, although the lot of the female slave was very hard and often ended in her being served up as a dainty dish to appease the appetite of her voracious lord, who would kick away the baskets of vegetable food presented to him by his wives as a signal that he required the tender flesh of a slave girl."

OLD CARLSBAD.

In Ancient Times the Cure Was Somewhat Violent.

Carlsbad, that fashionable resort in Bohemia, is a very ancient cure place. It has held a royal charter from Kaiser Carl IV. since 1401. History has it that it was the mighty leap from rocky heights to the depths below of a hunted deer pursued by the hounds of Kaiser Carl IV. that led to the discovery of the Sprudel spring and that the deer hunting emperor was the founder of the health resort to which he gave his name.

Originally the Carlsbad cure and the mode of life there, a mode which remained in fashion for at least two centuries, consisted solely in the use of the baths. This, however, was so energetic that we children of the twentieth century are overcome by a feeling of admiration for the doctors who ordered such cures and still greater honor for the patients who could undergo them, for the bath treatment was so severe that it was not inaptly called the "hautfresser," or skin eater. It was only about the year 1500 that Dr. Payer, the town physician of Elbogen, near by, ordered the Carlsbad water to be drunk as a cure. Quoting from the publications of the period and Dr. Payer's remarks:

"I have said that this water must be drunk, and as hitherto it was not usually employed for drinking, but only for bathing, this will appear new to many." The quantity of the water prescribed was in handsome proportion to the "skin eater"—twenty, forty and up to sixty cups of a morning regularly.—Town and Country.

A Cardboard Planet.

One remarkable achievement of Sir William Herschel was in connection with the planet Saturn. He had arranged to erect his telescope at Windsor castle to enable Queen Charlotte and the ladies of the court to see the wonders of the ringed planet, but on the evening arranged for the observation great banks of clouds covered the sky. However, he explained that that would not matter, and after the instrument had been carefully directed the queen and her attendants looked through it and saw the great planet and its marvelous rings quite distinctly. Herschel, it seems, had expected bad weather and during the day had made a cardboard model of the Saturnian system and erected it in the grounds, a lamp at the back providing the necessary illumination.—Westminster Gazette.

He Wasn't a Gormand.

That wary old fellow, Baillie Macduff, was enticed into a friend's house the other night, and his host managed to win 50 shillings from him at "nap." What is more remarkable, when the baillie had parted with his last shilling he rose, full of wrath.

"Won't you stay to supper?" pressed his host. "We have a fine bit of ham waiting."

"No, not I. Dae ye think I eat 50 shillings' worth of ham?"—London Answers.

Continuous Cooking.

"New York is a place of continuous cooking," said the woman from the west. "Walk along any street at any time and you will get a whiff of coffee and broiling meat. There doesn't seem to be any set time for meals. Judging by the smell, breakfast is a movable feast that takes place any time between 6 o'clock and noon."

A MESSAGE FROM MARS.

His Proof That the Planet Was Inhabited and Civilized.

Ebenezer was driving his master's plow straight and true, but none the less with a thoughtful air, as though his thoughts were elsewhere. And so they were; they were soaring far aloft above the plow and the brown earth turned up as to reach Mars.

The previous evening Ebenezer had attended a lecture at the village schoolroom on "The Heavens," and what the lecturer had said about Mars being inhabited profoundly impressed Ebenezer. As he mechanically guided his horses and his plow something struck him suddenly on the head, and he dropped senseless to the ground. A balloonist passing overhead had accidentally dropped an empty whisky bottle upon Ebenezer's fortunately thick skull. When he recovered consciousness the balloon had passed out of sight, but the cut on his head and the blood stained bottle at his feet remained.

Ebenezer gasped in amazement and awe as he gazed all around the wide brown fields and the blue sky above. Then he picked up the bottle and smelled at it and at once deserted his team in great excitement and set off posthaste for the vicarage.

"I mun tell vicar Mars be 'nabited right enough," he muttered. "Civilized, too; they drinks whisky."—London Express.

A FASHION FROM WAR.

How Flat Watches Took Place of the Old Time "Turnips."

When the neat man takes unto himself a watch as thin as parchment he little thinks that that thin watch results from army regulations.

Up to the time of the allies taking Paris the ordinary watch was convex in shape and called from its outline a "turnip." The officers of the Russian and other armies objected to this because its bulbous form made the uniform of a man on parade look untidy, whether it were carried in the coat or the fob. In Paris, however, they found that the watchmakers of the Palais Royal had contrived a chronometer which got over the difficulty.

Flat watches were the fashion in Paris. The English when they appeared in the streets of the French capital marched in not in gala dress such as the others wore, but in the raiment which they had worn on campaign. Great was the impression which their habiliments created, but they at once adopted the smart flat watch and brought it back to England for our own manufacturers to copy.—London Standard.

A Ready Answer.

When George Francis Train was giving evidence before the metropolitan board of aldermen of London in favor of his scheme for laying a tramway up Ludgate hill a noble lord amoog his interlocutors suddenly fixed the old pioneer with his monocle and said:

"May I—ah—ask a question, Mr.—ah—Train?"

"That is what I am here for, my lord," he replied.

"You know, of course, how very narrow is Ludgate hill. Suppose that when I go down to the Mansion House in my carriage one of my horses should slip on your —— rails and break his leg, would you pay for the horse?"

The reply came like a flash. "My lord, if you could convince me that your horse would not have fallen if the rails had not been there I certainly should pay."

Tit For Tat.

"A United States senator," said a young physician, "addressed the class I was graduated from on our commencement day. He advised us in this address to be broad and generous in our views. He said he once saw two famous physicians introduced at a reception. They were deservedly famous, but they were of opposing schools, and the regular, as he shook the other by the hand, said softly:

"'I am glad to meet you as a gentleman, sir, though I can't admit that you are a physician.'

"'And I,' said the homeopathist, smiling faintly, 'am glad to meet you as a physician, though I can't admit you are a gentleman.'"

New Cycle Record.

R. Shirley has just beaten the London to Bath and back cycle record, which has stood to the credit of H. Green since 1899, by 14 minutes 17 seconds. Shirley made the journey in 11 hours 57 minutes 42 seconds.

A MODEST REQUEST.

Colonel Bill Sterret and the Privilege He Craved.

When Colonel Bill Sterret first went to Washington to report the news of the capitol for his Texas papers, he had desk room in the office of General H. V. Boynton, then the militant correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial.

General Boynton spoke out in meeting. He said things about statesmen that made the statesmen angry. He had many personal encounters with patriots whose feelings had been ruffled.

One night a man came into Boynton's office loudly proclaiming that he intended to shoot Boynton. The general grabbed a chair, beat the intruder over the head with it, knocked him down and threw him out. All this time Sterret sat at his desk, looking on in great amazement.

When the man landed in the gutter Sterret came timidly over to Boynton. "General," he said, "being a new hand here, I don't know the practices of this office nor the customs that pertain to Washington correspondents, and I didn't want to intrude. Now that I have seen what has happened, I trust you will allow me a question?"

"Go ahead," said Boynton.

"When the next man comes in, would it be too forward if I should crave the privilege of kicking him a few times in honor of the sainted Confederate dead?"

REMOVED AT LAST.

The Figures Did Not Appear In the Final Set of Drawings.

A candidate for the royal engineers some years ago was told by his instructor to draw up the plans and specifications for a railway viaduct to connect two high hills, between which ran a small stream.

In due course an excellent set of drawings was presented, one showing the bridge in its completion, with a sketch of the surroundings, and on which sat two men, with their legs hanging over the side, fishing. The drawing was returned with the request that the men be removed from the bridge.

Upon receiving the paper the second time the professor discovered that his instructions had been carried out, but that the two men were seated on the bank of the stream, still in quest of representatives of the finny tribe.

Again was the paper returned, and this time with positive orders to remove the men from the drawing altogether. Imagine the consternation which overspread the features of the learned instructor upon receiving the papers for a third time to find two little graves and tombstones with appropriate epitaphs situated near the bank of the stream. His orders had been obeyed and the men removed altogether.—London Answers.

Sandy and the Mare.

A Scottish paper tells a story of Sandy Mc—, a Forfarshire farmer who had been spending an hour or two in the evening with a friend's couple of miles away. It was a moonlight night, and Sandy, after partaking freely of his friend's hospitality, was riding quietly home across the sheep pastures on his "guid auld mare," when they came to an open ditch, which his mare refused to cross.

"Hoot awa, Maggie," said the rider, "this winna dae. Ye maun jist gang ower."

He turned back about 100 yards, wheeled round and gave the mare a touch of his whip. On she went at a brisk canter, but as they reached the edge of the ditch she stopped dead and shot Sandy clean over to the other side.

Gathering himself up, Sandy looked his mare straight in the face and said: "Vera weel pitched indeed, ma lass. But hoo are ye goin' to get ower yersel', eh?"

He Was an Expert at Figures.

After an absence of several years a one time cavalier of a lady called on her. He found her in the company of her three children.

"Well, well!" he said. "And how old are they?"

"Dear me!" he cried, alarm in his voice. "Is it possible time flies like that? Who would think that you had been married fourteen years?"

The Incentive.

"Does your son study Greek in college?"

"Oh, yes. He's very enthusiastic over it."

"I thought he didn't care for languages?"

"He doesn't, as a rule, but next year the football team is to have Greek signals and Harry is going for the 'leven."

Tommy Changed His Spot.

Teacher—Can the leopard change his spots? Now, Tommy, answer me! Tommy—Yes, sir; he can. Teacher—Nonsense! How can he? Tommy—Well, sir, when he's tired of sitting in one spot he can change to another, can't he, sir?

Origin of "Hold-Up" Man.

The "hold-up" robber originated among the bad men in the gold mining camps, unsuccessful as a prospector, too lazy to work, and with enough bravado and criminal instinct to commit these crimes. He first successfully robbed prospectors and miners of gold nuggets and dust on foot becoming bolder, looted stages; and eventually, after the railroads were built, held up railway trains and robbed express cars.

During the civil war there were a number of "dare-devils" from the south-west engaged in guerilla warfare who were the pride of the States which sent them to the front, and as a result of their ambuscades, raids and lawless acts during the war returned home.

Forty Years in Parliament

Statesman—Orator-Debater—Member of the Cabinet under five Premiers—

FOR several years past, magazines and newspapers have been deluged with achievements in the commercial world. We have read of the barefooted boy who became bank president—of the miner, now a hundred times a millionaire—of the grocer's clerk, who is probably the richest, and the most execrated, man in the world.

The romance of success is not, however, confined to the field of business. Statecraft has its fascinations and its rewards. Canada points with pride to her poor French boy who was knighted by the Queen, decorated with a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michel and St. George; who is a Privy Councellor; and now holds the highest office in the gift of over six million people—the Premier of Canada, Rt. Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Side by side with Sir Wilfrid, looms the figure of one of his ablest lieutenants in many a hard-foeght political battle—the Hon. John Costigan, Senator from New Brunswick.

Born in St. Nicholas, P.Q., in 1835, Mr. Costigan accompanied his parents to New Brunswick, where his education was completed. Politics early became his life work. In 1861, he became Register of Deeds for Victoria County and Judge of the Court of Common Pleas. In the same year, he was elected to the Legislature for Victoria.

So great had become his popularity, and so widely recognized his ability, that in the election of 1867, he was returned to Parliament, where he sat until elevated to the Senate last year.

Throughout the latter part of the last century, in campaign after campaign, Mr. Costigan was ever in the public eye. It was as a debater that he early established his reputation. Few, indeed, of the many brilliant men who have been his contemporaries in Parliament, ever cared to cross swords with him in debate. His words were like stabs—keen and piercing—and he hurled sarcasm and ridicule until his antagonists were routed in dismay.

Mr. Costigan was a member of the Cabinets of five Premiers. Sir John Macdonald had long known and admired Mr. Costigan. In 1882, he invited the latter to accept the portfolio of Minister of Inland Revenue. So successful was his administration of this important office, that when Sir John Abbott succeeded to the Premiership, he insisted upon Mr. Costigan retaining the position.

In the same year, Sir John Thompson was called upon to form a cabinet, and the highest political gift in his power—Secretary of State—was bestowed upon Mr. Costigan.

In the cabinets of Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir Charles Tupper, Mr. Costigan was Minister of Marine and Fisheries.

His hold on the electors of New Brunswick has been wonderful. Devoted to them and their interests, and they to him, he has served his constituents uninterruptedly in Parliament for forty years.

Probably the man can best be judged by his own declaration of politics "Loyalty to the Empire, loyalty to the country we live in, and loyalty to its institutions."

Although 72 years of age, Senator Costigan has lost none of his keen wit, nor powers of repartee. He retains his physical vigor, although several years ago he was threatened with serious illness, due to a chronic trouble which had long baffled treatment.

The following letter, written after his recovery, will explain:—

You know what fearful trouble I have had all my life time from constipation. I have been a dreadful sufferer from chronic constipation for over thirty years and I have been treated by many physicians and I have taken many kinds of proprietary medicines without any benefit whatever. I took a pill for a long time which was prescribed by the late Dr. C. R. Church of Ottawa. Also for many months I took a pill prescribed by Dr. A. P. Rogers, of Ottawa. Nothing seemed to do me any good. Finally I was advised by Dr. Rogers to try "Fruit-a-tives", and after taking them for a few months I feel I am completely well from this horrible complaint. I have had no trouble with this complaint now for a long time, and I can certainly state that "Fruit-a-tives" is the only medicine I ever took that did me any positive good for constipation. I can conscientiously recommend "Fruit-a-tives" to the public as, in my opinion, it is the finest medicine ever produced.

(Signed) JOHN COSTIGAN.

The success of "Fruit-a-tives" in this case is as noteworthy as the success achieved by the Honorable Senator. And it is in keeping with Senator Costigan's idea of fair play that he publicly acknowledges his debt to "Fruit-a-tives".

It was "Fruit-a-tives"—and "Fruit-a-tives" alone—that gave the Senator any permanent relief.

When Constipation became chronic, Senator Costigan consulted the leading physicians of Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto. After failing to receive any benefit, he sought specialists in London and Paris. But all in vain. Then, after 30 years of suffering, he found not only relief, but a cure in these wonderful Fruit Liver Tablets.

"Fruit-a-tives" cure Constipation because they cure the cause of Constipation. When the bowels are irregular—when they do not move for two or three days—it is because the liver is not sending enough bile into the bowels. Bile is nature's only purgative. Calomel, cascara, senna, oil, licorice, liver pills, cathartic pills and mineral water, are simply purges. They irritate the bowels and do more harm than good. "Fruit-a-tives" are a liver tonic. They act directly on the liver. They stimulate the liver so it can secrete more bile, and then invigorate it so that it will give up enough bile to move the bowels regularly and naturally every day. "Fruit-a-tives" cure because they make the liver active and healthy. "Fruit-a-tives" are a true liver tonic and stimulant.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes, in which the natural medicinal principle is many times increased in strength by the special process of combining them. This is the discovery of an eminent Canadian physician. To the new compound of fruit juices, thus formed, are added rare tonics and internal antiseptics, and the whole made into tablets.

These are "Fruit-a-tives"—nature's only cure for non-action of the bowels. "Fruit-a-tives" also act on the kidneys and skin—and are equally effective in curing Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Headaches, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Skin Diseases, Irritated Heart, Palpitation, Fluttering and Weak Spells, and all diseases arising from impoverished or impure blood.

"Fruit-a-tives" cure. Take them on that assurance. 50c. a box—6 for $2.50. Sent postpaid, on receipt of price, if your dealer does not have them.

The Price has nothing to do with the Quality

Beer, brewed abroad, is not one bit better because it costs twice as much in Canada as it does at home.

The difference in cost goes into the custom house—not in the lager.

Beers, that cost 20c. and 25c. a bottle in Canada, cost the same at their homes that O'Keefe's "Pilsener" Lager costs here at your home.

What are YOU paying for — lager or custom charges?

All the leading hotels, cafes and dealers have O'Keefe's "Pilsener" Lager. It's the ideal beer for the table and sickroom. Order a case of

This can especially be said of the James boys, the Youngers, the Renos, the Farringtons, and the bands who operated immediately after the war. During the war they experienced a reckless life which they longed to pursue, eventually engaging in these crimes. The overdrawn newspaper accounts of the exploits of the Renos, James, Youngers and others of their class were responsible for many of their imitators.

childish game. No toys or books are provided, and this for a good reason. There would be danger of infection if these passed through many hands and the health of the immigrants is the first consideration of those in charge. Besides, the little people manage to amuse themselves very well as it is. Sometimes, too, an invitation comes to an evening "children's party" at All People's Mission, when cake is consumed in large quantities. The name of "Mrs. Hughes" is a familiar and beloved one, as, during her connection with All People's Mission, she has always taken a kindly and warm interest in the women and children of the hall.

Laundry Privileges Appreciated

As far as domestic arrangements are concerned all necessary sweeping, cleaning and scrubbing of the quarters occupied is done by the occupants, under supervision of the caretaker, who provides the needful cleaning utensils. Meals must be taken in the dining room, and not in the sleeping quarters. The use of the baths is free, four being provided for men. Fires in the cooking stoves must be extinguished at 8 p.m., to guard against fire. There is a splendid fire escape in connection with the building, but nevertheless every precaution is taken, no smoking being allowed for this reason. All visitors must leave the hall half an hour before closing time, namely, ten o'clock.

Excellent provision for laundry work is made for the immigrants, part of the basement being fitted up with a dozen or so stationary tubs, wringer and mangle, and adjustable clothes horses. After a long train journey there is of course, much soiled linen to be washed, and next to the baths there is always a great rush for the laundry, sometimes every tub having its amateur washerwoman before it.

Where the Baggage is Stored

The orderliness of the huge baggage room was a surprise to me. The Galicians' baggage, consisting of a bag or so, is allowed to be taken to the quarters occupied by them, but this does not apply to heavy baggage. All the regulation types of neat English "boxes" can be piled up in the free storage room. The checking system is in force, but access to trunks is allowed the immigrants, except at night. In the rush season the huge place is simply packed its whole length and width with all kinds of trunks and one can scarcely find a wayb etween the aisles.

Good sanitation is one of the cardinal rules of the establishment and to that end all the garbage is burned by an incinerator in the basement of the building.

All those who visit the railway station, and who stroll in front of the immigration building will have noticed a sign, t ranslating "office, into many languages. The French "Bureau," German "Kanzelei," Russian "Kontor" or "Kantoor" and "Uriad, Swedish "Skrifstofa," and Ruthenian "Froda," should surely be enough notification for "all peoples." Entering therefore one finds on one sides the "foreign" post office where the non-English speaking receive their letters. Sometimes the men in far construction camps will send in a list of names and a request will be made for the mail for the lot, which is duly sent. The postmaster and his assistant occasionally find it pretty hard to decipher the names; "but it is all in getting used to them," I was told, and very few of the letters go astray. Here, too, the perplexing money order question is solved.

In the Foreigner's Quarters

It is down in the basement kitchen of this building that the most picturesque sights may be seen, from the point of view of the artist. He might find the atmosphere a bit stuffy at times, but he could get wonderful studies of the foreign element in their populating of the west. As I said, the day was dark on which I saw the place and perhaps the colour was intensified thereby, but I watched with delight the children playing about on the bare floor, the elderly woman bending over a soup pot bubbling on the huge range, the young girls with their bright handkercheifs and aprons, holding the omnipresent baby. The little ones, happy, crowed undismayed, and above them the young faces smiled also, cheerily taking life as it came, rain with the sunshine.

The bedrooms upstairs are merely cubicles, with space just for the low beds and mattresses, but the rooms, it should be remarked, were perfectly clean.

Strange and most absorbing are the stories and romances which become known to the officials of the Winnipeg immigration department. The latter has so many ramifications, such a multitude of channels for its energy that it seems as though it would be impossible for one man to keep track of them all. No other government in the world has so systemized its work nor embarked upon it on so large a scale. "Unless they go in a balloon our immigrants cannot escape us," said the commissioner, J. Obed Smith. "I believe it is as much good business to look after the immigrant's welfare when he comes, as it is to secure him for the country. He becomes an advertising agent for us if he prospers. That is why the government practically gives us carte blanche, and that is why it is possible to do all we do. Last winter you may have heard we sent out our patrols into certain districts to see that the homesteaders did not starve because of the exceptional conditions. Some of these men were out for fourteen days at a time, and in some extreme cases, they sent whole families in to us, to tide them over the bad days. It was well that they did, for some, when discovered, were on "the ragged edge" and relief was sorely needed. This spring we had to advance an enormous amount of seed grain to those farmers who were forced to use what they had during the winter. Of course it will all be repaid, but just to give you an instance, I may say that we sent to one point 1,000 bushels of oats and 1,000 bushels of wheat. I scarcely think anyone realizes the with which we have had to contend at times. Every bit of wood for the Lloydminster immigration building had to be hauled from Edmonton, and lumber cost $88 a thousand feet."

The telephone rang, and Mr. Smith looked distinctly pleased as he hung up the receiver after a few minutes conversation. "There's a man offering $45 a month for harvesters. I'll send him one to-morrow. Most are prepared to give only $40, and your average harvester is getting mighty independent. Some are demanding $3 a day but they are usually kicking their heels in the cities. They forget that for every rainy day they don't work they will be charged for board and will as well be docked for their wages. It's better to hire for the month for $40 or so. Many of the men work for three months and earn enough to keep them in idleness all winter, paying $4 a week for board and lodging. That's the lazy man's idea of a good time. Few people realize the demand there is for help. At no time this year, even in the depth of winter, have we had sufficient men to fill the applications of individual farmers. As for domestic servants!"—the Commissioner looked volumes.

I would have asked more questions in that half hour chat when I had Mr. Smith at my mercy, had he not observed to me that he could tell just by looking at a person exactly what questions he was going to ask. Under such conditions it seemed best to say little, and he, no doubt, guessing in an uncanny fashion what I wanted to hear, told me story after story in vivid outline, and, incidentally, gave me some faint outline of the many problems he has to solve.

A record is kept of all who pass through the office, but Mr. Smith would seem to have a great memory for faces. "You don't know who I am?" said a visitor to him this week. "You have not your cassock on as I saw you two years ago," was the reply, "but you are Count Vaya de Vaya, are you not?" And the latter smiled at the instant recognition. Tracing people sharpens the faculties wonderfully and there is much room for skill and strategy in the department at times. For instance, a woman once appeared on the scene with two children, determined to find her husband, who was being kept from her by her mother-in-law. Indeed, that astute lady knew the whereabouts of each, but would not let either know where the other was. All the poor wife knew was that her husband had come to western Canada. At last the commissioner hit upon a ruse. He cabled to the mother that the son had been injured in an accident and he desired all possible information sent at once. He got it immediately and it was discovered that the man was only 12 miles from Winnipeg. The wife burst into tears of joy when she heard the news, and when the man himself came in to get her he was overjoyed to find her and most grateful to the department.

But sometimes people do not like to have the officers on their tracks. A high official in England once requested trace of an eloping couple, the girl having run away with a married man. Descriptions were given and the commissioner at first thought of a pair whom he remembered sending to some far-away settlement.

An officer being sent to her she was told that the man might be arrested unless she left him, and so wrought upon her feelings that she consented to go back with the official. She eventually reached her home in England. The man came to Winnipeg hot-foot, but received no satisfaction from the office. However it is said that she eventually fled with him again, but this time they sought the States.

Again, two women came out seeking their husbands. Two men who tallied in every particular with the descriptions were located, but the names were wrong. "John Smith" was dark, and "Frank Brown" was fair, whereas Mrs. Smith declared it was the other way about. At last by means of letters it was discovered that the men had changed names and the rest was easy. Mrs. Smith and family were taken by the officer to Mr. Smith, and deposited with no more ceremony before the astonished husband and parent.

It quite often happens that engaged couples miss each other. Sometimes a disconsolate bachelor hangs about the hall waiting for the recreant bride, only to discover she met someone on shipboard that she liked better. Occasionally a girl must wait owing to unforseen delays on a loitering train in the west, her chafing husband meanwhile filled with horrid conjectures as to her opinion of him.

Sometimes the marriages are performed in the matron's room, the formed in the matron's room, the Anglican, Presbyterian or Methodist chaplain being called upon to perform the ceremony. Christ church, being so near the hall, is often chosen for the scene of these quiet weddings and Sunday after Sunday the old English custom of publishing the banns is observed there, a "bachelor of Winnipeg" being almost sure to intend espousing a "spinster of England."

All the chaplains have desk room in the immigration hall, and their services are very often required. One man told me that he rather fancied himself as an employment agency, for he had secured sixteen girls for as many places during the past month. You will notice that I do not speak of "securing" places for the girls! This gentleman told me he understands there is shortly to be established a training school for domestics in Edinburgh, and on payment of part of the fare a girl may be engaged who will be sent out within a month. Rev. Mr. Nichol, who is connected with the Church of Scotland domestic work, is elaborating the scheme.

The clergy in the old land give their parishioners letters which are addressed to Rev. Mr. Leslie, Rev. Mr Bowman or Rev. Mr. Woodsworth, respectively, and these see that the bearers are introduced to the pastors of churches in their new homes.

In the matter of finding employment for the arriving immigrants, changing conditions, from month to month make close study of the country's needs a sine qua non. In certain districts for instance, the crop is backward, and fewer men will be needed there, while later on they will be a demand for them which may be counted on.

Under the old regime all payments on accounts of the immigration department were payable by cheque issued at Ottawa. But it was found that business could not be carried on expeditiously under that system and in consequence the commissioner was given power to make payments for necessary services by departmental cheques issued at Winnipeg. The Immigration Department is the only government office in the west to which this privilege is accorded.

Mr. J. Obed Smith, the commissioner, to whose untiring effort and genius for organization, so much of the success of the department is due, entered the law office of Munson and Alan in 1886, and won there a reputation as one of the most expert stenographers in the west. In 1891 he was called to the bar, completing his articles with Attorney-General Martin. He served as a private secretary to Mr. Martin's successor, Hon. Clifford Sifton. Among the positions under the Greenway Government held by him were those of right of way solicitor to the railway department, chief clerk of the department of provincial lands, accountant of the legislature, and for a short time clerk of the House. He became Commissioner of Immigration in 1901.

KANKAKEE COUNTY GIRL SLEEPS FOR A WEEK

Awakes and Thinks She is In a White Coffin

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 6. — "Oh, mama, why did they put me in this white coffin? Do not let them do it again." With this exclamation, Miss Flossie Bennett, a young girl, Kankakee county, aroused from a slumber of three days' duration, fell asleep again, and did not awaken until four days later. She is awake now and the doctors are hopeful that the attack is at an end.

The girl complains of severe pains in her head, which the doctors say is not unusual in such cases. The long distance sleeping is said to be a form of hysteria.

Islands and Shores of Rice Lake Still Abound In Relics

Antiquarian Spends Holidays Where History Says the Mound Builders and Redmen Once Dwelled

AN INTERESTING LOCALITY

Many Reminders of the Uncivilized Races Who Have Been Succeeded by the Whites

A vacation that few if any people of this city enjoyed during the past summer and one that should appeal to every lover of nature, was that spent at Rice Lake by an elderly gentleman who passed about a month among the islands and along the shores of this lake, almost every portion of which is linked with the past by monument, relic and story. Rice Lake, the outlet of the Otonabee River and a popular summer resort, does not appeal to the imaginative mind except so far as its enclosing shores and picturesque islands were the scenes of the tribal wars of the primitive red men and their virtual habitation until their romantic race were superseded by the more material whites.

The ordinary person visiting the lake seldom stops to reflect on the history that might have been handed down had the Indians been chroniclers. Instead the burden of their songs was the bravery of the tribes and the individual heroes. Finally the old men, when the songs were gradually dispensed with, told of the olden deeds in story and thus with the slow passing of time, the greatness of the Indian race was forgotten, until today only a few relics remain and the isolated remnants of the uncivilized race.

Many Relics

Without mentioning the many Indian relics that have been found in the neighbourhood of the lake, and which are now in private and public collections of antiques, one may find mementoes of the past by searching on some of the islands and part of the shore. In the vicinity of Hattrick's Point, pieces of pottery have been recently found in the sand, answering in material and workmanship to entire pottery that can be seen in almost any museum. They are rudely carved on the exterior and smooth inside and are brown in colour. On several of the islands similar pieces may be picked from the sand. On the shore one can also easily find pieces of flint which it is said the Indians used in various ways particularly as arrow-heads. On Spook Island the sand is strewn in parts with human bones, bleached by many suns, but yet intact. Vertebrae, and the smaller bones of the body there are in plenty, while at times larger bones are discovered. That they are human remains is evident to anyone who has studied anatomy, and a feature of every bone is that it is large in comparison with those in the ordinary body to-day.

A Hollowed Rock

On the north shore of the lake, just where the indention is made towards Hiawatha there is a large green-coloured rock about ten yards back from the water. The upper surface is fairly level, but the distinctive feature is that it is hollowed out rather deeply in two places and the rounded part is as smooth as finished marble. The Indians at the village say that it was used at one time for sharpening tomahawks and other Indian weapons. These were also of hard stone and by diligent work were given a good sharp edge. The Indians were proficient in this art, and having, by nature, great patience, it is likely that their instruments were keen-edged. Someone has stated that this rock may have been used in beating or grinding rice, but the hollowed part is not deep or wide enough for that purpose. Whatever may have been its use in the Indian era, it is certainly of interest to present day people.

A Fake Stone

The gentleman told of an incident that happened some time ago in connection with a hollowed stone that was found by several tourists. A farmer bought a large piece of rock salt and put it in his pasture field for his cattle. The amateur explorers found the rock nicely hollowed out by the cattles' tongues. They carried it to their boat and the farmer lost his salt. The amateurs did not find out their mistake until later, when they displayed it to some of their wiser friends.

Serpent Mounds

Perhaps the most interesting of the Indian relics are the Serpent Mounds, which are found in several places about the Lake, especially in the eastern end on a few of the islands. They are pointed out by those acquainted with them as mementoes of the earliest inhabitants of this part of North America, the Mound Builders, and the mounds are said to have been made by that race. Many a shovel has been delved into their sands by interested parties with varying success, and it is generally acknowledged that they really date back to that more civilized race who preceded the red men. Volumes might be written about the history and Indian lore connected with the Lake, but in this short article a reference alone is intended.

The present Indians at Hiawatha say that battles were fought in the vicinity of Hattrick's Point and Spook Island and refer to a memorable one in which the northern Indians drove before them those who came up from across Lake Ontario.

The imagination runs rife when one dwells on the actual facts that are presented to the visitor to the historic places on the Lake, but when the Indian history is thought of, the mind cannot picture what were the real conditions before the white man's axe and plow transformed the natural wilderness to its present cultivation. It cannot be denied that the Indians once held sway in this country and Rice Lake has for the student as many points of interest as can be found anywhere in this country.

There Will Be Many Entries For Examiner Road Race

Local Men are Getting in Shape for Thanksgiving Race—Some Havelock Runners Ready

INDIAN BLOOD IN AGAIN

Thanksgiving Day, which is the next public holiday, will be featured in Peterborough as last year, by the Examiner road race. All will remember, who were in the city on the first occasion of the Examiner road race, the widespread interest taken in the event, but from present indications, this year's race will surpass the first effort. The race course will again this year be the ten miles between Lakefield and Peterborough, and to all appearances there will be many attempt to capture the Examiner trophy and the permanent gift that accompanies it. The hold which foot-racing has obtained in Canada, and the love of the sport, have evidently reached Peterborough, and it will be surprising if this city does not in the near future turn out some runners who, in long distances, will hold their own among the best in the Province.

Already there is talk of many of the entries of last year again taking part in the race. Ernest Wilson, who finished second in the event last year, will be one of the contestants, and from the showing he made then and the improvement he has made since that time, he will be a popular runner with many. In addition to several local men, including Harvey Staunton and Jack Seymour, who are now in training, there will be a couple from Havelock village, which last year supplied the fourth best man. Hiawatha will again be represented, and there will probably be two from that village. Fred Simpson, who almost cinched the race last year, is talked of as a probable contestant, but he has not definitely decided to enter. Ben Howard, the other Indian runner, however, will be in the race.

The Examiner road race, therefore, promises to be the leading sporting event during the autumn of the present year in Peterborough, and there will undoubtedly be many throughout the county make a bid for the silverware.

PETERBOROUGH TEACHER QUARANTINED

Slight Outbreak of Diptheria at Rockfort—School Closed

Examiner Special.

Rockcroft, Sept. 7.—A few cases of diphtheria have occurred in this locality. Miss Pakenham, of Peterborough, the new teacher, arrived, and after remaining a night and a day at the home of one of the trustees, was removed to the residence of another trustee where his daughter had developed the disease in the meantime. The house is now quarantined and the teacher has not opened school. However, being quarantined at Rockcroft, six miles from Buckhorn on the Buckhorn Road, isn't very severe punishment, as the neighbours are not as closely placed as they are in a city or town. A two or three hundred acre farm is not very close confinement with the broad canopy of Heaven overhead. The school has been closed for two weeks when it is expected all will be well as the cases are considered very light.

Insure Against Serious Colds

Of the many forms of insurance probably that which protects you against the serious results of colds is the most valuable at this time of the year, when so many are becoming victims of la grippe and pneumonia. By the prompt use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine you can keep the loose, prevent further development of the cold and cure it in a few days.

AMALGAMATION OF TWO BANKS

Only One Building to be Used in Future In City By the Bank of Montreal

MOVE TAKES PLACE TO-DAY

At one o'clock this afternoon, the transference began of all the bank contents from the old Montreal Bank building, on the south-eastern corner of Water and Simcoe streets, to the building recently purchased on the opposite corner. All the employees were busily engaged in the alteration work, as on Monday morning at ten o'clock business in connection with the Bank of Montreal, will be done in the new premises.

In the near future the partition between the old Ontario Bank room and the one to the west of that will be torn away.

The new premises, which will exclusively hold on Monday morning, the entire contents of the Bank of Montreal, will then be extended westward to embrace the room recently occupied by the Dominion Bank, as the present banking department is too narrow for freedom in the work.

It is understood that when the change to the new building is completed there will be two tellers and two ledger keepers.

CEMETRY CONSECRATION AT DOWNEYVILLE

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor to be Present for Occasion

The new cemetery of St. Luke's congregation, Downeyville, which is a monument to the zeal of the energetic pastor, Rev. P. J. McGuire, will be consecrated Sunday afternoon next by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, of Peterborough.

It is understood His Lordship will arrive on Saturday evening. Low mass will be celebrated at 8 Sunday morning, and grand high mass at 10.30, when His Lordship will speak. The consecration of the new cemetery will take place at 3 p.m. No doubt there will be a great gathering, which will include many from Lindsay.—Lindsay Post.

NEW CONCRETE DAM FOR BOBCAYGEON TO BE BUILT AT FOOT OF BOB CREEK

In to-day's issue of the Examiner will be seen an advertisement inviting tenders for a new dam at Bobcaygeon. The structure will be built of concrete, and will be located at the foot of the Little Bob Creek, just below Boyd's sawmill. It will be about 1,700 feet in length, 1,200 feet of which will be clay embankment, and the 500 feet of dam proper will be of concrete.

The plans and specifications of the work may be seen either at Ottawa or at the office of the Superintending Engineer of the Trent Canal in Peterborough, where the forms of tender may also be seen.

The tenders will be received by Superintending Engineer Alex. J. Grant up to September 20.

MILK TESTS OF LOCAL SUPPLY CONSIDERED GOOD BY COMMITTEE

Inspector's Report Containing Mr. Downham's Figures Presented Last Night at Property Committee Meeting

THE STANDARD PLACED AT 3.5 PER CENT BUTTER FAT

Only Seven Come Below That Figure and Four Reach the 4 Per Cent Mark or Over---The Milk Vendors and Tests Given Below

The milk tests were last night presented by the Sanitary Inspector to the Property Committee and the members present were favourably impressed with the quality of the milk coming into the city. A sample of milk from each of the twenty-three milk vendors' cans in Peterborough was taken on Tuesday last and given to Mr. P. Downham, proprietor of the Peterborough Creamery, who made the test on the same day and provided the figures appearing below.

The inspector informed the committee that a test of 3.5 lbs. of butterfat to 100 lbs. of milk was usually considered the standard and any milk testing higher than that, especially that which went above 4 per cent. of butterfat was considered exceptionally good.

The inspector further stated that he considered the tests of the milk sold by the local milk vendors compared favourably with those of the Pine Grove cheese factory, which were yesterday published in the Examiner.

Out of the twenty-three samples tested seven were below the 3.5 percentage mark and four of the remainder were either 4 per cent. butterfat or higher, the latter tests being of rare occurrence.

The following are the tests of 23 samples of the local vendors' milk supplied by the inspector and Mr. P. Downham, on behalf of the City Council:

T. Chapman	3.1
George Raper	3.2
D. R. McGregor	4.0
T. H. Deck	3.2
W. Hooper	3.5
J. McCrae	3.3
Jfd. Roose	3.5

Isaac Hetherington	3.8
Thomas Hetherington	3.7
J. Hunter	4.0
W. Brawnwell	4.2
C. E. Adams	3.8
R. Cox	3.6
Harry Wilson	3.4
R. McMullen	3.8
W. Reid	4.0
E. H. Reece	3.0

In connection with the question discussed as to whether the tests and names of milk dealers should or should not be published, was moved by the Mayor, seconded by Ald. Elliott, that the milk tests be published with the names of the milk dealers and the percentage of butterfat, and carried.

Piles Make Life Wretched

It is a great mistake to imagine that the effects of piles are local, for as a matter of fact they sap the vitality of mind and body, and slowly lead to the ruination of health. Dr Chase's Ointment brings almost instant relief from the itching, burning, stinging, sensation of piles, and is a thorough and positive cure for all forms of this wretched, torturing and oftentimes stubborn disease.

WOMAN TELLS OF THE ELOPEMENT. OF HUSBAND WHILE SHE VISITS

A melancholy story relating to domestic infelicity was told to the police this afternoon by a young wife who, until a week or more ago, was peaceably living with her husband on Edinburg street. The woman stated to the officer that she was married to James Malcolm, whom she accused of eloping with another woman while she was absent. Her story was to the effect that about a week ago she was sent on a visit to Toronto to her brother's, by Mr. Malcolm.

While she had been spending a happy week in the enjoyment of the pleasures at the home of her brother, all, apparently, was not well at home. Upon returning, she discovered that her husband had eloped with another woman, and she knows nothing of his whereabouts.

On arriving at her home on Edinburgh street, she found all the furniture had been disposed of, but what was more sorrowful, she stated, he had sold the children's clothing.

This afternoon Mrs. Malcolm visited a second-hand store on Water street to attempt to get back her offsprings' clothes. She was accompanied from Toronto by her brother, and the two instituted the search on behalf of the children.

Mrs. Malcolm further stated that her husband had worked at Mann's bakery and confectionery shop, George street, and that his newly-found admirer also worked in the same place. The woman said they had gone to Orillia, but what reason she had for saying so is not known.

It was understood this afternoon that she would go back to Toronto with her brother.

CIRCULAR SAW TEARS THROUGH KNUCKLES OF LAKEFIELD CONTRACTOR

Painful Accident Happens to Mr. Geo. Baptie in Lakefield Canoe Factory

THIRD FINGER AMPUTATED

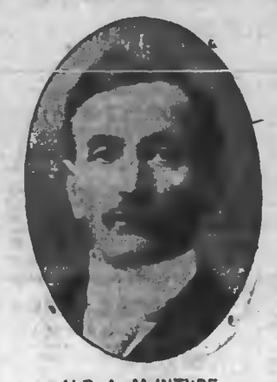
Suffering from violent pain, Mr. Geo. Baptie, of Baptie Bros., Lakefield, was brought to the city yesterday afternoon, and is now in the Nicholls Hospital with his hand almost torn in two. Mr. Baptie was working in the Strickland sawmill when the accident occurred, which may yet cost him two or three fingers of the right hand.

While engaged in ripping a piece of lumber with a small circular saw one end of the stick fell down, causing his hand to fall against the sharp teeth of the saw as it revolved around at a rapid rate.

The back of Mr. Baptie's hand came in contact with the sharp instrument so that it cut through his knuckles, the flesh being very badly torn. He was at once driven down to the Nicholls Hospital, where the injured hand was examined by Dr. Baker of Lakefield, and Dr. McClellan, who decided upon the amputation of the third finger, and the operation was performed by them last night.

An effort is being made to save the other fingers, although the whole hand is severely cut. Some years ago Mr. Baptie lost the thumb of his left hand, so that he has been very unfortunate. He is one of the Baptie Brothers, who have the contract for building the addition to the North Ward School.

PUBLIC LIBRARY QUESTION BEFORE THE COMMITTEE



ALD. A. McINTYRE,
Who Presented a Comprehensive Report of Library Visitations at Property Committee Meeting

INSPECTION OF LAWNS TUESDAY

Horticultural Society Offer Prizes for the Best Kept Lawns

At a meeting of the directors of the Horticultural Society last night, next Tuesday was chosen as the day for the inspection of lawns, grounds and yards. This change made by the society several years ago was a decided improvement on the exhibitions that were formerly held. Not only does it stimulate a wider interest in horticulture, but it is a public benefit as by beautifying the lawns the city is given a better appearance. The society should bring out more contestants every year.

The committee in awarding the prizes is guided no. by the extent or elaborateness of the ground, but by the effect accomplished under the conditions through the tastes and efforts of the owner. Any person desiring the inspection of their grounds should send word to Mr. Real, the secretary of the committee, before next Tuesday.

Another important decision the committee arrived at was to distribute to the members of the society during the autumn six imported Dutch hyacinth ulbs and six daffodil bulbs. In this way the society is doing an excellent work and deserves the co-operation of all those interested in the culture of plants and flowers.

KING EDWARD SCHOOL OPENS MONDAY

Boundaries Governing School Limits are Fixed

On Monday morning at nine o'clock the new King Edward school will be opened for the first time. The boundaries will be south of Wolfe and Patterson street, but not including these streets, and the school will be for all children from the Kindergarten up to the Junior IV class, but not including the latter.

AN EXPLANATION AND A CORRECTION

In the introduction to a Quebec despatch appearing in yesterday's issue, it was incorrectly stated that Mr. Harry Rogers, who was concerned in a canoe accident at Cap Rouge, Quebec, was connected with the inspection staff of the Quebec bridge, which met with recent disaster. Mr Rogers was not connected with the bridge work proper. He is chief inspector of the Canada Inspection Company, of the land approach trestle work, being done by the Dominion Bridge Company, and quite distinct from the water spans of the great structure. The approach is over a third of a mile in length.

"EXAMINER" PRINTING AT TORONTO EXHIBITION

Catalogues and Other Printing Supplied the Diamond Horseshoe Company is Highly Commended

The following complimentary paragraph from a business letter of Messrs. Higgins & Douglas, of Toronto, the solicitors for the Diamond Horseshoe Company, is the kind of bouquets the Examiner likes to receive:—

"Your catalogue is certainly a credit to the Company. Every one says that it is the finest piece of work they have ever seen in this line."

The only thing to do in a case of this kind is to blush and say "thanks." Such appreciation from Toronto and from a professional firm, too, counts for a good deal.

The same letter also conveys the pleasing information that the solicitors for the Diamond Calk Horseshoe Company "have been stirring up the foreign offices in hurrying forward the patents. Word has been received that the patent has been granted for France, under date of August, 1907."

"The goose that lays the golden eggs likes to lay where there are eggs already," is another way of saying "unto him who hath shall be given." Also, that the Diamond Calk Horseshoe Company have a capital proposition for investors in the three hundred shares which they are now offering to the public.

GUNNING ACCIDENTS

Simultaneously with the opening of the hunting season come reports of gunning accidents. At this season, the woods are most attractive, flies have disappeared, fishing is good and, to the lover of nature, the solemn beauty of the wild has an inexpressible charm. All naturalists agree that our Canadian woods are the most attractive in the world, on account of the gorgeous colouring of trees, shrubs and wild flowers, sparsity of thorny growths, absence of noxious reptiles, and scarcity of ferocious animals. About the only really dangerous animal to be feared by one who makes an excursion into the woods is the man with a gun. Usually the farmer, his man, and his boy, know how to handle a gun, and understand the ways of the animals they go out to shoot. But the "sport" from the city, with eyes untrained to the mysteries of the wild, and often unused to a gun, bent only on "making a bag" in the brief time at his disposal, eagerly nervous in surroundings in which he is unaccustomed, armed with a weapon of deadly precision, is a terror to himself, and every living thing, within his range. At some sudden prospect he pulls his gun from a canoe or through a fence by the barrel, and fills his arm with the contents. Only in the open does he seem to be able to mark the difference before firing, between a man, a cow, a horse, or a deer. As a result the record of hunting accidents is a long one of fatalities and maimings, appearing in the papers, with monotonous regularity. There is no use warning these sporadic sportsmen to be cautious and circumspect. They all believe themselves possessed of the qualities of a hunter, but the fact that not infrequently the most experienced hunters fall victims to their own or their companions failure to exercise those qualities at critical moments, proves how difficult it is to predict whether he who goes out to shoot may not come home shot.—Montreal Witness.

Brantford is one of the progressive manufacturing centres of the Province. The Expositor, in an article on Labour Day, gives figures showing the wonderful increase during the past ten years in the number of workingmen employed there and in the amount of wages paid. It is estimated, it says, that there are now 5,400 men employed in the local factories, as compared with 2,800 in 1897; in other words, that the number has nearly doubled. The wages paid annually in 1897 was $943,000, while now it has reached the splendid figure of $2,100,000; in other words, has considerably more than doubled. The value of the annual output is $8,500,000. It is gratifying to add that Peterborough's showing is even better than that of Brantford, the total output of this city for the same period being $11,000,000, with a per capita output of $733, with a population of 15,000, as against Brantford's per capita output of $425, with a population of 20,000.

Eczema's Itch Is Never Ending

EXCEPT BY ACTIVE AND PERSISTENT TREATMENT WITH THE GREAT ECZEMA CURE,

When left to itself, eczema runs on indefinitely, causing keen distress from itching and covering the body with sores that refuse to heal.

Even with careful treatment, eczema is obstinate in yielding to curative measures, but the regular and persistant use of Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most certain means known of overcoming this torturing disease.

Internal treatments for eczema have long since been discarded, except the use of medicines to regulate the bowels and enrich the blood, while local applications are used to relieve the itching and heal the sores.

It is the remarkable success of Dr. Chase's Ointment in the cure of eczema which has given it world-wide recognition as the standard ointment for itching skin diseases.

Mrs. Robert Clendenning, Welland Station, Ont., writes:—

"For three years my dauthter, Fanny, was afflicted with eczema in an intense and persistent form, and for nine days she was totally blind. The burning, itching and disfigurement were horrible, her entire face being completely raw for months, and the distress so great that she could not sleep.

"The best efforts of two eminent physicians failed to even mitigate her awful suffering. One day when I was low-spirited over my daughter's condition Dr. Chase's Ointment was recommended to me and to our surprise Fanny was helped with the first box and she has since been entirely cured by this treatment.

"Her face is now as smooth as a baby's and she is in splendid health. The credit for this cure is entirely due to Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I cheerfully give you permission to state my daughter's case, hoping that it will lead many others to secure the same good results."

There are a score of ways in which Dr. Chase's Ointment, with its extraordinary soothing, healing properties, is useful in every home; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

CANADA'S CENTURY

Not only our neighbours to the south of us, but the world at large, is beginning to regard Canada with a larger respect. The reason is that Canada is "making good" in the direction of realizing Sir Wilfrid Laurier's claim that the Twentieth Century belongs to Canada, as the Nineteenth Century belonged to the United States. Which means that the Republic had its period of phenomenal growth in the past century, and in that regard has become a "has-been," but that Canada is but now entering in earnest itno her period of growth and expansion. In the last century the tide of immigration set in towards the United States. Now the indications are, in fact, the conditions are, that the tide of immigration is turning from the United States to Canada. The figures for the past nine years prove this conclusively. In 1898 the immigration into Canada was 31,900; in the last fiscal year ending June 30, 1907, it was 252,038. Immigration into the United States increased from 229,299 in 1898 to 1,285,000 in the last fiscal year. The number of immigrants in Canada during 1907 was nearly eight times as many as in 1898, but in the United States there was but five times as many in 1907 as in 1898, and this despite the fact that the latter year was the lowest in the past thirty years in the United States. It is thus seen from these figures that the percentage of increase has been much greater in Canada than in the United States.

More interesting still is the consideration of the relation which the yearly immigration bears to the population. In 1901 the population of Canada was 5,317,315, that of the United States 76,303,387. Despite the fact that the United States is adding more than a million to its population yearly, the total of last year was relatively of much less importance than the addition which Canada made to her population. In order to keep abreast with Canada in proportion to population, the United States should be receiving three million immigrants each year.

But more important still than Canada's gain in numbers, is the fact that the great percentage of the newcomers to the Dominion are immigrants from old British stock. This country is, therefore, spared the danger and delay entailed in the assimilation process so often hurtful to new countries.

PREACHING AND PRACTICE

Mr. Borden, leader of the Conservative party, in his campaign addresses to the electorate, is devoting no little attention to the subject of political purity, and posing as its apostle. His anxiety for the reign of political purity in elections is admirable from an academic standpoint, and his plea for a surcease of political corruption is, as the expression of an abstract principle, admirable. But in this utilitarian age there is a demand for practice, as well as preaching, in order to sustain a character for consistency and to establish a claim to popular confidence. To effectually denounce political corruption, Mr. Borden himself must have a clear record or pose as a repentant sinner. In view of the lofty attitude Mr. Borden takes, it will be interesting to recall some evidence of Mr. Borden's relation to "elections not won with prayers."

On December 24, 1904, the L'Evenement newspaper publishing company of Quebec, of which Senator Landry was managing director, entered legal action against Mr. Hugh Graham of the Montreal Star, to recover the sum of $2,389.33 for certain alleged services rendered to the Conservative party during the general election period, ended on November 3, 1904. During the legal process, Mr. Graham, chief almoner of the Conservative party, gave most interesting testimony, which is essentially reproduced elsewhere on this page. Any person who will carefully read what Mr. Graham said on oath will notice that Mr. Graham leaves no doubt as to Mr. Borden having known very well what was going on in connection with the expenditure of a corruption fund in each county of the district of Quebec. Mr. Graham says Mr. Borden not only knew about it, but even took a personal interest in seeing that the expenditure should be so cloaked as to steer suspicion from himself, and his prominent lieutenants. "The fund," Mr. Borden, the chief, wrote to Mr. Graham, "must not be handled by men of the party (Conservative) in public life;" it would be "better to have persons appointed who are in every way acceptable to the part locally." Mr. Graham swore that he sent a copy of Mr. Borden's letter, detailing the best manner in which the corruption fund should be handled "to all the different provinces where I was giving my ASSISTANCE." It will be noticed that in this letter Mr. Borden did not condemn the employment of corruption funds in the interests of his party, but was only solicitous that "men of the party, in public life," should not handle the boodle — that he should not be found out. Further, to emphasize Mr. Borden's innocence, Mr. Pelletier is found stating on Aug. 24th, 1904, that "Mr. Borden told me that something would be sent" to keep things going "in the district. But I have received nothing so far." There had been delay, but better times were at hand. Mr. Hugh Graham, of the Montreal Star, who concocted the bogus Globe, was about to "open up," and, as Mr. Graham swore, this opening took place in the three weeks before the elections of 1904, to the tune of $29,381, of which $10,381, was sent direct to Mr. Pelletier, and $19,000 to the committee representing him — for Mr. Borden had warned Mr. Graham not to send the boodle to "men in public life," but to "persons in every way acceptable to the party locally." Here we have specific evidence that Mr. Borden, knowing beforehand that something would be sent to "keep things going," and with an astuteness remarkable in so innocent a gentleman, giving golden advice to the chancellor of the boodle exchequer, how to proceed without incurring risks of any prominent Conservatives being caught. Mr. Borden's connection with the practical politicians of his party in this, would not be so remarkable but for his recent clamour for purity in politics. To be just to Mr. Borden, he denies that he sent the letter mentioned to Mr. Graham. Mr. Graham swore that he did send it, and, as Mr. Hinnessey would say, "there y'are."

EDITORIAL NOTES

A Halifax gentleman sends the Examiner a letter advocating the suppression of profanity. He can't expect to banish profanity from Nova Scotia, so long as its constituences refuse to elect Conservative candidates.

Mr. R. L. Borden's advance agents are declaring his tour a tremendous success, and Mr. Borden, himself, admits that he is well pleased with his success. One evidence of the revolutionary, regenerative and vote-making nature of his campaign, is the fact that in St. John's, N. B., where his greatest triumph was achieved, no Conservative can be found to contest a riding vacated by the death of a Conservative member. If Mr. Borden's eloquence and platform, cannot hold a Conservative riding, how can it be expected that enough "Grit" seats will be won to give him the balance of power.

NEW HORSESHOE CALK AN ATTRACTION

Many View It at the Toronto Fair—A Local Man Interested

The Toronto World of Friday says the following about the new invention undertaken by Mr. H. P. Kennedy of Peterborough:—

Seldom perhaps has such an opportunity been presented to investors as that put forward in this issue by the Diamond Calk Horseshoe Co., Limited, who are asking for subscriptions to 200 shares of the company's stock at par (100 a share.) The capital of the company is $100,000, and the present offering is for the business of the concern, which has shown a remarkable increase with almost no publicity up to the present time. The diamond calk is a removable substitute for the old attached shoe calk. Its simplicity admits almost of every horse owner becoming practically his own smith, at a saving which warrants the invention a universal demand. The calks are attached to the shoes by set screws, which makes the operation one of the simplest. By the application of the diamond pattern three surfaces are available for wear, a fresh one being substituted for that worn, by the simple process of removing and replacing the screws. The company has fallen into favourable public recognition in an exceedingly short space of time, and many unsolicited testimonials from some of thee largest horse owners in the Dominion have already been received. A large and remunerative business is is already being done by the concern, and its extension is practically without limit. To those seeking a safe and profitable investment this company's stock will prove attractive, and the present offering is expected to be oversubscribed, because of the large prospective earnings of the company. Those wishing further information of this valuable patent and of the company should apply immediately to the Diamond Horse Shoe Co. ,Toronto. The president of the company is H. P. Kennedy, a well known Peterborough business man, and the other directors are equally well konwn in successful business circles. The patent is now being exhibited at the Toronto fair, where thousands have been attracted by the novelty and utility of this modern calk.

WAS FINED TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS

M. Pappas, Clerk Sold Tobacco to a Boy Under Eighteen

At the police court this morning, M. Pappas was fined $25.00 for selling a package of Old Chum smoking tobacco to Joe Reynolds, a minor, on the evening of September 3rd.

Reynolds is one of the boys who were with William Stuart on Tuesday evening when he was robbed while driving with Reynolds and Geo. Fowler. Reynolds is a little over 17 years of age and, according to his statements he purchased the tobacco from one of Mr. Pappas' clerks.

Reynolds was with Fred Worboy, and the latter asked Reynolds to buy him a package of Old Chum. They were walking along on the east side of George street. In the witness box Reynolds said that he entered the Greek's store and bought the tobacco from one of the young men working there.

Young Worboy gave evidence but could not say which store Reynolds entered. Mr. Gordon, who appeared for M. Pappas, had three or four of the Greeks brought over for recognition, but the right one was left until the last. He was about to be brought over, when His Worship interposed and said that he was going to give his judgment. He fined Mr. Pappas $25 and let Reynolds go free on the charge of having given the tobacco to young Worboy. It was intimated that Mr. Pappas would appeal the case.

MR. R. L. BORDEN DENIES WRITING LETTER MR. GRAHAM SWORE THAT HE RECEIVED

Mr. R. L. Borden, leader of the Opposition in Parliament, in his speech at the Monument National, Montreal, Quebec, denied any knowledge of the money sent to Quebec district in the elections of 1904, as sworn to by Mr. Hugh Graham in court. Mr. Graham swore that Mr. Borden had written him advising him not to have any of the money handled by leaders of the party, but by local men. Mr. Borden says he did not write the letter.

MR. BORDEN SAYS

"Some reference has been made by certain Liberal organs kept up, many of them, by robbing of the public treasury, and which are edited by men who do not dare call their souls their own because they dare not for one moment say a word against the parties who are in power and who are their masters in every sense of the word—I have been reproached by these papers because it is said that Mr. Pelletier of Quebec wrote a letter in August, 1904, stating that I had told him that something was to be sent to him. But in 1904 there were no fall elections. They were not announced until September 30. I was endeavouring to get for Mr. Pelletier some small amount of reassurances in order to enable him to have the lists revised and other matters of organization attended to. I have done the same thing this summer in regard to the executives of Montreal and Quebec, endeavouring to assist them. Is there anything in this that is a matter for reproach? Any party in Canada must have funds for the purpose of carrying on its work of organization, and it is in that way, and in that way alone, that the monies of any political party can be legitimately expended.

"I am reproached also, I believe, by these papers on account of a letter supposed to have been written by me with regard to the distribution of money to men throughout the country who are not in public life. During the campaign of 1904, no such letter was ever written by me, nor at any other time. I began my campaign throughout the country in the latter part of August, 1904, and I was speaking at Napanee, in the Province of Ontario, on the night when the elections were announced. From that time on, my work was in the holding of public meetings, selection of candidates, and obtaining the service of telegrams throughout the country. So far as these matters, which have been alluded to as matters of reproach to me, are concerned, I may say that I have had nothing to do with them from first to last, and I absolutely disown any connection with them. It is true that during the summer of 1904 I did point out what has been forgotten by the Minister of Finance, namely, that no candidate in this country has the right to pay out any money for election purposes, except by his agent, duly appointed by letter of hand. The Hon. W. S. Fielding was obliged to admit, not so very long ago, that in the case of the election in Queen's and Shelburne, he paid over a certain sum of money, without the knowledge of his agent, to a certain gentleman who is now Speaker of the Legislative Assembly of Nova Scotia, and who, about three weeks before the election cry came on, went for his health to the United States, and did not return until some time after the election was over."

Mr. Borden then referred to the election of Mr. Hyman, and the circumstances attending it. He proceeded:—"Something has been said about some money spent in the Province in the fall of 1904. I know nothing about that sum of money. I do not believe that the Conservative party has any fund out of which any such some of money could have been spent. I wish to point out to the gentlemen who are raving about Conservative expenditure, and accusing us of insincerity, that, judging from the records of the election to which I have alluded, double the amount must have been spent by the Liberal party in the London election alone in 1905 than was spent in twenty-five counties by the Conservatives at the last general elections. But I do not regard very much what these gentlemen say. Indeed, I would be inclined to reply to some of them who are very generous in their criticism in the words which a great Canadian, the late Joseph Howe, used fifty years ago:—'Bark on! We are busy with your masters. We are busy with the masters of some of these gentlemen, and we sincerely trust we will do good work with them before we get through with them.'"

MR. GRAHAM SAYS

Mr. Hugh Graham was examined under oath on May 29, 1905, by Mr. L. P. Pelletier, counsel, from which extracts:—

Q.—You took a prominent part in the organization of the Conservative party during the last Dominion elections? A.—I assisted to the utmost of my extent and ability.

Q.—In what capacity? A.—Oh, in a general way, principally making them gifts of money.

Q.—There was a cipher code used for these communications between yourself and Mr. Pelletier, was there not? A.—Yes.

Q.—Will you kindly tell us what is the word representing your name and signature? A.—I recollect it was "Zandray."

Q.—Do you remember the word representing Mr. Casgrain's name? A.—I do not; but you have got a copy of it.

Q.—It was "Zandrank?" A.—I can tell you in a minute, if you will allow me to look at it. (After consulting Code Book) "Zandrank."

Q.—Mr. Pelletier's name was, if I mistake not, "Zandring?" A.—"Zandring."

Q.—R. A. MacNab's name was? A.—"Zandride."

Q.—Yourself and Mr. MacNab were working together at this (L'Evenement contract,) were you? A.—We were working in some cases together, and Mr. MacNab was representing a Parliamentary Committee in Ottawa in some matter.

Q.—We are not with the Parliamentary Committee at the moment. I am asking . . . A.—I think that that Loranger matter has got something to do with the Parliamentary Committee, if I mistake not.

Q.—Now, Mr. Graham, you allege in your plea in this case that you have sent a certain amount of money to Mr. Pelletier. Will you tell us what amount you sent to Mr. Pelletier? A.—Mr. Pelletier and his friends, and ——

Q.—Well, my question is, Mr. Pelletier? A.—And his associates.

$29,000 Given to Mr. Pelletier and Friend

Q.—I want the answer to go, for Mr. Pelletier, because that is my question? A.—Mr. Pelletier received $10,381.70 directly, and $19,000 at the disposal of the committee which he was asked to represent him.

Q.—My question is, how much money did you send to Mr. Pelletier, Mr. Graham; that is a very clear question? A.—I have answered it.

Q.—No. I want to know what money was sent direct by you to Mr. Pelletier; now, that is a very clear question? A.—Mr. Pelletier received $10,381.70 directly, in his name, and $19,000 placed at the disposal of the committee which he appointed to represent him.

Q.—But that is the committee which you mean in your answer? A.—No; the committee—perhaps I had better go into a detailed explanation of the matter, because it is a little involved unless it is so. About the 24th of October—23rd or 24th of October—I received a letter from Mr. BORDEN, THE CHIEF, telling me that moneys must not be handled by any person, I believe—I won't quote the exact words, but to the effect that moneys must not be handled by men in the party, in public life, at words to that effect, and that it was better to have, in each province, persons appointed who were in every way acceptable to the party, locally. I sent a copy of that to all the different provinces where I was giving any assistance.

Q.What business has Mr. Borden's name to do with that? A.—With what?

Q.—With the committee in question? A.—Mr. Borden asked persons to be appointed who were acceptable to the local friends.

Referring to the payments Mr. Graham's evidence was:

On the 8th of October I sent him (Mr. Pelletier) one thousand three hundred and eighty-one dollars and twenty cents to cover the nine hundred dollars and the increase of four hundred and eight-one dollars that had taken place in the following five or six days. On the 10th of October two thousand dollars direct to Mr. Pelletier; on the 17th, three thousand dollars to the committee, to Mr. Pelletier's committee, through Mr. Giroux; 21st of October, three thousand dollars the same way; 24th, four thousand dollars in the same way; 25th, five thousand dollars in the same way; 29th, four thousand dollars in the same way.

Q.—Now, sir, as a matter of fact, to what credit were the amounts—to the credit of whom the amounts of the 10th of October, 21st, 24th, 25th and 29th, deposited? A.—They were instructed to be sent to Mr. Giroux, one of your committee.

Q.—Were they sent to Mr. Giroux? A.—Yes, sir, as I understand it. I paid them. I paid the money out of my pocket, personal means, but not party funds at all; my own private means. That is why I know.

A letter was filed in court from L. P. Pelletier, Conservative organizer for the Province, to B. A. MacNab, in which he explains his resignation of that office:

"The main reason why I took that course was because this organization has cost me so far $900.00 more than I have received, and if there is one thing I dislike above all others, it is to be asking people for money all the time.

Mr. Borden told me that something would be sent to keep things going in this district, but I have received nothing so far.

I am doing my best without it, but of course I have to avoid everything exceeding trifling expenditure."

Street Car Straps Medium Of Transmission Of Microbes

Scientific Investigation Discovers the Remarkable Fact Surmised by Doctor---How the Germs of Disease are Communicated From One to Another

A well-known humourist once wrote a newspaper column of funny copy on the possibility of contracting disease from street car straps. His editor printed it, and his readers laughed at the odd notion. Then all hands promptly forgot all about it. No one had the least idea that the journalist-jester had come within a mile of hitting the mark.

Since then the question of germ communication from the diseased to the healthy, with the street car strap as the road, has been raised on various pretexts at various times, both in the newspapers and out of them. On one occasion, at least, there was a sort of concerted effort to show that the "common or garden" variety of street car strap is just naturally swarming with deadly germs.

In that case, possibly the ultimate aim was to show that some one had invented a form of strap that would not harbour germs and so promote a new industry—the manufacture of self-sterilizing street car straps.

But nothing came of this disinterested effort to safeguard millions of strap-hangers from disease, and to this day there never has been any wide publication of the easily ascertained facts of the case. Over and over again the most dreadful possibilities have been hinted at in print, and every time the traction officials have snorted at the bare suggestion that a harmful germ could stick to a strap. But neither the traction officials nor the promulgators of the strap germ theory have ever gone far enough to settle the discussion.

Disease Germs one Found

Recent analysis made under the direction of the New York Health Department of straps taken from surface cars in the metropolis, however, show that the humourist's skit about "Death in the Strap" was not entirely wide of the mark, and that disease germs of a deadly character sometimes do stick to the straps, although they were not found in great numbers.

One of the reports of strap analysis, returned by Dr. A. W. Williams to Dr. William H. Park, director of the laboratory maintained by the New York Health Department for research work with reference to contagious diseases, says that certain "cultures" made from a part of the strap scrapings developed "only a few colonies of the usual micro-organizations found in the air; moulds, yeast and cocci." A second culture yielded organisms rather more likely to produce disease in human beings, while in the third culture "a large spore bearing bacillus similar to B. Subtilus" — to use the technical language of the report—"and a small, short chained streptococcus were developed." No diphtheria or tetanus germs were found, although it seems to have been expected that both might be.

Undesirable Familiarity

However, the streptococcus, a common cause of blood poisoning, which, as well as the pneumococcus, is held responsible for pneumonia, is by no means a desirable thing to handle on a street car strap or to come in contact with in any way. That the streptococci found were as harmful as their name looks in print was discovered by the Health Department attaches, who inoculated two guinea pigs with cultures from the straps. One of the animals was dead in a few hours, "both the large spore-bearing bacillus and the small streptococcus" being found in the blood of the heart. The other guinea pig was made uncomfortable by the inoculation, but did not die.

Later analysis of strap scrapings by the New York Health Department showed fewer germs than the first. In fact, no germs from human beings were found at all.

Great Work Over Tetanus

Discussing the result of the analyses, Dr. Park said that the germs found, together with many others, some of which are much more deadly than they, are floating constantly in the atmosphere of all cities, and that country air is rarely altogether free from them, although, of course, much purer.

"It is hardly possible to inhale the breath in town," Dr. Park continued, "without taking in germs of one sort or another, since the dust of the streets is full of them. Man is immune to most of these germs, since most of them come from horses. Fortunately few germs originating with one species of animal are dangerous to individuals of other species. There are some exceptions to this, however. Thus the germs of tetanus flourish in horses, cows, and other animals, and also in man, but not so well. Man is susceptible also to the germs of hydrophobia—which always originates in some lower animal, and the germ of which never floats in the air; of anthrax, a disease of cattle; of glanders, a disease of horses, and of tuberculosis, whether communicated from a human being or a lower animal.

Its Deadly Work

"Undoubtedly most persons living in cities breathe in tetanus germs occasionally. Undoubtedly, also, the germs sometimes pass the filtering apparatus of the nose and penetrate to the lungs, where, so far as is known, they can do no harm. The deadly work of the tetanus bacillus, the rizour which is known as lockjaw, follows the introduction of the germ into freshly injured tissues only. Everyone is familiar with the tetanus outbreaks which have followed the 4th of July in the United States for so many years, and also the deadly tetanus development which sometimes follows a wound in the foot, caused by a rusty nail, or something like it.

"You have noticed, no doubt, that the science of preventive medicine scored so big a victory over tetanus this year. In New York, 1200 bottles of tetanus anti-toxin were given out by the Health Department before the Fourth, and sufferers from blank cartridge wounds were treated with the anti-toxin. So far as I have heard, only one case of tetanus was developed in the entire city. The tetanus anti-toxin was perfected by Behring, the German, and Kitasato, the Japanese scientist. Behring discovered this anti-toxin years before he found the diphtheria anti-toxin, which has been of such great benefit to mankind, but for some reason the tetanus anti-toxin was not pushed so promptly nor so determinedly as the other.

Value of Anti-toxin

"Tetanus poison, by the way, is one of the deadliest known to science. It is fifty times as strong as strychnine and twenty times as strong as cobra venom. This year's splendid demonstration of the value of tetanus anti-toxin means that tetanus may now be controlled as effectively as diphtheria long has been controlled. Few persons outside the medical profession understand what has been accomplished with the latter disease, but a chart has been prepared which shows the facts graphically.

"Twenty years ago the mortality from diphtheria in twenty of the world's largest cities — New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Buffalo, London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Chicago, Brooklyn (then a city by itself), Dresden, Munich, Liverpool, Glasgow, Edinburgh, St. Petersburg, Koenigsberg, Frankfort, Amsterdam, and Hamburg was nearly five times as great as now, the average being 150 deaths to every 100,000 of population and the range being from the great proportion of 285 per 100,000 down to about fifty.

Increase of Knowledge

"The observations on which the chart is based were begun in 1872. Sanitary knowledge and general knowledge of the nature of diphtheria increased rapidly in the years immediately following, and the death rate from the disease decreased with corresponding rapidity. Three or four years later the diphtheria death rate went up to 150 again, but it decreased again till about 1890. There was then a second rise, but since 1894, when the anti-toxin came into general use, the rate has decreased yearly; at the present time the deaths from diphtheria in those cities do not average more than thirty in every hundred thousand inhabitants.

"In the diagram, the heavy middle line represents the average death rate for 100,000 from diphtheria in the cities named, and the heavy vertical line the introduction of anti-toxin. Lines showing extremes of fluctuation are also given.

How Germs get on Straps

"The report of the analysis says that no tetanus germs were found, but it is not impossible that they and many others might be, were a sufficient number of analyses taken. Tetanus germs would not be specially dangerous on a street car strap, anyway; they would be less dangerous there than in many other places, in fact, and could do little harm unless there was a laceration of the hand grasping the infected strap. In such a case tetanus germs might lodge in the wound and multiply, as they do, unless the anti-toxin is used when boys get hurt 'on the Fourth' with fireworks. Germs that are 'blown in' by explosion are especially troublesome, however.

"Tubercle germs are more common than most other disease germs in the city air. You are likely to take them into your system almost daily, and at certain times of the year this is true also of the germs that produce pneumonia, colds and the like. Everybody knows nowadays that the best way to resist any disease is to maintain a state of general good health.

"It should be understood that disease germs are to be found wherever dust settles," Dr. Park continued, "and that is almost everywhere. The mere fact that street car straps are worn smooth by contact with many hands prevents the adhesion of much dust to them, and the same is true of hand railings of all sorts. Germs freed by the exhaling breath of infected persons soon die in ordinarily pure air, and, also, if deposited on straps or elsewhere, die off rapidly, except in damp weather, merely from drying up.

"Many persons who are quite well, apparently, carry disease germs about with them. One in every 500 persons in New York is supposed to carry diphtheria germs in the throat, although the disease does not develop in more than one in fifty cases, except when the weather is stormy or otherwise especially trying. Many persons, also, who do not become ill carry the germs of consilitis, bronchitis and other throat diseases with them.

Passing on Disease

"By putting his hand in his mouth and later grasping a street car strap, such a person may deposit germs on the strap, and so pass on a disorder from which he has not suffered himself, and of which he is the unwitting transmitter. It is probable that the streptococci found on the street car straps which were analyzed recently were deposited in that way. To 'catch' a disease of the class mentioned from a street car strap, however, you would have to put your own hand in your mouth after clinging to an infected strap.

"And, while there is some slight danger from infection by this method, there is quite as much danger of infection from shaking hands with a consumptive person, and in a dozen other ways. Dr. Baldwin of Saranac Lake has had consumptives wash their hands in sterilized water, after which the water has been analyzed. In practically every case of this sort it has been found that the water contained enough bacilli of tuberculosis to kill a guinea pig.

Depositing Eye-diseases

"Although not found on any of the straps analyzed by the New York Health Department, the germs of various eye diseases, such as ophthalmia, virulent conjunctivitis and trachoma—brought to this country from southern Europe, where it was introduced from Egypt—might be deposited readily on straps, railings and elsewhere by one suffering from such a disorder, after rubbing the diseased eye. These diseases may be, and often are, transmitted by contact, either with persons suffering from them, or with surfaces of other kinds, as well as straps which they have touched.

"One per cent. of those who have suffered from typhoid fever carry germs with them. The New York Health Department is now dealing with a remarkable case of this sort—a woman cook who had typhoid years ago, but is now in robust health. As reported in the newspapers last spring, typhoid has appeared in several households in which she has been the cook. That she was the cause of the fever in a family on Long Island, by whom she was employed, was not discovered until after the regular family doctor, a well-known bacteriologist and a sanitary engineer of reputation, had all sought vainly for the fever's cause.

"When, at last, the mystery was unravelled, she was taken in charge by the health authorities as altogether too dangerous a person to be at large. She is still confined to the North Brother Island Riverside Hospital, and there is no telling when she will be set at liberty."

Summing up the case for and against the street car strap, Dr. Park concludes that it is as dangerous as any other substance with which persons suffering from communicable disease habitually come in contact, and no more so. It is conceivable that various diseases have been contracted from infected straps, but in the nature of things there is no way of tracing any such case.

The Fight Against Germs

The danger from disease germs of every kind is much less to-day than even a few years ago. As the science of bacteriology is brought to a higher state; as the nature of disease germs and the means of destroying them are better understood, the control of germ diseases will improve from year to year. At the present time more men and vastly more money are engaged in fighting disease through scientific research than ever before, and the fight is being carried on in every civilized land.

The names of Koch, the German, and Pasteur, the Frenchman, always will be associated with this fight, no matter how far beyond their furthest advances the anti-germ contest may progress. The Pasteur Institute in Paris is the most efficient and most famous centre of the anti-germ war to-day, with the Imperial Institute of Infectious diseases at Berlin a good second. The Jenner Institute of Preventive Medicine in London is in the same class and is doing great work.

In the States, the Rockefeller Institute, opened in New York a year or more ago, and of which Dr. Simon Flexner is the director; the Memorial Institute in Chicago, founded by Harold S. McCormick, of which Dr. Ludvig Hektoen is the director; the Phipps Laboratory in Pittsburg, and the tuberculosis department of the Carnegie Institute are, are all bound to be important factors in the fight against the germs. Mr. McCormick is the son-in-law of the founder of the Rockefeller Institute; the Memorial Institute was established in memory of a little daughter who died of scarlet fever, and, consequently, much of the institution's work has been directed specifically to the study of that disease, and others, such as measles and whooping cough, to which children are peculiarly susceptible.

Great Germ Fighter

Hektoen's work, both as director of the Memorial Institute and in the Rush Medical School connected with the University of Chicago entitles him to be counted among the germ fighters who are worth while in that country. It might be supposed from his name that he is of foreign birth, but he is a native of Wisconsin, the son of one of the Swedish immigrants, who have made so deep an impress upon the northwest, and have added one of its most interesting elements to the modern composite American race. Dr. Hektoen is still young, being only 44, and has plenty of time before him in which to prosecute the fight. He is a graduate of Decorah College, Iowa, but he studied also at Prague, Berlin, Vienna and the University of Wisconsin. He has had to make his own way in the world, and one of the rounds of his ladder was the post of coroner's physician in Chicago, which he held from 1890 to 1894.

He is much interested in the curious discovery by an Englishman, A. E. Wright, of substances in the blood which he terms "opsonins" and which by their effects upon the germs, he says, act as "appetisers" to the whole corpuscles of the blood, and so enable them to destroy many more germs than they could do without such stimulus. Dr. Hektoen is not lacking in breadth, but he is a great detail man, and does much of his original work with his own hands.

Another Prominent Scientist

Dr. Flexner, a Kentuckian by birth, is the same age as Hektoen. Flexner is of Jewish descent, and he took post-graduate courses at Johns Hopkins, the University of Strassburg and the University of Berlin, after getting his M. D., degree at the University of Louisville. He is little and slight, with spectacled, blue gray eyes and close cropped hair, that is too grey for 44, yet he doesn't look old beyond his years. To tell the truth he might be taken for a either five years less or five years older than he really is. He works like a dynamo. He has absorbed a rather German air from his long residence at German universities, and because of a protracted stay in Japan where he went to see what the little Brown scientists of the Rising Sun empire were doing in bacteriology some years ago, is a great admirer of these Orientals.

He isn't an easy many to interview, and he has never been known to say anything in advance in regard to his work save once. That was just after his appointment as director of the institute, and even then he declined to give details.

It was because of a discovery that is bound to be of great value in the treatment of intestinal diseases made soon after the death of a Rockefeller grandson that Dr. Flexner was chosen director of the new institute, which was only projected then. At that time he was only 40, but famous already, having been sent to the Philippines to study tropical diseases and also having made some important discoveries regarding snake bites. He is the first man since Dr. Weir Mitchell's youth to make an exhaustive study of serpent's venom. Flexner was on the staff of the University of Pennsylvania when chosen director, and had a big collection of rattlesnakes there. An anti-snake poison serum, is said to be numbered among his discoveries, which has proved its ability to save the life of a snake-bitten man, once at least. He is unmarried.

Pathological Expert

Dr. Flexner is "very good friends" indeed with Dr. William H. Welch, the pathological expert of Johns Hopkins, and was long his assistant, becoming famous when a little over thirty for bacteriological discoveries made while working for him. Dr. Welch is fifteen years older than Flexner; wonderfully broad in his work, and also, if the words of half a dozen well known bacteriologists of to-day, be taken at their face value, wonderfully helpful to others of his profession, especially to the younger men in whom he sees signs of ability. As a teacher he is said to have inspired the original work of several men who are more than usually worth while, and while his own discoveries have not been numerous, he has done a great deal to harmonize, co-ordinate and make effective the work of others.

He was born in Connecticut, was at the Bellevue Hospital Medical College, New York, when Johns Hopkins was opened, and was then called to the latter institution. Dr. Osler, who was so mis-quoted about the "uselessness" of men past forty, a few years ago, was called to Johns Hopkins, at the same time. A little later the rule was made to admit no student to the university who had never taken a bachelor's degree, something that neither Osler nor Welch had ever attained.

"It's good for us that we got faculty jobs, isn't it, Osler?" queried Welch, with a grin, when this regution was made.

Mosquitoes and Disease

The most remarkable bacteriological work done by American scientists, was the discovery and development, after the Spanish war, by Drs. Reed, Finlay, Lazear, and Agramonte, that mosquitoes transmit yellow fever and malaria. Lazear and Carroll allowed themselves to be bitten by infected mosquitoes; Lazear died of the fever, but Carroll lived. He is now in good health; Reid died about a year ago. Agramonte is the only one of this noteworthy quintet of investigators who is both alive and well at this time.

Dr. F. G. Novy, professor of bacteriology, at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, has done something worth while in his investigations of the African sleeping sickness or trypanosom, which belongs to the same class of diseases as malaria — i. e., it is transmitted by protozoa passed by insects as mosquitoes pass yellow fever. The sleeping sickness is passed by a black fly. Dr. Novy has worked to perfection a serum which he finds efficacious with animals, although it has never been tried on man. The doctor has never been in Africa, but he had the germs of the sleeping sickness brought here in rats and in blood sealed up in test tubes. He was the first to reproduce the sleeping sickness germ in artificial media. Similar germs exist here in rats and birds, but do not produce the sleeping sickness in them or in man. The serum has not yet been used in Africa; there they are using certain chemicals and are beginning to get results analagous to those obtained in fever cases by the use of quinine.

Good Work in Tuberculosis

Dr. T. M. Prudden, professor of bacteriology and pathology at the New York College of Physicians and Surgeons, a big strong man of the old style country doctor type, has done exceptionally good work in tuberculosis. Dr. Jas. A. Ewing of Cornell's medical department — located in New York, by the way, not Ithica, —and director of the Loom's Institute, is also furthering the anti-germ fight along many lines.

EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES OF PETERBOROUGH

The High Rank Obtained by the Peterborough Business College

The facilities for acquiring an education in Peterborough, rank high—so high, indeed, that many of our taxpaying citizens are divided in the opinion as to whether or not they are too high.

In addition to the facilities for higher education provided by our Collegiate Institute, and our nine public and separate schools, now so effectively covering the outlying district of the city, the Peterborough Business College has come to rank as one of our most valued educational institutions. It is here that so many scholars after leaving our public school, take advantage of the excellent opportunities afforded for a business training. For this reason the Peterborough Business College has become indispensable to our people, as a school for equipping our young men and women for the active business experiences of life.

Beginning of a new Term

The fall term of this College opened on Tuesday last, and, judging by the attendance each day since, indications point to a much larger roll of students in attendance than ever before. Every season parents seem to become more and more impressed with the specific advantages which are obtainable by their boys and girls, in this well managed institution. Special classes are set aside for shorthand, type-writing, book-keeping, penmanship, banking and commercial work. The thorough training which students receive in these branches, become a valuable asset to the young student who passes out to help in the practical business activities of the world.

Equipment and Staff

There may be larger, but there are none better, equipped, business schools in Canada, and Peterborough has ample demonstration of the fact in the marked success which its students have achieved.

Mr. William Pringle, the principal and head of the College, has, during the past twelve years, established an enviable reputation, not only for his thoroughness and ability in fitting graduates for the very best positions in business concerns, but by his personal qualities and live interest in educational affairs, has won the confidence and respect of our citizens. His staff of assistant instructors is efficient; they are specialists in their own line, a fact which every season affords substantial proof of in the results attained and superior service rendered.

Students Interests Watched

The College maintains an employment department, which looks carefully after its students who have completed their courses. All who are looking for the best in the business school line should possess the information that is always available regarding the Peterborough Business College. The students who attend this College are not by any means confined to the city or county of Peterborough. Many come from outside, hundreds of miles from here, where the excellent work and the good influences maintained have become known. The city, as a consequence, receives incidental advantages which are worth referring to. Homes and boarding places have to be provided for the students from outside the city, and, in every case, considerable expense money must be spent here during each term. The fact is also impressed that it is the homes of the industrial classes, principally, that receive the substantial advantages from the opportunities this school affords. For, it is doubtful, if in any other way, can a young man or young woman in the same time and with as little expense, be fitted to fill a position of responsibility, and secure in return as large a salary.

During the holiday vacation the interior of the College has been thoroughly renovated and put in the most sanitary condition—a matter in which Mr. Pringle exercises great care.

Should Advocate An Old Boys' Carnival

Business Man Suggests That One Be Held in Peterborough Next Summer—Has Been Success in Other Places

IT MAY BE TAKEN UP

"What you newspaper men should advocate," said a well known business man to the Examiner last night, "is a carnival and Old Boy's Reunion for next summer." He went on to refer to the success of such attractions in Hamilton and other places, where thousands of old boys and girls came back to see the old town and the carnival was a grand success.

The idea is a good one and might profitably be considered by those interested in the welfare of the city. It is a long time since Peterborough has had a celebration worthy of the name, and this proposal if carried out would no doubt prove the same success here as it has done in other places.

Of course, if the matter is to be taken up steps should be taken at once to get things into shape.

Respecting Mr. Mowat, B. A., Successor To Mr. D. Walker

Something Good About the Gentleman Who Succeeds Him as Public School Inspector

IS HIGHLY RECOMMENDED

Good old Homer's proverbial wisdom, "Welcome the coming, speed the parting guest," may apply very aptly to the departure of Mr. Duncan Walker, Public School Inspector, and the arrival of his successor, Mr. A. Mowat, B.A., late Principal of the Brockville Collegiate Institute. In Mr. Walker, the city schools lose the services of an ideal inspector, the value of whose services in this capacity cannot be over-valued. But human experience shows that this is not a one-man world. It is, indeed, rarely—if it has ever occurred—that for a man occupying an eminent position in any sphere of human activity, and performing its duties in the most satisfactory manner, a worthy successor has not been found, and it would seem that the matter of our Public School Inspectorate does not furnish an exception. It is no disparagement to our "departing guest," Mr. Walker, to say that, from all that can be learned, Mr. Mowat will be a worthy successor. Having in mind the great importance of our public schools and the relation to their standing and efficiency of efficient supervision, the Examiner has made careful inquiry as to Mr. Mowat, and the information gained seems to justify the expectation that he will make an excellent successor to Mr. Walker—a condition that will be eminently satisfactory.

The press of Brockville, where Mr. Mowat has spent six years as principal of the Collegiate Institute, speaks very highly of his work, and Mr. Derbyshire, M.P., when in the city a few days ago, personally testified to the same effect. Mr. Mowat's experience and educational qualifications also point in the same direction.

Mr. Mowat is in the prime of adult life. He is forty-two years old, an age that suggests physical competence, mental balance, and maturity of judgment. He is a native of Scotland, but has lived in Ontario since childhood. He received his Public School training in the county of Haldimand, and his secondary education in Aylmer (Ont.) Collegiate Institute, and Toronto University, from which, in 1891, he graduated with honours in philosophy, English and history. His teaching experience has extended over nearly twenty years, embracing the valuable experience gained in the position of principal of a large Public School for four years, and sixteen years in Collegiate Institute and High School work in Meaford, Seaforth and Brockville, his efficiency creating successive calls upon his services, which have been of the most satisfactory character. Brockville parts with Mr. Mowat with deep regret and a distinct sense of loss, which seem to be very fully justified by the fact of his pedagogic qualifications and his success in educational work. Coincident confirmation of his fitness as a successor of Mr. Walker, perhaps, consists in the fact that Mr. Walker was at one time Mathematical Master of the Brockville Collegiate Institute, and, as a further coincidence, Dr. Packenham, of the Education Department, Toronto, by the way, a former Peterborough boy, says that the Board could not have made a better selection. On the strength of what others, qualified to know, say of Mr. Mowat, and of his record, the Examiner feels justified in very cordially welcoming him to Peterborough, with the hope that his work will result in the preservation and promotion of Peterborough's paramount interest—that of its Public Schools. If expectations are realized, the city will soon learn to value Mr. Mowat as highly as Brockville does. The Times of that town has the following to say:—

Brockville people generally, and more especially those who take an interest in the affairs of the Collegiate Institute, will be painfully surprised to learn that the institution is about to suffer a great loss by the resignation of the popular and efficient principal, A. Mowat, B.A., who has been tendered and has accepted the position of inspector of public schools for Peterborough. Out of twenty-nine applicants, Mr. Mowat was the unanimous choice, which speaks volumes in educational circles throughout this province. He received word yesterday of his selection and at once wired his acceptance, conditionally that he be allowed to remain in Brockville until November 1st, in order to give the B. C. I. Board ample opportunity to fill his place.

Following the resignation of two other excellent members of the staff, Messrs. Bryan and Emery, that of the principal now comes with crushing effect.

When seen this morning by a Brockville Times representative Mr. Mowat expressed his deep sense of regret at leaving Brockville, especially at a time when the work of the fall and winter term, initiated by him, must of necessity be turned over to another man. The new position in Peterborough affords a wider scope for work at an increased salary and he felt duty bound to better his position. Mr. Mowat came to Brockville from Seaforth six years ago and in that time has brought the B.C.I. to such a high standard of efficiency that it now ranks among the leaders of Ontario. He inspired confidence in those associated with him on the staff and by his gentlemanly bearing and affable manner won the love and esteem of the pupils. His conduct of the C. C. I. has been such as to win the approval of parents, the members of the Board and citizens generally. The removal of his estimable wife and family from Brockville will be shared in with equal regret.

Two Months In Gaol For Seventeen Year Old Boy

Jos. Reynolds Who Stole William Stuart's Roll Given Light Sentence—His First Offence

FOWLER WAS DISCHARGED

William Stuart, the Cavan man who was robbed of his roll of money on Tuesday evening, had fifty dollars returned to him to-day, and Joseph Reynolds, the boy who committed the act, was sentenced to two months in the county jail with hard labour. Geo. Fowler, the lad who was in company with Reynolds and Stuart, was discharged with a warning to keep from evil ways and crime. This is the end of a case which marked one boys' first appearance in court, and it was a very serious charge. His Worship said that he was giving the boy a light sentence, but the crime was one which is not infrequent in this city. He said that there is a certain number of blackguards who loaf around hotels and the bar-rooms, waiting to hold up helpless men who become drunk. Young Reynolds is only 17, and in the past has always had a good character, but His Worship said that his act was not committed impulsively, but after deliberation. Reynold's father paid a fine of $17.25, following which sentence was passed.

The Act

In the charge against Fowler, Reynolds gave evidence and told the story of the robbery. He was driving with Mr. Stuart about seven o'clock Tuesday evening near the corner of Reid and Smith streets, when they met Fowler. Stuart was very drunk and, after driving for a long time Fowler got out of the buggy with Stuart's money. He handed Reynolds a ten-dollar bill and then put the rest in Stuart's pocket again. They returned to Peterborough and Fowler got out of the buggy near Jackson Park. When alone with Stuart, Reynolds took the rest of his money. Stuart says he was robbed of over ninety dollars, and in that case there is forty dollars still unaccounted for. Considerable evidence was taken, but it was of no direct issue on the case. Stuart himself had no recollection of the evening, and it remained with the two boys. Fowler was discharged by His Worship, as there was not enough evidence to show that he had taken any of the money. Mr. R. F. McWilliams appeared for Fowler, and Mr. R. E. Wood represented the Crown.

The Doctor's First Question

Almost the first question a doctor puts to his patient is in reference to the action of the bowels. By keeping the bowels regular you avoid the serious derangements of the liver and kidneys and can defy colds and contagious diseases. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills assure prompt movements of the bowels, and by their action on the liver thoroughly cure constipation.

POWDER MAGAZINE TO BE LOCKED

Those Who Carry Keys to Get Instructions—An Extra Door in City Buildings

JANITOR TO BE APPOINTED

Among the questions considered by the Property Committee of the City Council last night were those pertaining to the alleged laxity of those entering the powder magazine, the alteration of the plans for remodelling of the old fire hall and the caretaking of the city buildings. Those present were Chairman McIntyre, Ald. Elliott, Towey, Morgan, Stevenson, Mayor McWilliams, City Engineer Hays and Sanitary Inspector Ball.

The question of proposed changes regarding the alterations of the old fire hall and city buildings was discussed, but the original plans of the city engineer were left unchanged with the exception of an extra door. This will be placed in the partition between the City Treasurer's office and that of the Assessors' to permit of access throughout the various rooms of the officials.

Ald. McIntyre on Thursday night visited the powder magazine on the banks of the Otonabee, which has recently caused alarm to Mr. David Doig, who resides near by. The chairman reported that a number of the hardware men of Peterborough, as well as the government, held keys for the magazine. After some discussion it was moved by the Mayor, seconded by Ald. Stevenson, that the City Clerk be authorized to write the various parties holding keys and that they be informed to be careful in locking the doors.—Carried.

Some time ago Mr. Richard Sheehy applied to the council for a portion of land, about 54 feet by 66 feet, on the north side of the C. P. R. bridge, to the rear of the T. Kinnear building for the purpose of storing stone. Mr. Sheehy offered to pay $25 a year for the lease annually. It was moved by Ald. Elliott that the lease of the land be granted to Mr. Sheehy for one year for the sum of $25. This was seconded and carried.

The janitress of the city buildings wrote the committee, tendering her resignation as caretaker, recommending another woman. The committee considered that a male caretaker was needed around the building.

It was moved by the Mayor, seconded by Ald. Elliott, that a janitor and messenger for the city buildings be advertised for at a salary of $450 per year and that the applications be received up to Sept. 14th.—Carried.

A Good Picture

Saturday's Examiner gives a lengthy interview with Mr. Robert Fair on his Old Country trip. A snapshot of himself and Mr. J. C. C. sits his white charger as becomes a veritable King Billy at a Twelfth of July celebration. Mr. Fair is, apparently, too fair to take a good picture. —Millbrook Reporter.

BUTTER WAS SCARCE AT TO-DAY'S MARKET

Fruit Plentiful and Vegetables Offered at Good Prices

This morning's market was the largest this year and a pleasing sight to the ladies who were seeking the products of the farm. It was the most representative market of the year also. The reason is, of course, that the harvest season is now here and fruits and vegetables are in abundance. There was a large supply of blue plums and green [illegible] selling at 2c to 25c per quart. Lamb was offered at 12c and 14c. Duchess apples sold at two pecks for 25c, and tomatoes at 40c per basket. Potatoes sold as usual at $1 per bag. Butter was very scarce and was disposed of at 27c, and eggs were again 18c a dozen. Chickens and ducks were plentiful, the former selling at from 50c to 65c per pair, the latter from 65c to 90c per pair.

THE TAILORS AND THE UNION LABEL

What it Means to Have the Emblem on Your Clothing

The union label on clothing is emblematic of skill in tailoring and entails no extra cost on the wearer. It makes business—it brings business.

It guarantees that the tailor is paid sufficient wages.

You can order it on your tailoring without extra cost. It ensures good sanitary workrooms and cleanly conditions.

It also ensures good wages.

It is a guarantee of superior workmanship.

It is used by the shops doing the best tailoring.

Certain shops in the city have been in the habit of taking orders for tailored clothing and sending the work out of the city to be done by sweat shop methods. The work of course is poorly done and of a very inferior grade. Always demand the union label on your clothing and you will stamp out this imposition.

Andrew Carnegie Assists With Many Libraries

According to Report of Deputation He Gave $142,000 to Six Institutions Visited in Western Ontario

A COMPREHENSIVE REPORT

Among the more important questions taken up by the Property Committee at its meeting last night, was the consideration of the report of the deputation westward to view the public libraries, with a view to the fitting up of the building here in the best possible manner. The deputation consisted of Ald. McIntyre and Morgan; Mr. William Blackwell, architect, and part of the time by Mr. William Pringle.

The itinerary of the deputation was through the following cities and towns in western Ontario: Toronto, Guelph, Berlin, Galt, Brantford, Paris, Hamilton, St. Catharines.

Ald. McIntyre, chairman of the Property Committee, read the report which was of a very comprehensive character. He gave in it dimensions and plans of a number of the libraries visited and the systems used in attending to the books, etc. It was also shown that out of eight buildings described six of them were assisted by Mr. Andrew Carnegie. The total amount granted by him to Galt, St. Catharines, Brantford, Guelph, Berlin and Paris libraries, was $142,000.

"We have procured the Educational Department report for 1906, which gives a plan of several of these buildings, and we hope that the information obtained will be of service to the committee and the council.

"Our observations of these libraries, and the information obtained, lead to the conclusion that the building for this purpose is better with the main, or ground, floor, elevated at least six feet above the ground level, and so situated that light may be obtained from all sides. Some of the buildings, in addition to having light from all sides, obtain light from the roof as well."

Ald. Elliott, on hearing the report, complimented Ald. McIntyre, and the rest of the deputation, and moved, seconded by the Mayor, to this effect. The motion was carried.

Athletic Club For City Is Now Being Proposed

A Union to Govern All branches of Sport in Peterborough—Some Local Enthusiasts Working in Matter

IT IS A FEASIBLE SCHEME

A proposal that has been discussed by a number of local gentlemen who are interested in amateur sport during the past week, is the forming of an athletic union in the city that would control all branches of athletic sport. It is proposed to have the different branches of athletics under the one mangement, which, it is pointed out, would have a very beneficial effect upon the different games played here and would tend to give stronger teams in all lines.

The scheme on its face looks like a very reasonable and feasible proposition. It is the intention if such a plan is carried out to acquire control of an athletic grounds upon which the outdoor games could be played and where a club house could be erected for the accommodation of members. Everyone would be invited to join the club and the fee would be placed at a figure that would be within the reach of every one and yet be high enough to pay for all necessary expenses. The payment of the annual fee would entitle the member to all privileges of the club and he would be able to play any or all of the games in which the club partakes. With such a club in existence there would be a better chance, financially then under the present system inasmuch if one branch of sport proved unprofitable another would make up for it. Then there would always be a band of enthusiasts at the back of the various teams who would have the effect of booming he stock of the club in more ways than one.

As yet of course no step has been taken towards the organization of such a club, although a number of enthusiasts in various lines of sport have spoken to the Examiner on the subject and there is a strong possibility of something more definite along this line in a short time. Those to whom it has been mentioned have been struck with the desirability of such a step and no doubt it would receive enthusiastic support from the citizens generally, if it is brought up at a public meeting.

JUNIOR O.R.F.U. TEAM PROBABLE

Quakers Will Wait for the Action of the O. R. F. U. Executive

A meeting of the Quaker Rugby Club was called last night for the purpose of organizing the club for the season, but after discussing the prospects for the season it was decided to postpone the election of officers and other business until the position of the O. R. F. U. in regard to the junior series is made clear. The Quakers are desirous of putting a team in the junior O. R. F. U., but until the senior club decides upon what action it will take and the question of whether or not there will be an age limit on the junior series the club will not be able to accomplish much.

A great deal of enthusiasm was displayed among those present, it was felt that there was plenty of material in the city for a fast junior team and every effort will be made to go ahead with the scheme if it is at all feasible.

THE CRESCENT CLUB WAS ORGANIZED

Intend to Have a City League Team This Year

The Crescent Rugby Club had a good meeting last night, when the team was got under way for the coming season with prospects that seem very bright. A dozen of the boys met at the Y.M.C.A. and decided that they would play again under the old Crescent name. The following officers were elected:—

President—Geo. MacDonald.

Vice-President—Jas. Lang.

Sec.-Treas.—Harry Theobald.

Executive—Charlie Ray, D. Stone and Harvey Staunton.

Manager—Harvey Staunton.

It is the intention of the Crescents to put a team in the city league if it is formed. The boys are all anxious to get back into the game, and with some new material should be fairly strong.

The wing line is a good one and should be much better this season.

Practice will be held on Wednesday evenings and on Saturday afternoons at the Nicholls oval. The following players are asked to turn out: Seymour, Staunton, MacDonald, Stone, Elliott, Ford Turner, G. Cumming, Brown, Roy Turner, Reed Jewell, Ray, Letellier, Wetherstone, Curtis, Flowers, and those interested in the team.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery, and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, the glow of health disappears, and beauty curves give place to leanness an dangles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, weak and nervous.

Recent Engagement Gives Paris a Shock—Tribesmen Got Within Quarter of Mile of French Camp—France and Spain to Occupy Littoral Ports—Other Powers Have Given Their Consent.

Paris, Sept. 7.—A most important change, the Associated Press is informed, has occurred in the political aspect of the Moroccan question, a change which may have a far-reaching effect on the future of Morocco and the relations of the powers thereto. France and Spain have the intention to occupy the littoral ports of Morocco with their own forces and establish police organizations. This contemplated action results from the official announcement of the Moroccan Government, through the War Minister, El Gabbas, that it is unable to guarantee the safety of the European instructors of the international police force, which under the terms of the Algeciras convention was to be composed of Moors. The dilemma of France and Spain, who by the terms of the Algeciras convention are compelled to organize the international police, was submitted to the signatory powers, including the United States, and they all agreed that the situation demanded that France and Spain police Morocco themselves.

Occupation May Be Lengthy.

Although it is distinctly stipulated that such occupation is merely provisional, or until it is safe to recruit the police from among the Moors, there is a strong feeling that the absolute anarchy reigning in Morocco may mean that this occupation of the ports may be long drawn out and perhaps last indefinitely. Moreover, the occupation of the ports may cause serious complications, resulting from the continued hostility of the fanatical Moors, a hostility which may compel an enlargement of the police action and culminate in a virtual military control of the Moroccan empire. This, however, will depend on the attitude of the Moors.

France has planned to occupy Masagan, Mogador, Safi and Rabat, and Spain is to occupy El Araish and Tetuan. France and Spain torether will occupy Casablanca and Tangier.

Paris, Sept. 7.—The Petit Parisienne declared yesterday that another complication has arisen in the shape of grave disquiet among the Senisnassen tribesmen near Oudja and the Algerian frontier. Oudja, which is in Morocco, has been occupied by a French force for some months. The military authorities, the paper declares, are most anxious and are preparing to [illegible] troops from Algeria.

The more comprehensive reports of the engagement of Tuesday show it to have been much more serious than was first stated. The correspondent of The Matin at Casablanca telegraphs as follows: "The engagement of Tuesday gave some idea as to the obstacles that an expedition into the interior have to encounter and the number of men needed. The march made by the French troops Tuesday was the longest one yet, and marks the utmost that Gen. Drude can possibly do with the force at his disposal. The column had all the cavalry and field artillery, yet this strong force, made up of picked men, whose armament can be described as crushing compared to that of the Moors, was heavily engaged throughout the entire encounter. It was compelled to give ground in three places at once, and it was threatened by Moors, who got within a quarter of a mile of the camp. It cannot now be said that the wild energy of the natives is due to ignorance of our forces. On the contrary, they return to the fray with greater courage and increased numbers after each engagement."

To Stop Alarming Rumors.

Tangier, Sept. 7.—Responding to a request of the diplomatic corps that he is to take steps to arrest the next exodus of people from Tangier caused by the prevalence of local disorders and the circulation of false, alarming reports, the Moroccan War Minister, El Gabbas, yesterday proposed the institution of a summary tribunals before which malefactors and persons guilty of circulating damaging rumors could be brought. A note sent in for the purposes of the powers and proposed tribunal was sent to the delegates, and all the representatives of the powers, with the exception of the Spanish Minister, signed it. Fearing that the terms of the note might conflict with the wording of the Algeciras convention, the Minister of Spain requested to be allowed to submit the document to the authorities at Madrid before giving his adhesion to it.

Leaves Seal With Another.

London, Sept. 7.—The Lord Chancellor, Lord Loreburn, sailed for Canada on the Empress of Britain yesterday. He will visit Niagara Falls and possibly New York.

This is the first occasion on which the Lord Chancellor has left the United Kingdom; the law forbids that the great seal of which he is the custodian be taken out of the country.

It is supposed to be constantly kept in his personal custody, but Lord Loreburn had arranged for safeguarding the seal during his absence.

Carleton Place, Sept. 7.—Angus Cameron, an old resident, was killed in the railway yard yesterday afternoon by a train which was being shunted.

He was engaged in trimming up the track when the cars backed on him.

Woman Acquitted.

New York, Sept. 7.—Mrs. Laura M. Carter, who has been on trial for a week on the charge of receiving $10,000 of the $96,000 Chester B. Runyan, the defaulting teller of the Windsor Trust Co., stole from the bank, was acquitted yesterday.

PHYSICIAN SHOT.

Wife Placed Under Arrest Charged With Murder.

Brazil, Ind., Sept. 7.—Dr. Edward Glasgo, a physician, is dead from three bullet holes through his head, and his wife is slightly wounded in the left breast as a result of a mysterious shooting Thursday night.

Glasgo and his wife had separated. Glasgo applying for a divorce. Mrs. Glasgo, accompanied by Attorney Charles Whitlock of Terre Haute, drove to a brick plant, where Glasgo was to try to arrange a settlement of alimony. Whitlock got out of the buggy and Glasgo got in and started to drive back to the city when the shooting occurred.

The woman was placed under arrest, charged with the murder of her husband. Attorney Whitlock also is being held by the police. Mrs. Glasgo says her husband tried to shoot her and then shot himself. Glasgo's wounds are such that physicians say he could not have inflicted them himself.

Arctic Steamer Lost.

London, Sept. 7.—It is reported from Mount Athabasca Landing, in the Canadian Northwest, that the steamer Duchess of Bedford, on which the Mikkelsen Arctic expedition was working its way into the polar regions, has been lost.

All the reports agree on this, but there is uncertainty as to whether Capt. Mikkelsen was with the ship when she went down.

The news was brought to Athabasca Landing by a steamer in the service of the Hudson Bay Co.

Antwerp Strike Broken.

Antwerp, Sept. 7.—Work was resumed here yesterday on all the steamers, where 4,000 strike-breakers are employed. No further disorders occurred.

ANOTHER DISASTROUS TRAIN WRECK

Craze For Speed Causes Yet Another Accident.

CRASHED INTO FREIGHT CARS

Twelve Dead and a Dozen Injured—Engineer Was Trying to Make Up Lost Time—Occupants of Smoking-Car Suffered Most—Train Jumped the Track — Both of the Locomotives Were Wrecked.

Waterloo, Ia., Sept. 7.—Twelve persons were killed and 12 others injured in the wreck of an express train on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad at Norris, Ia., yesterday. The express train, northbound, jumped the track while going at full speed and crashed into a freight train standing on the siding.

The dead: P. B. Aliver, Waterloo; Will Goodman, Waterloo; John M. Watson, Waterloo; C. Landpore, Shellrock, Ia.; W. Ray Johnston, Dikes, Ia.; B. R. Christy, Minneapolis; Lepevan Toj, Hammond, Ind.; W. H. Meyers, baggageman; four unidentified men.

The injured will all probably recover.

All of the dead and injured were in the smoking-car, which was immediately behind the baggage and mail cars. The smoking car was demolished.

The northbound express was ten minutes late at Norris, where the freight train was waiting. The express came along at terrific speed in an effort to make up time. Just as the locomotive of the passenger train was about to pass the freight locomotive, the trucks of the former left the track and the moving engine crushed into the engine on the freight, wrecking both locomotives and telescoping the baggage and the mail cars and demolishing the smoking-car.

The passengers in the two rear coaches following the smoking-car escaped with a violent shaking up.

Rescuers were immediately at hand to care for the injured and take the dead from the wreckage.

GOT INFERNAL MACHINE.

But St. John Carpenter Opened Box Under Water.

St. John, N. B., Sept. 7.—An infernal machine made out of a child's pencil-box, with sliding cover, was handed to Joseph Taylor, a stage carpenter at St. John Opera House on Thursday night. Taylor, being suspicious, thrust the parcel into water, thus averting being badly mangled.

The cover slid back, exposed an elastic band attached to lid and a piece of sandpaper. The lid, snapped, would ignite three quick-firing matches, a piece of cotton wool and a large powder charge.

The parcel bore a stamp, but no postmark, and was handed in by two boys. The police are now in charge of the case.

A similar machine was delivered here some years ago and the recipient was badly injured.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

Russian Court-Martial Deals With Mutineers Who Shot Commander.

Kief, Russia, Sept. 7.—A court-martial yesterday sentenced the mutineers of the 21st Battalion of Sappers, who, on June 17, killed the commander of the 3rd Company, began firing volleys at random, and were not subdued until surrounded by five battalions of loyal troops.

Two of the prisoners were condemned to death. Seven were sentenced to periods of imprisonment in the mines, and eighteen received lighter punishment.

Landslides, Not Eruptions.

New York, Sept. 7.—Frank A. Perrett, an assistant in the Vesuvian Observatory, whose action in remaining at his post during last year's eruption of the volcano gained him general commendation, and who is now at his home here on a brief vacation, spoke interestingly in an interview regarding the cabled reports of a new eruption of Mount Vesuvius.

He declared that there could be no eruption at this time, but that there had been landslides in the crater, and that the clouds of dust arising therefrom perfectly resembled a new eruption.

Burned In Their Home.

Williamsport, Pa., Sept. 7.—By the explosion of a lamp in an upstairs room the two young children of Aaron Anderson of Coleman Hollow, Potter County, were burned to death Thursday night. Anderson and his aged father were heipiessiy iii in a room downstairs.

Mrs. Anderson and her ten-year-old son tried to rescue the children, but they failed. Before they could drag the two men out both were so badly burned that they, too, probably will die. Mrs. Anderson had to care for her two-weeks-old baby.

NEWFOUNDLAND RAIL WRECK.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 7.—What came near resulting in one of the worst railway accidents ever happening on the Reid Newfoundland Railway occurred Tuesday afternoon at 5.45. Only one man, the fireman on the locomotive, was injured. He will likely die.

The accident occurred while a train composed of baggage, two second-class and three first-class coaches was whirling along at high speed around a sharp curve at a place called Cookebrook, 15 miles from Bay of Island. On the right-hand side a steep 15-foot embankment runs the length of the curve, while on the other side a slight declivity extends part way.

When the engine reached the end of the turn, the rails parted, throwing the locomotive on the side of the track, overturning the tender, and causing the crowded second-class cars to leave the rails, as well as the forward part of the diner, leaving the first-class coaches safe.

Had not the last second-class car jumped the rails to the left the first-class cars would have been precipitated over the highest part of the steep embankment below which would no doubt have brought death to their occupants.

The engine and mostly all the second-class cars and baggage coach are destroyed, and not a few of the passengers had some slight injury.

Fortunately Dr. D. M. Whittington, a young American lady who has been stationed at one of Dr. Grenfell's hospitals on the Labrador coast, was on board the parlor car, and with the assistance of her trained nurse, rendered valuable help to the injured and to the fireman, who was taken out unconscious from the overturned tender.

NO NEWS OF HINDUS.

Immigration Department and the Bellingham Riots.

Ottawa, Sept. 7—The Dominion Government has had no information concerning the report that 750 Hindus are on their way from Bellingham, in Washington Territory, for British Columbia, nor as to the raid upon Hindus in Bellingham. The only thing that Canada can do to prevent Hindus arriving in Canada is to apply to them the terms of the immigration act in the same way as to other British subjects. That is to say, if there are any undesirables among the Hindus they will be deported. Any of them suffering from disease or likely to become a public charge on the community will not be allowed to land in Canada. Beyond this, which is applicable to British subjects as well as foreigners, there are no restrictions upon Hindu immigration. The immigration department has no information on the matter.

GOT BROKEN NOSE.

But Takes Lady Away From Jealous Rival.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Robert Thompson of Belleville was assaulted last night by Benjamin McGill, an American, because Thompson had obtained the company of Artie Cameron, a young woman of that place now employed in a shoe factory in Rochester.

Thompson and Miss Cameron were in Genesee Valley Park when accosted by McGill. Words passed between the young man, but policemen prevented an outbreak.

An hour later Thompson left the park, and was met in Main street by McGill. The latter struck him in the face and broke his nose in two places.

CANADIAN FRENCH TREATY.

Paris Paper Hopes to See Steamship Line With Canada.

Paris, Sept. 7.—Discussing the new Canadian-French commercial treaty, The Journal yesterday says it hopes it will develop the relations between the two countries, united by ties of blood and friendship, and demonstrate the practical need of a steamship line between the St. Lawrence and the Seine.

It was learned yesterday that France, in giving the minimum rates on many Canadian products, gets from Canada preferential rates on some French products, and the minimum rates on the rest. Some French wines are favorably treated.

Crazy Auto on Ferry.

New York, Sept. 7.—Becoming unmanageable a big automobile plunged through the forward gates of the ferry boat Maine, as she was entering her slip Thursday night, and dived overboard, carrying with it the driver and a passenger on the ferryboat.

A half dozen persons were knocked down by the wild car. The chauffeur, William Nolan, and the passenger, were fished out of the water, but the auto is still at the bottom of the East River.

Freight Steamer Aground.

Kingston, Sept. 7.—The steamer Edmonton, with 75,000 bushels of wheat from Fort William to Montreal, ran aground in a fog and sank Thursday night at the narrows, near Brockville.

PASSENGER SAYS A MILE A MINUTE

SAYS SPEED WAS TERRIFIC

Pace Attracted the Attention of All on Board—Train Had Narrow Escape Previous to Actual Wreck—Mr. Andrew Wilson's Evidence —Victims of Caledon Disaster Are Progressing Favorably.

Toronto, Sept. 7.—Andrew Wilson of Flesherton, one of the injured in the Caledon wreck, declares that the speed of the train was such as to cause him to use his watch. He says the train ran on the following time: Flesherton to Proton, 6 miles, in 6 minutes; Flesherton to Dundalk, 11 miles, in 11 minutes; Flesherton to Shelburne, 23 miles, in 24 minutes; Flesherton to Orangeville, 45 miles, in 43 minutes.

"That train was going at the rate of a mile a minute," said Mr. Wilson. "A friend came and asked me what time the train was making. I told him, and remarked that, allowing for station stops, we would easily reach Toronto in two hours. The train was going at such a rate that it nearly left the tracks a few miles above Orangeville."

The Injured at Orangeville.

Orangeville, Sept. 7.—The victims of the wreck who were being looked after here have most of them returned to their homes, with every hope of a complete recovery from injuries. Dr. Henry reports that the condition of Mr. W. J. Robinson of North Bay, who received injuries to the spine and shoulder, is still serious, and little change has occurred. Mrs. Douglas is improving, and her condition is quite satisfactory. No funerals of any of the victims took place in the town or vicinity yesterday.

CHAINED WIFE TO BED.

Husband Says She Had Become Slave to Drink.

Montreal, Sept. 7.—The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Women and Children is taking up the case of E. H. Quinn, who chained his wife to her bed.

Quinn tells the following story:

"The chain was above her nightdress and so slack that she could undress in it. We were married eight years ago, and for seven years she has been addicted to drink. Two years ago Recorder Weir suspended sentence to give her an opportunity to take a cure. She took treatment for one week, but broke out again. Three months later she was before the recorder again and was sent to the Good Shepherd's Home. She was there one month and had only been out a week when she began drinking again. This spring she was at the home again. Again the period was one month, and this time she kept away from the liquor for four weeks after coming out.

"Since then the drink has been with her a regular disease. Only yesterday she pawned a pair of opera glasses for a dollar."

COBALT PRESIDENT FINED.

Head of Miners' Union Mulcted In Sum of $500.

Cobalt, Sept. 7.—Yesterday morning, after consideration of the points raised by Mr. Ardath, counsel for the Cobalt Miners' Union, Magistrate Brown decided that he had full jurisdiction in the case, and held that the charges against McGuire, the president of the union, came under the scope of the industrial disputes investigation act. Under these circumstances a fine of $500 or six months' imprisonment was imposed.

Mr. Ardath at once gave notice of appeal to a higher court, McGuire being given till the afternoon to perfect his appeal bonds.

On a charge of inciting men to do on strike at Haileybury on July 29 evidence was taken against McGuire, but judgment will be reserved until it is ascertained what verdict is given in the Court of Appeal.

The cases against Roadhouse and Hewitt were gone into yesterday afternoon, but all judgments were reserved.

Took Carbolic Acid.

Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 7.—Charles Boyce of Elmvale, Ont., 26 years old, committed suicide at the Windsor Hotel here yesterday afternoon by taking carbolic acid. He had been in town but a few days. Until a few days ago he was cook on one of the boats running into the Soo.

After drinking some water he proceeded to a small room adjoining the bar and sat down alone, closing the door. Some moments after the barroom and detected the fumes of cartender heard a commotion in the bolic acid. Boyce was found seated in a chair all but unconscious. His hands and face were burned with the acid, and he was unable to speak.

An empty bottle on the floor, procured from a drug store in Owen Sound, and labelled carbolic acid, told the tale. He died in a few minutes.

TRAIN ROBBED IN NEBRASKA.

Three Men Held Up Passengers on Rocky Mountain Limited.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 7.—The Omaha and Rocky Mountain, Limited, Express on the Rock Island, was raided yesterday morning just before daylight, near Murdock, Neb., by three masked men.

The robbers went through the chair car, robbing every passenger therein, accruing the pocketbooks and purses, covered the train crew with revolvers and escaped by leaping from the train.

Railroad detectives and sheriffs' posses are in pursuit, but the robbers have several hours' start on the officers. Shortly after leaving Murdock, the men arose in their seats, their faces covered with masks, and, with revolvers in each hand, covered the passengers.

Then the leader ordered everybody to keep still and not to resist, else they would be shot. Two men went down the aisle with hats in hand, while the third kept the passengers covered. All passengers were ordered to throw pocketbooks into the hats, and this was done.

The conductor appeared in the car with a pistol in his hand, but was promptly covered with four guns and forced to drop his revolver.

After getting all the money in the car, the robbers jumped from the train, which had slowed down for a grade. An attempt was made to enter the sleeper secton, but the door was locked and the attempt was unsuccessful.

A year ago Wirsing eloped with Smith's daughter. Upon the return of the young couple, Smith met Wirsing with a Winchester rifle and shot him in the right arm, shattering the bone, and, it is said, rendering it useless for life.

Smith is now serving a five-year sentence for the shooting.

NO WINES FOR THE YOUNG MAN

Easy Mark Was Taken in by a Polished Gentlemen—Pays $10000 For No Privileges

THINKS HE HAS GOLD BRICK

New York, Sept. 6.—Two clever con men have got by with the best bit pulled off in dear old New York in many, many moons. They sold the bar privileges in the Y.M.C.A. building to Michael Mukassidy, a blacksmith from Hamilton, Ont., for $1,000, and Michael never knew he was stung until he backed a wagon load of nifty bar fixtures up against the entrance and tried to move in the booose stuff and all. Michael is now trying to aid the police in locating the affable gentlemen who took his money for the liquor rights in "an exclusive club."

Michael Mulcassidy, moreover, is not the sort of man with whom the casual bunco man would care to tamper. For years Mr. Mulcassidy pounded sledge on anvil in Hamilton, Ont., until he had accumulated the modest fortune of $1,000 and a little over.

With this Mr. Mulcassidy travelled to New York, knowing that here he should be able to invest it to greatest advantage.

He saw a little adlet in a perfectly respectable New York newspaper offer the wine privileges of an exclusive New York club to the happy possessor of "small capital."

Mr. Mulcassidy did not look upon his capital as small. In his eyes it loomed large. Nevertheless, he thought he could cut it up and let out a little for the wine privilege.

By appointment he met two affable New Yorkers in the Herald Square Hotel. He found them excellent business men, who questioned him narrowly as to his references, and appeared somewhat disinclined to let the bar privilege of the "exclusive club" to a blacksmith.

By pleading with them Mr. Mulcassidy gained their consent to accept his $1,000. As a favour, however, he asked first to be permitted to look over the club.

The affable strangers had bought several bottles of wine in the meantime, and had made a deep impression upon Mr. Mulcassidy. They chartered an electric hansom, and whirled Mr. Mulcassidy through the brightest section of bright New York to the big Y.M.C.A. building at Fifty-eight street.

Mr. Mulcassidy's eyes bulged as he looked over the "club" with his guides. He saw hundreds of young men sitting about reading or talking in the parlours and reading rooms of the club, and more in the gymnasium and looture rooms.

Mr. Mulcassidy painted bright and vivid mental pictures of each of these young men with a highball in his hand, and the grand total assured Mr. Mulcassidy an income that would make his blacksmith shop look like a peanut stand.

Mr. Mulcassidy gratefully paid over his $1,000, and took a certificate granting him the wine privilege of the club.

Saturday Mr. Mulcassidy carted up to the Y.M.C.A. a brand new set of bar fixtures and two truckloads of assorted booze. When his truckman tried to carry the bar fixtures and liquor into the building there were loud outcries from an official.

"Mercy me! Oh, my!" shrieked the official person. "What would you do, man, with that awful stuff?"

"Fade, boy, fade; this gentleman as bought the bar privileges here, and we're going to set the stuff in for him," said the truckman.

"The bar privilege of the Y.M.C.A.!" squealed the officer, aghast with horror. "Why, who ever heard of such a thing?" You must take that awful stuff right away from here."

"I've paid my money for this bar privilege in this club," said Mr. Mulcassidy, "and I'd like to know why I can't bring this stuff in."

"Because this is the Young Men's Christian Association," said the other.

"Well, don't Christians drink?" asked Mr. Mulcassidy as one amazed.

Later he was led away to talk with Chief Micafferty about the matter. It is believed, however, that he will go back to Hamilton and take up blacksmithing again.

THIS FAMILY SHOWS NO RACE SUICIDE

Mrs. Lake is Youngest Daughter in a Family of 22 and Mother of 11

Uniontown, Pa., September 6.—The youngest sister in a family of twenty-two children, and herself the mother of eleven children, Mrs. Henry Lake, of York's Run, near here, is a forceful expenent of the anti-race suicide doctrine of President Roosevelt.

Mrs. Lake was forty-two years old in July, and her husband forty-three last January. Both are natives of England, and were married in county Durham, June 26, 1884. They came America the following February and located in Fayette county, where they still reside.

Of the eleven children born to Mr. and Mrs. Lake, ten are living. There are six boys and four girls. Not one of the boys uses tobacco or liquor in any form, and the oldest son, John, who was 21 on his last birthday, was never away from home over night.

In speaking of the fact that she has ten children living and that there were twenty-two in her father's family, Mrs. Lake said:

"I hope we'll have twenty-two children. I would rather we had eleven more children than lose one of those we already have.

The children and their ages are:—John William, 21; Henry, 18; James, 16; Thomas, 13; Margaret, 11; Annie, 9; David, 7; Leo, 5; Irene, 3; and Mary Francis, 2; Susanna, the second child, died at the age of 9 mothns.

Mr. Lake has worked for eleven years without losing a day except during an attack of typhoid fever, several years ago. The entire family of twelve live in a house of four rooms and also furnish board and room for a young man who works in the neighbourhood.

IT IS A PARASITE

That Causes Itching Scalp' Dandruff, and Finally, Falling Hair

The itching scalp, the falling hair and the dandruff that annoys are the work of a parasite hidden in the scalp. That parasite must be killed to cure dandruff; and the only preparation that will do that is Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect."

C. H. Reed, of Victor, Idaho, says: "Myself and wife had dandruff and falling hair several years. Two bottles of Newbro's Herpicide completely cured us, after several other preparations had failed to do good." Makes hair grow glossy and soft as silk. Hundreds of other testimonials just as strong. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two sizes, 50c and $1. McDermid & Jury, Special Agents.

CANADA'S HIGH CLASS TAILORS

Semi-Ready Company Publishes a Handsome Fashion Plate for Fall—Work of Artists

For the first time in Canada a tailor's fashion plate has been published by a Canadian house, and the artist's work, photo engravings and colour work have all been done in Canada. The fashion plate is now on exhibition in the Semi-ready tailoring store, and it shows the new styles in all the most-worn garments.

Published in conjunction with the fashion plate there is also a booklet, entitled "As Seen by Him," and this shows some of the supplementary styles in new fall and winter overcoats. These booklets are given away free to anyone interested. One of the features of the book is the publication for the first time of the full physique type chart, showing how the Semi-ready system provides for 425 different sizes and figures.

Both book and fashion plate are creditable productions, and prove the skill of the Semi-ready designers. The president of the Semi-ready Company, in a recent review of fashions and fabrics, says:

"Anything decidedly new in woollens is usually brought out in summer, and the chief novelties this fall are impressionistic 'Elephant' shades in dark greys, which gradually shade into warm tones of brown and olive. They are shown in qualities which are bound to make them popular. They are unlike any patterns we have had, and they are of that soft and refined texture which will appeal to gentlemen of good taste. The 'Elephant' fabrics are shown, too, in a dark slate and mouse colour, varying into soft green and brownish shades.

"The new overcoatings are of a variety which will appeal to individual tastes, but the well-known plain black and Oxford grey worsted, cheviots and meltons will find the more adherents. In some countries the beavers and meltons are losing ground, but in Canada's wintry winds these cloths make up in their close weave for the inadequate warmth as compared with the more fleecy llamas and cheviots. Perhaps the smartest production of the Semi-ready is the artistic design of the storm ulster, which is usually quite clumsy in appearance. The materials used are the thick, soft, cheviot-finished Scotch cloths. They make one feel warm just to look at them.

"The dress suits are the chef d'oeuvre of the Semi-ready. The manufacture of these high-class garments has helped to emphasize the pre-eminent advantages of the Semi-ready system of tailoring, for these garments appeal to men who know. Dress suits are made of finest fabrics, with silk linings as good as a $50 suit. The frock coats for the fall season vary but slightly from the designs made for the spring and summer season.

"We do not approve of startling novelties in dress, and we always avoid bizarre patterns and fabrics, for our desire is to appeal to and secure the better class of well-dressed men," concluded the president in his brief talk on good clothes.

DOCTORS IN TURN FAILED BUT ZAM-BUK CURED.

Magistrate F. Rasmussen, writing from his residence, 211 Marquette St., Montreal, says: "I take genuine pleasure in informing you of the great good I have derived from Zam-Buk. For many years I was troubled with a serious eruption of the skin, which was both unsightly and painful. Not one, but several doctors in turn were consulted, but I was unable to get any permanent relief. Some time back I noticed a report from a Justice of the Peace who had been cured of a chronic skin disease by Zam-Buk, and I determined to give this balm a trial. After a thoroughly fair test, I can say I am delighted with it. While everything else I tried—salves, embrocations, washes, soaps and doctor's prescriptions failed absolutely to relieve my pain, three boxes of Zam-Buk have worked a complete cure. In my opinion this balm should be even more widely known than it is, and in the hope that my experience will lead other sufferers to try this herbal healer, I have no objection to you publishing this letter. Yours truly, (Signed) F. RASMUSSEN, Justice of the Peace.

Summer eczema, rashes, sunburn patches, children's heat sores or babies' chafing sores, cuts, burns, bruises, insect bites and stings and all skin injuries and diseases yield to Zam-Buk. All stores and medicine vendors sell at 50c a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 6 boxes for $2.50. (C. E. Pollard Limited.)

How a Railway Train Made it Hot For the Pig

A gentleman recently returned from a fishing expedition, in narrating his exploits with rod and reel, has qualified himself for telling the following story: He was coming up from Millbrook yesterday, and when opposite a cottage close to the track the train struck a party of pigs trespassing on the tracks. One of the pigs was tossed high in the air and alighted on the roof of the summer kitchen, went through it, in its passage scraping off the bristles. The pig lit upon the floor of the kitchen opposite the open door of the oven, which was up to rousing heat. The pig on striking the floor rebounded and landed in the oven where it was cooked and subsequently served for dinner. The relator of the story is employed in a financial institution, but his friends tell him he has missed his calling—he should go into law or politics.

MAKING PROGRESS WITH VESTRY

Addition to St. John's Church is Now Going Ahead Very Rapidly

SOME ARTISTIC WORK DONE

Good progress is being made in the construction of the new vestry building in connection with St. John's Church, upon which the contractors, Messrs. Sherwood and Page, have been at work for the past month. The addition is a substantial one and will be found of great convenience by the people of St. John's. The old vestry at the east side of the church has been torn down and the new building will be built on its site, although, of course, it will be much larger.

When the work is finished no one without previous knowledge of the fact will be able to detect an addition to the church, so closely is the architecture of the building being followed in the construction of the new vestry. The same material, Longford and river stone is being used and the buttresses and gothic arches on the vestry building are the same as on the church.

Very artistic work is being done by the contractors, and when the work is completed it will be a credit, not only to them but to the people of St. John's.

The addition will be two storeys in height.

CELEBRATE THEIR SILVER WEDDING

Happy Re-union Yesterday at Home of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver

Mr. and Mrs David Oliver, of Westcott street, celebrated their silver wedding yesterday. About fifty relatives and friends gathered to rejoice with them. Professor Cooper, the English entertainer, charmed the gathering with music, song and story. The professor can boast of having been born in Buckingham Palace and of being nursed by a princess. Supper was announced at 9.30, the tables being tastefully laid in the large dining room. The bride and groom of twenty-five years were supported at the head of the table by their pastor and wife, the Rev. A. H. and Mrs. Brace. The congratulations were profuse and hearty. The years seem to have set lightly upon their brow and Providence to have dealt kindly with the happy couple. The presents were numerous and costly. The prevailing wish of the happy assembly was that Mr. and Mrs. Oliver may live to celebrate their golden wedding under just as happy circumstances.

Music and Drama

KERRY GOW

"Kerry Gow," the play that made Joseph Murphy famous, was the attraction at the Grand last night, when the house was well filled and an excellent interpretation of the beautiful comedy drama was made. The various roles were in good hands and the company is capable and well balanced. Bernard Daly, in the stellar role of the Kerry Gow, proved himself a worthy successor to Mr. Murphy, being a good actor with an attractive personality and a phenomenal tenor voice of exceptional range. His song was greatly enjoyed.

The play was excellently staged, all the famous scenes that have served to endear the play to theatre-goers, including the scene in the blacksmith shop in which Dan O'Hara makes a horse shoe and shoes a horse; the whole scene being most realistic.

HAMILTON WANTS A NEW UNION

The Tigers Will However Insist Upon Pure and Simple Amateurism

BALLARD'S VIEWS OF IT

Hamilton, Sept. 5. — George Ballard, ex-captain of the champion Tigers, and a member of the executive of the Hamilton football club, who was in Ottawa a few evenings ago, discussing with representatives of the Montreal and Rough Riders football teams the advisability of organizing a new union, to include the Montreal and Rough Riders teams from the Quebec Union, and the Argonauts and Tigers from the Ontario Union, has returned to the city, but when seen this morning refused to say much about the proposal. He said that he would prefer to say nothing until after Saturday night's to be held in Toronto, when the Tigers will be represented by himself and W. H. Seymour, the president of the club.

Mr. Ballard did say, however, that he thought that there was every likelihood of a new union being formed. The Rough Riders, Argos and Tigers were very strongly in favour of the proposal, and he understood that Montreal was just as anxious to see the proposal go through, but that owing to the absence from Montreal of Dr. Irvine, the president of the club, nothing definite could be done for a day or two, as the other members of the Montreal executive did not wish to commit themselves to anything until their president had returned. Mr. Ballard said there were some obstacles in the way, but he thought that it would be possible to overcome them at Saturday night's meeting.

As far as the Tigers are concerned they will be glad to get into a union composed of teams strong enough to give them an argument for the championship. For the past few years they have had things pretty much their own way, not having known what it felt like to be defeated for four years. They however will insist on two things. One is that each club shall pay its own expenses and keep its own gates; and the other is that the players on all the teams shall be amateurs pure and simple. They will not stand for the eastern definition of an amateur. If the eastern teams will agree to these things the local club will do all in its power to help the scheme along. The Hamilton boys would prefer to see the Montreal and Ottawa teams join the O.R.F.U., as they have no desire to turn down the Peterboroughs and Toronto Victorias, but they realize that there is little chance of the easterners agreeing to any such arrangement. The Victorias and Peterboroughs have shown themselves to be good fellows and good sports, but the feeling here is that if there is no other way out of it they should be sacrificed in the interests of the game. Both of these teams have shown that they are scarcely in a class with the Tigers and Argos, and as there is little prospect of their being much stronger this year than they were last it is felt that it would be a farce to continue in a union with them when a much stronger union might be had by dropping them. The eastern teams are in about the same position, the Rough Riders and the Montreals outclassing the St. Patrick's of Montreal, and the Westmounts.

The outcome of Saturday night's meeting will be awaited with a lot of interest by hundreds of Rugby supporters in Hamilton.

RUGBY

The result of the meeting in Toronto to-night, at which the fate of the proposed new rugby union will be decided, will be awaited with interest by the rugby enthusiasts of this city. Those who have studied the matter are of the opinion that the new union will benefit the other teams in the O.R.F.U., and the hope generally expressed here is that the scheme will be carried out. Otherwise the senior series will be the same as last year, with the Tigers, Argos, Vics, and Peterborough. There are, however, some matters that will have to be cleared up before the new union is carried out, and out of these some hitches are likely to arise. The Hamilton club has stated that it will not accept the eastern definition of an amateur and unless the members change their minds the difficulty will be hard to get around.

The Port Hope team will line up as follows:—Surphlis, p; O'Neil, c; Kolb, 1b; O'Hearn, 2b; O'Brien, 3b; Britton, ss; Brown lf; Ross, cf; Benson, rf. This is the strongest nine of the season, and if Peterborough wins they will have to travel some. Mr. Walsh, of Toronto, umpire of the City Amateur League, will handle the indicator in the big game.—The Guide.

The Peterborough ball team, which is playing the second game of the Midland League finals in Port Hope to-day, will have the following line-up: Burridge, c; Flaherty, p; Hickey, 1b; Anderson, 2b; Cheatham, ss; Haliburton, 3b; Murphy, rf; Burns, cf. Another outfielder has been secured by Manager Johnston for the other position in the field.

THE TRIGGER

Word comes from Rice Lake that the duck shooting this year is the best for several seasons. A large number of Peterborough people are trying their luck with the birds, while many American tourists have remained over for a little sport of that kind. Some good bags are being made each evening and morning, and the hunters are more than satisfied with their luck.

Railway Charters Disallowed

Two acts relative to marriage have been passed by the Legislature of the province of Ontario which are believed to be ultra vires. One defines the age at which marriage is lawful without the consent of parents and the other is a special act to annul a marriage that had been solemnized between minors. If on a ruling of the courts the first act is found to be unconstitutional it will render many marriages solemnized since the act became law illegal. With regard to the special act the Federal Department of Justice has always assumed that the Federal Parliament alone has the power to annul marriages in Ontario. It was intended at the last session of Parliament to introduce a bill to confirm the provincial legislation in the special case referred to, but objections were raised by the opposition, and as the matter appeared likely to delay prorogation the bill was dropped for the time, to be reintroduced probably at the coming session. The special case was that of Maria Fauken, aged 17, and Henry Park, aged 18, of Wellington county. The two attended the same Sunday school and on their way home made love. They were married at the house of a minister at Elora, and the girl parted with her juvenile husband at the minister's door, and as soon as the facts became known an appeal was made to the provincial law authorities to have the nuptial knot dissolved, with the above result.

An Increase of $22,090,054.

Canada's foreign trade totalled $214,156,015 in the first four months of the current fiscal period from the first of April to July 31, an increase over the similar period the year before of $22,090,054.

During the four months the imports totalled $131,803,070, an increase of $590,298; animals and their produce, totalled $77,768,121, an increase of $15,470,748. Free imports totalled $51,730,895, an increase of $9,703,760. Duty collected amounted to $20,398,734, an increase of $4,214,436.

There was a decrease in the volume of exports, which were of the value of $82,352,945, the decrease being $1,948,853. During the four months exports of products of the mine showed an increase of $743,838; agricultural products showed an increase of $3,847,874. The decreases in exports for the period were fish, $546,160; lumber, $580,200; animals and their produce, $5,022,373; manufacturers, $342,148.

Folding a Coat.

Here is the way to fold a man's coat when you want to pack it in a box or a trunk. Lay the coat out perfectly flat, right side up. Spread the sleeves out smoothly, then fold them back to the elbow until the bottoms or the cuffs are even with the collar. Fold the revers back and double the coat over, folding it on the center seam. Smooth out all wrinkles and lay it on a level surface in the trunk.

Calculations offer a great many interesting propositions for the studiously inclined. J. Dunk of Baltimore has compiled a rather remarkable arrangement of the title of a song from "Mlle. Modiste"—"I Want What I Want When I Want It." In the following twenty-five squares the words are so arranged that by beginning in the upper left hand corner and reading across or down, not up, the sentence can be read in 18,421 different ways, according to the arranger. There is no time this week to verify the count, but any one may do so who has leisure. Here is the arrangement:

I	Want	What	I	Want
Want	What	I	Want	When
What	I	Want	When	I
I	Want	When	I	Want
Want	When	I	Want	It

A sentence which could be read forward or backward, such as "Raw was I ere I saw war," if it had nine syllables, could be written in the same arrangement of squares and could be read in 36,842 different ways, or double the above illustration, as it could be read down from the upper left hand corner or up from the lower right hand corner.

Sorry He Spoke.

The conductor was inclined to seek for sympathy. "Do you see that woman on the left hand side of the car, up near the front?" he asked the thin man on the back platform.

"Yes, I see her."

"The one with the dizzy hat?"

"Yes."

"Well, I think she's tryin' to beat me out of a fare. When I went in to collect she never looked around, an' I ain't quite sure that she didn't pay me before, although I'm almost positive about it. She looks to me like a woman who'd be glad to stir up a fuss. I can pick 'em out as far as I can see 'em. You never spot a woman with a face like that who isn't ready to bluff her way anywhere. I wish to thunder I knew whether she had paid her fare or not."

"I wouldn't worry about it any more," said the thin man. "I paid the lady's fare some time ago. She's my wife."—Argonaut.

Live and Die on the River.

"The river population of Manila is a class by itself," said a traveler. "Not to be outdone by Canton, she has her sampans, known as cascoes and lorchas, supporting 15,000 people within the city limits, where thousands of children are born, grow, live and die on these floating cargo carriers. They never dream of any other world than that which floats about them. These boats are small, but accommodate a family of five to seven. They have a fire pot, a platform and a rice kettle. The cabin or covered portion is very small—in fact, I don't see how they live—and it is a wonder to me that the children don't fall overboard and drown. You will often see a woman sitting at the end of the boat, rowing, with a child strapped on her back, looking for all the world like a little monkey."

A Tough Contract.

"Well, Caleb," said Captain W. of Massachusetts years ago, "what will you ask a day to saw wood for me? I've got several cords that I want sawed in two for the fireplace."

"I should charge you about half a dollar a day if I had a saw," replied Caleb, "but I ain't got none, captain, so I don't see how I can accommodate you."

"If that's all that's lacking I guess we can manage it," said the captain. "I've got a prime new one, keen as a brier, and I'll let it to you reasonable. How would ninepence (12½ cents) a cord do for the use of it?"

"I reckon that's a fair price, captain. I'll be over in the mornin'."

Bright and early that next July morning Caleb was at work, and he kept at it so faithfully that he finished before sunset, when he went to the house to settle.

"Let's see," said the captain, "you were to have half a dollar a day. We'll call it a day, although it ain't sundown yet. That's 50 cents for you, and you were to pay me ninepence a cord for the use of the saw. There were three cords and a half in the pile. That makes 43¾ cents due me. Somehow, Caleb, you don't have very much coming to you."

"How unfortnit," said Caleb after scratching his head dubiously for half a minnie and then looking up quickly, as if a new light had broken in upon his mind—"how unfortnit that you didn't have half a cord more, for then we'd 'a' come out jest square."

UPSET ON LAKE

Pigeon Lake Almost Drowns Peterborough Young Man ---Re-action of Gun Tips Punt

WAS SAVED BY ACCIDENT

Is Unable to Swim and Falls Beneath It

The kicking of a gun while in the hands of a somewhat inexperienced hunter was almost the cause of a fatality on Pigeon Lake the other day, which would have broken up the pleasures of a happy party from Peterborough. Mr. W. Gadd of this city was one of ten who left here about ten days ago to camp on the shores of beautiful Pigeon Lake to enjoy a holiday in quest of fish and feathered game, and to have a good all round time. But it was by the merest chance that Mr. Gadd lived to return home on Saturday night to tell the story of his narrow escape.

One morning last week he left the camp alone and went out on the margin of a large rice bed in search of ducks. His craft was an old punt which, to all appearances, would be a difficult boat to overturn. After waiting for several minutes, during which time none of the feathery creatures were unfortunate enough to come before the fowler's vision, there presently came within range a large-sized mud-hen, and, with steady aim, he sent a broadside after it.

Mr. Gadd was seated in such a manner that the reaction of the shotgun tipped the punt, and he went directly underneath it. Being unable to swim, his friends on shore became alarmed. The young man was beneath the boat, and in twenty-five feet of water. But, fortunately, in coming up, he appeared a little to one side of the craft, and managed to crawl on top. His good luck alone saved him, and, with the assistance of his friends, he was brought to land in safety.

The gun, however, was not so fortunate. When the punt was overturned, the hunter immediately released his hold on the firearms, which at once sank to the bottom of Pigeon Lake. One of the young men with the party happened to be a good swimmer and diver, and steps were taken to recover the mud-hen destroyer. After diving a couple of times among the weeds the gun was discovered sticking in the mud at the bottom, with the barrel downwards and the stock nearer the surface, and was also brought up in safety.

CATHOLIC PRIEST DIES IN OLD AGE

Very Rev. Dean O'Connor Passed Away at Chesterville

News was received in the city today of the death of the Very Rev. J. S. O'Connor, Dean in the Dioceese of Kingston at Chesterville. The deceased was about 80 years of age and was a Catholic priest since 1853, having served the church 54 years. He is an uncle of Mr. J. P. Chevlin, of this city, who has gone to Chesterville to look after the remains. The late Dean O'Connor was first a curate at Kingston and was afterwards stationed at Alexandria, Cornwall, Perth, Chesterville and Marysville. He was born in Peterborough and is said to have been the first white child born in the town. His ordination took place in Kingston.

FALLS IN RIVER

The Little Son of Mr. Robert Elliott, Sherbrooke Street Narrowly Escapes Drowning

GOES TO WASH HIS HANDS

Pulled Out at an Opportune Time by Unknown Man

The Otonabee River, on Saturday afternoon, almost claimed another victime. About 3 o'clock the little child of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Elliott, 139 Sherbrooke street, went down to the river, with other children, to wash its hands, after playing for some time outdoors.

The little boy accidentally slipped, and, falling into the water, would have been drowned but for the assistance of a young man who was near at the time. The child was rescued from its perilous position and taken to its home. A second gentleman was also near, and he, too, swam after the drowning child.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott wish to extend their sincere thanks to the rescuers, whose names they were not able to obtain. Mr. Elliott was absent at the time of the accident and feels very grateful to the live-savers for their generous and timely action.

SAILORS' PILOT AT GEORGE STREET

Rev. J. S. Potter Preaches Inspiring Sermon There Last Night

INTERESTING EXPERIENCES

Last evening at the George street Methodist church, Rev. J. S. Potter, the Sailors Missionary, and father of Rev. J. G. Potter of St. Andrew's church, preached an earnest and inspiring sermon, from the words found in the 17th verse of the 15th chapter of St. Luke's Gospel, "And when he came to himself, he said, how many hired servants of my father's house have bread enough, and to spare, and I perish with hunger." They were the words of the prodigal son, having satisfied himself by spending all that he had on luxuries and the pleasures of this world, desires to return home to his father. No better resolution could be made by anyone than to return home, said the speaker. There is no better place; and when the prodigal son came to himself, he realized it. Just so, there is no man "himself," and can do without religion.

Mr. Potter remarked that a little over a year ago Rev. Mr. Horn, secretary of the Upper Canada Tract Society, visited Peterborough and addressed the George street church on the work of that organisations. There were many branches of work in the society. There was the work among th miners, the lumber camps, the railway men and the sailors. Each was important, but Mr. Potter chose the latter for his subject last evening. He said that they were all waiting to be told of Jesus Christ and His love for them. They are like the prodigal — not themselves.

At Ottawa there are registered 1345 steamers and 505 sailing vessels, that ply on the waters of Ontario alone. to man these boats it takes 25,000 sailors.

The principles as laid down in the Bible tell us to help our brethren, and it is our duty to help these sailors, continued the missionary. The best work can be done in sailing with these men, and becoming intimate with them. Many a sailor has owed a great deal to the sailor missionary, and to the sailors' home. Many have been truned to salvation, but there is yet a greater work to be done.

ISSUES A WRIT

Is Served To-day Upon Jas. Kelley and on Edward Flaherty---To Wind Up Business

CLAIM FOR AN INJUNCTION

To Restrain Exchange of the Hotel and License

Another writ was issued to-day and served upon Jas. H. Kelly, proprietor of the Royal Hotel, Hunter street, by O'Connell & Gordon on behalf of Patrick J. Clunan. The plaintiff states that on December 12, 1906, he entered into partnership with the defendant, Kelly, and his claim against him is to have an account taken of the partnership dealings, in view of a dissolution of the partnership; to have the affairs of the partnership wound up, and that a receiver be appointed and that the assets of the partnership be disposed of, and the proceeds thereof distributed between the partners, in accordance with the terms of said articles of partnership.

The plaintiff, Clunan, also has a claim against Jas. Kelly and Edward J. Flaherty for an injunction restricting both from any deal regarding the exchange of the Royal Hotel property or license.

DEVELOPMENT OF OUR WHOLESALE GROCERY TRADE

Perkins Ince & Co. of Peterborough Received Car Lots of Maconochue Bros. Goods Direct From England

An announcement appears in our advertising columns to-day which has sufficiently important bearings upon the progress of our city and the growth of our mercantile trade to justify some reference. The wholesale grocery house of Messrs. Perkins, Ince, & Co., directs the attention of the trade to the fact that it is the direct receiver of a car load of the celebrated Maconochue Bros'. goods, from London, England. These goods arrived on the track to-day at the firms' own siding, and will be on display to-morrow in their warehouse and sample-rooms, 33 Charlotte street. They consist of Maconochues' high class pickles, Panyan relishes, and sauces, marmalade, jams, jellies, vinegar, etc., all of this season's pack. While it is known that Maconochue Bros.' goods have been on sale in this city for a considerable time, this is the first occasion, so far as is known, of a shipment of these goods being brought to Peterborough in car lots direct from the manufacturers in London, England.

It should be gratifying to Messrs. Perkins, Ince, & Co., and their Peterborough business has developed the necessity for direct car lot shipments of these goods, and at the same time it speaks well for the vigourous growth of the retail grocery trade of this city.

Three Otonabee Youths Suffer In A Collision

Make an Attempt to Discover Name of Other Party But Fail

WALK HOME SIX MILES

Three Otonabee youths are to-day suffering from injured feelings, because last night, while returning home from divine service, their buggy was run into by a young and reckless driver, accompanied by two city maidens. The collision is attributed to the local man, and it occurred just across the canal bridge, below the lift lock. Its disastrous results can this morning be easily seen. The buggy lies in the ditch, near the bridge, with one wheel off, and every spoke broken into splinters.

But the chagrin of the trio bound for Otonabee lies not in the fact that the wheel was smashed and the vehicle rendered useless, but because the party to the cause of the accident did not even stop to inquire about the damage, or to apologize for the recklessness in driving.

Mr. A. Roberts, also of Otonabee, who happened along shortly after, found the three boys sitting in the ditch contemplating the disaster, and after a brief consultation it was decided to follow after the city chap with the ultimate view of taking proceedings against him. Mr. Roberts drove them back and caught up to the object of their search at the Hunter street bridge, but, after no little amount of parleying the youth with the laughing maidens drove drove quickly away, without disclosing his identity.

The Otonabee three were again driven back to the scene of the disaster by the roadside, and, with melancholy tread, they wended their way on foot some five or six miles into the country, leading the horse behind.

FISHERY LAWS NOT ENFORCED

According to "Saturday Night," returning tourists, and holiday fishermen, who have had to do with those whose alleged business is to suppress illegal fishing in the lakes, have, as their most interesting stories, statements showing that the "whole system is a bluff." The Conservative Government officers are not suppressing illegal fishing, and are not trying to do so. The people in the towns along the shores of the lakes, are making no effort to protect our fishing interests, and politicians are not slow in seeing that enforcement of the law will not contribute to their popularity, and their best course is to employ in the fishery protective service men who will not make trouble, and boats that overtake nothing that floats, and which pant and puff so that the experienced ear can be warned of their approach when miles away. Referring to what may be the cause of this condition, "Mack," in "Saturday Night," says:

"When the Whitney Government discharged all the fishery inspectors of Ontario in one night, there was not a man living in sight of fresh water who did not take this as a sign that there would be a great change. But politicians got busy. I am told that Conservative members, representing constituencies fronting on the lakes took early occasion to warn the head office that if the laws were to be strictly enforced against illegal netting it would mean a flop-over of the constituency at the next election. One of the new fishery inspectors hit on a simple but effective idea. He seized fish in transit that had been illegally taken. He stopped the whole traffic as if it had been struck by lightning. But he lost his job. That one case pretty well shows that the Ontario Government does not want to shut the business down tight, and allow no more of it. Too many people would be offended. Perhaps the overseer in question erred in details in applying his plan; but the plan itself was effective, and could be so used as to give the fisheries of the province the protection the laws pretended to give, but which the makers of the laws are afraid to put into force. Another plan would be to hold the express companies responsible for carrying illegal shipments of fish. A story is told of an ex-officer of the service, who, when in a lake port, and walking about the docks, would be approached by any sailor, who knew him, with the remark, "You had better not go near that boat!" "Why not?" the inspector would inquire. "Because there's a rattlesnake on board, and it might bite ye!" This alarming news sufficed to cause the inspector to keep away from that particular boat. He wasn't going to let a rattlesnake bite him. The trade in "rattlesnakes" needs to be looked into, and the fishery regulations should either be enforced or abolished.

When the Whitney Government took office, Mr. Whitney's "ore rotundo" motto was, in regard to the administration of public affiars, and, especially ,the Liquor License Act, Fiat justitia, ruat coelum. But we have not noticed the sky falling to any alarming extent. We all know that Mr. Whitney and his Government, have driven through the administration clauses of the Liquor License Act, with large sized coaches and fours. We see it in this very city, and it is to be seen all over the province from Minister Pyne's constituency, to Sault Ste. Marie. The administration of the License Law was to be separated with a violent jerk from politics. Now, politics is as thoroughly and plentifully mixed with it as if it were one of the ingredients of a cocktail. On independent authority, like "Saturday Night," we learn that politics and piscatorial protection are on terms of undue intimacy. Canadian fishing interests are worth annually between twenty and twenty-five million dollars, and our Ontario fisheries are no small item in the grand total. If the fisheries are not protected — if fish are not allowed to propagate and multiply—they will become extinct and, according to the authority quoted above, if it were not for popular ideas of fair play, respect for the rights of others and for the future of our fisheries, sporting and commercial, we should soon have no fishing of any kind.

EDITORIAL NOTES

If one knew the Conservative combination "from B to Z"—from Borden to Zandray, Zandrank, Zandring—a good deal of illumination would eventuate.

Can it be, the Montreal Herald asks, that the unwillingness of the St. John Conservatives to put up a candidate is due to there being nobody handy to lend "assistance" in the shape of "gifts of money?"

Mr. Borden's reflections upon the relations of himself and his party to Mr. Graham, of the Montreal Star, must recall a little of the Latin of his school days—timeo Donaos et dona, ("gifts of money" and "assistance") ferentes.

The British people should take Canadian crop reports, received from any but official sources, with a grain of salt. A resume of the Canadian crop report cabled to London has been received this side of the Atlantic, and its exaggerated nature may be inferred from the extravagant statement that the Northwest harvest situation is "the worst ever known in our experience." Happily, the report of the Canadian Department of the Interior gives contradiction to this. It is given out from the Canadian Office in London, and this and other testimony available shows that there are between seventy and eighty million bushels of wheat in the Northwest this year. One swallow does not make a summer, and one partial shortage of the Western wheat crop will not condemn one of the greatest wheat-producing areas in the world.

FORMER BUSINESS MAN DEAD

James H. Ames at the Ripe Old Age of 76 Years Died at his Residence Yesterday

A PIONEER OF THF CITY

Peterborough lost one of its oldest and most respected residents in the death of Mr. James H. Ames yesterday afternoon. The deceased has been in poor health for the past three years, slowly declining with his advanced age. He was born in Frome, England, 76 years ago and when only a boy came with his parents to Canada, residing in Peterborough. The late Mr. Ames after his marriage resided in Millbrook for a short time, but returned to this city where he has been a permanent resident for fifty years.

The late Mr. Ames conducted a boot and shoe business for some thirty-five years, employing at one time many men in the manufacture of made to order goods, for the lumbering and country trade, especially, when Peterborough was but a small lumbering town. With the introduction of machinery for the manufacture of boots and shoes, and consequent growth in demand for the ready made articles turned out wholesale by the big city manufacturers, the deceased confined his energies to the ready-made trade and repairing, and for many years kept store on George street in the premises at present occupied by the Bank of Ottawa. He retired from business seven years ago.

The late Mr. Ames was predeceased by his wife four years ago last spring. His demise is mourned by one daughter, Mrs. H. Fraelick, of this city, and one brother, Rev. Wm. Ames of Woodstock, a retired Methodist minister.

The deceased wwas a staunch and exemplary member of George street Methodist church of many years standing. In business and private life he was highly respected as a citizen of sterling character, and in his death the community has lost a valued member whose strict honesty and integrity of purpose in a long life of 76 years is worthy of emulation. The bereaved family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from the family residence, 181 Edinburgh street, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

COMMERCIAL MEN ON THEIR AUTUMN ROUNDS

Many Dry Goods Men Here To-day with Spring Goods Samples

The local hotels are to-day well crowded with commercial travellers and especially with drygoods men, who are beginning their autumn rounds disposing of spring goods for next year. Each centre for the travelling men has an increased number of guests upon the register as a result.

BANQUET TO DEPARTING JOURNALIST

Press Club Bids Good Bye to Mr. Chas. Sawle on Eve of his Departure

A number of the members of the Peterborough Press Club assembled at Spence's Restaurant on Saturday evening, to bid good-bye to one of their number, Mr. Charles H. Sawle. Yesterday morning, Mr. Sawle, who has occupied the position of city editor of the Review for the past two years, left for Preston, Ont., where he has accepted a position as managing editor of the Preston Progress. After partaking of the excellent fare spread on prettily decorated banquet tables, the chairman of the gathering, and president of the club, Mr. G. B. VanBlaricom, proposed the health of the King, which was heartily drunk by the newspaper men.

Mr. VanBlaricom next proposed the toast to the departing guest. He referred in complimentary terms to the work of Mr. Sawle, since he had occupied the position of city editor on the Review, and stated that he regretted very much his departure from the city.

On rising, to reply the guest of the evening was greeted by three cheers and the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow." He also regretted having to leave his associates of two years and stated that he would carry away with him many pleasant recollections of his sojourn here.

Hon. J. R. Stratton was the next speaker, and he also referred in terms of eulogy to Mr. Sawle, whom he had respected for his sense of duty and his fairness to the members of the newspaper profession on the other papers.

Other complimentary addresses were made by Messrs. F. H. Dobbin, J. D. Clarke, E. S. Clarry, B. T. Huston, Harry Theobald and Percy Crane, all of whom expressed their regret at hearing of his departure from the city, and wishing him every success in his new undertaking.

During his stay in Peterborough Mr. Sawle has been a respected member of the Press Club and has made many friends. He has always been diligent in his labours, fair to his associates in journalism and courteous to those with whom he came in contact. He leaves the city with the good wishes of many friends, who will watch with interest his journalistic career.

The banquet closed with the singing of Auld Lang Syne, and the handshakes of the club with the departing member.

NO FROST AT BATTLEFORD NORTHWEST IS ALL RIGHT

A letter received on Saturday by Mr. W. C. Austin, secretary Peterborough-Saskatchewan Land Company, from Wm. Engelbrechet, manager Imperial Land Company, Battleford, contains the following information which will no doubt be received with pleasure by many in Peterborough, who are interested in that country:—

"Crops are looking fine here. We have had no frosts to hurt the grain a particle; not even the potato vines are damaged. Weather is fine and warm, and it does not look as we would have frost for sometime yet. Cutting has already commenced and will be general by the 9th."

TUMORS CONQUERED

SERIOUS OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the Case of Mrs. Fannie D. Fox.

The growth of a tumor is so sly that frequently its presence is not suspected until it is far advanced.

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by profuse monthly periods, accompanied by unusual pain, from the abdomen through the groin and thighs.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation or displacement, secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound right away and begin its use.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., will give you her advice if you will write her about yourself. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine. Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly that I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation.

"Soon after I read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After trying five bottles as directed the tumor is entirely gone. I have been examined by a physician and he says I have no signs of a tumor now. It has also brought my periods around once more, and I am entirely well."—Fannie D. Fox, 7 Chestnut Street Bradford, Pa.

YANKEES WIN THE PALMA TROPHY

Trophy Regained by Team of Riflemen From United States.

CANADIANS MAKE GOOD SHOW

Brief History of Shield—Final Scores of Competing Teams—Long Distance Firing Made World's Record—Canuck Team Showed Splendid Form—Best Shooting Ever Made In an International Match.

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—The Palma trophy was regained on Saturday by the team of riflemen representing the United States, after the most wonderful of competitions. The final scores were:

United States	1,712
Canada	1,671
Australia	1,653
Great Britain	1,584

The Centennial trophy, known as the Palma, inaugurated in the United States in 1876, when the people of the States subscribed to present a massive shield for competition, open to the riflemen of the world, was shot for the sixth time.

In 1876, at Creedmoor, Long Island, the United States won by 22 points over the Irish team, Scotland, Australia and Canada also competing—1877 the United States again won it, and in 1878 they claimed it by default, as no foreign teams entered.

No further competition was held until 1901, when the Canadians competed at Sea Girt, and brought the valuable $5,000 prize to Ottawa.

In 1902, at Rockliffe, the British team came over and beat the Americans by 12 points, and the following year at Bisley, when teams from Great Britain, Australia, United States, Canada, Natal, Norway and France competed, the States, with a margin of 15 points, were declared the winners. A misunderstanding, however, as regards the conditions resulted in the match being declared off and the trophy was returned to England by the United States.

That is, briefly, the history of the shield and the competitions.

The conditions for firing are that the men must use the national military arm of the country they represent, fitted with their service regulation sights.

There was hardly a breath of wind, and the sun came out and cleared the sky, showing that the conditions for shooting would be ideal.

At 800 yards the United States had a clear lead of 20 points from Australia.

At the 1,000 yards the Canadians made a great effort, and here it was that Sergt. Russell of Ottawa made the wonderful score of 73, 16 bull's-eyes, a magpie, one bull for a sighter. This score was only beaten by one man, Sergt. Bryant of the United States, who made one point more. Capt. McHaag made 71, and Sergt. Graham 70. Shot by shot the Canadians drew up, heading the Australians when the fifth man got down to fire.

A World's Record.

Every man was shooting magnificently, and there was not an outer on the board, whereas the Australians had two.

The crowd around the Canadian targets became so thick that it was impossible to see the men, and the more increased when it was discovered that the Canadians were actually holding the Americans at that range. When the last two men got down to fire there was only a difference of a point.

Sergt. Richardson put the matter at rest, with 69, making the total 551, 4 points ahead of the Americans, a world's record for any team at the distance.

Put New Blood Into the Arteries
AND THE FEELING OF WEAKNESS AND FATIGUE WILL GIVE WAY TO HEALTH AND VIGOR
Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

At this time of year nothing is of such great value to the human system as new rich red blood. Feelings of languor and depression, headaches, sleeplessness, irritability, impaired digestion, nervousness — these all tell of thin, watery blood and a run down system.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is above all else a blood building restorative which puts new blood into the arteries and by so doing lays the foundation for health and vigour.

It sharpens up the appetite, and strengthens the nerves, which control the flow of digestive fluids, forms new firm flesh and tissues, and gives vigour to these vital organs of the body.

Mr. Fred H. Gould, Purdy, Hastings Co., Ont., writes: "I was troubled with nervous headaches, which at times were very painful and caused much suffering. It has been thoroughly cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I can recommend this treatment most highly and believe that as a general system builder it has no equal.

Mrs. W. Chappel, Barrie, Ont., writes, "I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a means of building up the nervous system and of improving the health generally and I have also found it a good remedy for female troubles.

"We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment as a household remedy for all kinds of sores and cuts and think it is a splendid ointment."

You can be sure that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is doing you good because each dose goes to the formation of a certain amount of pure, rich, red, blood. It cures by the building up process, and its cures are, therefore, thorough and lasting; 50 cents a box; 6 for $2.50, at all dealers; or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

FEAR TROUBLE WITH R. I. C.

Government Taking Steps to Obtain Suitable Recruits.

Dublin, Sept. 9.—That the Government is apprehensive with regard to the coming winter in Ireland, and is doubtful regarding the loyalty of the constabulary since the Belfast agitation, is revealed in the present strenuous efforts to recruit the force.

The number of the constabulary has been steadily decreasing for the past four years. The authorities have set aside a part of the public Military Barracks as additional quarters for the men, and to the constables and officers throughout the country there has been sent a circular instructing them to make haste to secure suitable candidates.

BROKER'S TERRIBLE DEED.

Chicago Man Murders His Wife and Then Suicides.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—Mrs. Fred M. Fish, the wife of a wealthy retired broker, was found murdered in her home at 423 Davis street, Evanston, on Saturday.

Her husband, with his throat cut, was found unconscious on the floor of the bedroom in which the body of Mrs. Fish was lying. He will die.

It is the opinion of the police that Fish murdered his wife and then attempted to commit suicide.

Fish was in poor health, and for some time he suffered periodical attacks of despondency.

COMMISSIONER IS SEVERE.

Montreal, Sept. 9.—Considerable surprise has been evinced in marine circles at the severity of the judgment handed out by Wreck Commissioner Spain in the case of the sinking of the sailing barge Germaine by the steamer Imperial, belonging to the St. Lawrence Navigation Co.

The steamer was leaving port when it suddenly swerved from the centre of the river and rammed the barge which was tied to her dock, sinking her at once. Capt. Spain found that the accident was due entirely to the careless handling of the Imperial and the master, William Paul, was severely censured and warned that he must be more careful.

In his judgment Capt. Spain sharply criticised the haphazard manner in which the Imperial was run and also recommended that the Department of Marine should deal with the inspector of hulls for neglect of duty in not seeing that the boat was properly equipped.

The damage caused by the collision will probably amount to three or four thousand dollars.

MEN'S PAY STOLEN.

$10,000 Missing From British Warship "Assistance"—Officer Suspected.

Plymouth, Sept. 9.—A sum of $10,000, intended for the payment of the officers and crew of the warship Assistance, of the Channel Fleet, is reported to be missing.

As the result of this discovery, a warrant has been issued for the arrest of an officer, who has, however, not yet been apprehended.

The Assistance is the steam repair ship of the fleet, and has been stationed here lately.

The news of the disappearance of the naval funds — an event without precedent in modern times in the senior service—has caused consternation throughout the fleet.

The missing money will be made good by the Admiralty, and the seamen who has been inconvenienced temporarily by the loss will receive their arrears of wages in full.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT.

Policeman at Hamilton Attacked by Gang of Ruffians.

Hamilton, Sept. 9.—Constable May was the victim of a murderous assault yesterday afternoon at the hands or a number of ruffians, who attacked him at Brown's Wharf. The officer was relieved of his baton and rendered unconscious for half an hour. He is confined to his home under the doctor's care. May was doing plain clothes' duty looking for crap-shooters. He went to the wharf, where a game was said to have been in progress, and found there about a dozen men. They were evidently engaged in a crap game, and the officer pounced on them single-handed in an attempt to arrest some of them. When the crowd saw that the officer was alone, they set upon him and abused him in a frightful manner. May drew his baton to defend himself, but the gang took this away from him and broke it over his head. He was rendered unconscious by the blows and left lying on the ground. The officer's assailants then ran away and about half an hour afterwards a passer-by found May. He took him to the police station, from where he was removed to his home. After he regained consciousness, May said that he thought he could recognize some of his assailants. There is considerable indignation among the members of the police force over the fact that May was sent out alone on such an errand.

Frisco Hotel Burned.

San Francisco, Sept. 9.—The Cliff House, San Francisco's first attraction for tourists, was burned to the ground on Saturday. It was a porticoed wooden structure that overhung the Pacific Ocean, just outside the Golden Gate.

The Cliff House had been closed for some time for repairs. Workmen left that place at noon and how the fire started it is not known. This is the second Cliff House to be destroyed by fire.

The hotel was owned by the Sutro estate and was valued at $50,000. John Tait, the lessee, estimates his loss at $80,000, minus $35,000 insurance. The magnificent Sutro baths nearby were not damaged.

BISHOP SCOLLARD CONFOUNDS THE CALUMNIATORS OF HIS ADMINISTRATION

Sets Forth the Justification of his Parochial Appointments--- "Virtues and Qualities" the Only Consideration

In a recent issue of the Examiner a despatch to La Presse, Montreal, was republished, This alleged that Rt. Rev. Bishop Scollard was experiencing some trouble in the administration of his diocese, through the exaggerated and super-sensitive patriotism of the French-Canadian members of his flock. At that time the other side of the story was not known. But, recently, a letter assumed to be written from Sudbury, was received by LaPresse, which before publishing it, submitted it to Bishop Scollard, and in Friday's issue of La Presse the letter appears, with the right reverend Bishop's explanation, which shows that the letter was practically without justification. Its worst feature was its half truths. These half truths seem to be that English-speaking priests have been appointed instead of French-Canadians, and Blind River, Warren and Cache Bay, are specified as the points where this had been done. Another charge in the letter that Bishop Scollard recommended an Irishman, named Sullivan, as the third inspector of Separate Schools instead of a French-Canadian. Bishop Scollard's explanation should convince anyone, not blinded by patriotic fevour, that the course he took was the right one in the interests of both the parishes and the schools concerned. In the case of Blind River the parish became vacant and the French-Canadian curate was not promoted to the position of parish priest, because of his youth and inexperience, having been only four months ordained. The appointment to this difficult parish was conferred upon an Irish priest of a dozen years experience, and one of the most capable men in the diocese, who speaks French fluently. In his statement, Bishop Scollard says that the nationality of priests is never considered by him —only their virtues and qualities are considered. If an English-speaking parish needs a priest, and it a French-Canadian priest, speaking English, is the best man available he is appointed, as has been done at Sault Ste Marie, Fort William and Port Arthur. The Bishop further states that in order to provide his diocese with French-Canadian priests he, himself, is paying for the education of three French-Canadian student priests at the Montreal Seminary. As to the Separte School inspector, Bishop Scollard was in favour of a French-Canadian, but the Minister of Education said there was no French-Canadian available who possessed the qualifications demanded by the Departmental regulations, and Bishop Scollard asked the appointment of a thoroughly qualified English-speaking Catholic, who spoke French, Mr. Sullivan, of Ottawa. Thus it is seen that with halt truths told, and detached from the true explanation, some few hot-heads feel that they have warrant for writing malevolent and misleading letters, such as those referred to. The whole truth, however, shows them to be utterly without justification. The right reverend Bishop seems to have done well in publishing his contradiction of these wild charges in La Presse, which has a daily circulation of over 100,000, so that it is probable that it is read every day by perhaps half a million readers, who will have an opportunity of seeing, with the misleading statements, a dignified refutation of them. The calumny and its contradiction appear side by side.

ONTARIO MAY HAVE TRAMP EPIDEMIC

Woodstock Magistrate Will Send Weary Willies to Central Prison in Future

ARE LEAVING CHICAGO

In connection with a vagrant who appeared in the Woodstock Police Court, the presidin; Magistrate said that he believed Ontario would be overrun with tramps during the coming winter. The despatch is as follows:—

John Brown, who was remanded to jail for a week by P. M. Ball, received a hearing at the police court this morning. The story he gave the magistrate this morning with regard to his life in Chicago and elsewhere did not tally with his former story. It is thought that the man is mentally deranged, and he will be examined by the jail physician, Dr. A. MacKay. He was remanded for one week.

In connection with the case, Magistrate Ball pointed out that the Chicago authorities were cleaning out all the undesirable class of people in that city, and it is very probable that Woodstock and other Ontario cities will be subjected to an epidemic of tramps and burglars during the coming winter. Magistrate Ball said that in future any cases of vagrancy coming up before him would be sent to the Central Prison. Vagrants were the forerunners of burglars, and it would be wiser to check their work in the bud, and not wait until the fruits were ripened.

ALL DAY TRAMP FROM BUCKHORN

Aspirants For Work Say They Get Turned Down

Three fatigued Englishmen arrived in the city on Saturday evening from Buckhorn, from which place they had left early on the morning of the same day. They had a hard luck story to tell. They stated that they were told they might procure work there, and went out the previous night, only to be rejected. They slept out all night, they said, and had to walk home on Saturday, a distance of about 26 miles. Leaving in the early morning, they reached the city at 9 o'clock in the evening, footsore and tired, and with injured feelings, both physically and otherwise.

Correspondent Thinks Anglers Should Help Inspector

Says C. G. E. Angler Found Americans With More Than Their Allowance of Fish and On Sunday—Happened near Rice Lake

SHOULD PROTECT THE FISH

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I have been thinking lately of a statement which was casually made by a gentleman who accompanied the C.G.E. Anglers to their Club House a week ago Saturday to remain over Labour Day. He said that on Sunday with one of the Anglers he was out on Rice Lake when they met in with a skiff rowed by one of the guides from that neighbourhood and froom which two Americans were trawling. Not only was the Sunday Act broken in this respect, but the Americans had more than the lawful number of fish in their boat.

This gentleman said that he pointed out to the Americans that they had broken the law and were liable to a fine whereupon they wanted to know what he had to say about it. The Angler spoke up and said he was connected with the Fish and Game Protective Association and could "make it hot for them."

Now that is what I was told by one of the men and believing it to be true, I wonder why the C.G.E. Angler, if he were sure the Americans had broken the law, did not report them to the inspector. The club has expressed itself as in sympathy with the Association and it is surely the members duty to do their share in assisting the Association to protect the fish. I would judge that it is difficult for the Inspector to watch all the fishermen on the lake owing to its size, which should be an incentive to the Anglers to assist him. There may be a good reason for not doing so on this occasion, but if the law is being broken by Americans coming to the lake for the summer the sooner they find out that it will not be tolerated, the better. The Anglers I know to be good sports and it must anger them to see strangers fishing without care as to the day or the number and size of the fish they catch. Trusting that the C.G.E. Anglers are really living up to expressed sympathies, I thank you, Mr. Editor.

Yours truly,
H. S.

FAREWELL SERVICE TO YOUNG LADIES

Miss Alice Leader and Miss Jennie Butcher to Enter Training College

The evening service at the Salvation Army barracks last night, took the form of a farewell to Miss Alice Leader and Miss Jennie Butcher. These young ladies will leave the city on Thursday for Toronto, where they will enter the Salvation Army's Training College, for the purpose of obtaining an officership in the Army. The course of studies takes six months, the candidates entering as cadetsm and by the time the term is completed they are given an officers' position.

There was a large attendance last night, both the young ladies being well known and highly steemed. They addressed the gathering, bidding their friends farewell. The music was of a special character, and the meeting was a very successful one.

Both young ladies are well known in the city, and by their natural talents should meet with success in the Army's work.

PRIZES PRESENTED TO PUPILS

Girl and Boy From Separate Schools With Highest Marks Won Prizes

At St. Peter's School this morning, Gerrard Maher, son of Mr. Jos. Maher, was presented with a five-dollar gold piece by Rev. Father McColl. Miss Bernadette McDonald, daughter of Mr. W. H. McDonald, of the Convent, was also presented with a similar prize. These prizes are donated by Mr. Jas. Lynch to the boy and girl obtaining the highest marks among the Separate School pupils who try the Entrance examinations at midsummer.

In making the presentations to the successful scholars, Rev. Father McColl complimented them upon the good work they had done, and expressed the hope that they will continue in their new field always to strive to do their best. He urged the other pupils to attend diligently to their studies, and although all cannot win the prize, they will realize in after years that their efforts have been fruitful.

ROOF OF SCALES AT THE MARKET IS TOO LOW

So Says Otonabee Man Who Brought Hay to the Market

Apparently there has been some mistake made in the plans for the re-construction of the market scales. This morning, Mr. A. Roberts of Otonabee brought in a load of hay, which barely went beneath the roof. The hay was on low trucks, and had it not been for this, the farmer stated, it would have been impossible to weigh it on the market scales. An ordinary waggon with the same load, which weighed 3,490 pounds, would never have passed under the present roof.

Hay, by the way, is selling at $18 and $19 per ton.

THREE CHARGES AGAINST HOTEL MAN

While in charge of the Lakefield House he is accused of selling liquor on August 3, at 6.25 p.m., 10 minutes later at 6.35, and also in 10 minutes after that again.

The papers have been served on Mr. Lawless, and he will be here for trial on Friday morning next.

WEDDING BELLS.

McLEAN-ROGERS

A quiet wedding was solemnized at noon to-day in St. Thomas' church when Mr. Evan Hamilton McLean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil McLean, of Belleville, and grandson of the late Archibald McLean, Chief Justice of the Court of Appeal, was married to Margaret, eldest daughter of the late George C. Rogers, of Peterborough, and of Mrs. Rogers, of 6 Washington avenue. The Rev. Canon Farncomb, rector of St. Matthew's church, officiated, assisted by the Rev. C. Ensor Sharp. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Mr. Edwin Rogers, wore white satin, veiled with Brussels net, the bodice being trimmed with Brussels applique lace. The tulle veil was arranged about a wreath of orange blossoms, and she held a large posy of bride's roses. Her two sisters, the Misses Muriel and Georgie Rogers, were bridesmaids, and were dressed alike, in yellow mousseline de soie, fashioned in kimona style, with wide folds of yellow satin and Irish crochet lace. A large black velvet bow on one side of the bodice corresponded with the black picture hats, and they both held large sprays of golden glow in their hands. Mr. Bertram Adam was the best man. A number of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were in the church, and for these Mr. Horace Burritt and the Rev. Robert Allen acted as ushers. Afterwards they adjourned to Washington avenue, where Mrs. Rogers received them, and where the bride changed her dress and donned a white serge travelling suit, tuscan hat with brown feather and brown marabout boa. Mr. and Mrs. McClean left for a short honeymoon in the East, and will return to town before going to their home in Newcastle.—Toronto News.

Piles Make Life Wretched

It is a great mistake to imagine that the effects of piles are local, for as a matter of fact they sap the vitality of mind and body, and slowly lead to the ruination of health. Dr Chase's Ointment brings almost instant relief from the itching, burning, stinging, sensation of piles, and is a thorough and positive cure for all forms of this wretched, torturing and oftentimes stubborn disease.

MISS DAVIES TO SING WITH NATIONAL CHORUS

In mentioning the arrangements for the concerts given under the auspices of the National Chorus, the Toronto News says:—Dr. Albert Ham Toronto News says:—Dr. Albert Ham and the Executive are to be highly congratulated on not only having secured the assistance of Mr. Walter Damrosch and his famous New York Symphony Orchestra, but they have also made arrangements for the appearance of Miss Helen Davies, soprano; Mr. Kelley Cole, tenor, and Mr. Francis Rogers, baritone. Miss Helen Davies, whose home is in Peterborough, it will be remembered, made a successful debut in Bridge's cantata, "The Flag of England," some three years ago.

25TH ANNIVERSARY OF CATHOLIC BISHOPRIC

On Sunday, the 22nd of September, the Silver Jubilee of the institution of the Roman Catholic diocese of Peterborough, and the installation of the first Bishop of the diocese will be celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral. In June, 1882, the Papal bull, authorizing the formation of the diocese, was received, but it was not until September that Peterborough was constituted the See city of the new diocese, and St. Peter's, the cathedral church. The late Bishop Jamot was the first Bishop, and on his death was succeeded by His Lordship Bishop Dowling. The latter was transferred to Western Ontario, to the diocese of Hamilton, and Bishop O'Connor was consecrated as his successor.

In connection with the 25th anniversary, His Lordship Bishop O'Connor will celebrate Pontifical High Mass, at 10.30 o'clock on Sunday, the 22nd, and Rev. Dr. Teefey, of Toronto, will preach the sermon. Very Rev. Archdeacon Casey of Lindsay, will preach at vespers. A general invitation has been sent to the clergy of the diocese, and it is expected that a number will be present, especially in the evening.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was thought to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses of from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous membrane of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Editor of Post Card Column—

Dear Sir—We, people at the west end of Homewood Avenue, must have an alderman in the council next year, then we may have some improvements such as the city has never yet put on, west of Walton street. I notice that Belmont avenue from the residence of one alderman, to, and a little west, of the residence of another alderman, has been nicely gravelled and rolled. I said nicely but that's hardly the word, the gravel has not been spread evenly, hollows being left for future mud holes, and the hollows left at the street sides for sewer openings have not been filled properly.

Yours truly,
WEST ENDER.

THE ASSOCIATION SEND THANKS

Mrs. Jas. Kendry, secretary of the committee of ladies which had in charge the raising of money for the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives, has received a letter from Mr. J. S. Robertson, secretary of the National Sanitarium Association, thanking the local ladies for their generous contribution towards the maintenance of needy patients. The amount raised in Peterborough from the sale of old rubbers amounted to $116.16.

NEW LADDER WAGGON AT FIRE HALL

On Saturday afternoon a new wagon for the Peterborough Fire Department, was placed in the fire hall. The wagon was built by Seagrave of Walkerville, and surpasses either of those previously owned by the city. It is a hook and ladder vehicle, and is 24 feet in length, which is considerably longer than the old one. It contains in its equipment a 55 foot extension ladder, a 45 foot, a 27 foot, and 20 foot also. Two roof ladders, supplied with hooks, wire cages, for coats, hats, etc., a snag hook, axes, bars and poles for pulling off sheeting, are also among the equipment.

The wheels are supplied with brakes, which is an improvement on the old wagons.

In a fortnight there will be another wagon, chemical and hose combined, added to the local equipment. It is being built at the George Fitzgerald carriage shop on Brock street.

J. W. L. COMMITTEE TO MEET

Will Decide Whether Brigade Should put Out Saw Dust Fires

The Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council will meet to-morrow night, when the question of what the fire brigade should do in case of a fire in the sawdust pile on the river bank, will be taken up. The matter has been brought to a head by a letter from Mr. Larmonth, in which he complained that the brigade had done nothing to extinguish the recent blaze. The matter was brought up in Council, and was referred to Ald. Johnston to report to his committee.

BOYS STEAL FRUIT ON SUNDAY AND PEOPLE PASSING

Disrespect for Sunday and the Civil Law; No Self-Pride

A glaring example of the utter disregard that some of the boys of this city have for the rights of others, was seen yesterday morning. While scores were coming from East City, to worship in churches on this side of the river they were shocked to see a number of boys well dressed, and apparently respectful, jump the fence in front of a clergyman's house not far distant from the river, and coolly proceed to fill their stomachs and their pockets, with plums, which they procured by vigorously shaking the tree. This was not at night, when such deeds are usually committed, but between 10 and 11 o'clock on Sunday morning; nor was it in an out-of-the-way place where they would escape detection by man's eye, but adjacent to a busy thoroughfare with people passing continuously, and in spite of the remonstrances and rebukes of respectable citizens. Have the boys of this city no sense of shame?

SAYS FLYING SWITCHES ARE MADE

Gentleman Stated That G.T.R. Should be Careful at Hunter Street

In reference to the accident which Mrs. Anderson of North Monaghan, met with at the G.T.R. crossing on Hunter street, several days ago, a prominent business man remarked that it is a wonder that a fatality has not already occurred. He explained that he has frequently seen an engine make a flying switch just south of Hunter, which necessitated the engine and cars starting north of the street. They proceed south at a rather fast clip and the car to be switched is detached from the rest and at a distance from the rest. The gentleman considered that this is a dangerous practice and should not be attempted unless the crossing is guarded by gates.

The fact that the railway is at the lot of the Hunter street hill makes their anger all the more serious. Too much care cannot be exercised in giving the public every protection and especially railway men should be cautious when they are shunting in the heart of a city.

Pasturage Suffers From Want of Rain—The Drought Does Damage

The following interview took place at the Toronto Exhibition between a News reporter and a Durham County farmer:—

"Our crops are quite as good as the average year," said Mr. J. Armstrong, of Cartwright Township, Durham County. "We had some drought but nothing to do any great damage. The roots and hay and grain are a fairly good crop in our district. Some of the townships to the south of Cartwright have suffered from the scarcity of rain, and I was speaking to a farmer from Peterborough County, 26 miles from my place, who said that the pasturage was so bad that he was feeding his stock in the stables."

RIOT TAKES PLACE IN VANCOUVER

Anti-Japanese Demonstration Ends in Pitched Battle.

SEVERAL MEN WERE INJURED

Police Appeal to Japs to Refrain From Attacking Assailants—Seven Arrests Made — Lieut.-Governor Dunsmuir Burned In Effigy—Oriental Quarter Raided and Much Damage Is Done.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 9.—For five hours during Saturday night Vancouver was riot-ruled by a mob. It was daylight yesterday morning before the crowds were dispersed.

Police records show that the Chinese and Japanese parts of the city were wrecked and great damage done.

Seven men only were placed under arrest, while a dozen persons, stabbed and bruised, became subjects for the hospital.

The Japanese, attacked, were so fierce in their self-defence that they were entreated by the police not to take the offensive but to merely resist attacks on themselves and their property, and not to take to the streets and fight openly.

In one case, when they did begin a determined fight, they forced the rioters to flee.

Armed with sticks and bottles, and even knives, they charged the mob. "Banzais" filled the air. In five minutes the Japanese had cleared the street.

The rioting followed an anti-Japanese demonstration. Hundreds of whites had formed a procession, which ended at the City Hall, where a meeting was to be held to bring to the attention of the Federal Government the need of stopping altogether Oriental immigration.

Long before the parade reached the meeting place the auditorium was crowded to overflowing. To find entertainment for itself the overflow of the crowd, seven or eight thousand strong, then sought diversion by cleaning out "Chinatown."

But before this occurred there took place a disgraceful incident, the burning of the effigy of Hon. James Dunsmuir, Lieutenant-Governor of the province. None too popular at any time with the labor people, the representative of King Edward in British Columbia brought himself into particular disfavor with the working men at the last session of the Legislature by declining to assent to the anti-Japanese legislation.

Their blood enflamed and taking courage in their numbers, the mob then headed for the Japanese and Chinese quarter. Probably the rioting in Washington territory last week, when hundreds of Hindoos were mobbed, suggested the attack.

Hundreds of the Mikado's subjects had, however, come to town early in the day to witness the parade and demonstration of the evening, and their passions were aroused. They were itching for a battle in the streets. If it had occurred it would probably have resulted in many fatalities.

But responding to the appeals of the police, who were powerless, in only one case did they make a determined fight. Then they put the rioters to flight.

It was early Sunday morning that this battle occurred, at the corner of Westminster avenue and Powell street. Four blocks along the latter thoroughfare are lined with Japanese stores.

Profiting by their experience in Chinatown during the evening, the police had stretched ropes across the street and made one effort to defend the entrance against all comers.

At this corner are three handsome Japanese general stores, and when two thousand men surged around this point there suddenly, from away up the street, came the sound of the smashing of glass, as a plate glass front was stove in.

Instantly a hundred bricks flew from all directions at the corner stores, and in 15 seconds a thousand dollars of damage was done.

The Japs then could stand it no longer. From the stores, from hallways, and from roofs they hurried into the street.

Up Powell street a volley of pistol shots were heard, and the crowd, alarmed, turned its attention to this new scene of fighting.

The Japanese pursued, and the white men fled, but only to take up the fight in another place where the little brown enemy were not nearly so well organized.

The Japanese, however, had been well prepared for this street-corner attack. They used broken bottles to perfection. Grasping in his hand the neck of a broken bottle, the Jap would jab it into the face or body of the nearest rioter, and many nasty wounds were inflicted. Knives, too, were used.

Two white men were so badly injured that they had to be carried away by the crowd.

By 2 a. m. the crowd had begun to become thinner in places, and one by one seven rioters were gathered in. But even then the police had literally to fight for every step of the way to the station, which stands only two blocks away from the Japanese district.

As often as the rioter was laid hold of for heaving a brick through a window, or assaulting a Chinaman, three or four dozen of his comrades would rush forward and snatch the arrested man from the police.

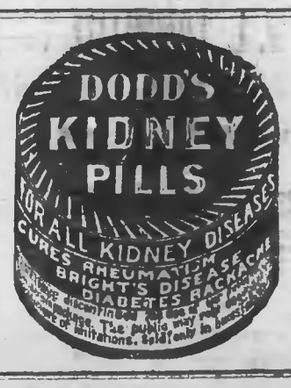
To-day there is a distinctly nervous feeling.

At the C. P. R. wharves a dozen Japs were thrown into the water, but were rescued. Three white men were stabbed by Japs, and two others cut with broken bottles.

A newspaper man going home was held up by a Jap, and when the latter was taken to the police station a search revealed a murderous-looking knife. All night bands of armed Japs walked the streets, keyed to a high pitch by the excitement and bent on revenge. They were restrained, however.

It was a coincidence that Mr. Ishii, the imperial envoy of the Japanese Government, sent to investigate the whole question of immigration, arrived Saturday night on his mission.

His worship the mayor expressed keen regret that such a riot should have taken place, and the morning paper, The News Advertiser, editorially points out that this occurrence will do more to harm the cause of exclusion than anything else.



ACCIDENTS ON C. P. R.

Two Engines Derailed — Traffic Held Up for Several Hours.

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—The C. P. R. was blocked between Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning by two engines running off the rails.

The first was where the electric car service from Hull parallels the track coming into Ottawa Central depot.

Shortly before 4 o'clock the eastbound trans-continental No. 2, coming slowly over, ran the switch, which had not been turned.

The engineer put on the brakes, but collided with an empty street car, behind which was a car full of passengers.

Backing out the engine left the rails, the cars stayed on. Many hours' work ensued to get back the locomotive; but little damage was done. It might have been very serious if the impact were stronger.

Shortly after midnight, too, at Franktown, the Toronto express, which left Ottawa at 11 o'clock, was in trouble. The engine jolted off and partly toppled over. It pulled off three cars, but the passengers, were unhurt. The engine was considerably damaged and some telegraph poles knocked down.

Early Sunday morning an outbound freight got stuck on the Stittsville grade, a draw casting was broken in trying to get away and the Soo, Pacific and Toronto trains were held up for hours at Carlton Junction.

AT ODDS OVER MOROCCO.

King Alfonso and Premier Maura Disagree as to Policy.

Madrid, Sept. 9.—The Globe reiterates that discord exists between King Alfonso and Premier Maura regarding Spain's Moroccan policy, and adds:

"Senor Maura intends to ask the king whether he has confidence in the Ministry, which involves the possibility of a Ministerial crisis, which would put the Liberals in power.

"If the sentiment in favor of intervention in Morocco was stronger in Spain the Government would despatch 4,000 men and a number of warships to Morocco."

Boy Accidentally Shot.

Wiarton, Sept. 9.—Ray Corry, the 16-year-old son of Dan Corry, wagonmaker, was accidentally shot Saturday morning and is at the point of death.

He was camping with another boy, Eddie Field, at Gravelly Point, 10 miles from here, and while in the act of pulling the gun towards him from under the tent, the trigger caught and discharged the contents into his breast. He was hurried to town in a launch.

Two Barns Burned.

St. Thomas, Sept. 9.—Fire destroyed two bank barns of T. Harris of Southwold Friday night. All the season's crops were burned, with a loss of $3,000. Incendiarism is suspected.

Engineers to Blame.

London, Sept. 9.—(C. A. P.)—The Board of Trade enquiry into the explosion of an auxiliary boiler on the steamer Empress of Britain, at Quebec on June 21, whereby considerable damage was done to the vessel, was held at Liverpool. The court decided the explosion was due to the neglect of the intermediate third engineer, James P. Ogilvie, whose certificate was suspended for six months; the seventh engineer, Thomas Rimmer, was censured. Ogilvie was granted a second-class certificate.

CAID HAS HARD TIME TO EXIST

Gets Chills From Sleeping on the Floor.

HAS NO WATER FOR WASHING

Raisuli Sends Him Milk, But Refuses Mattress—Occupies Wretched Quarters—Tribesmen Not Anxious For More Fighting — Seek Negotiations for Peace—Army of 50,000 May Be Sent to Morocco.

Tangier, Sept. 9.—Recent letters received here from Caid Sir Harry MacLean, who for many years has been in the service of the Sultan of Morocco and who was captured early in July by the bandit, Raisuli, complains that the Caid is suffering from chills as a result of sleeping on the floor with only a carpet for covering.

Raisuli refused to supply him with a mattress, but the Caid adds pathetically:

"The chief is very kind in sending me milk, as I am afraid to eat anything."

Continuing, Sir Harry says he is in a tumble-down room, the roof of which on one side is completely lacking. He is guarded by four of Raisuli's men, and the five have only one small kettle for water. It is, consequently, impossible for Sir Harry to wash.

Another letter from the Caid says that Raisuli's men declare that all the sailors and soldiers who landed at Casablanca from the French warships have been killed and that the Sultan has turned all Frenchmen out of the country.

Paris, Sept. 9.—The Echo de Paris' Madrid correspondent says it is rumored in military circles that France has proposed to Spain to send a Franco-Spanish army of 50,000 men to occupy the Moroccan ports and to go as far as Fez, if necessary. The correspondent says it is stated that Premier Maura and Gen. Martitegui, chief of the headquarters' staff, are opposed to this plan, but that the Minister of War, Gen. Primo-Rivera, supports it.

The Eclair's Madrid correspondent says that Great Britain's influence contributed to a modification of Spain's attitude toward Morocco, Britain persuading her to co-operate effectively with French action and to conform to her rights and obligations as recognized by the treaty of Algeciras.

The correspondent at Madrid of The Matin says it is believed Spain will decide to send 5,000 infantry and 500 cavalry to occupy Tangier, Tetuan and Larache, and establish a police force there.

Ready to Arbitrate.

A ray of hope for a possible solution of the vexing Moroccan problem came from the Moorish empire Saturday night in the shape of an announcement that the tribesmen were ready to negotiate for peace. Vice-Admiral Philbert confirms this news in an official cablegram stating that a delegation from the warring Arabs had asked Gen. Drude for an armistice pending a settlement of peace terms.

No great expectations are based upon this announcement for there is some suspicions that the move may be a trick of the Moors to gain time to bring in reinforcements.

At home the new features in the Moroccan question, from the French standpoint, are found in the opinions of the German press on the question of indemnification for German losses that grew out of the bombardment of Casablanca, and the efforts of the project to police Morocco by France and Spain.

In an editorial article accepted as inspired, The Temps suggests that the question of damages be submitted to an international committee similar to that which was summoned after the bombardment of Alexandria, and that the action of this committee should be based upon the recognition of the principle that a local Government is responsible for disorders.

Such a solution of this question, The Temps says, should be accepted by Germany just as she did in the case of Egypt.

Premier Clemenceau announced last night that he had summoned a Cabinet meeting for to-day to consider the Moroccan question in all its phases.

Explorers Safe.

London, Sept. 9.—The Evening News announces that a cable despatch was received in London on Saturday from Gibbon, Alaska, saying that Capt. Mikelsen of the Arctic exploration steamer Duchess of Bedford, and his companions are safe, having traversed the ice to a place of safety after the wreck of the ship.

PETERBORO'S WIN MOST EXCITING GAME OF YEAR FROM PORT HOPE

Manager Johnston's Aggregation Played Inside Ball all the way on Saturday and Earned Their Victory in the Second Game of Finals.

THE SCORE WAS 6 TO 3

Cheatham With Two Doubles and a Sensational Catch was the Hero of the Day—Fine Fielding on Both Sides.

In the most exciting and snappy game of the season, the Peterborough baseball team, defeated Port Hope, on Saturday in the lake town by 6 to 3, in the second contest of the finals for the Midland League championship. The two teams are thus on an even footing, and the ownership of the pennant will be decided on Saturday, when they meet in the finals in Cobourg.

Saturday's game will be long remembered by those who were fortunate enough to see it. The excitement was intense all the way, and was kept up until the last man was out. The last innings was not of the calibre that a person with a weak heart should see too often. With but one out, Port Hope had the bases full in the ninth, and a long hit might have won the game for them. Clements, who occupied the box for Peterborough, was master of the situation, however, and the last two men went out on flies to the outfield, and the game was over, with Peterborough three points in the lead.

The Peterboroughs were the first to break into the run column, geting two in the fourth on a single. An error, Cheatham's two sacker, and Connor's sacrifice. Port Hope took the lead in their half, when three singles and a double in a row, gave them three runs. There was no further counting until the sixth, when an error and a single allowed Peterborough to tie the score. They won out in the eighth on a single a fielder's choice, and Cheatham's second drive for two bases. Just to clinch the game, they added another in the ninth, on singles by Burns and Hickey.

Clements' Great Pitching

Fred Clements of Toronto, was in the box for Peterborough, and pitched a grand game, allowing the Hopers only seven hits. He had everything and was a complete mystery to the home team, with the exception of the fourth innings, when they got four hits. He was very steady with men on the bases and although several times things looked bad for him, he never lost his head, and by clever pitching, aided by sharp fielding, on the part of the team behind him, pulled out of several difficult corners. Clements is one of those pitchers who use their think tank, as well as their arm, and he had the Crawfordites safe at every turn.

Our old friend, Henry Surphlis, was on the firing line for Port Hope, and the Petes got to him often and early, getting ten hits, which came in clusters in the fourth, sixth, eighth and ninth innings. When hits meant runs the Peterboroughs showed a painful lack of respect for Henry's feelings, and banged the Spalding on the nose at most inconvenient periods for the home team. Surphlis, however, pitched good ball, and struck out nine of the Pirates.

Manager Johnston's men put up a fine line of inside ball while at the bat, and no chance to score was was thrown away. In the fourth, with men on second and third, Connors placed a beautiful sacrifice over Surphlis' head, on which Anderson scored and Cheatham was nipped at the plate, after coming all the way from second in a terrific effort to score on the play. In the sixth, Burridge and Burns pulled off that often attempted, but rarely successful, feat, the squeeze play. With Burns on third, Burridge bunted to the pitcher, and Burns tore home from third before Surphlis could field the ball, and Burridge by great running beat the throw to first.

Cheatham the Hero

Cheatham was the hero of the game, both at the bat and in the field. The local short stop batted at a .666 clip Saturday. Twice with two on the bases, he stepped up to the plate and drove out a stinging two bagger to right field, sending three runs across the plate, and his great hitting did much to win the game, while his fielding did even more. In the fifth he pulled off the most sensational play ever seen in Port Hope, resulting in a lightning double play, that could have been made a triple, if it had been needed. It happened in this wise: With one out, O'Brien was on third, and Benson on second; O'Neill was at the bat, and the excitement was intense. The Port Hope catcher met one of Clements' shoots right on the nose, and the ball went out on a line towards left field. To everyone it seemed certain that the sphere would pass between Haliburton and Cheatham, in which case 2 runs would certainly have been scored. The short stop had not time to get in front of the drive, but stretching out to full length, with his hands reversed, he pulled in the ball, and shot it to third, completing a double play. It It was the feature play of the day, and even the Port Hope crowd waxed enthusiastic over the catch.

Team's Fine Fielding

The whole Peterborough team fielded brilliantly. Anderson had nine chances at second and took care of eight of them in his usual clever manner, pulling in a drive from Brittain, that resulted in a double play. Haliburton took care of evrything that came his way, and Hickey had nine chances without a skip, on first. Burridge's throwing to the bases was one of the features, and he nipped several at the second bag in a clever manner. Burns had three pretty catches in the field, two of them in the ninth, when a miss would have been disastrous.

Burridge, Cheatham and Hickey, were the leaders with the stick. The local catcher got three pretty singles; Cheatham had two doubles, and Hickey the same number of bingles. Haliburton had a funny day at the bat, reaching first four times without a hit, twice on errors by Bill O'Brien and twice on complimentaries.

Port Hope's Stars

O'Hearne, O'Brien and O'Neill did the best work in the field for the Crawfordites. O'Hearne accepted eight out of nine chances at second, gathering in a low hard drive off his shoe tops in the fourth. O'Brien did some pretty fielding around third although he had two errors. His catch of Burridge's foul fly back of third in the ninth was a brilliant piece of work. O'Neill played the game of his life behind the bat, having fifteen chances without an error, while the accuracy of his throwing to bases is shown by the fact that he had five assists. Brittain of the Wellingtons, did poor work at short stop, falling down on three chances.

O'Neill was the leading stick artist for the losers, getting a double and a single, while Cheatham robbed him of a third by the sensational catch already described.

Jack Connors, although his injured arm was giving him all kinds of trouble, pluckily started the game in the field, but had to quit in the fifth when he again hurt his wing. He was responsible for one of the runs scored by Peterborough, his beautiful sacrifice sending Anderson across the counting station in the fourth. Dick Turpin of the Cobourg team finished the game in right field. He dropped a fly in the ninth, but made up for it by nailing a long drive from Surphlis a moment afterwards.

Few Changes

Port Hope had but one change in their line-up, Benson of the Wellingtons playing left field. Clements was the only new man on Peterborough's nine. Walsh, the umpire of the Toronto City League, handled the indicator, and his decisions gave general satisfaction.

The game was witnessed by one of the largest crowds of the season, which was wildly excited all the way. Only about a dozen Peterborough fans saw the contest. One of the features was the coaching of Ross and Benson of the Port Hope team, who kept the crowd amused throughout the entire game. Their noise had no effect on Clements, however, as he kept his head through all the excitement.

Game by Innings

The story of the game by innings follows:

First innings—Burns first up for Peterborough died on a grounder to O'Brien. Hickey did the same. Burridge beat out a drive to Kolb, and stole second and third, but Anderson struck out. No runs.

For Port Hope, O'Brien drove a warm one at Clements, which the pitcher fielded in time to get the runner at first. Benson struck out. O'Neill got a base on balls, but Ross grounded out to Anderson. No runs.

Second innings—Cheatham drew a pass, but was nailed at second on an attempt to purloin the middle station. Connors grounded out to Kolb and Murphy fanned. No runs.

For Port Hope, O'Hearne was safe on Cheatham's wide throw to first, which pulled Hickey off the bag. Brittain tried to bunt, but his best was a pop fly to Burridge. O'Hearne was out a moment afterwards trying to steal second. Burridge's pretty throw had him beaten a block. Kolb missed three. No runs.

Third innings—Haliburton was safe on O'Brien's fumble of his grounder. He went to second on a wild pitch, and was thrown out in an attempt to steal third. Clements fanned and Burns' drive to third was right in O'Brien's hands. No runs.

For Port Hope, Brown and Surphlis grounded out to Clements, and O'Brien's grounder was easy for Cheatham. No runs.

The First Scores

Fourth innings—Peterborough broke into the run column at this stage. O'Hearne captured Hickey's drive to second neatly. Burridge dropped one over second for a pretty single. Anderson hit a grounder to Brittain, who fumbled it, and both runners were safe. Cheatham drove one to the fence in right centre for two bases, scoring Burridge and advancing Anderson to third. Connors sacrificed neatly, dropping the ball behind Surphlis. The batter was out at first, while Anderson scored. Cheatham tried to score from second, but was nipped at the plate, although he very nearly got away with it. Two runs.

Port Hope came right back with three on clean hitting. Benson flew out to Burns. O'Neill planted a pretty hit into left, the first hit off Clements. Ross followed with a double along the left field foul line, scoring O'Neill. O'Hearne singled and stole second. Brittain drove one between short and third scoring Ross and O'Hearne. Brittain went to second when Murphy threw to the plate in an attempt to head off the runs. He was caught off the base shortly afterwards on a throw from Clements. Kolb was walked, but Brown grounded to Cheatham. Three runs.

Fifth innings—Murphy was out on a grounder to O'Hearne, although he came very near beating the ball to the first station. Haliburton walked, but was caught off first on a throw from O'Neill. Clements fanned. No runs.

Surphlis flew out to Cheatham. O'Brien was safe on a grounder to Clements, who knocked it to one side. Benson was hit by pitcher. O'Brien made a daring steal of third, and Benson promptly proceeded to purloin the middle switch. With two on the bases, things looked bad. Then came the lightning double play, when Cheatham nailed O'Neill's scorching drive and nipped O'Brien at third. No runs.

Tied the Score

Sixth innings—Peterborough tied the score in this chapter. Burns was given a life on Brittain's miscue of his grounder to short. He stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Hickey disturbed the atmosphere three times. Burridge bunted and the squeeze play was successfully pulled off, Burridge being safe on the play. Anderson singled, but Cheatham and Turpin died on flies to to first and second respectively. One run.

Ross grounded out to Anderson. Murphy dropped O'Hearne's drive to left, but Brittain drove a liner right into Andersons' hands, and O'Hearne was doubled up at first. No runs.

Seventh innings—Murphy beat out a grounder to second, but was out trying to steal the centre sack. Haliburton was safe on O'Brien's fumble, but Clements fanned and Burns flew out to short. No runs.

There was excitement in Port Hope's half. Kolb drove one past third for a single. Brown struck out, and Kolb went to third on Burridge's low throw to second. A score seemed certain, but Surphlis flew out to Anderson, and Haliburton made a neat pick-up and throw of O'Brien's grounder to third. No runs.

Won in the Eight

Eighth innings—Peterborough won the game right here. Hickey led off with a single and got to second on O'Hearne's error. Burridge hit to Surphlis, who threw to third, but Hickey beat the ball with a nice slide, Burridge reaching first in safety and stealing second. Anderson struck out, but Cheatham came to the rescue with a ringing double over Brown's head in right, and Burridge and Anderson scored. Turpin grounded to O'Hearne, and Murphy failed to connect with three of Surphlis' spoots. Two runs.

Benson was safe on Anderson's error, but was out stealing second. O'Neill drove out a two-bagger to left, but went out on an attempt to steal third. Ross flew out to Murphy. No runs.

Ninth innings—Haliburton walked, but was out stealing second. Clements fanned. Burns beat out a grounder to second and went to third on Brittain's miss of O'Neill's throw. Hickey drove out a nice single, scoring Corney. Burridge died on a foul fly to O'Brien. One run.

Exciting Finish

Port Hope showed that there was still a fight left in them by filling the bases in their half, and there was tremendous excitement. O'Hearne drove out a long fly to right which Turpin misjudged and finally missed. Brittain flew out to Burns. Kold, however, was hit by pitcher and Walters, who was put in to bat for Brown, responded to the applause which greeted his appearance, by placing a neat single over third. With the sacks all occupied, things did not look any too pleasant for Peterborough. Surphlis planted one to right which Turpin nailed. O'Brien hit a high fly to centre and the base-runners came tearing in. O'Hearne had crossed the plate when the ball dropped safely into Burns' hands. If Corney had dropped the ball it would have been all off, but he held it safe, and the contest was Peterborough's.

Howard Won Two Races at Hamilton Meet

It looks as if Peterborough county has turned out a second Longboat. On Saturday afternoon at the meet of the Irish Canadian Athletic Club, Ben Howard, the Hiawatha Indian, captured the five mile open race in which he defeated Sellen, the English runner, who a week ago knocked thirty seconds off the Candian record for five miles. The time was 27.30, and Howard beat not only Sellen but Muirhead of Hamilton, and a number of other good runners. A despatch from Hamilton says: "It was a grand contest and Howard proved himself a second Longboat." Howard also won the special mile event for Indians, winning the race in 5.10.

EXCURSION TO COBOURG SATURDAY

Final Game for the Midland League Championship Takes Place Then

The championship of the Midland Baseball League will be decided on Saturday next, when Peterborough and Port Hope will meet in a sudden death game at Cobourg. The two teams that played in Port Hope on Saturday were said to be the best teams that ever represented Peterborough and Port Hope, respectively, and as the line-up will be practically the same this week, a great game should result. The Peterborough Club are making arrangements to run an excursion to Cobourg for the game and no doubt there will be a monster crowd accompany the team on the week-end.

ADAMSON WON THE 100 YARDS RACE

Defeated Frank O'Connor in An Exciting Series at Exhibition Grounds

On Saturday at the Exhibition Ground a race for the 100 yards championship of the Brass Department of the C.G.E., was run betweeen Price Adamson and "Chubby" O'Connor, which resultedf in a win for the former.

The race was run in three heats, the best two out of three to count for the winner.

Adamson won the first, the second was a tie and had to be run over again, resulting in a win for O'Connor. The third was won by Adamson, making him the winner. The race caused much interest.

AUTUMN GOLF TEAM IS OPENED ON SATURDAY

Golf Tea and Mixed Foursomers Constitute The Programme

BURRIDGE HEADS THE LOCALS AT BATTING

Catcher is Four Points Ahead of Coney Burns

Burns and Burridge are having an exciting race for the batting championship of the Peterborough Baseball Club. At present, Burridge is leading by three points, the figures for 17 games reading: Burridge, .408, and Burns .406. Burns was ahead until Saturday's game, his four hits in the contest a week ago giving him the lead. At Port Hope, however, Burridge got three hits to Burns' one, and went ahead again. The leadership will be decided on Saturday, when the last game of the season will be played at Cobourg.

RUGBY

There will be a meeting of the Rugby Committee to-night at the Oriental at 8 o'clock. All members are requested to be present.

ROUGH RIDERS TO ORGANIZE THE TEAM

Another Junior Team Will Play the Game This Season

The Rough Riders Rugby Club, will meet for the purpose of organising for the season, to-morrow night in the Y.M.C.A. All those intending to play the game this season are asked to be on hand. The Rough Riders have signed a large number of good men, and their team this year will be a strong one.

The first Rugby practice of the season was held on Saturday afternoon at the Riverside Park, when a large number of players were out in uniform. The majority of those present were junior players from the city league teams of last year, although several of the seniors were out.

The players and enthusiasts of the city are reminded of the fact that there will be a meeting of the Peterborough Rugby Club on Thursday evening for the purpose of electing officers for the season and transacting other important business. The committee appointed to look up material will report at that meeting.

BRITT AND JOE GANS FIGHT TO-NIGHT AT COLMA

California Boy is in the Best of Condition for the Foxy Negro

At Colma, Cal., to-night, one of the most important lightweight fights that have been fought in recent years will take place, when "Jimmy" Britt will meet Joe Gans, and the winner deserves the championship title. Britt's splendid showing against Nelson puts him again in favour with the California sports, and it seems that Britt was never in better form. The battle to-night should be fast and skilful, as both men are boxers, and not like Nelson, whose forte is ability to take punishment. The fight has every indication of being "on the square," although in 1904 Britt lost to Gans on a foul in a match which was afterwards declared to be fixed. The boxing world is interested in to-night's encounter and expects a great fight.

BASEBALL

The Peterborough ball team had a long trip after the game on Saturday. The contest was not finished in time to allow them to catch the 4.40 train for home, and so the team boarded the 6.40 G.T.R. train for Toronto, and caught the 10 o'clock C. P. R. train for home.

WOMAN ALTERS BIBLE READING IN ORDER TO REVENGE HER HUSBAND

Berlin, Sept. 10.—In our famous library of Wolfenbuttle in Hesse is an old Bible which is greatly treasured, but until the other day it was not known why it is so valued. The mystery has now been solved by the discovery of papers relating to it. It appears that in that passage in Genesis where God tells Eve that Adam shall be her master and shall rule over her, the German translation is "Und er soll dein Herr sein." "Herr," which means master, does not occur in this Bible, but instead there appears the word "narr," which means fool. The newly discovered documents say that the error was caused by a quarrel between the printer and his wife in the year 1580. The wife was vengeful, in the silent watches of the night she entered the room where her husband had been setting type and maliciously changed "herr" into "narr." The printer was arrested after the book had been printed and the mistake discovered, but his apprentice testified that he saw the wife steal into the composing room and alter the word. The woman was imprisoned for blasphemy. Orders were given that all the copies of the edition should be destroyed. This was done, with the exception of the one copy now in the Wolfenbuttel Library.

PETERBORO HAS NO EPIDEMIC OF TYPHOID SAYS HEALTH OFFICER

Medical Health Officer Takes a Direct Issue With Chairman of Board of Health

VERY LITTLE LOCAL TYPHOID

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In your issue of the 6th instant, you relate a conversation with Mr. Wm. Ayres, chairman of the Board of Health in this city. The following is part of the conversation: "The chairman believed that the Board is up against a difficult problem in attempting to extinguish the typhoid epidemic which he believes to be existing both in this city and at the lakes." In replying to the above I desire to say positively, that there is no epidemic of typhoid fever in Peterborough, and the chairman's insinuation is a gratuitous stab at the good name of our fair young city. I do not accuse our veteran chairman of intentional wrong doing, nevertheless, his ill-advised and foolish talk cannot fail to have a pernicious effect upon the business and social interests of our citizens.

Quite a number of typhoid fever patients have been recently brought to the hospitals from outlying districts, but surely no fair minded man would charge this to the City of Peterborough. Moreover, I feel justified in stating that there is not a town or city in the Dominion of Canada more exempt from infectious or contagious diseases than Peterborough is at present. I have interviewed every medical practitioner in the city and can only find 14 typhoid patients under treatment in homes or in hospitals and only 6 of which contracted the disease in Peterborough. That makes one typhoid patient for every 2,500 of the inhabitants, and this is what the chairman of our Board of Health calls an epidemic. Verily the chairman of a Board of Health should be a man of clear judgment and some discretion, for if he should happen to be an impetuous, headstrong man, or of the erratic and sensational type, even though he should speak in the stately and measured speech of the prophets, he would be an unsafe official and a standing menace to the best interests of the town or city wherein he is sufffered to dwell.

J. BINGHAM,
Medical Health Officer.

Peterborough, Sept. 11th, 1907.

WAVES' ACTION WEARS TELEPHONE CABLE

The action of the waves at Stony Lake during the past few days had the effect of wearing out the cable belonging to the Bell Telephone Company where it is laid over a rock. It is now temporarily remedied and telephone communication is now obtainable between the city and Stony Lake.

Dislocates Arm At Exhibition

A Peterborough man who visited the Toronto Exhibition last week, is regretting that he ever went near the Midway. He with a party of friends, all from this city, was taking in the sights along the amusement route, when some one suggested that they should take a trip through the House of Nonsense. This was agreed to by the other members of the party, and accordingly they paid their money and entered the place of illusions. The phenomena seen there proved too much for one of the party, and in some manner he managed to fall and badly dislocate his shoulder. He is recovering nicely from the effects of his injury.

A Burning Fireman Cries Pitifully For Some Assistance

He Passed Through Peterborough Early Yesterday Morning From Havelock and Meets With Terrible Accident at Toronto

HE IS HURLED FIFTY FEET

Injured Man is Rescued By Neighbours and Taken to Hospital—Runs Through Field With Clothes Afire

Thomas B. Miller, a C. P. R. fireman, who passed through Peterborough yesterday morning, from Havelock to Toronto, on engine No. 1628, met with a most unfortunate accident at the end of his run. A Toronto despatch says:

With his clothes ablaze, his arms and body burned, scalded, as well as bruised, Thomas B. Miller, a C. P. R. fireman, hurled from his engine, by the blowing out of the crown plate, cried piteously for help in an open field at the northern end of Dovercourt road, shortly after 8 o'clock this morning.

"Mother! mother!" he shouted.

Awakened from their slumbers by the explosion, the people heard him.

Cried For Help

Suffering the most intense pain, the man was wandering through the open field. The people thought the waving light was a torch, but Miller's clothes were on fire. He succeeded in climbing through the fence that divides the field from main street, Dovercourt.

"Will no person help me!" he cried.

The noise of the explosion had aroused people for half a mile around. They hastened to the scene. One of the first to reach the place, was Thomas Houghie, a Scotchman, residing at the corner of Main street and Somerset street.

He rushed over to Miller, and, as he hastened him to his home, tore away the burning clothes from the pain-frenzied man.

The collar of Miller's jacket was burning, and his neck was terribly scorched. He had been thrown from the engine of the cab a distance of 50 feet over a barbed wire fence into the vacant field and sustained severe bruises and cuts about the forehead. The boiling water from the engine had burst out upon him, and his left arm and side are fearfully scalded. The red hot coals were blown from the fire box, and these had not only set fire to Miller's clothes, but had also burned his hands and face. Although his injuries are considered very serious, Miller is reported to be doing very nicely at the Western Hospital, whither he was taken in Ellis' ambulance.

Engineer Shot Forward

Engine No. 1628, on which Miller was one of two firemen, was hauling a freight which had been made up at Havelock. Engineer Shaw, of 41 Ontario street, was in charge. The train was approaching Toronto Junction.

By the force of the explosion Shaw was shot forward between the cab and the boiler. A sprained ankle and some slight bruises were all the injuries he sustained.

Recovering himself immediately after the shock, he succeeded in bringing the train to a standstill by the time it had reached Dufferin street, a quarter of a mile west of the spot where the explosion occurred. The other fireman was uninjured.

Trainmen at the Junction expressed the opinion this morning that the crown sheet of the engine was blown down into the fire box. The steam and water from the boiler blew the fire from the box, and, escaping with great force caught the fireman. He was hurled out of the cab and clean over the fence, which runs about 15 feet from the track. The engineer was shielded from the flying coals and steam by the end of the boiler, his seat being situated well forward on the right side. The second fireman was in a similar position on the left side.

Looked Like a Torch

"I thought that it was a torch that was being carried through the field, but it was Miller on fire," said Mr. Alfred Langdon of Main street, Dovercourt, one of the many people aroused by the explosion.

"We could see the poor man struggling through the field, and shouting, 'Mother! mother!' We rushed out of the house, but Mr. Houghie reached him first and took him to his home. The engineer stuck to his post like a man. Miller was in such agony that he did not know where he was or what had happened."

"We heard a noise like an earthquake," said Mrs. Matthew Leather, "and when we looked out the train was running slowly, the fire was scattered along the track, and we could see a light moving in the field. Somebody was calling, 'Mother! mother!' and I answered him. It was the fireman. He scrambled through the fence, and then Mr. Hannah and Mr. Houghie rushed over to him. My husband ran to Hopkin's grocery and called the ambulance."

Not Caused by Low Water

People who were talking with the engineer shortly after the accident state that he expressed the opinion that the blow out was not caused by low water as the guage glass showed that there was plenty.

A section of the fire box which had been blown out by the explosion was lying beside the track to-day. Although it is a very heavy piece of sheet metal it had been hurled a distance of fifteen feet.

Joseph Miller, the injured man, is 23 years of age, and his home is in Macadam, N. B. While in Toronto Junction, between runs, he boarded at Mrs. Luck's, 194 Vine street. His home station is Woodstock, N. B., and his regular run is on the Atlantic Division of the C. P. R.

HE IS THE PROUD DADDY OF AESTHETIC FLORAL TRIBUTES

"Daddy" Taylor as he is familiarly known, is entitled to the degree of Doctor of Civic Arts. During this summer he has developed at least three bowers of beauty in different parts of the city, which have, and are now, contributing to the pleasure of our citizens—and all without any expectation of compensation except his love for flowers. The work of decorating the C.P.R. station, the Customs House and the Charlotte street church grounds has been largely a labour of love. So enthusiastic has he been that during the season he might be seen at his favourite work at daylight and at dark. The fascination of witnessing the birth of his numerous variaties of flowers is very creditable to Mr. Taylor. The borders and beds at the C.P.R. include China asters, balsams, phlox, stocks, budd rose, castor bean and others. These are all at their best just now, and the profusion of bloom including pink, pale yellow, rose colour, crimson and white, is a delight alike to travellers and citizens. At the Customs House the large flower beds have been well laid out and kept, and the bloom is splendid. The same can be said of the flower beds at the Charlotte street Church.

FAILURES GIVE THE BEARS ON THE EXCHANGE PLENTY OF AMMUNITION

Flood of Bear News Breaks the Prices in the Stock Market To-day—Copper Stocks are Under Pressure

WAS POOR CROP REPORT

New York, Sept. 10.—A flood of bear news broke prices in the stock market to-day. The failure of the Belding Hall Mfg. Co., big leather dealers of New York and Philadelphia, the failure of the Stock Exchange firm of Thayer Bros., the reduction in the Calumet & Hecla dividend from $20 to $15, and the publication of one of the poorest crop reports in years, gave the bears plenty of ammunition, and they made the most of it. On the other hand, the decision of the Penna. Supreme Court, which declared the two-cent fare law unconstitutional, and the good showing on the New York City bond issue, were favourable features, out had little or no effect in stemming the decline.

The copper stocks were under the heaviest pressure, but the general list was hammered to a standstill, and some large declines were forced. Commission houses reported little business on the buying side, as the investing public is taking a conservative course and will only buy on the extreme declines. There was no support to the market to speak of, but much of the selling looked like professional short selling, and if no liquidation is induced the decline may not go so very much further. The copper stocks are in a bad position, however, and the weakness of the metal in London is a very bad feature. The closing was weak, at about the low for the day.

INTERESTING MEETING OF PARK STREET B.Y.P.U.

First Address on "The Attributes of God" by Rev. A. H. Brace

It was a busy night at Park Street Baptist Church last night, there being Finance Committee, Building Committee meetings and a special meeting, and the B.Y.P.U. The latter was of more than ordinary interest. It was the first of a series of addresses on "The Attributes of God," and was given by Rev. A. H. Brace. It was decided, on motion, to unite with the Baptist Young People's Societies of the district, and attend in a body the rally on Monday next at Murray street church.

Mr. Chas. Barrie was appointed to represent Park street church. Mr. Lincoln Brace was appointed vice-president to the end of the term.

Why Beauty Fades

Real beauty is rare. It belongs to perfect health. Just as soon as the blood gets thin and watery, and the nerves become exhausted, beauty fades, wrinkles show themselves, the glow of health disappears, and beauty curves give place to leanness an dangles. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder and nerve restorative is woman's greatest blessing from youth to old age. A few weeks use of this treatment will do wonders for any woman who is pale, weak and nervous.

INDUSTRIAL FAIR PROMISES TO BE THE BEST IN HISTORY

Who Says The Exhibition is Bound to Be a Success

BEST EVENT OF THE DAY

What the Hamilton Herald Says of Ben Howard's Victory

The form displayed by Ben Howard in the five mile race at Hamilton seems to have taken the eye of the critics, and all the Hamilton sporting writers give him great praise for his good work. An interesting interview with Howard, in which he tells of the race, appears on the first page of to-night's Examiner.

The Hamilton Herald has the following to say of his performance on Saturday:

The Hamilton Herald says:—The event, as far as excitement went, was the five-mile race. Soon after the start it was seen that there were only three men in it, Sellen, the holder of the Canadian record for the distance; Howard, the Sunderland Indian, and Muirhead, who finished second in the Labour Day road race here. The latter took up the lead after Sellen had escorte dthe boys round for a lap and had fallen back. The bunch was mamtained until the first mile was eaten up, then Sellen jumped into the lead, followed by the Indian. Muirhead hung on for a minute or two, but found the pace too hot, and slackened up a bit. The race after this developed into a contest between Sellen and Howard. Lap and lap these two peeled off, with the white man making the pace. Soon after the two miles had been run Sellen tried to force Howard to take the lead, but the Indian was foxey and refused. Sellen accepted the position again and the chase went on until the 220 mark in the last lap was reached. Here Sellen spurted and tried to leave Howard. But the latter had a great deal left and put on a bit more speed. When fifty yards from the tape, Sellen spurted again, but the Indian struck a tremendous pait. The Toronto man stuck to it and the two tore along abreast. But Sellen was all in and when Howard forged ahead by an inch he stopped, evidently run to a standstill. During the last few minutes of the race the crowd was on its feet, yelling encouragement at Howard, who had the sympathy of the stands all the time. The winner's time was 27,30.

DOCTOR HODGETTS DEMANDS REFORM IN PROVINCIAL SANITATION METHOD

Dr. C. A. Hodgetts, Secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, in his annual report, issued yesterday, says:—

"The time is ripe for a change in the health laws of the province. The present local boards of health are often failures, and properly qualified men, who will devote their whole time to sanitary administration, should be appointed, while the province should be subdivided into county or other districts, similar to those of the school system.

"In addition, the central system should be organized; the chief health officer should have a competent staff, consisting of the present officials and a sanitary engineer.

"All water and sewage propositions could and should then receive immediate attention, and need not be held over for two or three months as now.

"The functions of the Provincial Board of Health should be purely consultative.

"Vaccine and anti-toxic serums, including the most important one, anti-diphtheritic serum, which is almost a specific remedy, should be distributed free of charge.

"And all these changes must be made if the province is to be kept abreast of the times, for the lives of our people are at stake, and the health of our cities is the state's wealth, in the highest sense of the word."

Dr. Hodgetts recommends the printing and distribution of health rules in the different languages of foreigners, who are employed in the province.

Insure Against Serious Colds

Of the many forms of insurance probably that which protects you against the serious results of colds is the most valuable at this time of the year, when so many are becoming victims of la grippe and pneumonia. By the prompt use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine you can keep the loose, prevent further development of the cold and cure it in a few days.

Organization Being Talked of by the Literary Men—Lectures by Prominent Speakers

CONDITIONS OF THE CLU

There is a movement under consideration by a number of the literary men and women of the city to form a Canadian Club in Peterborough. The question is yet in its infancy but there is every possibility that the project will be carried out in teh near future, as a Canadian Club will be one of the best possible means of passing the winter with literary profit.

The club if formed will follow along the same lines as the Canadian Clubs in other cities. It will be used exclusively by the members belonging to it who will attempt to get some of the prominent men of the province such as Prof. Goldwin Smith, to give lectures at regular intervals. These lectures are almost exclusively of a national character pertaining to the relations of Canada with other countries, etc.

At each meeting of the Club a lecture is given and a banquet held. The literary assistance and general knowledge, therefore, that might be derived from the formation of such a club is apparent and there is every possibility of its formation here.

The Old Building to be Removed Immediately to Permit of Erection of Handsome New Structure

SOD BREAKING CEREMONY

The plans and specification of the Park street Baptist church arrived yesterday and were considered at a full meeting of the Building Committee last night. Advertisements for building tenders will be out to-mor ow and may be tendered for in parts or in bulk. Stones will be used for the foundation and basement wall up to the brick work, then brick work distinct, also carpenter work, etc. The plans and specifications may be seen any time after to-day at the Y.M.C.A.

The Building Committee has decided to employ Mr. Shear to remove the old building immediately, and steps will be taken for the ceremony of breaking the ground at an early date.

BRITAIN'S PROGRESS

A recent publication of the British Board of Trade sheds some light on the comparative conditions of the people of the United Kingdom now and thirty-six years ago. Some of the facts stated are strong refutation of the theory of the protectionists that Britain's population is worse off, or that the country is going to the dogs under free trade. In 1871 the population of Great Britain was 31,500,000; in 1906 it was 43,700,000, or an increase of nearly 39 per cent. In view of the great increase in population it is interesting to note these facts.

There were 1,237,000 paupers in 1871; in 1906 the number was 1,089,000. While population has increased nearly 39 per cent. pauperism has decreased 148,000, or over 11 per cent. on the figures of thirty-six years ago.

The imports of meat in 1871 amounted to £10,713,00; in 1906 to £52,028,000. No wonder the people are able to eat twice as much meat as formerly.

The food and drink imports per head in 1871 were £3 18s. 9d.; in 1906 they were £5 6s. 11d.

In 1871 the savings in post-office and trustee banks totalled £55,845,000; last year, the total was £230,382,000.

The British people never were so prosperous as they are to-day, and never enjoyed so much general comfort. A comparison of the birth and death rates of the years named shows: Birth-rate in 1871, 33.8 per 1,000; in 1906, 26.8 per 1,000. There is a decline here of 7.8 per 1,000 of the population, a very great falling off. But there is compensation. The death-rate in 1871 was 21.5 per 1,000 and in 1906 it was 15.6 per 1,000. The falling off in the death-rate more than compensates for the declining birth-rate as the great increase in the population shows, even if emigration be not considered. The birth-rate for last three months is placed at 27.3 and the death-rate 15.3 per 1,000.

CROPS AND CROP ESTIMATES

There is no doubt that much harm is done by the circulation of pessimistic and blue ruin reports as to the harvest yield. A statement of a most mischievously depressing character was made by an authority in regard to the failure of crops in Ontario. This was clearly grossly exaggerated, for the indications are that Ontario crops, on the average, will be three-quarters of a crop, and old-timers assert that the crops have been worse in some years of the past. Now, a three-quarters crop, with once-and-a-quarter prices, pretty well evens matters, and the farming interest, as a whole, is not in as bad a position as pessimists would have us believe. Statements such as that referred to have a tendency to impair the spirit of public enterprise and put on a brake. If the farming community is stampeded by such remarks the result will be felt by the business community. As to the motives in discrediting this year's wheat yield in the Northwest, we all know what they are, especially if they come from a United States source. In accepting estimates we must consider the probable interest behind them. The Grain Dealers' Association of Winnipeg has issued an estimate of the crop, compiled, no doubt, after careful inquiry, and their estimate puts this year's crop at eight-one million bushels, and the report of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, made, no doubt, after careful inquiry, puts the yield at eight-two million bushels. In the one case the interest is to depress prices, and the bank's interest would be to discourage the idea of the necessity of demands upon it at a period of ready money scarcity. After all, taking the mean of the two estimates, 81,500,000 bushels of Northwest wheat is not a bad yield, taking into account the increased price it will be almost sure to bring. The Bank of Commerce estimate that the value of total crop of the Northwest this year will amount to ninety-one millions of dollars, rather a largish sum of money.

STILL MIXED WITH POLITICS

"It is certain," says the Toronto News, "that the license law (in Toronto,) was as well observed under Mr. Hastings, as it has been under his successors." And Mr. Whitney promised that he would revolutionize the "rotten administration" of his predecessors, and remove license law administration from the influence of politics. Yet, under the very nose of the Queen's Park junta, we have a Minister of the Crown urging a license for a plentifully convicted liquor seller, injecting the most powerful —official—influence. We have a former politician, who was shelved for his more or less sinister party services, in a comfortable government berth, practically selling his influence. Commissioner Starr thinks the Cosgrave endorsation of Dr. Beatty Nesbitt's $1000 note, a straight purchase of Dr. Nesbitt's "political influence, or political friendship, which ever we choose to call it." So much did the investigation show the cloven foot of partizan intermeddling in license administration, that even so strong a partizan as Mr. Starr recommends the appointment of a salaried commission, to whom the issue of licenses should alone be intrusted.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Great Britain is climatically classed as a land of dismal fogs and excessive rains. But its death rate is only 15.3 per thousand.

Great Britain's prosperity is shown by the fact that the population has increased 39 per cent. since 1871. This increase is remarkable when one reflects upon the great withdrawals by emigration.

The late James McDonald Oxley, the eminent literary Canadian, was also a product of the "gray matter belt," of the Dominion of Canada, having been a native of Halifax, the chief city of the Maritime Provinces.

Mr. Hugh Graham, of the Montreal Star,—to wit, "Zandry" in the lexicon of political corruption,—is highly indignant, in a journalistic way, over the inference that his action in spending $21,000 in Quebec in the elections of 1904 was not a legitimate substitute for "prayers" as an election-winning expedient. The Star will have to use a great deal of skill to throw the mantle of innocence over his "gifts of money" and "assistance."

"A Socialist Conservative" is the large type heading given by the London "Daily News" to a resume of Mr. R. L. Borden's speech at Halifax, in which he advocated Government ownership of telephones and telegraphs. The leader of the Opposition, the Ottawa Free Press thinks, will require to be careful when making his lighting speeches in future lest any of his wardrobe be appropriated by the socialists, who are nothing, if they are not practical. Keir Hardie realized that at Winnipeg.

The Mail and Empire says that Commissioner Starr pronounced Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, guiltless of trying to exercise undue inference in the case of the Courtney license. Mr. Starr reported that "Dr. Pyne, a minister of the Crown, went to Mr. Flavelle, not to the board, and spoke in favour of one, Courtney, who wanted to procure a license." A hint from a king is equivalent to a command, and a hint from a minister to a license commissioner may be regarded as on the same plane.

On the covers of the Fourth Book of the Ontario series was printed "Price 40 cents." This has been amended, and now reads like a bargain day advertisement this way:—"rPice 40 cents—now 15c." It is a great object lesson.—Spectator.

That's just like, remarks the Hamilton Times, what Mr. John Cooper, one of the School Book Commissioners, says. He tells the people that the specifications of the contract were changed irregularly, and warns them that when this end of the stock is disposed of on the bargain counter, the new books will cost as much as before, if not more. It is a sort of slaughtetr sale of remnants.

The net debt of some of the great cities of the world is a matter of interest to taxpayers. That of Paris is the greatest, being $459,000,000, or $172.82 a head. New York's is next, being $440,000,000, or $113.25 a head. London's debt is $335,000,000, or $73.59 a head, while Philadelphia $64,800,000, or $46.56 a head. Hamilton's net debt per capita is probably about $60. Peterborough's debt per head is not so large at that, but it shows a very promising growth. The policy of the present City Council of going into the building of walks and crossings so extensively at a time when money is so scarce, is rather severely commented upon by its own action—increasing the interest on debentures to secure favourable sale.

The Starr License Commission egg in Toronto has been hatched at last. There was reason to believe that it was a political inquiry, in some respects, for a political purpose. The Commissioners' tender handling of Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education, is a beautiful stroke of diplomatic skill. According to the evidence he was guilty of using his influence as a Minister of the Crown to force upon the License Commissioners the granting of a license to a man who had been convicted of illegal selling a dozen times, and the Commissioners' report upon this point is in effect the verdict, "not guilty, but do it again." Even the Toronto News condemns Mr. Starr's unreserved censure of ex-Inspector Hastings, "who was removed at the demand of party ward heelers," and against whose work itself there was no objection. Of course Mr. Hastings' dismissal had to be justified, and Mr. Starr has faithfully carried out his orders.

WANT POWER PROM HEALY FALLS

Havelock Village Council Adopts Memorial to Dominion Government to Grant Power

NORTHUMBERLAND POWER

Havelock, Sept. 10.—The Northumberland-Durham Power Company, which is undertaking to develop the power at Healey Falls has given assurance to both the village of Havelock and also Norwood, that they will build an electric power line from Healey Falls to Havelock and Norwood at the same time as they construct the power line to the towns on the lake front.

The Northumberland-Durham Power Company waited on the council of the village of Havelock on Aug. 29th and on that of Norwood on Sept. 4th, when the managing director, Mr. J. Alex. Culverwell, of Port Hope, gave a long address in which he pointed out the advantages to be derived by both the towns and the necessity of acting at once. Mr. Culverwell also referred to the unfair opposition of persons who are trying to stop the advance of the company and its work. Addresses were delivered by the leading ratepayers explaining their ideas for and against the proposition, but after a lengthy discussion, in each case among the councillors, a memorial was passed unanimously by the council and endorsed by many of the ratepayers, in which the Dominion Government is petitioned to grant the Northumberland-Durham Power Company a lease of their portion of upper Healey Falls, without further delay. The company at present hold a lease of the Healey Falls and lower rapids from the Ontario Government and also patent of land necessary for works, and also ownership by deed of parts of the upper rapids and other lands.

Each of the villages has two of their leading citizens as stockholders and directors in the company, and every encouragement and assistance will be given to the company in the future.

That plenty of power can be developed at Healey Falls is easily seen by anyone who has visited the Falls, but the company must have a lease to develop the whole of the power that is there, in order to make a success of it. Havelock is situated 8 miles from Healey Falls, while Norwood is 14 miles. The power, it is claimed, can be developed so easy at Healey Falls that it will be very cheap.

"Whereas, the Northumberland - Durham Power Company, Limited, has been granted by the Ontario Government a lease of Healey Falls, both sides and lower adjoining rapids, and also a patent of the fifty-six acres of land absolutely necessary for development works, and the said company also owns by deed two portions of the upper Healey rapids and lands adjoining and the company also owns by deed other necessary lands.

And whereas, the said company is now applying to the Dominion Government for the balance of the upper Healey rapids, so that the company can make a proper and full development of the whole of the Healey water power.

And whereas, the said company does not intend restricting the use of the said power to the counties of Northumberland and Durham as was first moved.

And whereas, the said company agrees to construct an electric power line to Havelock and Norwood in the East Peterborough County, some fourteen miles the same time as the company constructs their main power line to the lake front.

Therefore, be it resolved, that the municipal council of the village of Havelock, do now endorse the said application of the said company to the Government, thereby annulling its previous objections to said application, and further, this council do now petition the Dominion Government to grant a lease without further delay of their portion of the Healey rapids to the said the Northumberland-Durham Power Co., Limited, which is a corporatin being promoted by the leading manufacturers and business men in Cobourg, Port Hope, Trenton, Belleville, Dunsorno, Campbellford, Havelock and Norwood, and endorsed by seventeen municipal councils.

In witness whereof the Municipal Council of Havelock have here unto set their official hand and corporate seal in pursuance of the resolution passed at a meeting of the Council this 29th day of August, 1907.

Nova Scotia's Minerals Are Displayed At Jamestown

Riches Which Are Not Generally Associated With The Maritime Province Shown at Exposition

Jamestown Exposition, Va.—The ways adopted for the dissemination of knowledge are many. However, the most practical way known to the present day for distributing among the people a knowledge of the world at large, or any particular country, is by means of international exhibition.

Through this medium the Government of Nova Scotia is imparting to the world a knowledge of her vast undeveloped mineral resources, of which the masses here upon the same continent are densely ignorant.

It is common knowledge that there is probably no country in the world with a greater wealth of mineral fuel than the Dominion of Canada, and that there are extensive coal measures in Nova Scotia but that this province is rich in deposits of the precious metals scarcely a lay citizen of the United States is aware.

Realizing this, and believing the undeveloped condition of her mining regions to be due to this fact, Nova Scotia has recently installed in the Palace of Mines and Metallurgy at the Jamestown Exposition an exhibit calculated to infuse new life into the production of both the precious and economic metals of the country.

Prior to 1860 the Micmac Indians discovered valuable gold deposits, exchanging the nuggets and gold dust with the inhabitants for the usual trinkets and notions so attractive to Indians, but guarding well the secret of the scource of their wealth. About 1860 the people became aroused by several discoveries of rich gold and every farmer and fisherman who could annex a pick and shovel started in to get rich, but the discovery was not brought to the attention of experienced capital.

Partly accountable for this was the fact that at that period the section was so well provided with railway facilities as at the present time. Primarily responsible however, for the failure of foreign capital to enter the field was the fact that Nova Scotia made no effort to advertise her great discoveries or to interest outside capital, the people being disposed to keep the rich resources secret and thus reap all the benefit themselves. As a result of this lack of capital, there was, likewise a lack of skilled engineers, and many of the known as well as the unknown properties have lain practically dormant for half a century.

New Capital

A certain amount of American and English capital has in recent years become interested in some of the well proven districts, but there is vast opportunity for greater and more profitable development. Being convinced that natural benefit would result from informing the world as to the countries extensive mineral wealth, the Nova Scotia Government authorized the exhibit which has been made at Virginia's great world's fair. As a result this province possesses the distinction of having contributed the only exhibit made at the Exposition from the Dominion of Canada with the exception of the beautiful building erected there by the Grand Trunk Railway System.

The Nova Scotia exhibit is accompanied by the Curator of the provincial museum. It is so valuable that the Director General of the Exposition has appointed a special guard, three ex-confederate soldiers from the Soldier's Home at Richmond, who have reported to Captain Carpenter, the Commandant of the Exposition's constabulatory, and detailed to that duty.

A large number of mineral specimens from the Provincial Museum have been utilized. In the exhibit is an interesting model of the Boston-Richardson Mining Co.'s mine at Isaacs Harbour, where extensive and profitable operations are being conducted; and some nicely arranged specimens of antimony and gold from the properties of the Dominion Antimony Company.

A part of the exhibit however, which attracts the greatest amount of attention is a golden obelisk, 14 feet in height representing the recorded gold productions of the province to Sept. 30th, 1906, at the base of which is a most interesting and valuable exhibit of fold nuggets. Next in point of attraction is a display of facsimile blocks representing a half ton of gold bullion produced by the Micmac Gold Mining Company form its mines in Lipsgate District, Lunenburg County.

Among the literature distributed at the Nova Scotia booth is a report of the Canadian Government, which states that extensive and profitable operations have been carried on by the Micmac Gold Mining Company, and the vein is pronounced a true Tissure vein and practically unexhaustable.

The gold area of Nova Scotia covers three thousand square miles, and extends from Yarmouth to the Straits of Canso. The Government reports nearly $20,000,000 worth of gold bullion removed from the properties since 1862, and eminent authorities agree that a like amount has been taken out in that period by tributers and prospectors, which was not returned go the Mines Office, and of which there is no record. This entire production was obtained in spite of insufficient capital, lack of modern machinery and skilled engineering. Nova Scotia has without doubt produced more gold bullion than any mineraliferous district in the United States of similar area, taking into consideration the amount of money expended.

Now, that use is being made of the water power, which the country possesses in such abundance, for electrical development, and scientific principles are being adopted, with the influx or American capital, as in the case of the Micmac mine which was until resently operated with most primitive appliances and which has now installed a fifty-ton cyanide plant, the possibilities of the country as a gold producing centre are practically limitless.

Immense Collieries

The coal fields of Nova Scotia contains one of the largest collieries in the world, and one of the largest seams of bituminous coal—forty-two feet—is located near here.

There are also extensive deposits of copper and other economic minerals. Tin was recently discovered at Lake Ramsey, about thirty miles from Bridge water. Indications point to a rapid advancement along these lines in the next few years.

Mining in Nova Scotia is now being conducted as an industry. The labour and climatic conditions of the country are ideal. Most of the properties are available by deep water navigation or railway, and there are innumerable streams which furnish excellent water power.

It would seem that the opportunity is at hand for the province to interest American capital and show the world the immensity of her resources.

At the request of the Nova Scotic Government, the Exposition officials have set aside Oct. 24th to be known and celebrated as "Nova Scotia Day" at which time it is expected the Lieutenant Governor, the Premier and Executive Council of Nova Scotia, and the Governor General and Premier of Canada and Cabinet, together with the Mayors of Halifax and other principal cities of the Dominion will be present. Aside from the residents of Nova Scotia there are thousands of Nova Scotians scattered throughout the New England States who, true to the land of Evangeline, will go south to the shore of Virginia to participate in this superb patriotic military and naval and educational celebration.

BRITT'S ARM BROKEN IN LAST NIGHT'S FIGHT

Large Crowd Saw Only Five Rounds of the Mill

The fight that took place at Colma, Cal., last night between Jimmy Britt and Joe Gans ended unsatisfactorily to the 14,000 sports who gathered to see the mill. Five rounds of hard fighting were over when Britt was forced to quit, having broken a bone in his left wrist during the fourth round. He fought on during the fifth, but was practically helpless. The blow was a hard one which Gans intercepted with his elbow. The fight, according to reports, was a sort of slugging match, with Britt the aggressor. He appeared too eager, and the general opinion is that he would have met defeat from the sturdy negro. Referee Welch gave the decision to Gans and Britt was examined by three doctors.

STOPS ROYAL AUTO.

Bull Holds Up Queen of Spain's Traveling Car.

Madrid, Sept. 10.—An automobile from the royal stables, in which Queen Victoria was driving Sunday from St. Sebastian to Bilbac, was suddenly confronted by a large bull, which planted himself in the roadway immediately in front of the queen's car and compelled the chauffeur to put on the brakes hurriedly, and stop the machine.

No collision appears to have occurred, but her majesty is described as having been greatly frightened by the unexpected meeting with the bull.

As the sudden stopping of the royal automobile threw the machinery into disorder the queen was compelled to resume her journey to Bilbac in another car.

Suspicious Death at Montreal.

Montreal, Sept. 10.—A verdict of manslaughter was brought in by the coroner's jury yesterday against Raoul Poliquin, in connection with the death of Edouard Renaud, a cabman, whose body was brought to the General Hospital in his own cab. The body was covered with blood from a gash on the head, and there was a fracture of the skull.

Constable Kavanagh detained two men, Raoul Poliquid and Jos. Phoenix. The explanation was given that five men were passengers in Renaud's cab on a trip to Back River, and that Renaud had fallen from his rig.

Coroner McMahon told the jury that it was their duty to send Poliquin to the police court for further examination.

The project proposes to replace the communes by small zemstvos, in which persons of all ranks, peasants, priests and landlords, shall co-operate on equal terms, each of these zemstvos exercising police functions.

Three Die In Hotel Fire.

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 10.—Fire early yesterday morning destroyed the hotel at Cleveland Springs, N. C., and three persons were burned to death. They are Miss Smith of Ellboro, N. C., and two unidentified negro employes.

Lightning started the fire.

Dr. R. F. Preston Injured.

Carleton Place, Sept. 10.—Dr. R. F. Preston, M. P. P., met with a serious mishap recently while driving home after a professional call. Whether the horse shied or whether in the darkness the wheel got into the hole was not ascertained, but the driver was thrown out unexpectedly upon the road, falling heavily, and although no bones are thought to be broken, he is suffering intense pain in the back and will be laid up for some time.

Whirled Around Shaft.

Sault Ste. Marie, Sept. 10.—Caught by a rapidly revolving shaft while at work in the sawmill of the Lake Superior Corporation, on the Canadian side of the river, yesterday, Tony Gazello, an Italian, was whirled to almost instant death.

When workmen in the vicinity discovered the accident an alarm was immediately given and the machinery stopped. When removed from the shaft the man was breathing his last.

Instantly Killed.

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Emilien Charron of East Templeton was instantly killed yesterday. He was working in the East Templeton Lumber Co.'s mill yesterday morning, when the hog saw flew from its shaft, striking him on the head.

Must Come Back.

London, Sept. 10.—(C. A. P.)—At Dublin, James A. Robinson was ordered to go back to Winnipeg under the Fugitive Offenders' Act on a charge of fraudulent conversion of $1,000.

ROOSEVELT'S THIRD TERM?

Will Not Run Unless There Is Widespread Demand.

New York, Sept. 10.—A special from Honolulu quotes Congressman Longworth, who has just sailed from that port for San Francisco, as saying:

"President Roosevelt will not become a candidate for renomination unless the entire country demands it. He has firmly made up his mind to stick to this course, and only a more widespread demand for him to accept the nomination will alter his determination."

Union of Free Churches.

London, Sept. 10.—(C. A. P.)—Rev. E. B. Meyer has commenced a great national ministry scheme in Leicester, with the idea of uniting all the free churches of Britain and over-sea dominions into one great free church federation for the Empire. Mr. Meyer visits South Africa, Australia and Canada successively, starting next year.

Pure Backing Down.

London, Sept. 10.—(C. A. P.)—Respecting the Newfoundland modus vivendi The Evening Globe says the one solid stipulation worth anything operates against the British. It is that the Imperial Government won't bring into force the provisions of the foreign fishing vessels act. There is no "physically possible" or "reasonable doubt" about that; it is a pure backing down, giving away and throwing overboard of colonial rights.

The Pall Mall Gazette says the Government has been more careful of American susceptibilities than to assure American compliance with British laws.

Cigars Were Smuggled.

Montreal, Sept. 10.—An ingenious method of smuggling cigars into Montreal is under investigation in the police court in connection with the hearing of Maurice Desmares.

It is claimed that boxes of cigars to the number of 10,000 were dropped over the side of incoming steamers into boats which were sent out from St. Helen's Island. These goods were brought over from British and foreign ports by members of the crews, who were evidently in the deal.

In this way the customs officers, who board the steamers at the docks, were avoided.

A Shameful Betrayal.

Ldon, Sept. 10.—The Morning Post declares that the Newfoundland modus vivendi is a shameful betrayal of British honor and Imperial interests, and asks if it does not aggravate the most objectionable features of the 1906 agreement. The Post asks:

"Is there another instance in the whole world of a Government surrendering the right of deciding whether it is 'physically possible' for foreigners entering boundaries of its jurisdiction to conform with its laws."

Both Arms Broken.

Peterboro, Sept. 10.—Albert Alfreda, an employe of the Lakefield Portland Cement Works, had a narrow escape from death yesterday.

He was caught on the key of the fast revolving shaft and whirled around several times. A fellow-employe stopped the machinery and Alfreda was released, but both arms were badly fractured. He is in a precarious condition.

Favors a White Canada.

"My principal mission here is to gather information regarding the question of Oriental immigration, which I understand is absorbing public attention at this juncture. Let me assure the people of British Columbia that I have come with an open mind. So far as I am personally concerned I am unreservedly in favor of a white and British Canada. As Minister of the Interior, and in charge of the department especially entrusted with immigration affairs, my policy has been, as it will be in future, to attract desirable settlers, and to exclude all undesirables."

This was the epigrammatic way in which Hon. Frank Oliver recently stated his views at Vancouver respecting the Oriental problem.

"I am very glad you are here, for British Columbia, unless the bars are raised against Orientals, will soon be no longer a white man's country," was the comment of Mr. R. G. Macpherson, M.P., who was present and who went on to outline the conditions leading to the displacement of white men by Asiatic competitors.

Mr. Oliver was given an opportunity to study conditions at first hand, as he made a tour of Chinatown and the various sawmills. Later an appointment with the Anti-Asiatic League was arranged.

DANGER TO CANOEISTS REMOVED

Breakwater at Locks Has Remedied the Danger From the Current

The danger which so many canoeists have complained of during the past summer as existing at the locks, has been removed, and it is now as safe as in paddling in still water to approach the rollers where the short portage is made. Several canoeists, who greatly appreciate the safety provided, considered that some mention should be made of the fact, and are themselves highly pleased with the change. A breakwater has been thrown up for a considerable distance along the danger spot, thus leaving a channel protected from the swift current from the slide, and sufficiently wide and deep for a canoe or skiff to move through. Canoeists who have had to pass over the rollers to get into the river were continually asking that something might be done to remove a danger which, they said, might bring serious results. With the breakwater even ladies may have no fear in making the portage now, for all the danger has been removed.

NOVA SCOTIAN PREACHES AT ST. PAUL'S

Congregations are Favourably Impressed —Is Invited to Preach for Call

At St. Paul's Church on Sunday there were large congregations present to hear the Rev. Dr. Tuffts of Stellarton, N.S., preach. Dr. Tuffts was invited to preach at St. Paul's Church for a call, and his addresses on Sunday made a very favourable impression upon the congregations.

He is an eloquent, earnest and thoughtful speaker, hisd iscourses being direct, helpful and sympathetic. In the evening he spoke from St. John, 12th chapter, 21st verse — "Sir, we would see Jesus." His words were followed with the closes attention.

MR. A. W. PATTERSON UPSET NEAR RICE LAKE

Leaned on Log Which Sank With Him Under the Water

Mr. A. W. Patterson, of the C. G. E. Angling Club, known to his fellow Izaaks as "Andy" was down at the cottage at Rice Lake not long ago, and met with a funny accident, which resulted in a thorough drenching for him, according to one of his pals.

He was out early in the morning, just after the duck season opened, alone in a canoe, his gun resting on a thwart and eager for a game bird to whirr from the bushes which he was skirting.

"Andy" had not met with much luck, and coming close to an old log, he leaned out on it, for some reason not explained. Immediately he put his weight on the log it sank under the water, and "Andy" followed suit, overturning the boat and throwing the gun into the water. Wet through "Andy" regained the boat without any mental perturbations, and began to drag the bottom for the gun. He declared that the water was about ten feet deep, but he fortunately recovered the gun after but little trouble. The boys had the laugh when the heard of his experience, but accidents are bound to happen, especially from miscalculations. Mr. Patterson said that he would not have left the spot until he had regained his gun, he valued it so highly.

ELECTRIC DEVICE FOR OPENING THE DOORS

Now Being Placed in the Local Fire Hall

Electrical openers for the doors leading from the large hall to the horse stable, are now being installed at the fire hall. They are manufactured by Wilson & Cousins of Toronto, and work automatically whenever an alarm is sent in. One falling of a weight trips the fasteners on the top of six doors, and all open at once. The new arrangement, when completed, will be a great improvement on the former slab fasteners, which have had to be worked by hand.

LITTLE POCKET PHYSICIAN

Hyomei is Guaranteed by Mr. Madill to Cure Catarrh

Thousands who have been cured by Hy-o-mei call the inhaler that comes with every outift the "Little Pocket Physician, as it is so small that it can be carried in the pocket or purse.

There is really no excuse now for anyone having catarrh seeing that Hy-o-mei is so readily obtainable. If you have any doubt about its value Mr. Madill will let you have a complete outfit with the understanding that unless it cures catarrh it will not cost you a cent.

The complete Hy-o-mei outfit consists of the "Little Pocket Physician," and a bottle of "Hy-o-mei," and costs only one dollar, making it the most economical as well as the only guaranteed treatment for the cure of catarrh. Remember that Hy-o-mei cures catarrh without stomach dosing, applying the medication and healing where the disease germs are present.

TEMPTATION WAS THE SUBJECT

Rev. J. R. Webb of Murray St. Preached Interesting Sermon

THE TEMPTER OF CHRIST

On Sunday evening at the Murray street Baptist church, the pastor, Rev. J. R. Webb, preached a forceful sermon on the subject of "Temptation," taking as his text the last clause of St. Matthew, iv, 1.

Among other things, he said: I am not considering to-night as particularly the temptation of Christ, as the tempter of Christ. We have lighted upon days when some men say there is no devil, no sin, no suffering, all these things are imaginery, but, as Mark Twain says in his recent book on Christian Science, "When I sought to pay my debt to this school with an imaginery cheque, I was sued for substantial dollars."

God's word and man's experience teach that there is an adversary of the soul — "Your adversary, the devil," says St. Peter, in his epistle, "as a roaring lion walketh about seeking whom he may devour."

There is no place where the blackness of a blot is seen as upon a white page. If you would see the deceiver in all the strength of desperate assault, see him in the presence of Jesus Christ — here he exhausts his programme of diabolism, his most poisonous fang is exposed, the essence of his venom is directed towards his desired prey, his policy is ever the same. He trades upon his victim's assumed weakness.

Not beside Jordan, when Heaven spoke approval, did Satan attack, but when after forty days and nights in the wilderness He was hungered.

In the ethics of the arena it is considered criminal to strike a man when he is down, but in Satan's code it is when the man is gasping that the hardest blows come. With the hour of weakness comes the glamour of the saloon, and the suggestion of stimulant. The hour of loneliness presents the offer of doubtful hospitality; the hour of need, that invites to the gambling table or the bucket shop.

The men who will prepare harmless entertainment, congenial surroundings and noble company to the multitudes who have but boarding house homes, will thereby weaken Satanic darts, and swing open the gates of paradise to many who are tempted to destruction.

The element of good in the evil, makes the temptation most dangerous.

Satan claimed to be interested in Christ's hunger — he urges his power of leadership, he says, "become popular in an hour." These things are good — possessions, comforts, influence — but in every case he suggested that Christ supply them Himself. They are not the property of the adversary. It is legitimate that the young man should desire comfort, property influence, but the temptation is of the devil if "self" is to be the centre of all these things. Warm yourself at the fire of pleasure but you, yourself, shall supply the fuel.

"All these things will I give Thee." You will get on in the world if you will come down from your throne of righteousness, truth and purity; but your problem is not the question of getting on in the world, but of conquering the world. Time is but a minute on the calendar of the universe. You live not for three score years, and ten, but for eternity, and the wish that there were no hereafter has never had vitality enough to beget the thought. Men do believe in a hereafter, and often tremble at the thought.

"Be of good cheer," says our Lord; "I have overcome the world." And why should I be of good cheer at the thought of Christ's conquest, if I am not linked to Him in the victory; but I am. "The law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus makes me free from the law of sin and death."

Booker T. Washington, in his book, "Putting the Most into Life," says: "The free man is the man who lives within law, whether that law be the physical or the divine. All life is governed by law, and the student must acquire freedom by obedience to law."

Allegiance to Christ certainly does mean something of restraint, but it is the only true liberty.

No one has ever reallly resisted temptation without an experience of angels ministering immediately afterwards, for of all comforts that can come to a man what means more than an approving conscience?

T. A. S. TO HOLD MORE CONCERTS THIS SEASON

This Matter Will be Given More Attention This Year

The Board of Trustees of St. Peter's T.A.S. met last night for the purpose of discussing matters of interest to the society. Among them is the question of arranging for the concerts during the coming season. With two good assembly halls and plenty of talent, it is expected that the concert season will be revived and given a new impetus. Not only are these financially beneficial, but they bring out many talented people who might not otherwise have the opportunity of testing their ability. There are other questions which have not yet been determined, but when settled on Friday they will be made public.

A FAMOUS SINGLE TAX LECTURER

Mr. J. Z. White of Chicago May Speak in This City

That able orator and exponent of Single Tax principles, Mr. John Z. White, of Chicago, will be in Canada from September 10th to October 10th, and will deliver a course of lectures upon his speciality. He will speak in Cobourg and Belleville. The taxpayers of Peterborough have such a vivid experience of what may be called the double tax, that it would be interesting to hear a little about Single Tax. It is understood that an effort is being made to secure Mr. White for a lecture in Peterborough.

CHARGED $2000 FOR A COAT OF PAINT

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—We wish to register a great big kick against our so-called assessors. Our idea, and it is also the idea of a great many others, is that these men that have been appointed as assessors will drive a lot of people out of our city, if they can can only sell their property. These assessors do not seem to have any reason at all, as we will just give you one instance; I had a piece of property assessed last year at one thousand dollars and this year the same piece of property is assessed at three thousand dollars. There have not been any improvements on the property except one coat of paint, and I am assessed two thousand dollars for a coat of paint. I hope that the council will get men next year that will act in some reasonable manner in assessing people's property. The Court of Revision will be kept busy this year undoing the blunders that our so-called assessors have made.

Thanking you for your valuable space, I remain,

Yours respectfully,
"JUSTICE."

Peterborough Sept. 10, 1907.

MR. M. PAPPAS HAS ENTERED AN APPEAL

Against Magistrate Dumble's Recent Decision

Mr. M. Pappas, proprietor of several pool rooms and tobacco stores in the city, has entered an appeal against Police Magistrate D. W. Dumble's decision, by which Mr. Pappas was fined $25 for selling a package of tobacco to Jos. Reynolds, a boy under 18 years of age. An account of the case was given a few days ago, Reynolds being the boy who stole a sum of money from Wm. Stuart of Cavan, and was practically the only witness for the prosecution. The appeal is in the hands of Messrs. O'Connell & Gordon.

LAWNS WERE INSPECTED BY THE COMMITTEE

Prizes Offered to Owners of the Lawns Having Best Appearance

This afternoon a committee of the members of the Horticultural Society made a tour of the city for the purpose of examining those lawns which the owners desired to have examined. A number made application for the inspection of their lawns, and the committee made the rounds, but has not given out the results of its trip. The society offers prizes for the best kept lawns, etc., and it would be better if more people assisted the society in its work by keeping their lawns in good condition.

MR. WM. TAYLOR'S WORK IS COMPLIMENTED

Has Effected Good Results at the Flower Garden at C. P. R.

The work of Mr. Wm. Taylor at the C.P.R. station, on the lawn and flower borders, which comes annually under his care, is being commented upon for the profuse bloom and the selection of the flowers. Mr. Taylor's efforts have been frequently complimented, especially during Toronto Exhibition time, when many people passed through the city. He practically made this little bower from a barren plot, and it is now a credit to the C.P.R. and a beauty spot, surrounded by common box cars.

The Late J. Macdonald Oxley Well Known to Many Peterborough Persons

Mr. James Macdonald Oxley died at his home at 8 Sullivan street, Toronto, yesterday morning, in his 53rd year, after an illness of some six weeks.

EPWORTH LEAGUE HAS INTERESTING MEETING

Poetry Contest Arouses Considerable Interest—A Social Evening

The Epworth League meeting at the George Street Methodist Church last night was of more than usual interest. There were about 130 present and the meeting was an entire success. It was of a social, as well as a literary and religious, character. The chair was occupied by Mr. McCann, organist of the church, and the opening exercises were conducted by Rev. E. A. Pearson, the pastor.

The remainder of the evening was spent in amusing games, one of them being a poetry contest, which proved very interesting, and brought forth the literary abilities of the contestants. Four words—sweet, gold, feet, old—were given as the conclusions of four lines, and the best poem secured the first prize. The winners of the unique contest presented the following to the judges:

Life to the young is sweet;
They are free from the greed of gold;
But the cares and tired feet
Are the inheritance of the old.

George street choir sings very sweet;
The soprano's hair is just like gold;
Mr. McCann plays with his feet;
The songs are never old.

Many Novel Attractions For Industrial Exhibition

Special Prizes Are Many And Worth While Striving For--- Dog Race and Speeding in the Ring---Many Entries Already in Secretary's Hands

In a little more than two weeks from to-day the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition opens to the public. It is now a well-known fact that the directors this year, under the management of Ald. R. H. Leary, have taken especial pains to make the Exhibition the shining light among the many which have been held here, and there is little doubt in the minds of the residents of the county that it will surpass any which have previously been held in the city. The directors have spared no trouble in collecting the most useful information from other towns and cities, regarding the management of the Fair, and have taken every precaution to have the special attractions and the exhibits the best that possibly could be procured.

Secretary F. J. A. Hall has already taken in many entries, and up to the present there are a great many more in his hands than in the same length of time last year. That the entries will surpass those of a year ago there is not doubt, and it will not be surprising to the directors if the list is doubled. Inquiries from points distant from the city have reached the secretary at a rapid rate, and everything points to the largest crowd on record.

Special Prizes

One of the features of the prize list year is the large number of special premiums. This is going to be a benefit to the farmers in particular, who are requested to make a special study of the prize list in view of these. For the best pair of agricultural horses, for instance, Mr. D. Hughes Charles donates an extra prize of ten dollars, in addition to the prize of the society. There are also special prizes granted by Grafton & Co., Lang & Maher, and Merrell and Meredith, for the best farmers' outfit, so that the person getting the society's prize may also get the others. Mr. P. Downham, proprietor of the Creamery, has offered a special prize to the farmer owning the herd making the highest milk test for a certain month. Storey and Leary have offered a special premium of two cwt. of flour for the best two loaves of home-made bread at the Exhibition. The above are some of the extras as shown by the prize list, which should be carefully read by those who have not already contemplated placing something up for competition at the Exhibition.

New Attractions

The special features at the Fair this year will be new to Peterborough county people, and will undoubtedly surpass anything yet seen on the local grounds. Among the attractions will be a lady dog-trainer from New York with fourteen trained canines. There will be also wire and trapeze acrobats, some of whom will introduce the bounding billiard table and its mysteries. A lady contortionist is another of the prominent attractions of this character.

The dog race will again be on the programme, and promises to be even more popular than that event of the last Exhibition. There will be a number of speed tests on the last two days of the Fair, and it is the expectations of the directors that three will be run each afternoon.

The poultry this year will probably be placed in a separate tent, as from present indications the exhibit in this line will be more than usual. The exhibit in horses will also be one of the features of the Fair. The Exhibition Building is now under repairs, and will soon be in a better condition than ever. The ladies' department will be one of the chief attractions there, and as a special prize is offered by Mr. R. J. Soden, this department will be an interesting one.

Band in Attendance

The 57th Band will again be in attendance to supply the music for Friday and Saturday, the final two days of the Exhibition, so that those who have ever heard the band are assured of the very best music. By the way, the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition of 1907 will be held on September 26, 27 and 28, and will be, without doubt, the best in the history of the county.

Both Owners Consent To Consider Sale Of Island

Point of Juniper Island May be Secured for Pavillion Location— Negogations Now Going On

THE PROPERTY COMMITTEE

The Stony Lake Cottagers' Association are yet attempting to make terms with the owners of Juniper Island for the purchase of the northern point of the island.

Mr. Jas. Acton, the president, was in the city to-day on his way home to Toronto, and stated that negotiations were still in progress, although nothing definite had been decided upon.

Mr. G M. Roger, one of the joint owners, gave his consent some time ago to the sale of three or five acres of the island providing that satisfactory arrrangements could be made.

Mr. E. B. Edwards of Edmonton, was communicated with, and he also given his consent to the sale, so that the only thing that now remains is an agreement between the owners, and the association.

The committee however has other places in view for the location of the pavilion and should no agreement be arrived at, arising from the present negotiations, some other site will be obtained.

Yesterday the property committee of the association, including Messrs. William Irwin, John Nugent, J. S. Knapman, Jas. Acton, and H. Sutherland went over the ground proposed on the island, and came to an agreement among themselves as to the value of the five acres they wish to purchase.

It is the intention of the Cottagers' Association if the Point is secured to remodel and enlarge the pavilion, to install rooms above and a bowling alley beneath. They will also erect seats for picnic parties and arrange quoit grounds.

"HEALTH" SUGGESTS SOME IMPROVEMENTS TO BE MADE

Editor of Examineer, —

Sir, — The citizens of Peterborough, as a whole, delight in cleanliness, and strive to make their surroundings healthful for the common good. It is, therefore, a pity that a few foreigners should plant themselves in the most congested parts of the city, and, by the unsanitary conditions in which they live, and the stench arising therefrom, make it unpleasant, if not dangerous, to a whole neighbourhood. Such a state of things has long been recognized and wonder has been expressed why our health authorities should tolerate the like. To such an extent has it gone that Dr. C. A. Hodgetts, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, in his annual report, issued yesterday, declared: "The time is ripe for a change in the health laws of the province. The present local boards of health are often failures, and properly qualified men, who will devote their whole time to sanitary administration, should be appointed, while the province should be subdivided into county or other districts, similar to those of the school sections." After many more wise suggestions for other changes, he concludes as follows: "And all these changes must be made if this province is to be kept abreast of the times, for the lives of our people are at stake, and the health of our cities is the state's wealth in the highest sense of the word."

Yours, etc.,
HEALTH.

LARGE NUMBER OF PUPILS FOR MODEL

Principal Frappy is Once More in Charge of School

The Model School at Norwood began its exercises for the present term last week with 29 pupils on the roll, and with prospects of a large number before the whole class is assembled. This is an encouraging report and shows that the pupils of the county are turning to the teaching profession in good proportions.

Mr. Frappey, who succeds Mr. Leighton, is not a stranger to Norwood, as he was formerly principal of the Public School, and has returned to that position. The Modelites this year should be as successful as in former years and bring as good results when they enter upon their careers as teachers.

Be young! It is only necessary to take Miller's Compound Iron Pills to retain youthful appearance and vigour. Sold by W. Madill.

OBITUARY.

DENNIS SCULLY

The death of Mr. Dennis Scully, which occurred at his home in Emily on Saturday evening was a shock to his many friends in town and country; although it was generally understood he could not recover, but his end was not expected so soon.

The deceased was one of the most respected and best known farmers in Emily. He occupied a position in the township council for over twenty-six years, and for two years was a member of Victoria County Council. He was a faithful member of the Catholic church, and always took an active interest in religious matters, and those for the benefit of his neighborhood. His advice and counsel were frequently sought by his neighbors. He leaves five sons—Frank, Dennis, John, William and Joseph, who are all residents of the township, and five daughters to mourn his loss, his wife having predeceased him by two years. The sympathy of all will go out to the bereaved. —Lindsay Post.

WEDDING BELLS.

NORMAN-HARWOOD

A little romance, being some years ago in the land of their birth, terminated happily yesterday evening, when Miss Clara Harwood, of Leamington, England, was united in marriage to Mr. Edwin Norman, of Middlesex county, England. The ceremony was performed in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Taylor at the George Street Methodist parsonage by Rev. E. A. Pearson. The groom has been living in Peterborough for some time, but the bride only arrived here on Sunday night.

LINDSAY CHEESE AT THE TOP PRICE

Buyers Paid 12 1-16c for Some Yesterday —Salesmen Have Good Memories

At the meeting of the Lindsay Cheese Board yesterday, 12 1-16c, the highest price of the season was obtained. This was 1-8 of a cent less, however, than was paid in Peterborough last Wednesday. The Post says of the sale,—

The highest price of the season was paid at this morning's sale of Victoria Co. Cheese Board, yet the salesman were not satisfied. That was because they have good memories,—they recollected that at the same date last year 12 5-16c was paid by Mr. Cook, of Peterborough, on Lindsay Board, and that on Sept. 20th of last year the same gentleman paid the top price of Lindsay Board, if not of Ontario, by calling 13 1-4c. Bearing these facts in their noddles, the patrons this morning felt inclined to sit tight—the more especially as Mr. Cook, aforesaid, was again present, along with Buyers Brown and Clemes, of town, and Gillespie, of Peterborough.

LEAVES TO-MORROW FOR CAVENDISH CO'S CAMP

Mr. Wm. Robinson, Late of Gooderham, Has Charge of a Number of Men

Mr. Wm. Robinson, who recently was proprietor of a hotel at Gooderham, has accepted a position with the Cavendish Lumber Company. He leaves the city to-morrow for Camp No. 5, as foreman over a number of men whom he secured around Peterborough, to begin the autumn operations in the northern woods.

TO FORM AN A. Y. P. A. AT ST. LUKE'S

Men's Guild Discussed the Matter at a Meeting Last Night

The first meeting, after the holidays, of the Men's Guild was held last night. It was attended by a large number of young men who are determined to make a success of what they will undertake. Mr. H. C. M. Potter, the president, was in the chair. Rev. Dr. Langfeldt opened the meeting with devotional exercises. The regular business was transacted, reports presented, and practical work discussed. The rector, being called upon, suggested that the young people set to work and form an Anglican Young Peoples' Association. This led to an expression of opinion of all present, and the outcome of it was that a meeting be held on Friday, September 20, to be attended by all the young men and women of the congregation to form an A.Y.P.A.

In the meantime, the rector will gather information on the subject, and it is hoped that the young people will take this matter up and support the formation of this society. Wherever the A.Y.P.A. has been formed it has been a success. The principles and aims of this association are: "Worship—work—fellowship — edification." Weekly meetings will be held, which will be, alternately, of a religious, social, or literary character. The evenings will be spent in the study of religious subjects, debates, essays, papers, scientific and musical subjects, and the pursuit of social intercourse. One of the rules of the A.Y.P.A. is "Honour all men, love the brotherhood, fear God, honour the King."

CLEVELAND WHEEL IS MISSING FROM STORE

Was Stole From Hunter Street Saturday Night

Some of the bad boys have apparently been getting in their mischievous work again, for another wheel has disappeared. It was left in front of the Dickson Company's office on Hunter street on Saturday night, and when the owner went to get it he could not find it. He has communicated with the police, who are on the lookout for the wheel and the person who took it. It is a Cleveland wheel, in good condition, with all modern improvements.

A NEW BAKESHOP IS NOW BEING ERECTED

At the Corner of George and Rubidge Street for Mrs. Mann

This morning work was commenced upon the erection of a bakeshop, store and dwelling at the corner of George and Dublin street, which will be occupied by Mrs. John Mann, who has been in business at the corner of Edinburgh and George streets for a number of years. The new building will be a commodious one, and the bakeshop will be built on most modern lines, all the latest ideas being taken into consideration.

Piles Make Life Wretched

It is a great mistake to imagine that the effects of piles are local, for as a matter of fact they sap the vitality of mind and body, and slowly lead to the ruination of health. Dr Chase's Ointment brings almost instant relief from the itching, burning, stinging, sensation of piles, and is a thorough and positive cure for all forms of this wretched, torturing and oftentimes stubborn disease.

HARVEST REPORTS FROM THE OLD LAND

Italy Wheat Crop is Promising—Other Places Disappointed

Liverpool, Sept. 10.— Broomhall's weekly foreign crop says:—

United Kingdom.—The weather is favourable, but reports indicate that poor progress has been made in harvesting during the past week. Supplies are very small.

Germany.—The harvesting of wheat has made slow progress, and supplies are extremely small. The demand for foreign grain continues good. The condition of rye continues unsatisfactory, and the anxiety regarding a failure of potato crop is increasing.

Hungary.—Favourable rains have fallen which are beneficial for the corn crop, but this crop has, however, been damaged but a fair yield is expected.

Roumania.—The corn crop this year will be a short one.

Russia.—There are continued disappointing threshing returns, but our own advices are less unfavourable than others. The weather for oats in the north region continues unfavourable and the seeding of new oats is delayed. The outlook for corn is generally unfavourable.

Italy.—Our correspondent estimates that the wheat crop this year will amount to 32,000,000 more than last year. The crop of 1906 was 161,000,000.

Algeria.—The crop outlook is disappointing.

The Semi-Annual Opening of the J. C. Turnbull Co's Ready-to-Wear Millinery, Coats, Skirts, Blouses, etc., takes place on Thursday, Sept. 12th, when they will make a showing of all the latest styles in the above lines.

GENERAL BOOTH'S TOUR.

Welsh Follow the Veteran Salvationist—Man With a Whistle.

On a lonely road half a mile beyond the village of New Inn, Carmarthenshire, a man ran furiously, blowing a whistle. He was followed by a woman in a carriage frantically waving a paper. A few hundred yards further on, beneath the shade of a tree, sat General Booth in his motor-car. The Salvationist chief had been scheduled to speak at the village, but had driven through without recognising it. The paper which the woman waved was the address of welcome. The man with the whistle was the village schoolmaster, who explained to the perplexed general that the village had been waiting for him for hours. The school children were all out with flags, the village choir wanted to sing, and all were ready to give the general a royal welcome. "We have not time to go back," replied General Booth, "but I will speak from beneath this tree." Another blast on the schoolmaster's whistle brought the entire population to the spot, and the speaking proceeded.

Importance of a Beard.

In an article on the wonderful change in a man's appearance wrought by a beard, "The Gentlewoman" says: "Does he wish to create an impression of piety and moral rectitude? He may be the biggest villain alive, but if he cultivates a long flowing beard of patriarchal aspect he is at once invited to become a church warden, the rector refers to him affectionately as 'our beloved brother,' local papers allude to him as 'our esteemed townsman,' the widow and the orphan fly to him for sympathy and consolation, little children prattle artlessly to him and put their little hands in his, while the British public point to him with pride as a representative citizen. Yet it is within the range of possibility that if he were divested of his beard he would be hustled out of the country in less time than it takes to say 'Jack Robinson'."

Port Hope Must Have Its Share Of Knockers Too

Some Wise Ones There Say Saturday's Game Was Fixed--- The Guide Calls It One of the Best Games Of the Season

In the second of a series of three games for the championship of the Midland League, Peterborough defeated Port Hope here on Saturday by a score of 6—3. This places the two teams a tie for the leadership of the League, Port Hope having won in Peterborough the week previous. And now a lot of people are confident that the games were fixed. There are many of those "didn't I tell you" fellows about the street to-day. They were on the inside and knew all about it. We have endeavoured to convince the people that the games were being played fairly and squarely, and more on this subject is needless. All we can add is that any person who witnessed the game and is still of the opinion that it was fixed, knows very little about baseball.

The game was one of the best ever witnessed on the local diamond, and probably the fastest ever played in the Midland League. It was a hard-fought contest between two evenly-matched teams, and notwithstanding the defeat of the local team, it was a great game to follow and all were well pleased with the exhibition. Both teams entered the game with a determination, and every man was on the jump.

We do not wish to lessen the glory of Peterborough's victory in anyway but they won on Saturday because they were lucky. Chetham's backhand catch of O'Neil's drive in the fifth making a double play and retiring the side was pure luck and robbed Port Hope of two runs. Then Umpire Walsh's mistake in the eighth innings was disastrous. Burridge bunted to Surphlis and Hickey was on second; Surphlis made an attempt to throw to first but turned quickly and threw to third and caught Hickey. Walsh was watching 1st bag and did not see the play, and called Hickey safe. In this innings Peterborough tallied two after the side should have been retired. But such is the fortune of war and in the game at Peterborough the week prior Port Hope had the luck, otherwise the score might have been different. Take away all these lucky strokes and follow these teams closely and you will find they are very evenly matched. We have the best slab artist and with all the importations of 1907 we have not seen Surphlis equal. But the Peterborough nine have the advantage in base running by a large margin. And just here we might say that the dumb base running of Port Hope had much to do with the losing of teh game. Time and again with only one man gone they would start the base stealing game only to be caught. Harry Burridge is too fast for the chances which Port Hope were taking. Bill O'Brien stole third neat and clean, but Bill is a runner and knows when to go. O'Brien is the man to do the coaching on the first base line and if runners take his instructions things will work much better.

But so much for the fault finding and let us look on the bright side. It was Eastern League ball, yes, just as fast as you will see in the Eastern. A great battle between eighteen of the best amateur men of this province. And better than all it is not over yet. There will be one more game, upon the result of which hangs the fate of the silver mug.

Harriers Club Beginning With Their Regular Runs

Many to Enter the Examiner Road Race—All are Requested to Turn Out Wednesday Evening.

A RUN NORTH LAST NIGHT

The Harrier Club has now got down to good, hard work in preparation for the Examiner road race on Thanksgiving Day. Messrs. E. Dingman and R. Baker are looking after the training of the boys, and it is expected that some ten or twelve of the club will enter the contest.

The next regular run of the club will be held to-morrow night, when all those either belonging to the Harriers or not are urgently requested to be present. The runners will be divided into a slow and fast pack, so that the new-comers will not be raced too strongly.

Last night a number of the Harriers were out and taken north about two miles. Those who turned out were the following:

Messrs. R .Best, E. Wilson, E. Dingman, R. Baker, P. Wallace, H. Staunton, E. Bruce, E. Fox.

Mr. Crowley Likely To Manage Local Team

Doc. Shaw May be Seen on the Line Up of the Peterborough Rugby Team This Year—Prospects are Very Bright

MEETING TO BE THURSDAY

The membership committee of the Peterborough Rugby Club met last night in the Oriental, when the prospects for the season were discussed and plans talked over. From all indications, the game will boom in Peterborough this year. At the meeting last night, Mr. W. F. Crowley consented to act as manager of the team this season, and with such an experienced player to look after the team and coach them, the outlook for a championship team is very bright. No one knows the game better than Mr. Crowley, and he may be depended upon to do his best for the team.

There is plenty of material available in the city, as nearly all of last year's team are here, as well as a number of players who have played the game in other places. Corney Burns and Harry Burridge of the Peterborough Ball Club are going to turn out, and there are other new men in the city who might catch a place on the team. There will be a chance this year for young players, and no favouritism will be shown, the best men being given the chance. It is probable that "Doc." Shaw, who played centre half two years ago when the team won the intermediate championship, and who is at present in the West, will return to the city and will be found on the team this year. There is no better punter in the business than Shaw, and he would help out the back division wonderfully. Last year the weakest point in connection with the team was that they had no half back who could punt with Simpson, Flett, or any of the other good kicking halves they were called upon to meet.

All those interested in rugby, whether players or supporters, are asked to bear in mind the meeting in the Oriental Hotel on Thursday evening, when the officers for the season will be elected, and the other business left over from last night's meeting will be transacted. It is important that there should be a large attendance at this meeting, which will be called at 7.45 o'clock sharp. Turn out and help to boom the grand old game. Your presence at the annual meeting will do much to encourage the team and the management in their efforts to give Peterborough a good team.

BALL CLUB'S TRIP TO COBOURG

Fare Has Been Placed at 85c and Train Will Leave at 1:30 p. m.

The best game ever played in the Midland League should be seen on Saturday, when Peterborough and Port Hope meet at Cobourg in the decisive game for the championship of the league. The local ball club has arranged for a special train leaving here at 1.30 p.m. on Saturday and returning at 7.30. The fare has been placed at the very cheap figure of 85 cents for the return trip, and no doubt a big crowd of fans will take in the game. All that we can say is that if the game is half as fast as was the contest on Saturday it will be worth going much further than Cobourg to see.

Both clubs will have the strongest nines possible for the game, although it is doubtful is they can strengthen much on their line-ups of last week. Some of the best men in the Province were in the game, and they will all be on hand at Cobourg. No expense will be spared in getting together teams that will open the eyes of the Cobourg people. You can't afford to miss the best game of the season. It will be the last in all probability.

WANTED TO PLAY IN TORONTO

Port Hope Did Not Want to Play Final Game in Cobourg

There came very near being a hitch in the arrangements for the final game in the Midland League between Port Hope and Peterborough, on Saturday. Last night Manager Blake Crawford, of the Port Hope team, called up Manager Johnston, and wanted to have the game played at Diamond Park, Toronto, instead of Cobourg, as had been agreed upon on Saturday last. He did not give any reasons why he wanted the transfer, but intimated that Peterborough wanted to play in Cobourg because they desired the support of the residents of that town. Manager Johnston would not hear of any change in the arrangements, and so the game will be played in Cobourg as originally arranged.

MANITOBA WHEAT DROPS INTO SCUGOG

The Flavelle Milling Co'y Almost Lose 500 Bushels by Loosening of Board

By the caving in of a board in a bin at the Flavelle Milling Co's flour mill some time on Saturday night or Sunday, some 500 bushels of Manitoba hard were dumped into the river below, which fortunately is very shallow at present. Some of the wheat was carried down stream by the current and in this way attention was directed to the accident, and further loss prevented. The grain is being shovelled into bags, and re-dried in the kilns. — Post.

FIREHALL COMPARES WITH TORONTO'S BEST

So Says Foreman Pakenhan Who Visited in the Queen City

Mr. W. Pakenham, foreman of the city firehall, was in Toronto last week and while there he visited the various buildings of the fire departments. In none of them did he find the furnishings to equal those of the local hall and only in some respects did the equipments surpass those of the department of Peterborough. The rooms here were, he stated, much better furnished, were brighter and better ventilated than those he visited in the Queen City. Taking into consideration the fire halls of Toronto, Mr. Pakenham considered that the citizens of Peterborough should be proud of the one they possess.

Ben Howard Tells How He Won Hamilton Race

Hiawatha Runner Who Sprang Suddenly Into Prominence On Saturday Was In the City Last Night and Talks Of The Race

Ben Howard, the Hiawatha Indian, who sprang suddenly into the limelight as a long distance runner on Saturday afternoon, when he defeated Sellen, of the Toronto Irish-Canadians, in the five-mile open race at the Hamilton Irish-Canadian Athletic Club's meet, was in the city last night on his way home to visit his father, Madden Howard, at Hiawatha. Ben is naturally greatly elated over his victory and was anxious to get home to tell the good news to his relatives. He has been in Sunderland for some weeks, which is the reason for that village being named as his home in the despatches in the Toronto journals.

Howard told the story of the race in Hamilton to the Examiner last night. He stated that although there was a large field, the Englishmen, Sellen, and himself were the only real contestants. "He led off at an awful clip for the first mile," said Howard, "and I thought that I was not going to beat him out. I stayed right behind him, however, and remained there for four miles. At the beginning of the last mile he slowed up, and said to me, 'You go ahead now.' I started off in the lead at a slow pace, but it did not seem to suit him, and all at once he shot past me like a flash. I had my mind made up that he wasn't going to beat me then, and I started right after him, keeping at his heels until we were two hundred yards away from the finish, when I sprinted, and passed him easily."

Besides winning the five-mile race, Howard won the special race for Indians in handy fashion. His opponents were all Caledonian Indians, and Howard killed them when he let out on the stretch, being so far ahead that he was able to walk the last few yards.

Ten minutes afterwards he was called upon to start the five-mile race. His feat in winning that was a noteworthy one, as his opponents were men of mark in the running world. The foremost, of course, was Sellen, the Englishman, who, running under the colours of the Toronto Irish-Canadians, lowered the Canadian five-mile record at the Garrison Athletic Club's big meeting in Toronto a week ago. Since then, Sellen was touted as a possible conqueror of Longboat, and that the local Indian was able to clean up such a prominent runner in his first big race promises well for his success in the future. Besides, he had to beat Dick Grant, the famous St. Mary's runner, who won the ten-mile road race at St. Mary's last week.

Howard has shown such good form that he has been picked up by the Irish-Canadian Athletic Club of Toronto, and will no doubt be a valuable addition to their string of long distance runners, which includes Longboat, Tom Coley, Sellen, and other good ones. He will run under their colours in the future.

Howard stated last night that he would enter the Hamilton Herald road race on Thanksgiving Day, and that if he was in shape he would also take part in the 20-mile race in Toronto.

Fred Simpson, the other Hiawatha runner, who ran third in the Examiner road race, and who beat Howard in a five-mile race in Lindsay on July 1, is in active training now, and Howard says that he will accompany him back to Sunderland when he returns, and will also take part in the Herald race, so that Peterborough county will have two entries in the famous long distance event. It would not be surprising if one of the Hiawatha boys carried off the honours, as both are shaping up well. As a result of this decision, neither Howard nor Simpson will take part in the Examiner race this year, a fact that will be regretted by the public generally. Howards' work in Hamilton on Saturday made a hit with the talent. The News says:

The meet brought into prominence another Indian runner, Ben Howard, who has every appearance of making good. This redskin won the five-mile open event, beating Sellen, the Irish-Canadian, who lowered the Canadian record at the Island a week ago, and Dick Grant. It was an excellent race, although the time, 27.30, was not as fast as some of the races this summer. Besides winning the five-mile event, Howard cleaned up the one-mile event for Indians.

A Junior O.R.F.U. Team May be Organized Here

Meeting is Called For Friday Night For That Purpose—Not Likely to be Any City League.

STRONG TEAM IS ASSURED

On Friday night there will be a meeting of all the junior rugby players in the city to consider the proposal of placing a junior team in the O.R.F.U. The meeting will be held at the Y.M.C.A. and any interested in the game are requested to attend and lend their opinions int alking over the situation.

It is not probable that a city league will be formed this year, but the clubs that played last year will likely amalgamate and play in the Ontario Union. There is no reason why a good junior team cannot be procured in Peterborough with the material that was conspicuous in the city league last autumn and the promoters of the scheme are confident of placing enough men in the field to make a good showing.

The name for the new club, which is almost certain to be formed, is another question to be considered on Friday evening. From present indications the team will go under a new cognomen from any used in the city league, but what that will be will be decided upon at the organization meeting.

The young players are urgently requested to be on hand at the Y.M.C.A. on Friday night to assist in the promotion of the proposed scheme.

One of the largest lunge caught in the Kawartha Lakes this season was hooked in the river, below the Point, on Labour Day. The beauty was caught by Mr. Joseph Harvey, who lives at the Point. The fish tipped the scales at 24 pounds. Mr. Harvey had some difficulty in landing the fish, and had him up to the boat some ten different times before he could use his billy.

Mr. Peter Phelan also captured a fine lunge on Friday, which weighed 16 1-2 lbs. Peter, who is over 80 years old, paddles his own canoe, and brings in a lunge or two every day.

The summer resorts are thinning out and the steamers are taking more people down than they are taking up, and in another week or so everything will be quiet at the back lakes.

TRANSFORMER BURNS AND PUTS OUT LIGHTS

Slight Inconvenience Last Night Before Lights Were Again Turned On

The short circuiting and eventually the burning out of a transformer on Hunter street between George and Aylmer streets last night belonging to the Peterborough Light and Power Company, caused some inconvenience to a number of the central offices and stores. The lights distributed from that transformer went out about 9 o'clock, but in about a quarter of an hour they were again turned on.

THE WRONG DIAGNOSIS

Prompt the Use of Worthless Remedies

Even an experienced physician will sometimes make a mistake in diagnosis, in which event his entire treatment is wasted and may even be injurious to the patient.

The advocates of all other hair restoratives save Herpicide have wrongly diagnosed the cause of Dandruff and Falling Hair.

They figure on a functional disease, whereas it is now known and generally accepted that hair loss is due to a parasitic germ, which Newbro's Herpicide destroys.

A LYNX IS CAUGHT MONTREAL

This Singular Event Arouses Great [illegible] of Interest There

The capture of the lynx which is now being exhibited in one of the windows of the 'Patrie' offices, on St. James street, says a Montreal despatch, was quite a sensational event. The news of the Rev. Abbe Dutch's feat in shooting down one of the wild animals in his own garden [illegible] causing much comment, when, on Saturday afternoon, a number of boys while playing on Grothe street, noticed what they at first supposed to be an enormous grey cat, almost on the top of a tree. Grothe street is a small thoroughfare running north from Demontigny street between Sanguinet and St. Elizabeth streets and the district being thickly populated, the strange discovery of the boys was soon the cause of a large gathering. Men arrived on the scene with rifles, axes, and ladders, and finally one appeared with a lasso. It did not take long to ascertain that the animal was a real lynx, and the first idea was to try to shoot it down. This, however, was considered dangerous, the tree not being very thick and every window and roof in the vicinity being filled with spectators it was then decided to try to capture the lynx alive, and the man with the lasso, Mr. H. Weilbrenner, was called upon to show his skill.

The first attempts were unsuccessful, and after being chased from branch to branch, the animal left the tree and took refuge in a back yard, hiding between two sheds. Forced again leave this harbour, the lynx which by this time had become furious, was at last caught in the lasso deftly thrown around its neck by Weilbrenner.

The animal was placed in a sack bag with much difficulty, and not before it had bitten one of its captors Mr. E. C. LeCavalier. Mr. Weilbrenner took it home and secured it in a cage in which it is now held captive. The lynx measured four feet in length and two feet in height.

How these two animals came to be loose in the streets of Montreal is a mystery. One theory is that they were escaped portions of the paraphernalia of the equipment of a mining company promoter.

The English Orphans

BY MRS. MARY J. HOLMES

Author of "Lena Rivers," "The Homestead on the Hill," "Tempest and Sunshine," Etc.

CHAPTER I.

"What makes you keep that big blue sunbonnet drawn so closely over your face?—are you afraid of having it seen?"

The person addressed was a pale, sickly-looking child about nine years of age, who on the deck of the vessel Windermere, was gazing intently toward the distant shores of old England, which were fast receding from view. Near her a fine-looking boy of fourteen was standing, and trying in vain to gain a look at the features so securely shaded from view by the gingham bonnet.

At the sound of his voice the little girl started, and without turning her head, replied, "Nobody wants to see me, I am so ugly and disagreeable."

"Ugly are you?" repeated the boy, and at the same time lifting her up and forcibly holding her hands, he succeeded in looking her fully in the face. "Well, you are not very handsome, that's a fact,' said he, after satisfying his curiosity; "but I wouldn't be sullen about it. Ugly people are always smart, and perhaps you are. Anyway, I like little girls, so just let me sit here and get acquainted."

Mary Howard, the child thus introduced to our readers, was certainly not very handsome. Her features though tolerably regular, were small and thin, her complexion sallow, and her eyes, though bright and expressive, seemed too large for her face. She had naturally a fine set of teeth, but their beauty was impaired by two larger ones, which, on each side of her mouth, grew directly over the others, giving to the lower portion of her face a peculiar and rather disagreeable expression. She had frequently been told that she was homely, and often when alone had wept, and wondered why she, too, was not handsome like her sister Ella, on whose cheek the softest rose was blooming, while her rich brown hair fell in wavy masses about her white neck and shoulders. But if Ella was more beautiful than Mary, there was far less in her character to admire. She knew that she was pretty, and this made her proud and selfish, expecting attention from all, and growing sullen and angry if it was withheld.

Mrs. Howard, the mother of these children, had incurred the displeasure of her father, a wealthy Englishman, by marrying her music teacher, whose dark eyes had played mischief with her heart, while his fingers played its accompaniment on the guitar. Humbly at her father's feet she had knelt and sued for pardon, but the old man was inexorable, and turned her from his house, cursing the fate which had now deprived him, as it were, of his only remaining daughter. Late in life he had married a youthful widow, who after the lapse of a few years died, leaving three little girls, Sarah, Ella, and Jane, two of them his own, and one a stepdaughter and a child of his wife's first marriage.

As a last request Mrs. Temple had asked that her baby Jane should be given to the care of her sister, Mrs. Morris, who was on the eve of embarking for America, and who within four weeks after her sister's death sailed with her young niece for Boston. Sarah, too, was adopted by her father's brother, and thus Mr. Temple was left alone with his eldest daughter, Ella. Occasionally he heard from Jane, but time and distance gradually weakened the tie of parental affection, which wound itself more closely around Ella; and now, when she, too, left him, and worse than all, married a poor music teacher the old man's wrath knew no bounds.

"But we'll see," said he, as with his hands behind him, and his head bent forward, he strode up and down the room—"we'll see how they'll get on. I'll use all my influence against the dog and when Miss Ella's right cold and hungry she'll be glad to come back and leave him."

But he was mistaken, for though right cold and hungry Ella often was, she only clung the closer to her husband, happy to share his fortune, whatever it might be. Two years after her marriage, hearing that her father was dangerously ill, she went to him, but the forgiveness she so ardently desired was never gained, for the old man's reason was gone. Faithfully she watched until the end, and then when she heard read his will (made in a fit of anger), and knew that his property was all bequeathed to her sister in America, she crushed the tears from her long eyelashes and went back to her humble home prepared to meet the worst.

In course of time three children, Frank, Mary, and Ella, were added to their number, and though their presence brought sunshine and gladness, it brought also an increase of toil and care. Year after year Mr. Howard struggled on, while each day rumors reached him of the plenty to be had in the land beyond the sea, and at last, when hope seemed dying out, and even his brave-hearted Ella smiled less cheerfully than was her wont to do, he resolved to try his fortune in the far-famed home of the weary emigrant. This resolution he communicated to his wife, who gladly consented to accompany him, for England now held nothing dear to her save the graves of her parents, and in the western world she had two sisters, Sarah having some years before gone with her uncle to New York.

Accordingly the necessary preparations for their voyage were made as soon as possible, and when the Windermere left the harbor of Liverpool they stood upon her deck, waving a last adieu to the few kind friends who on shore were bidding them "God-speed."

Among the passengers was George Moreland, whose parents had died some months before, leaving him and a large fortune to the guardianship of his uncle, a wealthy merchant residing in Boston. This uncle, Mr. Selden, had written for his nephew to join him in America, and it was for this purpose that George had taken passage in the Windermere. He was a frank, generous-hearted boy, and though sometimes a little too much inclined to tease, he was usually a favorite with all who knew him. He was a passionate admirer of beauty, and the moment the Howards came on board and he caught a sight of Ella, he felt irresistibly attracted toward her, and ere long had completely won her heart by coaxing her into his lap and praising her glossy curls. Mary, whose sensitive nature shrank from the observation of strangers, and who felt that one as handsome as George Moreland must necessarily laugh at her, kept aloof, and successfully eluded all his efforts to look under her bonnet. This aroused his curiosity, and when he saw her move away to a distant part of the vessel he followed her, addressing to her the remark with which we commenced this chapter. As George had said, he liked little girls, though he greatly preferred talking to pretty ones. On this occasion, however, he resolved to make himself agreeable, and in ten minutes' time he had so far succeeded in gaining Mary's friendship that she allowed him to untie the blue bonnet, which he carefully removed, and then when she did not know it, he scanned her features attentively, as if trying to discover all the beauty there was in them.

At last, gently smoothing back her hair, which was really bright and glossy, he said, "Who told you that you were so ugly looking?" The tears started to Mary's eyes, and her chin quivered, as she replied, "Father says so, Ella says so, and everybody says so but mother and Franky."

"Everybody doesn't always tell the truth," said George wishing to administer as much comfort as possible. "You've got pretty blue eyes, nice brown hair, and your forehead, too, is broad and high; now if you hadn't such a muddy complexion, bony cheeks, little nose, big ears, and awful teeth, you wouldn't be such a fright!"

George's propensity to tease had come upon him, and in enumerating the defects in Mary's face, he purposely magnified them; but he regretted it, when he saw the effect his words produced. Hiding her face in her hands, Mary burst into a passionate fit of weeping, then snatching the bonnet from George's lap, she threw it on her head and was hurrying away, when George caught her and pulling her back, said, "Forgive me, Mary. I could not help plaguing you a little, but I'll try and not do it again."

For a time George kept this resolution, but he could not conceal the preference which he felt for Ella, whose doll-like face and childish ways were far more in keeping with his taste than Mary's old look and still older manner. Whenever he noticed her at all, he spoke kindly to her; but she knew there was a great difference between his treatment of her and Ella, and oftimes, when saying her evening prayer, she prayed that George Moreland might love her a little, just a little.

Two weeks had passed since the last vestige of land had disappeared from view, and then George was taken dangerously ill with fever. Mrs. Howard herself visited him frequently, but she commanded her children to keep away, lest they, too, should take the disease. For a day or two Mary obeyed her mother, and then curiosity led her near George's berth. For several minutes she lingered, and was about turning away when a low moan fell on her ear and arrested her footsteps. Her mother's commands were forgotten, and in a moment she stood by George's bedside. Tenderly she smoothed his tumbled pillow, moistened his parched lips, and bathed his feverish brow, and when an hour afterward, the physician entered, he found his patient calmly sleeping, with one hand clasped in that of Mary, who with the other fanned the sick boy with the same blue gingham sunbonnet of which he once made fun, saying it look like its owner, "rather skim-milky."

"Mary! Mary Howard!" said the physician, "this is no place for you," and he endeavored to lead her away.

This aroused George, who begged so hard for her to remain that the physician went in quest of Mrs. Howard who rather unwillingly consented, and Mary was duly installed as nurse in the sick room. Perfectly delighted with her new vocation, she would sit for hours by her charge, watching each change in his features and anticipating as far as possible his wants. She possessed a very sweet, clear voice; and frequently, when all other means had failed to quiet him, she would bend her face near his, and taking his hands in hers, would sing to him some simple song of home, until lulled by the soft music he would fall away to sleep. Such unwearied kindness was not without its effect upon George, and one day when Mary as usual was sitting near him, he called her to his side, and taking her face between his hands, kissed her forehead and lips, saying, "What can I ever do to pay my little nurse for her kindness?"

Mary hesitated a moment, and then replied, "Love me as well as you do Ella!"

"As well as I do Ella!" he repeated; "I love you a great deal better. She has not been to see me once. What is the reason?"

Frank, who a moment before had stolen to Mary's side, answered for her, saying "Some one had told Ella that if she should have the fever, her curls would all drop off; and so," said he, "she won't come near you!"

Just then Mrs. Howard appeared, and this time she was accompanied by Ella, who clung closely to her mother's skirt, looking cautiously out from its thick folds. George did not as usual caress her, but he asked her mockingly "if her hair had commenced coming out!" while Ella only answered by grasping at her long curls, as if to assure herself of their safety.

In a few days George was able to go on deck, and though he still petted and played with Ella, he never again slighted Mary, or forgot that she was present. More than once, too, a kind word or affectionate look from him sent such a glow to her cheek and sparkle to her eye that Frank, who always loved her best, declared, "she was as pretty as Ella any day if she'd break herself of putting her hand to her mouth whenever she saw one looking at her," a habit which she had acquired from being so frequently told of her uneven teeth. At last after many weary days at sea, there came the joyful news that land was in sight; and next morning, when the children awoke the motion of the vessel had ceased, and Boston, with its numerous domes and spires, was before them. Toward noon a pleasant-looking, middle-aged man came on board, inquiring for George Moreland, and announcing himself as Mr. Selden. George immediately stepped forward, and after greeting his uncle introduced Mr. and Mrs. Howard, speaking at the same time of their kindness to him during his illness.

All was now confusion, but in the hurry and bustle of going ashore George did not forget Mary. Taking her aside he threw round her neck a small golden chain, to which was attached a locket containing a miniature likeness of himself painted a year before.

"Keep it," said he, "to remember me by, or if you get tired of it, give it to Ella for a plaything."

"I wish I had one for you," said Mary, and George replied, "Never mind, I can remember your looks without a likeness. I've only to shut my eyes, and a little forlorn, sallow-faced, old-looking girl, with crooked teeth—"—He was prevented from finishing his speech by a low cry from Mary, who pressing his hands in hers, looked beseechingly in his face, and said, "Oh, don't, George!—don't talk so."

He had not teased her about her looks for a long time, and now just as he was leaving her, 'twas more than she could bear. Instantly regretting his thoughtless words, George took her in his arms, and wiping away her tears said, "Forgive me, Mary. I don't know what made me say so, for I do love you dearly, and always will. You have been kind to me, and I shall remember it, and some time, perhaps, repay it." Then putting her down, and bidding adieu to Mr. and Mrs. Howard, Frank and Ella, he sprang into his uncle's carriage, and was rapidly driven away.

Mary looked after him as long as the heads of the white horses were in sight, and then taking Frank's hand, followed her parents to the hotel, where for a few days they had determined to stop while Mrs. Howard made inquiries for her sister.

Meantime from the richly curtained windows of a large, handsome building a little girl looked out, impatiently waiting her father's return, wondering why he was gone so long and if she should like her cousin George or whether he was a bearish-looking fellow, with warty hands, who would tease her pet kitten and ink the faces of her doll babies. In the centre of the room the dinner table was standing, and Ida Selden had twice changed the location of her cousin's plate, once placing it at her side, and lastly putting it directly in front, so she could have a fair view of his face.

"Why don't they come!" she had said for the twentieth time, when the sound of carriage wheels in the yard below made her start up, and running down stairs she was soon shaking the hands of her cousin, whom she decided to be handsome, though she felt puzzled to know whether her kitten and dolls were in any immediate danger or not!

Placing her arm affectionately around him, she led him into the parlor, saying, "I am glad that you have come to live with me and be my brother. We'll have real nice times, but perhaps you dislike little girls. Did you ever see one that you loved?"

"Yes, two," was the answer. "My cousin Ida, and one other."

"Oh, who is she?" asked Ida. "Tell me about her. How does she look? Is she pretty?"

Instantly, as George had predicted, there came before his vision the image of "a forlorn-looking, sallow-faced child," whom he did not care about describing to Ida. She, however, insisted upon a description, and that evening when tea was over, the lamps lighted, and Mr. Selden reading the paper, George told her of Mary, who had watched so kindly over him during the weary days of his illness. Contrary to his expectations, she did not laugh at the picture which he drew of Mary's face, but simply said, "I know I should like her!" Then after a moment's pause, she continued: "They are poor, you say, and Mr. Howard is a music teacher. Monsieur Dupres has just left me, and who knows but papa can get Mr. Howard to fill his place."

When the subject was referred to her father he said that he had liked the appearance of Mr. Howard, and would if possible find him on the morrow and engage his services. The next morning Ida awoke with an uncomfortable impression that something was the matter with the weather. Raising herself on her elbow, and pushing back the heavy curtains, she looked out and saw that the sky was dark with angry clouds, from which the rain was steadily falling—not in drizzly showers, but in large round drops, which beat against the casement and then bounded off upon the pavement below.

All thoughts of Mr. Howard were given up for that day, and as every moment of Mr. Selden's time was employed for several successive ones, it was nearly a week after George's arrival before any inquiries were made for the family. The hotel at which it had stopped was then found, but Mr. Selden was told that the persons whom he was seeking had left the day before for one of the inland towns, though which one he could not ascertain.

"I knew 'twould be so," said Ida rather fretfully; "father might have gone that rainy day as well as not. Now we shall never see nor hear from them again, and George will be so disappointed." But George's disappointment was soon forgotten in the pleasures and excitements of school, and if occasionally thoughts of Mary Howard came over him, they were generally dispelled by the lively sallies of his sprightly little cousin, who often declared that "she should be dreadfully jealous of George's traveling companion, were it not that he was a great admirer of beauty and that Mary was terribly ugly."

CHAPTER II.

It was the afternoon for the regular meeting of the Ladies' Sewing Society in the village of Chicopee, and at the usual hour groups of ladies were seen wending their way toward the stately mansion of Mrs. Campbell, the wealthiest and proudest lady in town.

Many who for months had absented themselves from the society came this afternoon with the expectation of gaining a look at the costly marble and rosewood furniture with which Mrs. Campbell's parlors were said to be adorned. But they were disappointed, for Mrs. Campbell had no idea of turning a sewing society into her richly-furnished drawing rooms. The spacious sitting-room, the music-room adjoining, and the wide cool hall beyond were thrown open to all, and by three o'clock they were nearly filled.

At first there was almost perfect silence, broken only by a whisper or undertone, but gradually the restraint wore away, and the woman near the door, who had come "because she was a mind to, but didn't expect to be noticed anyway," and who, every time she was addressed, gave a nervous hitch backward with her chair, had finally hitched herself into the hall, while with unbending back and pursed up lips she sat, highly indignant at the ill-concealed mirth of the young girls, who on the stairs were watching her retrograde movements. The hum of voices increased, until at last there was a great deal more talking than working. The Unitarian minister's bride, Lily Martin's stepmother, the new clerk at Drury's, Dr. Lay's wife's new hat and its probable cost, and the city boarders at the hotel, were all duly discussed, and then for a time there was again silence while Mrs. Johnson, president of the society, told of the extreme destitution in which she had that morning found a poor English family, who had moved into the village two or three years before.

They had managed to earn a comfortable living until the husband and father suddenly died, since which time the wife's health had been very rapidly failing, until now she was no longer able to work, but was wholly dependent for subsistence upon the exertions of her oldest child, Frank, and the charity of the villagers, who sometimes supplied her with far more than was necessary, and again thoughtlessly neglected her for many days. Her chief dependence, too, had now failed her, for the day before the sewing society Frank had been taken seriously ill with what threatened to be scarlet fever.

"Dear me," said the elegant Mrs. Campbell, smoothing the folds of her rich India muslin—"dear me, I did not know that we had such poverty among us. What will they do?"

"They'll have to go to the poor-house, won't they?"

"To the poorhouse!" repeated Mrs. Lincoln, who spent her winters in Boston, and whose summer residence was in the neighborhood of the paupers' home; "pray don't send any more low, vicious children to the poor-house. My Jenny has a perfect passion for them, and it is with difficulty I can keep her away."

"They are English, I believe," continued Mrs. Campbell. "I do wonder why so many of those horridly miserable creatures will come to this country."

"Forgets, mebby, that she's English," muttered the woman at the door; and Mrs. Johnson added, "It would draw tears from your eyes to see that little pale-faced Mary trying to wait upon her mother and brother, and carrying that sickly baby in her arms so that it may not disturb them."

"What does Ella do?" asked one, and Mrs. Johnson replied:

"She merely fixes her curls in the broken looking-glass, and cries because she is hungry."

"She is pretty, I believe?" said Mrs. Campbell, and Rosa Pond, who sat by the window, and had not spoken before, immediately answered:

"Oh, yes, she is perfectly beautiful; and do you know, Mrs. Campbell, that when she is dressed clean and nice, I think she looks almost exactly like your little Ella!"

A haughty frown was Mrs. Campbell's only answer and Rosa did not venture another remark, although several whispered to her that they, too, had frequently observed the strong resemblance between Ella Howard and Ella Campbell.

From what has been said, the reader will readily understand that the sick woman in whom Mrs. Johnson was so much interested was our old acquaintance, Mrs. Howard.

All inquiries for her sisters had been fruitless, and after stopping for a time in Worcester, they had removed to Chicopee, where recently Mr. Howard had died. Their only source of maintenance was thus cut off, and now they were reduced to the utmost poverty. Since we last saw them a sickly baby had been added to their number. With motherly care little Mary each day washed and dressed it, and then hour after hour carried it in her arms, trying to still its feeble moans, which fell so sadly on the ear of her invalid mother.

It was a small, low building which they inhabited, containg but one room and a bedroom, which last they had ceased to occupy, for one by one each article of furniture had been sold, until at last Mrs. Howard lay upon a rude lounge, which Frank had made from some rough boards. Until midnight the little fellow toiled, and then when his work was done crept softly to the cupboard, where lay one slice of bread, the only article of food which the house contained. Long and wistfully he looked at it, thinking how good it would taste; but a glance at the pale faces near decided him. "They need it more than I," said he, and turning resolutely away, he prayed that he "might sleep pretty soon and forget how hungry he was."

Day after day he worked on, and though his cheek occasionally flushed with anger when of his ragged clothes and naked feet the village boys made fun, he never returned them any answer, but sometimes when alone the memory of their thoughtless jeers would cause the tears to start, and then wiping them away, he would

PANDORA

Owing to the flue construction of most ranges it is a rather difficult feat to cook and bake successfully at the same time.

But the arrangement of the Pandora flues differs considerably from others. They are so constructed that the draft for baking is also the best for cooking, the heat circulating around the oven twice and under every pot hole before passing up the chimney.

Do you know of another range that does?

wondered if it was wicked to be poor and ragged. One morning when he attempted to rise he felt oppressed with a langour he had never before experienced, and turning on his trundle-bed, and adjusting his blue cotton jacket, his only pillow, he again slept so soundly that Mary was obliged to call him twice ere she aroused him.

That night he came home wild with delight—he had earned a whole dollar, and knew how he could earn another half-dollar to-morrow. Oh, I wish it would come quick," said he, as he related his success to his mother.

But, alas, the morrow found him burning with fever, and when he attempted to stand he found it impossible to do so. A case of scarlet fever had appeared in the village, and it soon became evident that the disease had fastened upon Frank. The morning following the sewing society Ella Campbell and several other children showed symptoms of the same disease, and in the season of general sickness which followed few were left to care for the poor widow. Daily little Frank grew worse. The dollar he had earned was gone, the basket of provisions Mrs. Johnson had sent was gone, and when for milk the baby Alice cried, there was none to give her.

At last Frank, pulling the old blue jacket from under his head, and passing it to Mary, said, "Take it to Bill Render—he offered me a shilling for it, and a shilling will buy milk for Allie and crackers for mother—take it."

"No, Franky, answered Mary, "you would have no pillow; besides, I've got something more valuable, which I can sell. I've kept it long, but it must go to keep us from starving"—and she held to view the golden locket which George Moreland had thrown around her neck.

"You shan't sell that," said Frank. "You must keep it to remember George, and then, too, you may want it more some other time."

Mary finally yielded the point, and gathering up the crumpled jacket, started in quest of Billy Bender. He was a kind-hearted boy, two years older than Frank, whom he had often befriended and shielded from the jeers of their companions. He did not want the jacket, for it was a vast deal too small; and it was only in reply to a proposal from Frank that he should buy it that he had casually offered him a shilling. But now, when he saw the garment, and learned why it was sent, he immediately drew from his old leather wallet a quarter, all the money he had in the world, and giving it to Mary bade her keep it, as she would need it all.

Half an hour after a cooling orange was held to Frank's parched lips and Mary said, "Drink it, brother, I've got two more, besides some milk and bread," but the ear she addressed was deaf and the eye dim with the fast-falling shadow of death. "Mother, mother!" cried the little girl, "Franky won't drink and his forehead is all sweat. Can't I hold you up while you come to him?"

Mrs. Howard had been much worse that day, but she did not need the support of those feeble arms. She felt rather than saw that her darling boy was dying, and agony made her strong. Springing to his side she wiped from his brow the cold moisture which had so alarmed her daughter, chafed his hands and feet, and bathed his head, until he seemed better and fell asleep.

"Now, if the doctor would only come," said Mary; but the doctor was hurrying from house to house, for more than one that night lay dying in Chicopee. But on no hearthstone fell the gloom of death so darkly as upon that low brown house where a trembling woman and a frail young child watched and wept over the dying Frank. Fast the shades of night came on, and when all was dark in the sick room Mary sobbed out, "We have no candle, mother, and if I go for one, and he should die——"

The sound of her voice aroused Frank, and feeling for his sister's hand, he said, "Don't go, Mary; don't leave me—the moon is shining bright, and I guess I can find my way to God just as well."

Nine — ten — eleven — and then through the dingy windows the silvery moonlight fell, as if indeed to light the way of the early lost to heaven. Mary had drawn her mother's lounge to the side of the trundle-bed, and in a state of almost perfect exhaustion Mrs. Howard lay gasping for breath, while Mary, as if conscious of the dread reality about to occur, knelt by her side, occasionally caressing her pale cheek and asking if she were better. Once Mrs. Howard laid her hands on Mary's head, and prayed that she might be preserved and kept from harm by the God of the orphan, and that the sin of disobedience resting upon her own head might not be visited upon her child.

After a time a troubled sleep came upon her and she slept until roused by a low sob. Raising herself up, she looked anxiously toward her children. The moonbeams fell upon the white, placid face of Frank, who seemed calmly sleeping, while over him Mary bent, pushing back from his forehead the thick, clustering curls, and striving hard to smother her sobs, so they might not disturb her mother.

"Does he sleep?" asked Mrs. Howard, and Mary, covering with her hands the face of him who slept, answered:

"Turn away, mother—don't look at him. Franky is dead. He died with his arms around my neck, and told me not to wake you."

Mrs. Howard was in the last stages of consumption, and now, after weeping over her only boy until her tears seemed dried, she lay back half-fainting upon her pillow. Toward daylight a violent coughing-fit ensued, during which an ulcer was broken, and she knew that she was dying. Beckoning Mary to her side, she whispered, "I am leaving you alone in the wide world. Be kind to Ella, and our dear little Allie, and go with her where she goes. May God keep and bless my precious children—and reward you as you deserve, my darling——"

The sentence was unfinished, and in unspeakable awe the orphan girl knelt between her mother and brother, shuddering in the presence of death, and then weeping to think she was alone.

CHAPTER III.

Just on the corner of Chicopee Common, and under the shadow of the century-old elms which skirt the borders of the grass-plot called by the villagers the "Mall," stands the small red cottage of Widow Bender, who in her way was quite a curiosity. All the "ills which flesh is heir to," seemed by some strange fatality to fall upon her, and never did a new disease appear in any quarter of the globe, which Widow Bender, if by any means she could ascertain the symptoms, was not sure to have in its most aggravated form.

On the morning following the events narrated in the last chapter Billy, whose dreams had been disturbed by thoughts of Frank, arose early, determined to call at Mrs. Howard's and see if they were in want of anything. But his mother, who had heard rumors of the scarlet fever, was up before him, and on descending to the kitchen, which, with all her sickness, Mrs. Bender kept in perfect order, Billy found her sitting before a blazing fire—her feet in hot water, and her head thrown back in a manner plainly showing that something new had taken hold of her in good earnest. Billy was accustomed to her freaks, and not feeling at all frightened, stepped briskly forward, saying, "Well, mother, what's the matter now? Got a cramp in your foot, or what?"

"Oh, William," said she, "I've lived through a sight, but my time has come at last. Such a pain in my head and stomach. I do believe I've got the scarlet fever, and you must run for the doctor quick."

"Scarlet fever!" repeated Billy; "why, you've had it once, and you can't have it again, can you?"

"Oh, I don't know—I never was like anybody else and can have anything a dozen times Now be spry and fetch the doctor; but before you go hand me my snuff-box and put the canister top heapin' full of tea into the teapot."

Billy obeyed, and then, knowing that the green tea would remove his mother's ailment quite as soon as the physician, he hurried away toward Mrs. Howard's. The sun was just rising, and its red rays looked in at the window, through which the moonlight had shone the night before. Beneath the window a single rose-tree was blooming, and on it a robin was pouring out its morning song. Within the cottage there was no sound or token of life, and thinking its inmates were asleep, Billy paused several minutes upon the threshold, fearing that he should disturb their slumbers. At last, with a vague presentiment that all was not right, he raised the latch and entered, but instantly started back in astonishment at the scene before him. On the little trundle-bed lay Frank, cold and dead, and near him in the same long dreamless sleep was his mother, while between them, with one arm thrown lovingly across her brother's neck, and her cheek pressed against his, lay Mary—her eyelids moist with the tears which, though sleeping, she still shed. On the other side of Frank, and nestled so closely to him that her warm breath lifted the brown curls from his brow, was Ella. But there were no tear-stains on her face, for she did not yet know how bereaved she was.

For a moment Billy stood irresolute, and then as Mary moved uneasily in her slumbers, he advanced a step or two toward her. The noise aroused her, and instantly remembering and comprehending the whole, she threw herself with a bitter cry into Billy's extended arms, as if he alone were all the protector she now had in the wide, wide world. Ere long Ella too awoke, and the noisy outburst which followed the knowledge of her loss made Mary still the agony of her own heart in order to soothe the more violent grief of her excitable sister.

There was a stir in the cradle, and with a faint cry the baby Alice awoke and stretched her hands toward Mary, who with all a mother's care took the child upon her lap and fed her from the milk which was still standing in the broken pitcher. With a baby's playfulness Alice dipped her small fingers into the milk, and shaking them in her sister's face, laughed aloud as the white drops fell upon her hair. This was too much for poor Mary, and folding he child closer to her bosom she sobbed passionately.

"Oh, Allie, dear little Allie, what will you do? What shall we all do? Mother's dead, mother's dead!"

Ella was not accustomed to see her sister thus moved, and her tears now flowed faster while she entreated Mary to stop.

"Don't do so, Mary," she said. "Don't do so. You make me cry harder. Tell her to stop, Billy. Tell her to stop."

But Billy's tears were flowing too, and he could only answer the little girl by affectionately smoothing her tangled curls, which for once in her life she had forgotten to arrange. At length rising up, he said to Mary, "Something must be done. The villagers must know of it, and I shall have to leave you alone while I tell them."

In half an hour from that time the cottage was nearly filled with people, some of whom came out of idle curiosity, and after seeing all that was to be seen, started for home, telling the first woman who put her head out of the chamber window for particulars that "'twas a dreadful thing, and such a pity, too, that Ella should have to go to the poorhouse, with her pretty face and handsome curls."

But there were others who went there for the sake of comforting the orphans and attending to the dead, and by noon the bodies were decently arranged for burial. Mrs. Johnson's Irish girl Margaret was cleaning the room, and in the bedroom adjoining, Mrs. Johnson herself, with two or three other ladies, were busily at work upon some plain, neat shrouds, and as they worked they talked of the orphan children who were now left friendless.

"There will be no trouble," said one, "in finding a place for Ella, she is so bright and handsome; but as for Mary I am afraid she'll have to go to the poorhouse."

"Were I in a condition to take either," replied Mrs. Johnson, "I should prefer Mary to her sister, for in my estimation she is much the best girl; but there is the baby, who must go wherever Mary does, unless she can be persuaded to leave her."

Before any one could reply to this remark Mary, who had overheard every word, came forward, and laying her face on Mrs. Johnson's lap, sobbed out, "Let me go with Alice, I told mother I would."

Billy Bender, who all this while had been standing by the door, now gave a peculiar whistle, which with him was ominous of some new idea, and turning on his heel started for home, never once thinking, until he reached it, that his mother more than six hours before had sent him in great haste for the physician. On entering the house, he found her, as he expected, rolled up in bed, apparently in the last stage of scarlet fever; but before she could reproach him he said, "Mother, have you heard the news?"

Mrs. Bender had a particular love for news, and now forgetting "how near to death's door" she had been, she eagerly demanded, "What news? What has happened?"

When Billy told her of the sudden death of Mrs. Howard and Frank, an expression of "What? That all?" passed over her face, and she said, "Dear me, and so the poor critter's gone? Hand me my snuff, Billy. Both died last night, did they? Hain't you nothin' else to tell?"

"Yes, Mary Judson and Ella Campbell, too, are dead."

Mrs. Bender, who like many others courted the favor of the wealthy, and tried to fancy herself on intimate terms with them, no sooner heard of Mrs. Campbell's affliction than her own dangerous symptoms were forgotten, and springing up she exclaimed, "Ella Campbell dead! What'll her mother do? I must go to her right away. Hand me my double gown there in the closet, and give me my lace cap in the lower drawer, and mind you have the teakettle biled agin I get back."

"But, mother," said Billy, as he prepared to obey her, "Mrs. Campbell is rich, and there are enough who will pity her. If you go anywhere, suppose you stop at Mrs. Howard's and comfort poor Mary, who cries all the time because she and Alice have got to go to the poorhouse."

"Of course they'll go there, and they ort to be thankful they've got so good a place—get away. That ain't my double gown—that's a cloak. Don't you know a cloak from a double gown?"

"Yes, yes," said Billy, whose mind was not upon his mother's toilet—"but," he continued, "I want to ask you, can't we—couldn't you take them for a few days, and perhaps something may turn up?"

"William Bender," said the highly-astonished lady, "what can you mean? A poor sick woman like me, with one foot in the grave, take the charge of three pauper children! I shan't do it, and you needn't think of it."

"But, mother," persisted Billy, who could generally coax her to do as he liked, "it's only for a few days, and they'll not be much trouble or expense, for I'll work enough harder to make it up."

"I have said no once, William Bender, and when I say no, I mean no," was the answer.

Billy knew she would be less decided the next time the subject was broached, so for the present he dropped it, and taking his cap he returned to Mrs. Howard's, while his mother started for Mrs. Campbell's.

Next morning between the hours of nine and ten the tolling bell sent forth its sad summons, and ere long a few of the villagers were moving toward the brown cottage, where in the same plain coffin slept the mother and her only boy. Near them sat Ella, occasionally looking with childish curiosity at the strangers around her, or leaning forward to peep at the tips of the new morocco shoes which Mrs. Johnson had kindly given her; then, when her eyes fell upon the coffin, she would burst into such an agony of weeping that many of the villagers also wept in sympathy, and as they stroked her soft hair, thought, "how much more she loved her mother than did Mary," who, without a tear upon her cheek, sat there immovable, gazing fixedly upon the marble face of her mother. Alice was not present, for Billy had not only succeeded in winning his mother's consent to take the children for a few days, but he had also coaxed her to say that Ailce might come before the funeral, on condition that he would remain at home and take care of her. This he did willingly, for Alice, who had been accustomed to see him, would now go to no one else except Mary.

Billy was rather awkward at baby-tending, but by dint of emptying his mother's cupboard, blowing a tin horn, rattling a pewter platter with an iron spoon, and whistling Yankee Doodle, he managed to keep her tolerably quiet until he saw the humble procession approaching the house. Then, hurrying with his little charge to the open window, he looked out. Side by side walked Mary and Ella, and as Alice's eyes fell upon the former, she uttered a cry of joy, and almost sprang from Billy's arms. But Mary could not come; and for the next half-hour Mrs. Bender corked her ears with cotton, while Billy, half-distracted, walked the floor, singing at the top of his voice every tune he had ever heard, from "Easter Anthem" down to "the baby whose father had gone a hunting," and for whom the baby in question did not care two straws.

Meantime the bodies were about to be lowered into the newly-made grave, when Mrs. Johnson felt her dress nervously grasped, and looking down she saw Mary's thin, white face uplifted toward hers with so earnest an expression that she gently laid her hand upon her head, and said, "What is it, dear?"

"Oh, if I can—if they only would let me look at them once more. I couldn't see them at the house, my eyes were so dark."

Mrs. Johnson immediately communicated Mary's request to the sexton, who rather unwillingly opened the coffin lid. The road over which they had come was rough stony, and the jolt had disturbed the position of Frank, who now lay partly upon his mother's shoulder, with his cheek resting against hers. Tenderly Mary laid him back upon his own pillow, and then kneeling down and burying her face in her mother's bosom, she for a time remained perfectly silent, although the quivering of her frame plainly told the anguish of that parting. At length Mrs. Johnson gently whispered, "Come, darling, you must come away now;" but Mary did not move; and when at last they lifted her up, they saw that she had fainted. In a few moments she recovered, and with her arms across her sister's neck, stood by until the wide grave was filled, and the bystanders were moving away.

As they walked homeward together two women, who had been present at the funeral, discussed the matter as follows:

"They took it hard, poor things, particularly the oldest."

"Yes, though I didn't think she cared as much as t'other one, until she fainted, but it's no wonder, for she's old enough to dread the poorhouse. Did you say they were staying at Widder Bender's?"

"Yes, and how in this world Widder Bender, as poor as she pretends to be, can afford to do it, is more than I can tell."

"Are you going to the other funeral this afternoon?"

"I guess I am. I wouldn't miss it for a good deal. Why, as true as you live, I have never set my foot in Mrs. Campbell's house yet, and know no more what is in it than the dead."

"Well, I do, for my girl, Nancy Ray, used to live there, and she's told me sights. She says they've got a big looking-glass that cost three hundred dollars."

"So, I've heard, and I s'pose there'll be great doin's this afternoon. The coffin, they say, came from Worcester, and cost fifty dollars."

"Now, that's what I call wicked. S'posin' her money did come from England, she needn' spend it so foolishly; but then money didn't save Ella's life, and they say her mother's done nothing but screech and go on like a mad woman since she died. You'll go early, won't you?"

"Yes, I mean to be there in season to get into the parlor if I can."

And now, having reached the corner, where their paths diverged, with a mutual "good-day" they parted.

CHAPTER IV.

Scarcely three hours had passed since the dark, moist earth was heaped upon the humble grave of the widow and her son, when again, over the village of Chicopee, floated the notes of the tolling bell, and immediately crowds of persons, with seemingly eager haste, hurried toward the Campbell mansion, which was soon nearly filled. Among the first arrivals were our acquaintances of the last chapter, who were forunate enough to secure a position near the drawing-room, which contained the "big looking-glass."

Pains in the Back Over the Kidneys

TELL OF DISEASED KIDNEYS AND THE PROVEN CURE FOR THIS DREADFULLY PAINFUL AILMENT IS

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

When kidney disease does not arise from exposure to a draft or chilling of the body it is usually developed gradually as a result of liver and bowel disorders.

It is because of the intimate and dependent relations of the liver, kidneys and bowels, that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cure diseases of the Kidneys when mere kidney medicines fail.

By quickening the action of the liver and bowels this treatment immediately lessens the work of the kidneys, and at the same time restores their natural vigour. In this way the most serious and complicated diseases of the kidneys are thoroughly cured.

Miss Della McDermott, 373 Main street, Moncton, N.B., writes:

"For some time my mother could not walk across the floor, or stoop over because the pains in her back just over the kidneys were so severe. She had severe headaches, backache, spells of blindness and dizziness, and tried many remedies without obtaining any relief. The doctors of our town said that the trouble was due to the turn of life.

"A lady friend advised mother to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and by the time she had used two boxes of this great medicine she was perfectly cured and the old trouble has never returned."

Mr. J. Edwards of Cotborne, Ont., and who is employed by the Kennedy and Davis Milling Company, Lindsay, Ont., states: "I have been taking Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for some time and can positively say they are the best medicine I have ever used. I was troubled very much with my kidneys, and had dreadful pains in my back, which increased by leaning over.

"I can testify to the exceptional merits of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, because they have cured me, and shall gladly recommend them to anyone inquiring about them.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills regulate the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels. One pill a dose; 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

WORTH TAKING

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;

One ounce Compound Salatone;

Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, is pronounced by a prominent physician to be the best mixture for the cure of the kidney, bladder, and all urinary troubles.

This says the doctor, is the most simple though remarkable prescription ever written to cleanse the system of impurities and waste matter. It acts as a powerful tonic to the kidneys, forcing them to filter out the acids and poisons, overcoming rheumatism, lame back, sciatica and other afflictions arising from sour, impure blood.

The ingredients can be procured at any good drug store, and being purely vegetable and entirely harmless, can easily be mixed at home.

If you have a suffering friend show this to him, as he will undoubtedly be pleased to learn of so simple and highly recommended a remedy.

WIPE OUT MONTE CARLO

ENGLISH WRITER CALLS IT HOME OF SUICIDE AND CRIME.

Suggestion In London Times That Nations Obliterate It—Received With Widespread Approval—Plague Spot of Europe—Thousands Are Ruined Every Year—Haunt of All Kinds of Adventurers.

An interesting letter in The Times, signed "Indicus," suggests that it is time an end should be put to Monte Carlo, the plague spot of Europe.

"Before this hideous Monte Carlo tragedy ceases to be a nine-days' wonder," writes "Indicus," "I would suggest that it is time attention should be drawn to the fons et irigo mali, the gambling rooms of that too notorious place.

"I speak as one who knows, having resided for some time at Monte Carlo, near the villa in which the Goolds rented a small flat. How long are the nations of Europe going to tolerate the continuance of this plague-spot in their midst?

"That is the question that should be agitated in the press and chancelleries of every European capital, whose gilded youth are ruined annually in scores, for they flock thither in ever-increasing numbers solely because of the gambling facilities, made more seductive by the beauty of the place, its gardens, and the unrivaled Casino band.

"The profits, I may state, accruing from the tables, which average 30,000,000 francs, are divided between the shareholders, the municipality and the Prince of Monaco. On the same day the Goolds are supposed to have committed the crime with which they are charged there occurred at Casellamare the suicide of a young English and American couple on their honeymoon who had been ruined at Monte Carlo.

"President Roosevelt might well assume the initiative in this righteous crusade, for the American plutocrats are as prominent at the tables as the aristocracy of Europe."

Max Pemberton's Views.

Max Pemberton, the lovelist, who is an authority on Monte Carlo, said recently that the diplomatic situation would make any such action difficult.

"I cannot pronounce an opinion on a crime that is still untried," he said, "but one thing is clear—Monte Carlo is the haunt of every adventurer and adventuress in the world. It is astounding how many big swindles and thefts have been planned at Monte Carlo.

"The obvious curse of the place is that fools go there to make money out of the tables, and rogues go there to make money out of the fools. The atmosphere is most demoralizing to young people, who lose their heads, and also all sense of the value of money.

"Another great evil is that of pure English girls succumbing to the atmosphere. They are often bought in contact at the tables with undesirable persons, with whom they actually converse.

"The Government of every country is perfectly aware that Monte Carlo should be suppressed, but the diplomatic situation makes action impossible, and France, under whose protection Monte Carlo exists, is placed in a most difficult position.

"The authorities at Monte Carlo do their best to preserve order in the rooms, but it is perfectly impossible to keep out rogues of both sexes. Wherever you have unrestricted gambling you will have attendant crime.

"I am convinced that the suppression of Monte Carlo would prove a more practical and nobler work for humanity than the advancement of impossible propositions at The Hague Peace Conference."

Suicides Hushed Up.

"The Monte Carlo Casino has been responsible for more suicides than any other institution of any kind in the world," a frequent visitor to the Riviera told a press representative recently.

"It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that thousands of people have committed suicide through being ruined at Monte Carlo. As a rule, the world hears little or nothing of such suicides, for it is not to the interest of the town to say much about them.

"Ruined players are continually jumping into the sea and getting drowned, or going to Paris or elsewhere, there to shoot themselves.

"But the suicides do not represent a tenth of the misery due to the Casino. So many people are 'broken' by the bank that it has been necessary to establish a relieving department, in order to get rid of the ruined players, who might otherwise commit suicide.

Fares Home Paid.

"Every day in the season a score or more of men and women apply to the Casino offices for a dole to pay their hotel bills and their fares home. Some time ago a British officer, who had lost every penny, was given a free P. & O. ticket to Calcutta and $250. The sums paid out by the Casino range from $25 to $2,500.

"But in spite of this toll on its profits the Casino has made millions sterling out of the gamblers who try to break the bank. Last year its total receipts came to $7,540,400, an increase of $759,400 on the year before.

"After every expense had been defrayed there was close on to $5,000,000 for distribution among the shareholders, at the rate of $70 a share. This was equal to 70 per cent. on the original value of the shares.

"The curse of Monte Carlo is not merely that it is responsible for the ruin of hundreds of men and women," he concluded, "but that it entails undeserved wretchedness on their families, who often have to suffer, not only privation, but great mental anguish, directly due to the evil influence of the gambling tables.

"It is a forcing bed for crime.

"The spot is the most beautiful one on the Riviera, and has the finest climate for invalids. It is time that such a place was rid of the curse of the gambling den."

DAVID CHRISTIE MURRAY.

DAVID CHRISTIE MURRAY DEAD.

Well Known British Novelist Passes Away In London.

The late David Christie Murray was born in 1847, and was educated privately. He commenced his journalistic career on The Birmingham Morning News, and entered the London field in 1873.

He served on the staff of The World and The Daily News, and was special correspondent for The Times in the Russo-Turkish war. He was an extensive traveler. In 1894-5 he visited the principal cities of Canada and the United States on a lecturing tour. He was the author of a number of novels and some lays.

They Shelved Browning.

Douglas Jerrold was convalescing from an illness when he read Browning's "Sordello." Not a consecutive idea could he get from that mystic production. It struck him that he had lost his reason during his illness. He thrust the volume into his wife's hand. After several attempts to make any sense out of the first page she returned it, saying: "Bother the gibberish! I don't understand a word of it."

The Marginal Note.

At a recent sale of old books and curios the auctioneer said, "This book, gentlemen, is especially valuable, as it contains a marginal note in the handwriting of John Dryden. Five pounds offered. Going—going—gone. It is yours, sir." The autograph marginal note by the renowned scholar was as follows: "This book is not worth the paper it is printed on."

A King and a Guinea Pig.

Rev. Charles Spurgeon, in reading out a list of subscribers to one of his charities, made running comments and jokes as he went on that kept the audience in great good humor. Coming to a Mr. King, who had given 5 shillings, he said "There's a king who has given his crown." Coming next to a Mr. Pigg, who had given a guinea, he exclaimed, "There's a guinea pig!"—London Tit-Bits.

Attracting Attention.

"When ordering champagne some people are not satisfied with the pop of the cork."

"No?"

"No; they think the waiter ought to also fire a pistol."

Read Letter Days.

"Most people have red letter days once in a while," observed the pretty girl sweetheart, as she put the perused missive back in its envelope, "but every day is a read letter day for me."

The events of fortune are unexpected and therefore can never be guarded against by men.—Axionicus.

His Shave and His Nerve.

A youth with untouched face walked slowly past a barber shop, then back again, then passed and repassed, each time drawing nearer and nearer. Finally, as though he had just reached a determination, he turned in and handed his hat, coat and collar to the officiating "shine." When it came his turn he got into the chair with an air of assurance which was rather out of keeping with his haunted eyes.

"Hair cut?" queried the barber.

"Naw; shave," said the youth. "Just once over, and be kind o' careful of the neck whisker."

The barber put his hand over his face to hide a grin and went to his lather cup. He turned on the hot water and passed a wink down the line until every barber had his gaze that way. Then, with ponderous care, he lathered the face and coolly began shaving his customer with the back of the razor.

"Does she pull?" he asked after a bit.

"A leetle raw," said the customer, with fine discrimination. "Got a wire edge, hasn't it?"

The barber replied by stropping his own hand violently, then resumed shaving with the back of the razor.

"How's that?" he said.

"Fine as silk," said the customer, now grown veteran. "I tell you it's all in the stropping, Jack."

Self Winding Watches.

"Watchmaking is no longer what it used to be," said a collector. "Where will you find today artists making and selling readily watches worth $2,500 apiece? Breguet was the greatest watchmaker the world has ever seen. He was a Swiss, but he lived in France. The watch collector who hasn't a Breguet timepiece has a sadly incomplete collection. Breguet watches were the acme of beauty, of originality and of accuracy. One played a tune every hour, another had on its dial little figures that danced, a third was a self winder. They were very ingenious, those self winding watches. They worked on the pedometer principle. The motion of the body in walking kept them wound. I have a Breguet self winder, and sometimes, out of curiosity, I carry it for a week. My stride winds it, it never runs down, and it keeps, after all these years, fairly good time."

The Address on the Letter.

"It is not spelling alone that has been smitten by the hand of the destroyer," lamented the postman. "Punctuation has also gone by the board. When I first began to handle United States mail ten years ago the directions on envelopes were punctuated according to schoolbook rules. Abbreviations were finished off with a period, names were followed by a comma, and so so. Now the envelope that is properly punctuated is a rarity. Sometimes, just out of curiosity, I take time to look carefully through a bunch of letters. Out of, say, twenty, more than half will be entirely destitute of punctuation marks. In the few cases where an attempt has been made to punctuate hysterical dashes take the place of the periods and commas that once prevailed."

Proof of His Innocence.

A southern negro was brought into the courtroom, accused of stealing a neighbor's chickens.

"Mister George Washington Shintopp, did you steal those chickens?" asked the judge pointedly.

"No, sah, jedge. Ah is too 'spectable fo' dat."

"But it is stated on good authority that a bundle of feathers was found in your back yard the day before Christmas."

"Dat 'sinneration, jedge, des proves mah innocence, cos how could de fedders be found in mah back yard de day befo' Chris'mus when mah wife didn't pluck dose chickens until de day after Chris'mus?"—Circle.

A Queer Argument.

It is often urged that eloquence and affectation are inalienable, but I maintain that the peculiar pronunciation of certain words—if that constitutes affectation—is a pardonable fault, of which many eminent orators are themselves guilty. In vast cathedrals and large halls where the acoustic properties are of an unusual order it is clearly manifest that some pronunciations are preferable to others, for some words by the very composition of their syllables are not so far reaching in their sound as others, so that if a ruse is adopted to gain the desired effect surely it is detrimental to no one.—London Academy.

Putting In the Sting.

MURDER AS A FINE ART

BRITISH CARPENTER FIGURES AMONG GREAT CRIMINALS.

Hanged for Killing Two Persons—Victims Drank Potion Prepared for Another Man—Murderer Had Made Study of Drugs—Possessed Cabinet of Deadly Poisons—Was Specialist In Crime.

There was hanged recently at Wandsworth Prison a man who, considering all the circumstances of the case, deserves a place on the dishonorable roll of the world's great poisoners.

Richard Brinkley was only a working carpenter, with no education to speak of and few opportunities of studying or experimenting with deadly drugs, yet he had succeeded, despite these and many other disadvantages, in developing poisoning to a fine art.

He was tried for the murder of two persons by placing prussic acid in the stout which they drank. The beverage was not intended for the unfortunate victims who drank it, but for another man, whose testimony went a long way to obtain Brinkley's conviction.

Since the trial it has developed that fourteen years ago an inquest was held upon a girl who, the jury found, had committed suicide, the evidence showing that if she did so it was with arsenic taken by her from a box in Brinkley's room. In this box were found prussic acid, arsenic, strychnine and chloroform, for which Brinkley accounted by the story that he was engaged in chemical research in connection with photography and electrical engineering. The acquisition of such a deadly armamentarium by a murderously-minded individual affords a striking commentary upon the working of the English laws regulating the sale of poisons.

Brinkley was evidently a man who had obtained some knowledge of poisons, and it seems probable that he had studied them with the deliberate intention of using them criminally, for after he had denied this in cross-examination a piece of paper which had been found in his possession was put into his hand by counsel. It contained the following note: "Nitrate of silver with ordinary water will turn the water milky, but if put into distilled water the water undergoes no change."

It was suggested by the prosecution that this information was intended to be used in order to administer poison to an unsuspecting victim. Brinkley's explanation was that a specialist had supplied him with it as a test for distilled water, as he (Brinkley) always drank distilled water at home, and wished to be able to ascertain whether the druggist was really providing him with this somewhat unusual beverage for a working carpenter.

When to Shoot a Critic.

At a supper party at the Garrick club in London some years ago a theatrical manager wound up a humorous speech by declaring his conviction that it would be to the advantage of the drama if a muster were made of all the theatrical critics and they were shot offhand. Joseph Knight, the critic, called upon to reply to this playful stricture, rose and in his richest tones spoke as follows:

"Gentlemen, I have not the faintest objection, understand me, to the course proposed by Mr. X. provided that in mercy we are shot before being invited to witness such entertainments as our dear friend has recently produced at his theater."

The Federal Convention.

There were sixty-two members of the convention that framed the constitution of the United States. Of these the men who wielded the greatest influence were Washington, Franklin, Hamilton and Madison. Washington's devoted patriotism, Franklin's unfailing common sense, Hamilton's passion for nationality and Madison's unconquerable democracy, fused at last to form what Mr. Gladstone called "the greatest piece of work that ever sprang from the human mind."

The Valuable Book.

"I never met a more ignorant man than Nuritch," said Mugley. "What he doesn't know would fill a good many books."

"Yes," replied Wise. "But what he does know seems to have filled one pocketbook at least."

One Child Cured of Summer Complaint and Six Cured of Cramps by Half a Bottle of DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY.

Mrs. Wm. Flewelling, Arthur, Ont., says: "I find it much pleasure to recommend Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry as a grand cure for Summer Complaint. My little boy, one year old, was very bad with it, and a few doses cured him. I also used it on my other six children for cramps, and still have half the bottle left. I cannot praise it too much."

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is the greatest of all cures for all bowel complaints such as Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Summer Complaint, etc.

BIG HAUL OF CHINAMEN.

Sydney Police Capture Number of Smuggled Celestials.

Eight thousand five hundred dollars' worth of Chinamen were captured recently by customs officers of Sydney, Cape Breton, assisted by the chief of police. The Chinamen are believed to have been smuggled into Cape Breton from Newfoundland by the schooner Chloris, owned by Dan MacDonald, of Glace Bay, a liquor dealer, who is generally known as "Klondike Dan."

The Sydney customs officers received a tip that the Chinamen were in, or on the way to, Sydney. The tip came from Capt. Gordon, of the Government cruiser Gladiator, that some Chinamen had been landed at Irish Cove, a secluded spot near Gaborus, C. B.

The customs officers, accompanied by the police, visited the headquarters of the Chinamen. Here seven of the Chinamen wanted were found, and in a laundry near by two more were caught. Driving out on the road to Gaborus, the officers met a wagon with four more Celestials, on the way to Sydney. In the pier districts of Sydney three more were located. One was found in Sydney Mines, and one in Louisburg, and three cannot be located as yet.

As the Canadian duty on Chinamen is $500 per head, the value of the capture to the Canadian Government is $8,500. One of the leaders of the Sydney Chinese colony had entrance passes for the arrested Chinamen, but did not have the opportunity to give them to the men. It is believed these papers were obtained from smugglers. They are dated several years back and with them the Chinamen would probably have got along all right. Some claim that the Chinamen have been smuggled into Cape Breton in small lots for a long time, but this attempt to bring them in wholesale was tipped off in Newfoundland, and Capt. Gordon, who has been keeping a watchful eye on the Chloris, was in time to have them arrested.

The captured men are all apparently under 30 years of age.

Wild Woman In the Woods.

Prof. MacAuley of Harvard University, who has been spending a few weeks in the country around Blue Sea Lake, tells a strange story of a wild woman.

While hunting one day in the woods a face peered at him from the shadows. It was a wild face, tanned to a dark brown by the sun, framed by masses of dark coarse hair, and unmistakably that of a woman. Before he could speak to this eerie inhabitant of the woods she had fled. She seemed to be dressed in nothing but leaves entwined in a sort of outer covering.

He enquired as to the truth of his sight, from a habitant, and he was assured that such a person existed. She lived in solitude, in a small hut. The poor creature has not a companion save a number of dogs, who help her in procuring food. She lives mostly on the fruits of her hunting excursion. A rifle is included in the list of her possessions, but although she had made several attempts to obtain ammunition, it has been refused.

It appears that owing to some injury done the woman some years ago, she has shunned human society ever since.

RESULT OF POVERTY.

Children Stunted In Growth by Their Deplorable Surroundings.

Remarkable proof of the physical degeneration caused by poverty has been obtained by an investigation as to the heights and weights of the board-school children of Glasgow.

Nearly 73,000 children were examined in the course of this investigation, which was the most extensive ever undertaken in Britain. A report by Dr. W. Leslie MacKenzie, medical member of the Local Government Board for Scotland, and Captain A. Foster, inspector of physical training, on the statistics collected, has been issued.

According to this the children were divided up into four classes — those living in one room, two rooms, three rooms, four rooms and over. The average weight and height of the boys, who ranged in age from five to eighteen years, was as follows:

	Weight in lbs.	Height in inches.
One-roomed	52.6	46.6
Two-roomed	56.1	48.1
Three-roomed	60.6	50.0
Four-roomed	64.3	51.3

For girls the figures were:

	Weight in lbs.	Height in inches.
One-roomed	51.5	46.3
Two-roomed	54.8	47.8
Three-roomed	59.4	49.6
Four-roomed	65.5	51.6

"These figures show that the one-roomed child, whether boy or girl, is always on the average distinctly smaller and lighter than the two-roomed," states the report; "and the two-roomed than the three-roomed; and the three-roomed than the four-roomed. The numbers examined are so large, and the results are so uniform, that only one conclusion is possible—that the poorest child suffers most in nutrition and in growth.

"It cannot be an accident that boys from one-roomed houses should be 11.7 lbs. lighter on an average than boys from four-roomed houses, and 4.7 inches smaller. Neither is it an accident that girls from one-roomed houses are on the average, 14 lbs. lighter and 5.3 inches shorter than the girls from four-roomed houses."

BATTLESHIP NAMES.

Wanted a Swiftsure and a Victory—New Bellerophon Launched.

The launching of the battleship Bellerophon at Portsmouth, a successor of that doughty vessel of the same name which made such a gallant fight at the Nile and Trafalgar, reminds one how much splendid history is associated with some of the names borne by our ships of war. For more than three centuries, for instance, our fleet has rarely lacked a Swiftsure. A Swiftsure helped to crush the "Invincible Armada" and to capture Cadiz. The flags of Penn and Blake floated over vessels of the same name; and all the way through the 17th and 18th centuries down to Trafalgar, there was scarcely a single sea-fight in which a Swiftsure did not play a gallant part. For the same period we have seldom been without a Victory to show the way. A Victory lowered the flag of many a Spanish galleon in 1588; Blake commanded another; on the quarter-deck of a third Admiral Myngs, brave old seadog, fell in the thick of battle; and, from one generation to another, Victory to Victory has handed the torch of glory.

Free Meals for Children.

A feature of the Socialists' platform in England is free meals for school children, and at the international congress of School Hygiene, held in London, Dr. Cronin, of New York, advocated free dental and medical treatment for the children in the public schools, arguing that such treatment would save thousands of the future men and women of the country to usefulness. Truancy was a frequent offence, but it was shown that in 90 per cent. of such cases there were defects which, if they had been remedied early in life, by medical skill, might have made it possible for those affected to grow up as useful citizens, instead of joining the ranks of the criminals and degenerates. It would be cheaper, in the opinion of the doctor, to do this elementary work free than to maintain jails and asylums.

Free meals have been advocated because, in the densely populated parts of England, affected chiefly by foreigners, thousands of children are found to be insufficiently fed, rendering study, if not impossible, difficult.

As for medical care, it is certain that much could be done in this domain. The boy who is allowed to grow up with defects which could have been remedied; at once suffers in his own person from the fatal sense of inferiority, and renders to the community only a moiety of that service which he might have given under more wholesome and healthful conditions.

The children are the nation in embryo. It would pay to make them well and strong at the public expense. Some members of the congress thought that Dr. Cronin was in advance of the time, but his convictions were warmly received.

BRIGHTEST COMET FOR YEARS.

Is Attracting Much Notice Amongst Astronomers.

In the wee sma' hours astronomers, amateur and otherwise, are pointing their telescopes to the heavens and studying Daniell's comet, which recently made its appearance. The comet rises at about half-past two in the morning and remains visible until dawn. It has the appearance to the unaided sight of a faint, not well-defined star, of about the third or fourth magnitude, but, with the aid of a field glass, opera glass or small telescope, it is possible to see the cometary nature of the object, with its star-like head and long sweeping tail. The comet may not be visible after the present month, as it is approaching the sun, which it will circle in September, after which it may only be visible to observers south of the equator.

As Seen At St. Catharines.

Mr. J. Miller Barr, of St. Catharines, Ont., writes, at a recent date, as follows: "Some interesting views of the new comet were obtained here this morning, between 3 and 4 o'clock. The comet was best seen about 3.45, at which time its attitude above the eastern horizon was nearly fifteen degrees. Its head was rather brighter than an average star of the third magnitude. The tail could be traced with certainty for a distance of about ten degrees, from the head, and there were glimpses of a fainter extension—nearly in the direction of the bright star, Aldebaran. As observed with a field glass, the nucleus was almost stellar in appearance, the outlines of the comet and tail being well-defined, for an object of this class. The comet was located in the northern region of Orion, near the line which separates that constellation from Tauvus.

"This is the brightest comet which has visited our system in recent years. It has already attracted much notice, and its further progress will doubtless be watched with keen interest—especially at the chief observatories of Europe and America, where improved photographic and spectrographic methods are now available for the study of those wonderful bodies."

PLAGUE OF BIRDS IN ENGLAND.

Result of Crusade for Their Protection—Battues of Sparrows and Finches.

The protection of birds in England has reached such a stage that they have become a nuisance, and now it is not unlikely that a systematic war will be waged on them. The complaint is not of the game birds, which pay in sport and in the market. It is the little feathered creatures that are bothering the farmers and gardeners.

Of course the sparrows are the worst. They have grown to millions in the southern part of England, and the Kentish farmers have had to organize battues to reduce their numbers, as they were devouring seed and grain, and destroying fruit to a ruinous extent. Tens of thousands of them have been shot or caught with birdlime.

In Hertfordshire, just north of London, the bullfinches are the worst offenders, swarms of them darken the air and settle down on the fields and in orchards. The statement made is that they absolutely denude the trees of fruit.

Each apple or pear has only a little peck taken from it, but it is thrown to the ground and rendered totally unmarketable. The farmers and fruit raisers here talk of organizing formal hunts, to thin out the flocks of birds. Starlings have also become extremely numerous, and are badly in need of slaughter, the country people say.

The pigeons are the only birds constantly shot all the year around in England, and in spite of this, their number never seems to diminish. In one farm outside of London the proprietor reports that he shot 340 pigeons in a single day.

Farmers and gardeners and fruit-growers are proposing to memorialize the Government for the establishment of a scientific system to combat the increase in sparrows, finches, starlings, crows and pigeons in the interest of husbandry and horticulture.

Only Four Words.

A minister was delivering an eloquent sermon to his flock at a small church in a village on the sea coast. In the middle of the sermon great excitement was caused by someone bringing the news that the drift from a large wreck was coming in. The congregation rose at once, and began hurriedly to leave the church to get their share of the spoil.

The minister, distressed to see his congregation hankering so much after the things of this world, to the neglect of the higher things he had to offer, implored them, with great fervor, to stay and listen to him, as he only had four more words to say.

Touched by his great earnestness, they waited while he came down from the pulpit. He walked to the door, and, stepping outside quietly, said: "Let's all start fair?" and ran for all he was worth.—Sunday Circle.

An Odd Old English Law.

There is a law on the statute books of England designed for the protection of the persecuted male sex which no man has ever had the courage to invoke. It was passed during the reign of Queen Elizabeth when Parliament solemnly enacted that "any woman who, from that date, would deceive or cajole into matrimony any of the subjects of Her Majesty by the use of false hair or any other thing false in connection with her body or by the use of paints or cosmetics would be punished as for fraud and deceit, with intent to cause harm."

First Public Street Cleaner.

The Dutch housewives of old New York, ever noted for their housekeeping qualities, created the agitation which resulted in the appointment of the first public street cleaner in New York in 1692. He was Laurens Van der Speigle, a baker. His daughter married Rip Van Dam, who afterward became governor of New York, an illustration of the democracy of that day.

LACK OF MALE TEACHERS.

English Pedagogue Thinks Canadian System Superficial.

Cecil Reddie, doctor of philosophy at Edinburgh and Goettingen, and head master of Abbotsholme School, Derbyshire, England, has recently been on an extensive tour of Canada and the United States, ascertaining what contribution the new world has to make to educational methods, and the spirit which animates them. He went to Victoria, calling upon the superintendent of education there, and over to Vancouver, subsequently traveling to Calgary and Winnipeg.

"There is," he said, "in America a deplorable lack of male teachers. It is absurd to have boys almost entirely educated by women, who cannot possibly understand the masculine nature and needs. The buildings in the main are magnificent. The education, however, tends to be somewhat superficial. This is, perhaps, due to experimentation in a very wide and diversified program, which requires careful working out to make it a success. Obviously, education is too heavily dominated by a very natural desire for practical and financial results. It is very certain that the new world cannot do without the old, if there is to be depth and thoroughness in culture.

"But the old world has some great lessons to learn from the new, the immense possibilities of which have produced a spirit of hopefulness, alertness, and determination which has forced teachers to recognize the enormous importance of encouragement as a power in school. In Europe compulsion has been overworked. Not unnaturally in America, there is not enough compulsion and encouragement has been greatly overdone. Here again each side of the Atlantic can learn from the other.

Asked if he had observed any marked differences between Canada and the United States, Dr. Reddie said: "The Canadians are more like the English—their ways are slow. The English, in ways, are slower and more cautious; perhaps, in some ways, less superficial. But there are much greater differences in different parts of Canada than there are between the different parts of the United States. It was a very valuable thing for the latter to have Canada as a next-door neighbor to prevent what would have otherwise been an overwhelming insularity. If the United States and Canada had the misfortune to be one country, the remoteness of other parts of the world would have prevented both of them from seeing varieties of methods, and studying the effect of different points of view. As it is, their neighborhood will enable each to do much better work. A little wholesome rivalry is a good thing between nations as between individuals, and the moment any country becomes too preeminent, it is certain to decay."

Beetle Bends Keys.

The insect house of the Zoo in London has just received a rare and curious acquisition. It is a fine specimen of the Goliath beetle from South America, which on account of its size and fierce appearance would send the British housemaid into hysterics.

It is nearly five inches long, and looks like a miniature parson, in a white surplice and black stole. It is not poisonous nor intentionally ferocious, but there is a spot between the neck and shoulder which acts like a vise. A finger placed in this aperture would be broken. The other day a keeper inserted a key there. "Goliath" bent it almost double by merely shrugging his shoulders. This great beetle is the most inexpensive guest in the Zoo, for he feeds entirely off fruit that is completely rotten.

FRANCE SAYS MOROCCO MUST PAY

Held Responsible For Massacre of July 30.

ANSWER ERMAN TRADERS

French Cabinet Will Hold Her For Damages—To Be Fixed by International Commission—Must Make Good Claims For Pillage or Repression of Disorders—Spanish Troops Ordered Out.

Paris, Sept. 10.—A special meeting of the Cabinet was held yesterday to consider the Moroccan situation. These conclusions were reached.

(1) The Moroccan Government should be held responsible for the massacre of July 30 at Casablanca, as well as for the damages suffered as a result of the pillage or the repression of disorders.

(2) The indemnities should be fixed by an international commission.

Incidentally this is France's answer to the demands of the German exporters at Casablanca, that France compensate them for the losses they sustained during the bombardment.

The conclusions arrived at are based on the precedent established after the bombardment of Alexandria by the British fleet in 1882.

The Cabinet requested Foreign Minister Pichon to examine the general question of Morocco, and to prepare a note on the subject to be issued as soon as possible.

Must Pay All Damages.

Berlin, Sept. 10.—Germany's reply to the French note relative to the formation of Morocco police from French and Spanish troops, says that Germany assumes that the measure proposed is entirely of provisional character and without prejudice to the terms of the Algeciras convention.

The reply of Germany calls attention to the opinion of the German representative at Tangier, that the appearance of foreign police there and at other Moroccan ports now is likely to result in the mountain tribes attacking the cities, with consequent danger to the lives and property of Europeans, unless efficient military support for the police is provided.

In regard to the German claims for damages sustained at Casablanca, no difficulties, it is asserted, are likely to arise.

Gibraltar, Sept. 10.—Orders have been received by the Spanish authorities at Algeciras to hold 7,000 men in readiness to embark Sept. 11 for Tangier.

QUEBEC ROYAL COMMISSION.

Enquiry Opened Yesterday — New Testimony as to the Work.

Quebec, Sept. 10.—The royal commission, consisting of H. Holgate, J. G. G. Kerry and John Galbraith, appointed to enquire into the cause of the Quebec bridge disaster, opened their investigation yesterday afternoon. Mr. Holgate swore in a couple of stenographers, and, addressing those present, said that it was the intention of himself and his colleagues to make the enquiry as thorough and they would welcome from any source whatever all information as to actual facts pertinent to the investigation. They intended to conduct the examination of witnesses themselves, but would be glad of the assistance of counsel and others appearing for interested parties who might suggest how information might be secured.

Mr. Barnes of Philadelphia said that although Mr. Stuart, K. C., represented the Phoenix Bridge Co., the company would gladly render all the assistance possible.

The company were desirous of the fullest investigation, and if there was anything in possession of the company outside of this jurisdiction which would be useful to the commission it would be at their disposal.

Mr. Davidson, representing the Iron and Steel Bridge Workers' Union, offered all possible assistance and promised to hand in a list of his witnesses to-day.

The only witnesses heard yesterday were Mr. Barthe, secretary of the Quebec Bridge Co., whose evidence was mostly formal, and J. Sterling Deans, who gave the names of the engineers and others responsible for the construction work at Quebec.

The new features of his evidence were the statements that while the Phonix Iron Co. had made all the smaller plates the larger ones had been made by outside mills and the eyebars in Harrisburg. He also said that as an extra measure of precaution, a certain judgment was left to the foremen of the work, which was not usual in such undertakings.

Outside of the engineers already mentioned at the coroner's inquest, the witnesses gave the following list of names of responsible officials of the company on the bridge structure: A. B. Millikam, superintendent of erection work for the Phoenix Bridge Co.; B. A. Ensen, general foreman, and Mr. Matthews, foreman of riveters.

SUPPRESSED BY THE HAGUE.

Articles Objected to by Germany In Regard to Neutrals.

The Hague, Sept. 10.—All the articles concerning the treatment of the subjects of neutral powers in the territory of belligerents, to which Germany objected at the plenary conference last Saturday, were suppressed yesterday by the committee on land war, after a long and interesting discussion.

The delegate of the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, which, according to the treaty of London of 1887 is neutral territory, introduced a motion, which was unanimously adopted, that the powers urge their subjects when they are in the territory of belligerents to respect the laws regarding the observance of neutrality.

Charged With Smuggling.

Brockville, Sept. 10.—Milo Lawrence, a resident of Waddington, was placed under arrest by Deputy Marshal Smith on a charge of smuggling eggs and wool from Canada into the United States. He was arraigned in Ogdensburg and held for examination under $1,000 bail.

Good Fishing Season.

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 10.—An unusually good fishing season for the French colony of St. Pierre, Miquelon, has caused great joy. Daily arrivals from the Grand Banks report unlimited quantities of fish, and plenty of bait.

Ashore In Fog.

San Francisco, Sept. 10.—The steamer San Gabriey, from San Pedro for Umpqua, in ballast, ran ashore yesterday near Point Reyes, during a heavy fog, and probably will be a total loss.

Situation in Vancouver Is Taking Serious Aspect.

ORIENTALS SUSPEND WORK

Crisis Not Unexpected In London—Canada Must Apologize and Pay the Damage—Outbreak Was Unfortunate—Hundreds of Revolvers Sold—United States Sailors Were Mobbed by Japs.

London, Sept. 10.—The news of the attacks on the Japanese and Chinese at Vancouver did not surprise the Colonial and Foreign Office officials here, who had long feared an outbreak against the Asiatics in Western Canada, but they have the greatest confidence in the ability of the Canadians to suppress any disturbances and protect aliens.

At the same time, the officials realize that a most serious problem has arisen, particularly as the feeling appears to be strongest against the subjects of Great Britain's ally, and that it requires the most careful handling, for whatever action is taken is likely to be resented either by the colony or by Japan.

The question has been under consideration for some time by the Imperial authorities, who have used their good offices on numerous occasions to prevent the enactment of anti-Japanese legislation by British Columbia. It is understood that the matter was discussed at length during the recent visit of the Colonial Premiers to London, Australia being as much opposed to the admission of Asiatics as are the Canadians. No steps were taken at the time, however, and the subject was allowed to lapse until the agitations were revived.

All the Cabinet Ministers are out of town, but the Colonial and Foreign Offices are seeking to obtain all the information possible on the subject of the Vancouver outbreak, with the view of taking some action, the nature of which is difficult to surmise.

The Times, whose American correspondent severely and repeatedly denounced the San Francisco hostility to the Japanese, is the only paper commenting on the demonstration against the Japanese and Chinese at Vancouver, B. C. The paper deplores that "it is not at present obvious how a permanent amelioration of the situation is to be effected," attributes the troubles entirely to labor union agitation, and ridicules the idea that a few thousand Japanese are likely to turn British Columbia or California into Mongolian provinces.

The Pall Mall Gazette is the only afternoon newspaper to express an opinion on the subject, and it says directly opposite, saying:

"The Asiatic makes his entry into Canada under the auspices of the great god of cheapness. He comes with an offer to take work at half the rate or less than paid for the white men's labor, an arrangement which none the less can be carried out on a basis which involves a great advance upon the state of remuneration enjoyed in his own country. In competition of this character the Caucausian believes, and all economic reasoning seems to support him, that his own standards of life are certain to be depleted and destroyed."

Not Wanton Depravity.

Continuing, The Pall Mall Gazette points out that the Bellingham and Vancouver outbreaks show "that popular animosities of the racial type are not necessarily the outcome of mere wanton, unprovoked depravity," adding: "It can scarcely occur to the home keeping Englishman how slight an expansive effort on the part of the swarming populations of the far east would suffice to swamp the western states and provinces of the American continent."

Referring to British Columbia, with only three per cent. of its territory populated, The Pall Mall Gazette remarks: "If an unrestricted flood of Asiatics were alloyed to occupy these vacant hospitable acres, it would require but a few years to produce an Oriental predominance in the fairest and richest possession of the British Empire, and, perhaps, deflect the whole course of its civilization and destiny."

In conclusion, The Pall Mall Gazette says: "The issue will not permit of indefinite procrastination. Failing exclusion, the situation demands an alternative policy that will promptly and efficiently circumscribe the dangers of so vividly realized by their prospective victims."

Chinese Buy Revolvers.

Vancouver, Sept. 10.—All Chinese domestic and mill workmen in Vancouver quit yesterday morning and announced their intention of staying in Chinatown until the riot trouble is over.

Chinese boys who sleep in their employers' homes were notified that they must leave immediately or they would be killed. Many instances of this threat being made are given.

When the hardware stores were opened yesterday morning, Chinamen swarmed the sidewalks and crowded the stores immediately. Hundreds of revolvers were sold within a few minutes, and the Chinese carried them by armfuls to Chinatown.

An hour later the police notified the stores to stop selling guns until the trouble was over.

Apolize and Pay.

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—The feeling in official circles in Ottawa is that Canada will have to apologise to Japan and pay for the damage done to Japanese property and for the personal injuries of Japanese in Vancouver. The outbreak is regarded as peculiarly unfortunate, as it took place at a time when the problem of limiting Japanese immigration to Canada had about been solved.

There is a feeling here that there has been too much said on the question of Japanese immigration, both by those opposed to it and by the champions of Japanese rights under the treaty, and that public opinion and prejudices have been unduly excited.

Hon. R. W. Scott, Secretary of State, said yesterday morning that the treaty between Japan and Canada, as ratified by Parliament at its last session, clearly specified that "the subjects of each of the two high contracting parties shall have full liberty to enter, travel or reside in any part of the Dominion, and possessions of the other contracting party, and shall enjoy full and perfect protection for their persons and property."

Mr. Scott noted that the treaty had been adopted by the Canadian Parliament after full and free discussion.

More Trouble Feared.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 10.—There were several arrests made yesterday arising out of Saturday night's riots. The police force is being added to, as further outbreaks are feared with the arrival this week of several ship loads of Orientals. These may, however, be landed at Victoria.

U. S. Sailors In Danger.

New York, Sept. 10.—A Tokio despatch to The Herald reports that, while the American cruiser Chattanooga was at Hakodate recently four of her men narrowly escaped injury at the hands of a mob. Two of the men had to swim for it, while the other two were rescued by the police.

Investigation by the ship's officers showed that one of the sailors had made an unprovoked attack upon a Japanese storekeeper, and the Japanese were exonerated.

WILL NEED MUCH WHEAT.

Shortage of Crops In Europe Will Demand Increased Imports.

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Canada's agent at Leeds, England, reporting to the Trade and Commerce Department, at Ottawa, says:

The wheat importing countries of Europe are likely to require 536,000,000 bushels this year, as against 448,000,000 last year. In France the crop is about the same as a year ago, and in Scandinavia a trifle bigger, but Germany, which last year took 68,000,000 bushels, will this year require 104,000,000 bushels; Belgium and Holland will need to import 68,000,000 bushels, and Italy about 48,000,000.

Austria-Hungary, instead of having a surplus, as last year, will require to import about 24,000,000 bushels, while the United Kingdom, which last year imported 174,000,000 bushels, expects this year to import 216,000,000 bushels.

Wellman Gives Up.

Tromsoe, Norway, Sept. 10.—According to Capt. Isachen, in command of the Norwegian Arctic expedition, which arrived here yesterday, Walter Wellman will probably return here at the end of September, abandoning the attempt to reach the pole in an airship for the present year.

Bishop of Chichester Dead.

London, Sept. 10.—The Bishop of Chichester, the Right Rev. Ern st Roland Wilberforce, D.D., died yesterday at Bembridge, Isle of Wight. He was born in 1840, and was a son of the late Right Rev Samuel Wilberforce, Bishop of Winchester.

Canada Will Arbitrate.

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—Canada, after negotiations with the Imperial authorities, has consented to refer the Canadian end of the Newfoundland fisheries dispute with the United States, to The Hague conference.

Caledon Victim Delirious.

Flesherton, Sept. 10.—The condition of Andrew Wilson, injured at Caledon on Tuesday last, was not so favorable yesterday. He was delirious at times, while at other times he lay in a stupor.

Fell Down Mine Shaft.

Newboro, Sept. 10.—John Waffle of Newboro was killed yesterday by falling down the main shaft of the Hamilton Mine in Burgess.

THE LEADER IN THE CITY

Mr. R. L. Borden Arrived Quietly From Cobourg at Noon—Features of the Local Entertainment

TO HAVE A RECEPTION

Mr. R. L. Borden, described by the Mail and Empire as "The next Premier of Canada," arrived in the city quietly for his meeting announced for to-night in the Grand Opera House. Last night Mr. Borden spoke in Cobourg, and left that town this morning, spending a few hours en route in Port Hope, until the departure of the train, arriving here at 11.40. At the lake town he was met by a deputation of the leaders of the Conservative party in Hope, and a section of the brass band was at the station as the train pulled out, and played "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem.

He and his party were met here by a few of the stalwarts and driven to the Oriental, where lunch was taken. At 3 o'clock, cabs were taken, and a drive around the city was enjoyed. The steamer "Rob Roy" was placed at the disposal of Mr. Borden and his party, and a trip over the lift lock formed a pleasant feature of the entertainment provided by the local supporters of Mr. Borden.

From 5 to 6 o'clock, Mr. Borden will hold a reception in the Young Conservative Club rooms, and to this function the public is invited. The mass meeting will be held at 8 o'clock.

There were ten applications for the position.

Mr. Wm. Avery was successful in being appointed janitor of the King Edward School at a salary of $450. For this position there were forty applicants.

Miss Carlyle of Peterborough was appointed as a supply teacher on the Public School staff at a salary of $400.

Mr. Alex. Haggart, K.C., of Winnipeg, is in the city to-day visiting friends. Thirty years ago Mr. Haggart was in the employ of County Magistrate Edmison as clerk, and since that time he sees many changes and all to the advantage of the city. To-day he is calling on several of the lawyers of the city and renewing old acquaintances. Mr. Haggart belongs to the same firm of legal men as Hugh Jno. MacDonald in Winnipeg.

MR. CHAIRMAN EYRES CHALLENGES FACTS OF DR. BINGHAM, M.H.O.

Says That He is Astray in The Alleged Facts Contained in His Letter.

DEPRECATES CONTROVERSY

Dear Sir,—In the Examiner last night I notice that Dr. Bingham, Medical Health Officer, attacks me for certain statements reported in your journal a few days ago. The doctor manifests a considerable degree of animus against me and launches into considerable abuse of me, personally. To all of this I have only to say that his statements are simply slanderous. His, so-called, facts upon which he bases them are not facts. Before putting any man's name before the public in the public press, Dr. Bingham should know that he has facts upon which to found his conclusions. If I were disposed to tell the doctor what many of the citizens of Peterborough think of him as Medical Health Officer, I might do it, but I refrain. This sort of controversy between the Medical Health Officer and the Chairman of the Board will not, I think, aid in making the business of the Board run smoothly. Before he writes again I would respectfully ask the doctor to be certain that he has facts upon which to base his statements.

Yours truly,
W. EYRES.

Apsley Runaway Results Disastrously For a Trio

Wheel Falls off the Buggy And Frightens the Horse—One Lady Sustains Severe Cut on the Head

OTHER TWO BADLY INJURED

Examiner Special.

Apsley, Sept. 11. — On Sunday night while driving home from church a distance of three miles, Misses Myrtle and Mildred and Master Russel Hales, had a very narrow escape. The wheel came off their buggy, throwing Miss Hales out. The other two managed to stay in for a while, but the horse became frightened and bolted, upsetting them both farther up the road. The horse collided with the vehicle in which was Miss Violet Whitmee, throwing her out and damaging the buggy. Mr. Fred Whitmee, who was just ahead, jumped out and managed to stop the horse.

With Mr. A. Downing he went back, picked the others up and conveyed them home. Mr. A. Downing then returned to the village for Dr. Bell. Miss Hales escaped with a bad shaking, but Miss Mildred sustained a very serious cut on the head and was badly bruised. Russel received a nasty knock on his head and his face and arm were badly skinned.

Church Union To Be Decided Upon in The Near Future

Important Meeting of Representatives of Canadian Methodists, Presbyterian and Congregational Churches.

TO TAKE REFERENDUM VOTE

Toronto, September 11. — Whether or not the Presbyterian, Methodist, and Congregational denominations throughout Canada will become united, will be decided by 125 delegates, representing the three denominations, at a convention which opened in the Metropolitan church this morning, and will last probably a week. This will be a final meeting, and it is probable that a union of the three bodies will be decided upon, but a referendum must be taken in order to have the action taken at the convention ratified by the various congregations. Delegates to the convention, representing the whole of the Dominion, rived in the city last night, and are registered at the various hotels.

There are fifty Presbyterian, fifty Methodist and twenty-five Congregational delegates, among whom are Judge J. G. Forbes, of St. John, N. B., Dr. Patrick, Dr. Bryce, Dr. Duval, Dr. Stewart, Dr. Sparling, Dr. Falconer, Dr. Sedgwick, Prof. Walter Murray, Dr. Evans and others.

G.T.R. Company Trying To Purchase More Land

Property Between Wolfe and Sherbrooke Streets is Being Negotiated For—Rumours that it was Bought not Correct

NEED OF MORE YARDS

It was rumoured about the streets to-day that the G.T.R. Company had purchased land on the east side of their tracks between Wolfe and Sherbrooke. The property referred to extends east about half way to Aylmer street and includes all the land between the vacant lot facing on Wolfe street north to the Hamilton property on Sherbrooke street. G. T. R. officials were in the city a day or so ago and the story seems to be substantiated. Speaking to one of the gentlemen who possesses some of the land which is reported bought, he stated that the company is negotiating for the purchase of his property but has not actually closed the deal.

It is known that company requires more yards and that the present track are daily taxed to their limit and that the company is trying to secure more land for that purpose. The general rumour stated that several changes were to be made around the freight sheds for the purpose of giving increased accommodation. Whatever is done it will soon be an absolute necessity for the company to purchase land for sidings.

CHINESES COOK'S STRIKE IS BECOMING SERIOUS AFFAIR

Examiner Special.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 11.—Everything was quiet in the Oriental quarter to-day, and there has been no further attempt to renew the anti-Asiatic rioting. No Japanese have returned to the lumber mills, which are closed down, but it is expected that they will re-open to-day.

The strike of the Chinese cooks bids fair to last longer. Restaurants are closed, and hotels, clubs and private families are making shifts without cooks.

DIFFERENCE IN WEIGHTS THE CAUSE

Of the Shortage in Weight of the Shearer Cheese

It now appears that the light-weight cheese which was brought to the market from Shearer factory, about two weeks ago, were not by any means made intentionally so. This morning the cheesemaker, Mr. J. J. Hogan, came into the city, accompanying the cheese from that factory which was for shipment, and together with other officials of Shearer's, supervised the weighing at the market.

Again did the scale here show that something must be wrong, and apparently that the factory weights did not compare with those at the market. Both have been tested by the Inspector, the former being pronounced correct last June.

To-day it was discovered that the weight used by the factory to guage the allowance for shrinkage, was 2 1-2 oz. lighter than the one used by the market clerk. This, therefore, seems to be the cause of the difference in weight shown two weeks ago, and to-day, by the two scales, and accounts for the shortage.

Mr. Hogan and all the other officials of the factory are, therefore, according to this morning's investigations, exonerated from any blame that may be attached to the reported shortage in cheese weights.

Undisputed Facts About Zutoo

Zutoo tablets are now recognized as being without doubt or question, the best and only safe remedy on the market for headaches and colds.

They have practically displaced all other cures, and are now the only one used to any extent.

Zutoo tablets not only cure headache and colds but, unlike many other remedies, do not affect the heart, nerves or stomach.

CIVIC APATHY AND STREETS

The Bell Telephone Company are entitled to great credit for the excellent condition in which they have left the streets upon which they have opened, and closed, trenches, for the placing of their system of underground conduits. They have, apparently, accepted the Examiner's invitation to emulate a rival company, in leaving streets they ripped up, in a first-class condition. It is a pleasure to the Examiner to record such things, for it is largely due to the imperfect, and slovenly, filling of trenches, that our streets are left in such an unsatisfactory condition. Not only are the mounds resulting from improperly filled trenches, left heaped high and soft, to be converted into mud holes at the first rain, but, as these openings are chiefly for putting in sewer services to private premises, the mound of rough earth constitutes a dam, and destroys the most important element in street construction and maintenance, drainage. The civic authorities have been told from time to time that good drainage is the first principle of good street building, and they must recognize its importance, as related to street trenches, for after being prodded and prodded by the Examiner, some action in the direction of preventing obstructions by the careless opening, and more careless filling, of trenches, was entered upon. Between two and three months ago, Aldermen Bradburn and Morrow moved a resolution, which was passed by the council, to the effect that any person, company, or corporation, proposing to open up the streets, for any sort of excavation, be required to get a permit from the city, and give a guarantee that the street so disturbed, should be restored to the same condition in which it was when work was begun. The principle of this resolution was embodied in the conditions of the permission given the Bell Telephone Company to instal its wire conduits. The company has faithfully observed its undertaking in this regard, and except for an occasional unevenness of surface here and there, it is hardly possible to notice the place where the lines of trench were opened and filled. The City Solicitor was instructed to prepare a bylaw to give effect to the resolution, but no action has been taken. As a result sewer trenches are being put in in the same careless manner as of yore. On Rubidge street, east side, at the head of Scott street, a sewer service was put in yesterday or the day before, and the filling done without a particle of tamping. The result is a big, rough mound of earth, rising about a foot above the street surface, and completely damming the gutter, and providing for a lake above the obstruction the first rain. This beastly heap of loose earth, will, either, in case of soft weather, make a mud heap, or, freezing, will aconstitute a stumbling block and stone of offence all winter. Had the man who opened this trench and filled it so imperfectly, any permit, and, if he had a permit, was there any inspection of his work, or any demand for compensation for the damage he has done to the street? If the Bell Telephone Company can fill in miles of trench so that no trace of the opening can be seen, after a few days' traffic, surely a few feet of sewer trench can be properly filled. We don't so much blame the man who puts in the service; he wants to do the work as cheaply, and make as much profit as possible, but the Board of Works, or other city body, that permits the destruction of our streets, the moment they are improved, and put in reasonable good condition, is almost criminally reprehensible. To spend money improving streets, and then to allow them to be ruined, is waste of money. Why, in the name of common sense, does not the city come to its senses and adopt some sort of system in dealing with our streets? Who is responsible for keeping the streets clear and clean, and for preventing them being injured? If a man dumped a load of earth alongside a pavement, and allowed it to remain there, he could be punished. Why not punish the aldermen, or others, who permit the same conditions to be created by the improper and slovenly filling in of trenches? Heaven knows we pay too much taxes to justify a single dollar being wasted to repair damages for sewer, or other trench, obstructions. Only a trifling amount of additional work, and time, are required to bring a sewer or other trench, when filled, level with the general surface of the street. When will aldermen become alive, and also awake?

CAUTION SUGGESTED

In yesterday's issue the Examiner called attention to the unwisdom of the City Council making so many expensive permanent improvements in the form of pavements, sewers and crossings in a period of money stringency, and consequently dull demand for debenture investments. In confirmation of this contention comes the action of the Railway and Municipal Board. In view of the numerous applications for approval of bylaws increasing the rate of interest on debentures the Board has issued the following statement upon the subject:—

"Speaking generally, we are not encouraging applications of this kind during the present stringency of the money market. We are of opinion that it is good policy for municipalities to postpone the construction of municipal improvements for some time until the monetary conditions have improved. The present stringency may only be a passing condition, which will right itself in a short time, and in that view it will be well for municipalities to borrow as little as possible at the present excessive rates of interest."

The advice thus tendered to municipalities is good advice, not only to municipalities themselves, but to individuals as well, but especially to the municipality of Peterborough. It would be wise to take into consideration the extent to which municipalities should be allowed to issue debentures for municipal improvements of a nature not particularly exacting or exigeant. The present stringency in the money market will probably continue for some time. It may be claimed that money is a little easier, but in spite of that fact, it will, perhaps, be some time before the conditions that have prevailed during the past five years will assume a normal phase.

It is questionable whether it is good business—a most expressive phrase—for a municipality to continue the practice of issuing debentures for municipal improvements and carry on the work by borrowing from the bank. It is also quite questionable whether it is legal, not to say prudent. A bank advancing money without debentures having been sold, and the money thus provided, takes considerable risk, and the council that authorizes the work to be done, and the liability incurred takes a similar risk. Should any ratepayer become desirous of making trouble, there seems to be ample warrant and opportunity in many municipalities throughout the country for such a course.

A NEW AMUSEMENT PLACE

A Toronto Man Purposes to Start a Vaudeville Theatre Here

That Peterborough is looked upon as a good city for men who make their living in by amusing people is shown by the number of entertainment places that are locating or have located in the city. A moving picture entertainment is already running, and also a one-cent vaudeville. The Edwards Amusement Company will, in a short time, open their handsome little five-cent theatre on George street.

Yesterday, still another gentleman in the same line of business was in the city looking for a suitable building in which to conduct a continuous vaudeville performance. The gentleman in question, who hails from Toronto, has all the equipment necessary for such an enterprise, including a stage and its fittings.

THE LIGHT FAILED TO DO ITS DUTY

City's Light Committee did Business in The Dark

The city's Light Committee had to transact some of its business in the dark last night. The committee was hard at work, when the electric lights suddenly went out, and the balance of the session had to be finished in the gloom. The city clerk and the newspaper men present took down the minutes as best they could by the aid of matches. Fortunately most of the business had been done before the light supply failed.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was thought to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses of from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous membrane of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir, — I notice in last evening's issue of your paper, a paragraph to the effect that the plans for the new Park street Baptist church have been received from Toronto. Are there no architects in Peterborough? If it is necessary to send to Toronto for architects, why not be logical in action, and send to Toronto for contributions to the Building Fund, to send to Toronto for a congregation, and have the church served by a Toronto pastor? These questions may be pertinent, as well as impertinent, but they are plainly suggested to any man who has a little local loyalty.

MIDDLE LIFE

A Time When Women Are Susceptible to Many Dread Diseases—Intelligent Women Prepare for It. Two Relate Their Experiences.

The "change of life" is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason.

Every woman who neglects the care of her health at this time invites disease and pain.

When her system is in a deranged condition, or she is predisposed to apoplexy, or congestion of any organ, the tendency is at this period likely to become active—and with a host of nervous irritations, make life a burden. At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness, inquietude, and dizziness are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was prepared to meet the needs of woman's system at this trying period of her life. It invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system.

For special advice regarding this important period women are invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., and it will be furnished absolutely free of charge. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women.

Read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound did for Mrs. Powless and Mrs. Mann:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"In my opinion there is no medicine made for women which can compare with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and you have no firmer friend in the Dominion than I am. 'At the time of change of life I suffered until I was nearly crazy, and was not fit to live with. I was so irritable, irrational and nervous that I was a torment to myself and others. I surely thought that I would lose my reason before I got through, when fortunately an old friend recommended your Vegetable Compound. I took it for five months and then off and on until the critical period had passed, and it restored me to perfect health. My advice to suffering women is to try your Vegetable Compound, and they will not be disappointed."—Mrs. E. Powless, Deseronto, Ont.

Another Woman's Case.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"As I owe my splendid health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I am very pleased to write and tell you my experience with it. I am the mother of three children grown to womanhood, and have safely passed the change of life, and feel as young and as strong as I did twenty years ago, and I know that this is all due to your woman's friend, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I used it before my children were born, and it greatly assisted nature and saved me much pain during the change of life, I took it off and on, for four years, and had but little trouble and sickness that most women have to endure."—Mrs. James K. Mann, 308 Bathurst St., Toronto, Canada.

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Powless and Mrs. Mann, it will do for other women at this time of life.

It has conquered pain, restored health, and prolonged life in cases that utterly baffled physicians.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds Where Others Fail.

A SHORT HISTORY

A Serious Case of Chronic Catarrh Gradually Overcome By Pe-ru-na.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

MR. ARTHUR TREMBLAY, 8 St. James street, Mont Pleasant, Que., Can., writes:

"About three years ago, catarrh in its most serious form assailed me.

"I consulted a specialist who prescribed medicines as constitutional treatment and a liquid to use locally.

"This gave me relief for a time, but soon afterwards the disease returned.

"I was then suffering very much, my appetite had left me and I was growing weaker.

"I had frequently read pamphlets regarding the cures made by Peruna, and although somewhat dubious as to its doing me any good, I decided to try a few bottles.

"I had not taken Peruna for more than two weeks before a marked improvement was perceptible.

"As I continued taking the remedy, the disease gradually disappeared and in a few months I was entirely rid of the nauseous malady."

A Section of Lightning System to be Changed

Council Will Ask Company to Put in Closed Arc Lamp System—Petitions For Lights Were Considered

THE COMMITTEE MET

At the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night, several requests for lights were considered. There was a petition from residents in the neighbourhood of Munro avenue and Knox street, asking for a light there.

The chairman stated that residents at the corner of McDonel and Harvey streets also wanted a lightt here.

Ald. Wilson wanted an incandescent lamp at the corner of Brock and Stewart streets.

Ald. Johnston favoured the granting of the lights asked for, as he thought they were needed.

Ald. Bradburn was of the opinion that before any petitions for new lights were granted, the committee should see that the lights already ordered were placed in position.

Ald. Johnston thought the time had come when a complete change in the lighting system should be made, and he believed that the company should be urged to change a section.

It was moved by the Mayor, seconded by Ald. Bradburn, that Mr. Larmouth of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, be invited to meet the committee with a view of having a section of the street lighting system changed to a closed arc lamp system.

A petition was received from ratepayers, asking that a hydrant be placed at the corner of Concession and Dufferin streets.

On motion of Ald. Bradburn, seconded by Ald. Morgan, it was decided to make application to the Water Commissioners for a hydrant at the spot named.

It was decided to change the light at the head of Queen street to a point over the middle of the street.

Educational Committee Talk of Canadian Club

Question is Brought Up And Discussed by Them at Y. M. C. A.—Open to all Interested

COMMITTEE IS APPOINTED

In yesterday's issue a proposal to form a Canadian Club in the city was mentioned. It appears that this question was first spoken of last spring, but that nothing then was done towards the formation of the club. However, the matter was taken up on Monday night at the meeting of the Educational Committee, of the Y.M.C.A., and some progress was made after it was discussed.

A committee consisting of Messrs. D. Hughes Charles, F D Kerr and J. E. Hodgson, B.A., was appointed to canvas the city with a view to determining how many of the literary inclined will be willing to join and assist in the maintenance of a Canadian Club.

This does not mean that the Y.M.C.A. has full control of the matter and in fact, a club if formed will not be closed to any in the city who wish to become members. The Y.M.C.A. building may be used as the home of the proposed organization, but it will admit any interested. The Educational Committee of the Y.M.C.A. are merely the promoters of the proposition and there is every reason to believe that it will be carried out to a successful issue.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE AT BARRACKS

On Account of Rain Had Small Attendance—Repeated To-Night

Owing to the inclement weather last night the illustrated lecture at the Salvation Army barracks was not as largely attended as desired, and Captain Hurd has decided to remain in the city over to-night, and give the same lecture this evening. The subject is "Rhoda, or the Gipsy Girl's Mission of Love," and is told by the captain in his entertaining manner and is illustrated by splendid views.

The story is told in the following synopsis: A wealthy lady loses her only child and daughter, and one day she meets a little gipsy girl, who closely resembles her own child. She wants to adopt her, but the mother is unwilling, even for twenty pounds. At last the gipsy father steals the child away and gives her to the rich lady for twenty-five pounds; his wife finds out that he had sold the child. Fourteen years later the little girl, grown to beautiful womanhood, by chance meets her mother, but, of course, does not recognize her. She was looking for alms, because her husband was ill. Rhoda heard the story and went to the gipsy's home. She told her foster mother that she suspected that she had found her parents. Excised, she determined to stay with her father, and while attending him caught a fever from him, and died. By her example the father was converted.

Captain Hurd will give his lecture to-night with appropriate music, and there should be a good crowd to hear him.

To Keep the Skin In Health

AOVID PORE-CLOGGING POWDERS AND CURE ALL SKIN IRRITATIONS AND ERUPTIONS WITH

Dr. Chase's Ointment

It is quite possible that, while you know of Dr. Chase'b Ointment as a cure for eczema psoriasis and the most severe forms of itching skin disease, you may have overlooked its value as a beautifier of the skin.

There are minor forms of skin trouble, such as rough, red, skin, chafing, chapping, pimples, blackheads, blotches, irritation, or poisoning from the clothing, etc., which disfigure and form a starting point for serious trouble.

A few applications of Dr. Chase's Ointment at such times not only remove these blemishes, but also restore the health and beauty of the skin, and positively prevent further development.

Miss C. Stanley-Jones, professional masseuse and nurse, 2-3 Simcoe street, Toronto, Ont., writes: "In my occupation as a nurse I have come across many cases in which Dr. Chase's Ointment has been used with extraordinary results. One case I recall was that of a child of sixteen months, who was in a bad way with scaly head. It was a really nasty case, causing the child to suffer very much and to be very troublesome. I persuaded the mother to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and in ten days the child was entirely cured.

"Another case was that of a lady who was greatly troubled with eczema on the face. The doctor was doing her with medicine, which was doing no good. In this case cure was effected in seven days with only one box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Both of these cures were lasting."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is delightfully pure and creamy, is pleasant to use, and is rapidly absorbed. It acts as a food for the skin, making it soft, smooth and velvety. By its soothing, antiseptic and healing properties it allays inflammation, relieves itching, and heals sores, wounds and ulcers; 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

ANOTHER DRIVER IS NEEDED

Fire Hall Matters Discussed by The Committee Last Night

A motion from Ald. Morgan to the effect that electric gongs be placed in the houses of the engineer and drivers of the fire department, at the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee of the City Council last night, brought up a problem that has been causing the committee much trouble for some time. In the discussion that followed it was shown that there were not always two drivers on duty at the firehall at night, although the engineer is there every other night. One of the committee expressed the opinion that the Board would have to hire another driver and have him kept permanently at the firehall. This will be needed, as a new hose and chemical wagon will be ready in a few weeks.

The motion in regard to the gongs was changed to read that the chairman should ascertain the cost of placing the gongs as required, and report. This amended motion carried.

His Worship replied that the court was the place for settling cases that had been prepared for the court. He wanted both parties to appear to-morrow morning at nine o'clock, when he would settle it himself.

It is a great mistake to imagine that the effects of piles are local, for as a matter of fact they sap the vitality of mind and body, and slowly lead to the ruination of health. Dr. Gray's Ultimatum To The City Board of Health

His Reply to the Demand of the Board of Health Requiring Him to Report Contagious Diseases---The Coroner's Verdict on the Subject---No Pay no Report

Yesterday the Sanitary Inspector of the city, on behalf of the Board of Health, it is assumed, notified the medical practitioners of the city that they are required to report all cases of contagious diseases, presumably to the Board of Health. Dr. Gray, who received the notice, has his opinions on the subject, and expresses his views on the matter as follows:—

"As the medical profession of the City of Peterborough have been notified and requested to report all cases of infectious diseases, it is impossible for the city to obtain this information from any other source under Heaven than from the medical profession.

The medical profession owes nothing and is under no obligation to any Government, City or Municipality under the sun; but, on the contrary it is persecuted and taxed by all these bodies to the last farthing for being in a position to give the information demanded of them.

The ability to give this informaton we, the medical profession, acquired by incessant night and day toil, and in acquiring this information some of us have spent a life-time, and not at the expense of any Government, City or Municipality, but at our own, and, as we have to bear our share of all other expenses in connection with the government of the city or municipality we are quite willing to bear our share of the expense of obtaining what the city has demanded and what it must pay for.

To be more explicit,—it is required of the City of Peterborough or any other municipality which wishes to obatin the information demanded, that they take active measures to provide for said payments, as all information and services will be withheld till they are paid for. In regard to medical attendance upon cases of contagious diseases the city is in duty bound to pay for such medical attendance, and also for medicine supplied, inasmuch as the patient is not responsible for his illness, which is due to the unsanitary condition of the city, and the responsibility is, therefore, placed upon the city itself. In view of these facts, if I furnish the information demanded, it will be done under the following tariff of fees which will be charged to the city:—

Tariff of Fees

For reporting a case of TYPHOID FEVER, $10.00.
For attendance on same till convalescence, per day, $2.00.
For medicine or prescription, extra, per day, $2.00.
For night visit for Typhoid Fever, $.400.
For reporting a case of DIPHTHERIA, and having report verified by the Provincial analyst, $50.00.
For daily attendance on same till convalescence, per day, $10.00.
For medicine or prescription, extra, daily, $2.00.
Night visits for diphtheria, $15.00.
For reporting a case of SCARLETINA, $10.00.
For attendance on same till convalescence, per day, $10.00.
For medicine or prescription, extra, daily, $2.00.
For night visit for Scarletina, $15.00.
For reporting a case of MEASLES, $10.00.
For attendance on same till convalescence, per day, $2.00.
For medicine or prescription, extra, daily, $2.00.
For night visit for measles, $4.00.
For reporting a case of SMALLPOX, $100.00.
For attendance on same till convalescence, per day, $100.00.
For medicine or prescription, extra daily, $5.00.

The above is my tariff of fees, and, as the time has come, when no person gives his services gratis, it is incumbent on the governors of the City of Peterborough, to comply with the same, or the information required will be withheld. Unless the necessary fees are forthcoming when required, the information demanded will not be supplied.

Should Brigade Try To Check Sawdust Fire

Fire, Water and Light Committee Took up the Matter Last Night---Neither of the Interested Parties Were Present---No Action Taken

Neither Mr. Larmouth nor Chief Rutherford were present at the meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night, although both had been notified of the meeting, and the committee decided to take no action in the complaint of Mr. Larmouth against the fire brigade for refusing to extinguish the recent fire in the sawdust pile. The question will be brought up at the next meeting, when both parties are expected to be present. The matter was discussed at some length, and there seemed to be a diversity of opinion among the aldermen. Ald. Morgan thought that the chief was justified in the action he had taken in reference to the matter, while Ald. Bradburn was of the opinion that the city would be liable in case of damage to property. The problem will be threshed out at the next meeting.

When the matter came up last night the chairman remarked that both Chief Rutherford and Mr. Larmouth had been asked to be present, but it was evident that they were not going to attend. He thought, however, that the committee should discuss the matter.

Ald. Bradburn thought that when the fire grew dangerous, the people should be given protection, and if they were not, and damage was done, the city might be held liable for damages.

Ald. Johnston said that there was a fire in the sawdust pile nearly all the time, and thought that the company should hire the engine and put out the fire.

Ald. Bradburn stated that Mr. Larmouth had informed him that he had kept a man working there all summer putting out fires, and that the only time an alarm was sent in was when the fire appeared dangerous.

The Mayor stated that he had received complaints from people living in the neighbourhood, on account of the smoke.

Ald. Morgan remarked that the sawdust pile was a nuisance, and that the Quaker Oats Company be asked to get rid of it. He thought that the Chief was right in taking the hose back to the hall to protect the city instead of a sawdust pile.

Ald. Johnston thought that the committee should take no action until the Chief and Mr. Larmouth had been heard in the matter.

Ald. Morgan remarked that the Chief said that he did not see that he should come before the committee, as he had done what he thought was right.

The Mayor said that that was none of the Chief's business. He was asked to give a report, and should do so.

Ald. Bradburn asked what position the city would be in if the brigade refused to put water on the fire and one of their power houses was burned down.

Ald. Duncan remarked that the city would be responsible in the matter.

The Mayor moved that Mr. Larmouth be informed that the matter would be taken up at the next meeting of the committee, and that the Chief be notified to be present without fail. This was seconded by Ald. Morgan, and carried.

Several old troubles of the committee were again in evidence last night. One of these was in connection with the fire alarm system recently installed, about which there have been complaints in several particulars.

Chairman Johnston stated that system, but would not report it as Foreman Pakenham had inspected the satisfactory until the gong in the firehall was in better shape. The fire alarm system had been gone over and everything was in first-class order except the gong in the firehall.

Foreman Pakenham explained that the gong did not always ring the right number from the box. Mr. Murdoch stated that the current was too weak.

The Mayor read from the agreement with the company, which he said provided that the company should instal a complete fire alarm system and have it in good order before May 1, 1907. He was of the opinion that the company was bound to give a tap bell that was in perfect condition.

Ald. Bradburn did not think that the city could take exception to the present bell under the contract.

Mr. Pakenham said that no two bells sounded alike.

Ald. Bradburn moved, seconded by Ald. Duncan, that the chairman be instructed to interview Mr. Doan of the Bell telephone Company in reference to the matter.

There were present Ald. Johnston, chairman; the Mayor, Ald. Duncan, Bradburn and Morgan.

The J. C Turnbull Co., extends a cordial invitation to the Ladies of Peterborough to attend their Semi-Annual Opening of Ready-to-Wear Millinery, Coats, Skirts, etc., on Thursday, Sept. 12th.

A CONVERTED JOKER IS SENTENCED

Confessed to Arson And is Given One Year in the Central Prison

HE BURNS A BOATHOUSE

William Alexander Booth Ross confessed his sins to the police as well as to his spiritual advisers, says the Toronto Star, and was given a year in the Central Prison for arson, the result of his misdeeds and the confession.

It came about this way—Ross was gathered in, among others, to the Salvation Army meeting in Societies Hall, Parliament street, Sunday night. There he decided to turn over a new leaf. In the course of his conversion testimony, he said he had set fire to a boathouse at the foot of Bathurst street last Thursday afternoon.

Advised to Tell All

"Better go to the police and tell them about it," counselled one of the S. A. soldiers. "You will never feel quite happy till you make things right with the man you injured by your wrong-doing."

Ross pondered these things in his heart. It so happened that the boathouse burned was the property of Police Constable William Young, of Lippincott street. To the policeman's house he hied himself yesterday afternoon, and told him all about it. Young wasn't quite decided whether or not the man was crazy. He did not, however, heap coals of fire on the incendiary's head, and send him away forgiven, but took him away to the St. Andrew's Market Police Station and there placed him in charge of Detective Moffatt.

He Pleads Guilty

The self-confessed prisoner was arraigned in the police court this morning.

"Guilty, sir," said Ross to Magistrate Dennison.

"What did you do it for?" asked the Magistrate.

"Just for fun."

"You think it funny?"

"I did theen; I don't now. I have a sick wife, and I hope you will be as lenient as possible. I deserve jail and I know I shall get it, but on Sunday I went to the Salvation Army on Parliament street and got right with God."

"I quite appreciate all that," said his Worship, "but arson is a most serious charge. You will go to the Central Prison for one year, hard labour."

Army Will Look After Them

Ross is of medium height, neatly dressed and a baker by trade. He was released from the jail in July after serving a term for theft. He is about twenty-eight years of age, and says his address was 79 Denison avenue.

The Salvation Army lassie who is in command of the Parliament street corps, Captain Brown, could not be seen by The Star this morning. It is understood that the Army will keep in close touch with the prisoner, Ross, and his family, until the term has expired.

JOHN R. DUNDAS WAS DISCHARGED YESTERDAY

His Honour Judge Weller dismissed John R. Dundas upon the charge of having forged the name of W. J. Johnston, to a cheque for $15, which was accepted by Mr. Charles Coleman. Dundas pleaded guilty yesterday, through his counsel, Mr. G. W. Hatton. His Honour decided to give Dundas a chance to reform himself, and had him promise to return to the court on November 12th, when His Honour will hear how he has kept his promise to lead an industrious and honest life. Mr. R. E. Wood represented the prosecution.

JEWS PRAY BY THE WATER'S EDGE

Unique Ceremony on Their New Year—Wear no Boots on Day of Atonement

On Monday last the Hebrew New Year began, and the three families of local Jews, together with a number of their friends, celebrated in Peterborough. No work of any kind was done to desecrate the opening of the year. The unique ceremony was performed on Monday of praying for the mercy of the waters to preserve those on the sea. The Hebrews here conducted the ceremony on the banks of the Otonabee at the end of Simcoe street. To assist in the services, Mr. Jno. Lastar, a brother of Mr. B. Lastar, and Mr. J. Book, were brought in from Toronto, as there was not a sufficient number here to carry on the service.

Wednesday of next week is known as the "Day of Atonement" to the Jews, and they fast from 5 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon to 7 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, and during those 26 hours they wear no shoes, but go in their stocking feet. The day is considered a very solemn one, and the Hebrews spend the time in fervent prayer.

This occasion is the first in the history of Peterborough that the Jews have solemnized the beginning of the New Year, so that their colony is gradually growing.

PETERBOROUGH PEOPLE WHO WERE ILL IN TORONTO

Were Unknown to Local Man Who Saw Them

A Peterborough gentleman returned from the last days of the Toronto Exhibition, and told of two accidents which happed to people who claimed this city as their home. A lady fell off a Yonge street car near the corner of Queen street, and fractured a bone in her wrist. She said she came from Peterborough, but the gentleman did not recognize her. At the Union Station a man took suddenly ill and had to be removed to the General Hospital. He said he was from Peterborough, but looked like a foreigner to this country. Both parties were unknown to the local young man who chanced to see them.

Insure Against Serious Colds

Of the many forms of insurance probably that which protects you against the serious results of colds is the most valuable at this time of the year, when so many are becoming victims of la grippe and pneumonia. By the prompt use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine you can keep the loose, prevent further development of the cold and cure it in a few days.

FISHING IS REPORTED GOOD AT CHEMONG

Mr. Harry Long returned this morning after spending a few days at Chemong Park. Mr. Long states that the fishing in Chemong Lake has not been better this season. Many catches, and good ones, too, are being made, the only trouble being that there are not enough residents at the park to appreciate the good news. This week Mr. Long himself captured three nice lunge, and two of them were landed in one day.

The season at the park is not yet over, although the cottagers and tourists are moving home rapidly. A number of visitors are expected at the Park Hotel towards the end of the week.

We have made a special purchase of $3,000.00 worth of rugs, most of which are imported from European markets at prices a great deal below the usual market price. FEWER WEDDINGS THAN USUAL IN SEPTEMBER

So Says Local Liveryman—Falling off in Nuptial Knots

Compared with last year there is a great dearth in the number of weddings which have taken place in the city during the first part of the month of September. According to a livery man who does a considerable business in the cab line when the season for tying the "nuptial knot" is on, there are fewer weddings this year than last.

"Why, this time last year," he told a reporter, "I had about eight weddings while I have had only two in September this year."

The cab man could not explain the reason of this. So far as he could discover the other liverymen have not had as many as customary and apparently there is not the usual activity in the marriage line that was expects during the month of September.

DEAN O'CONNOR WAS BURIED

First White Child Born in Peterborough Brought Here For Burial After His Death in Marysville

On the arrival of the 5.33 G.T.R. train yesterday afternoon, the remains of the late Dean O'Connor were brought to the city, and from the station the funeral was conducted, interment taking place in the Roman Catholic cemetery. Father Galvin and Rev. Father O'Leary. The pall-bearers were Messrs. B. Morrow, H. Phelan, James Dolan, H. LeBrun, J. E. Hayes and L. M. Hayes.

The funeral procession was a large one, a great many persons gathering to pay their respects to the memory of the departed.

The older residents of Peterborough will remember the late Dean O'Connor, who bore the distinction of being the first white child born in Peterboorugh, his birth taking place in the house now occupied by Mr. J. P. Shevlin.

A PLEASANT DANCE IN OTONABEE

Delightful Evening Spent Recently at Home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Carey

A very pleasant time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Carey, near Drummond Station, on Monday night, when between thirty and forty persons enjoyed themselves. The merry dance was continued till the wee small hours. Between 11 and 12 o'clock a splendid supper was served, during which Mr. Chas. Lewis favoured the gathering with a song. The music was provided by Messrs. Hynes and Quinlan, while Mrs. Jas. Powers presided at the organ. Mr. Jas. Powers was an efficient floor manager. Mr. McGillen and Mr. Maloney pleased the gathering with Irish dances.

BANK CLERKS ARE BEING TRANSFERRED

Four Members of the Bank of Montreal Staff Leave the City

The changes in the Bank of Montreal here, by which the staff will all occupy the old Ontario Bank building, makes it necessary to reduce the staff, and as a result, four of the local clerks have received notice of their removal to other places.

Mr. J. H. Sawers will go to the bank's branch in Deseronto.

Mr. F. N. Merritt has been transferred to the Cornwall branch.

Mr. E. L. Wilmot will go to Millbrook, and Mr. T. O. Hawthorne to Goderich.

All of these gentlemen have many friends in Peterborough who will regret that they are severing their connection with the city. They leave on Friday.

IRON RAILS MELTED BY WIRES

High Voltage Wires Fell and the Lights Were Out

While the wind storm was raging last night it blew down two high voltage wires of the Peterborough Light and Power Company on Townsend street, just where the G.T.R. tracks cross the street. To the west of the tracks there is a large willow tree, and the wires passed between the branches. The strong wind blew the two wires to the ground, leaving them stretched over the tracks, causing a short circuit. People who happened to be near say that the flashes at the track, in colour and brilliance, had lightning put in the shade, and for a time, until the power was shut off, the locality was lit up like day by the intermittent flashes. The result to the rails is that one can see grooves in them where the wires made their contact.

The affair happened just before a train passed the spot, but the electricity had been shut off. Otherwise there may have been serious results, and, even by the mere falling of the wires, had anyone been underneath them, there might have been a sadder story to relate to-day. This proves that every precaution should be taken when the wires are placed through or near trees.

WEDDING BELLS.

PUFFER-CORNISH

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Andrew's manse at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when Miss Lillian Maud Cornish, niece of Mrs. Thos. Sharpe, 140 London street, was united in marriage to Mr. Elmer Puffer of Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Duff in the presence of a few intimate friends.

The bride, who was attended by her cousin, Miss Mabel Sharpe, city, wore a neat brown travelling gown. Mr. Will Sharpe, the bride's cousin, was best man.

At the conclusion of the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Puffer left on the 4.48 train for Toronto, where they will reside.

The bride formerly lived in Port Hope, but has lived in the city for the past two years, and has made many friends here.

WOMAN PAY MORE

Why Insurance Companies Discriminate Against the Gentle Sex

If one is to believe the medical examiners the reason a woman pays more for the privilege of life insurance is that she is much more commonly a victim of indigestion and stomach troubles, and the fatal ailments that spring from these causes.

It is not the acute attacks of disease that influence the insurance examiners alone, but the constant feelings of weakness, headache, indigestion and stomach troubles. These things, physicians say, kill more people than many of the serious diseases.

For curative power in all stomach troubles nothing else is as safe yet effective, nothing else can be so thoroughly relied upon to relieve all troubles of indigestion, as Mi-o-na. It is unlike any remedy heretofore known; it is not a mere digestive tablet; it strengthens and restores to natural action of the stomach and bowels, and makes a complete cure in even the worst forms of stomach troubles.

Mr. Madill sells Mi-o-na for 50-cent boxes under a guarantee to refund the money unless it does all that is claimed for it.

Bowel Troubles

Liver pills, cathartics, mineral waters, often make Constipation worse. They merely irritate the bowels and force them to move—stop taking purgatives and the bowels become "tight" again.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the one certain cure for Constipation because their action is upon the liver, "Fruit-a-tives" are a liver tonic. They stimulate the secretions of bile by the liver, this bile causes the bowels to move in the natural, regular way and completely cures Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives are fruit juices with tonics and antiseptics added. In "Fruit-a-tives" one atom of bitter replaces one atom of sweet in the fruit juices, forming a new compound which is many times more active, medicinally, than the fruit juices could possibly be. 50c. a box—$2.50 for 6 boxes. Consul Interviews Sir Wilfrid Laurier—Earl Grey Expresses Regret—Japan Not Alarmed at Situation—Solution at Hand—Press Comment Dispassionate — People Hostile—Asks For Troops.

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—Japanese Consul-General Nosse received yesterday morning the following telegram from Consul Morikawa, at Vancouver: "About 10.30 last night (Monday) the rioters set the Japanese primary school on fire, but the building was saved from destruction by the Japanese. I at once interviewed the mayor at the police station, and made demands to call out the militia whenever necessary."

Another message reads:

"Both the mayor and the police authorities are doing their best to keep vigilance by specially patrolling the Japanese section with mounted police. The principal citizens of the city, exceedingly regretting the occurrence of this disturbance, are meeting to take the best measures to restore order and peace.

"The mayor is to call the City Council to-morrow to discuss plans for the speedy restoration. Just now (10 p. m. Monday) the rioters, numbering from 600 to 700, were marching towards the Japanese section, but were dispersed by the police force. The number of arrests since the night before last have been over twenty."

Brighter Prospects.

Consul-General Nosse presented the telegram to Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

"All that I am doing," said Mr. Nosse, "is to present to the Premier the information of the disturbances as it reaches me. For the rest I leave to the good sense of the British and Canadian Governments, who have always treated us fairly. I am satisfied that they will do so in future, and that our people will have the protection of the Canadian law."

Kishi Iwchief of the Japanese Bureau of Commerce, who has arrived at the coast to look into the whole question of Japanese immigration, will proceed to Ottawa next week with the object of discussing the existing difficulties with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Japanese authorities.

The feeling prevails here that if further outrages can be prevented it will not be long before an agreement will be reached with the Japanese Government limiting the number of new arrivals from Japan to fifty per month, or thereabouts.

Even Macpherson Is Pleased.

There were about a dozen press correspondent who interviewed R. G. Macpherson, M. P., after he and W. H. Gallihar had seen the Premier upon the Japanese invasion of the Pacific Coast.

"The solution of the question is at hand," said the member for Vancouver in a very cheerful frame of mind.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier," continued Mr. Macpherson, "has been actively engaged on this question since he has returned from England, and I am convinced, as I have already said, that a solution is at hand. I had a most satisfactory interview with the Premier; you can say that I deprecate any act of lawlessness. I fully realize that such conduct makes the question all the more difficult to settle. We have no desire to interfere with the good feeling that exists between Canada and Japan as two nations, and I do not think that Japan has any desire to disregard our feeling. That being the case I anticipate a satisfactory solution of the whole question, although it has had its serious aspects."

Influx Exaggerated.

The influx of Japanese is not nearly so great as the despatches from British Columbia would indicate. For the seven months ending July last the total arrivals of Japanese in British Columbia were 4,121, but of this number 1,147 were in transit for United States ports and 429 were merchants and others who had been in Canada before. The total arrivals of actual immigrants at British Columbia ports was, therefore, only 2,545 up to the end of July. Figures for the month of August are not yet available.

The wholesale purchase of firearms by Japanese and Chinese yesterday was stopped by assurances made to the Japs by Consul Morikawa; nor do the Chinese place any reliance in the statements of the police.

City Solicitor Cowan has ordered all hardware and sporting dealers to stop selling to Celestials. Four large boxes of arms, purchased from different firms in New Westminster, were seized by the police and taken to the police station, where they are now held.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 11.—Steamer Monteagle arrived here last night with 1,164 Asiatics, all booked for Vancouver. She will leave Victoria at midnight and endeavor to land passengers before it is generally known in Vancouver. The list includes 901 Hindoos, 149 Chinese, 114 Japanese.

Earl Grey's Regrets.

Ottawa, Sept. 11.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier wired to Mayor Bethune of Vancouver to the effect that the Governor-General regretted the attacks upon the subjects of the friend and ally of the King, His Highness the Emperor of Japan. He trusted reparation would be made to the injured and the offenders punished.

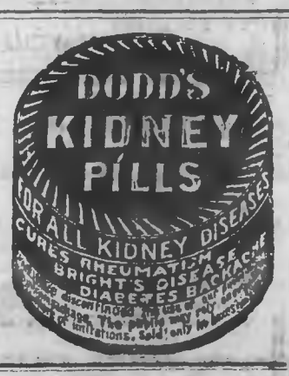
Will Improve Your Figure.



Tokio, Sept. 11.—The accounts of the demonstrations at Vancouver, published in the Tokio evening papers, caused no excitement. The people, like the Government officials, regard as foolish the idea of a troublesome complication. A few of the morning papers discussed the matter dispassionately.

The Azhai points out the uselessness of mob violence and cautions the Japanese against retaliation in kind. It says that the Canadian Government undoubtedly will take measures against similar regrettable affairs, and concludes:

"Retaliation will not rectify. Our treaty with Great Britain extends to Canada, and our treaty with the United States will be revised in 1911."

Other newspapers say that the affair is regrettable.

A previous despatch from San Francisco, saying that Ishii was stoned and forced to take refuge in an hotel, is regarded as the most serious feature of the affair, but this report is not confirmed by the Foreign Office.

The Japanese press and officials generally show no disturbance over the immigration question, and it is conceded in official circles here that the matter will be ultimately settled satisfactory, although sporadic outbreaks are expected.

The Japanese officials decline to say what steps, if any, have been taken in the Canadian trouble, pending further information.

The Foreign Office is not disturbed by the Vancouver affair, and is quite confident that everything will be done to protect the Japanese.

The Foreign Office has received a despatch from the Japanese consul-general at Ottawa, saying that the Canadian Government will express its regret for the occurrence at Vancouver, and take steps to prevent further trouble.

An official of the Foreign Office said to the Associated Press: "We have the utmost confidence in the Canadian Government, as we also have in that of America."

Nothing Official.

London, Sept. 11.—Neither the Colonial Office nor the Foreign Office has received official information respecting the anti-Asiatic riots at Vancouver, B. C. Two long despatches have been received at the Japanese embassy from Canada. The Colonial Office directors say they do not expect any communication from Ottawa on the subject, and that while the event is greatly regretted, the Imperial authorities are sure the matter can be amicably settled between the Japanese officials and the Canadian Government.

The Real Reason.

London, Eng., Sept. 11.—The News says the way of securing peace in Vancouver is to attack the trouble not on racial but on economic grounds. Anger against the yellowman arises, not from the fact that he is yellow, but because he is cheap. He, from the industrial viewpoint, is a blackleg. Let him come in as a free man, but only with loyalty to his class, not as a tool sweater.

Supreme Struggle.

London, Sept. 11.—The Daily Mail prints an interesting sensational article by Hamilton Fyfe, who is evidently familiar with the Pacific coast countries of America, and the Orient, and who sums up the incident by saying:

"The wonder is that it has not happened before."

He says that California and British Columbia have the same problem to puzzle over and agrees with Dr. Goldwin Smith, that "before many years there must be a supreme struggle between Europeans and Asiatics for supremacy on the Pacific coast."

OVERCOME BY GAS.

Buffalo Man Meets Death Trying to Rescue Others.

Buffalo, Sept. 11.—In trying to rescue two fellow-workmen from a tank filled with sulphide of hydrogen gas at the Buffalo chemical works yesterday afternoon Arthur J. Sweeny was overcome by the fumes and died. Wm. Sweeny, his son, in an attempt to rescue the father was overcome and was removed to a hospital, where he was still unconscious at a late hour last night. The two men who were in the tank at first were John Kley and William Clahan. When finally taken out they were both unconscious and may die. Kley and Clahan were sent into the tank to repair a break. The tank had been thoroughly washed out, it was supposed, before the men entered, but enough of the sulphuric acid remained in it to overcome them.

FELL DOWN DEEP SHAFT.

Young Miner Meets Tragic End—Dropped 135 Feet.

Brockville, Sept. 11.—Hurled to death down the shaft of a mica mine near Westport was the fate of John Waffle, a young man 25 years of age, residing with his father at Bedford Mills.

He was being brought to the surface in a bucket, which collided with a ragged rock, projecting from the side near the top of the shaft. The bucket toppled over, throwing Waffle to the bottom, 135 feet. He was mangled almost beyond recognition. Every bone in his body was broken. The coroner has opened an inquest.

Canneries Close.

Kingston, Sept. 11.—The canning factories along the Bay of Quinte have had a poor season; and most of them have either closed or will soon do so. There have been a big shortage in the yield of corn and tomatoes, and the canners will not be able to fill their contracts. An advance in price of canned goods may be looked for.

THE BRIDGE WILL BE FINISHED

Disaster at Quebec Will Set Work Back Two Years.

LOSS LESS THAN EXPECTED

Government Commission Still Engaged in Hearing Evidence—Inspectors Tell How Work Was Examined—Watched Driving of Rivets—Powers Over the Builders—Seven More Bodies Found.

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—David Reeves, president of the Phoenix Bridge Co., said yesterday, that, although the enquiry into the concern's loss as a result of the fall of the Quebec cantilever bridge had not been completed, he did not believe that the loss would be one-fourth as large as was at first supposed.

Other officials declared that the work of rebuilding the bridge would be continued if the Canadian Government did not object.

"Several weeks must elapse before any conclusion as to the cause of the accident can be reached," said one of them. "However, I can say that it will take two years of hard work to reach the stage of completion at which we stood when the accident occurred."

Quebec, Sept. 11.—Seven bodies of victims of the bridge disaster, were picked up in the river yesterday. Five of them are said to be McNaughton, Couture, DeLisle, Johnson and French.

At yesterday afternoon's sitting of the bridge enquiry, Mr. Milliken continued his evidence, testifying that he was daily on the works with the foreman, and also inspected on Sundays during the absence of others.

Mr. McClure, assistant to Mr. Hoare, the Quebec Bridge Co.'s engineer, described his methods of inspection and said he watched the driving of all pins. In answer to Mr. Holgate, he said he could not stop the work on account of anything being unsatisfactory, but if such an occasion had arisen he would have reported the matter to Mr. Hoare. Mr. Kinloch, the inspector of material at the yards, under Mr. Hoare, for the Quebec Bridge Co., made weekly reports to the consulting engineer, Theodore Cooper of New York, who could stop the work whenever he deemed it necessary. He could not say whether or not Mr. Hoare had that authority.

C. H. Kinloch, inspector, testified that he reported to Mr. Hoare, and that he was supposed to see that the iron was in good shape before it went into the bridge. He inspected it as to workmanship when it arrived from the yards by cars. That he found wrong was trivial. He said he really had no jurisdiction over the men except by taking the matter up with Mr. Hoare or through the foreman. If he had found rivets not properly driven he would have had them cut out and the work done over again.

Judge Scores Police.

St. Catharines, Sept. 11.—At a meeting of the police commissioners, Chief Parnell reported that P. C. Loosemore had been picked up on King street in the morning in an intoxicated condition.

Judge Carman strongly censured the local force, saying: "Things have come to a pretty pass when everyone in the city knows the constables are good for nothing, and it is up to us to reorganize it. This man is not the only one on the force who has been drinking continuously. All the men are good for is to catch boys."

Loosemore was discharged, and Wm. Goff of Beamsville was put on for a month's trial.

Railway Escapes Liability.

Orangeville, Sept. 11.—By the death of Robert Carr of Shelburne from injuries received in the Caledon disaster, the railway escapes liability. He left neither parent, wife nor child.

Nineteen Days' Strike Over.

New York, Sept. 11.—After being on strike for 19 days, the meat wagon drivers employed by the Wholesale Butchers' Employers' Association have returned to work.

Best Game in History Of The Midland League

Match Between Peterborough and Port Hope Saturday---85c Gives You an Afternoon on the Lake, a Great Ball Game and a Chance to See the Prettiest Town in Canada

The biggest crowd that ever saw a ball game in the Midland League will undoubtely be present on Saturday afternoon when Port Hope and Peterborough clash in the championship final at Donegan Park, Cobourg. The best team that ever represented Peterborough will meet the best that ever wore the Port Hope colours, on the fastest diamond of the Midland League. If all those conditions combined don't make the contest the best ever played in the League, then the dope has all gone wrong. The cheap rate arranged by the local ball club for the occasion makes it possible for everyone to take in the game and there will no doubt be a big crowd with the boys on Saturday. If you are a fan you cannot afford to miss the fastest game of the year. It is cheaper to go then to stay at home with such a cheap rate. It is likely that Port Hope will be strengthened by more imports for the occasion, although the matter is being kept secret. There are a couple of places that might be strengthened but the team is very strong as it is and with the weak spots filled up will be a hard aggregation to beat. Clements will be on the rubber for Peterborough and if he pitches the ball he did last week the game should go Peterborough's way without trouble. A special train will leave Peterborough at 1.30 on Saturday afternoon and returning will leave Cobourg at 7.30, giving excursionists from here a chance to see what its citizens call the prettiest town in Canada. The fare has been placed at at 85c. return, one of the cheapest trips to Cobourg ever held from this city. Even to those for whom baseball has no attraction the opportunity of spending Saturday afternoon in the town on the lake should appeal with some force.

TWO DISTRICTS IN THE SENIOR SERIES

Peterborough is Grouped With Kingston and Brockville

The officers of the O.R.F.U. are watching the new football union developments closely, and as soon as the result of the next meeting is known a meeting of the executive will be called to proceed with the season's work. The officials of the Ontario Association do not anticipate any evil results from the formation of the new union, as the O.R.F.U. senior series will not be injured in any way. The senior series will be maintained, and in a stronger manner than it has been for some years. The series will be composed of six clubs, divided into east and west. The eastern district will be composed of Peterborough, Kingston and Brockville or Gananoque, while the Toronto Victorias, Dundas and London will form the western district.—Mail and Empire.

If you know a stranger in the city who is interested in the game bring him along with you. Everybody will be made welcome.

Now that Bill Crowley has consented to manage the team more interest in the game is being displayed and the prospects for a winning aggregation are very bright.

In Temper From a Bad Liver

Caryle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. Nothing makes one feel more gloomy and discouraged, than liver complaint and consequent biliousness and dyspepsia and nothing so promptly and thoroughly sets the liver right and overcomes these ailments as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the great family medicine.

FLANAGAN'S TOSS BROKE A LEG

Walsh, an Official, Felled by 56 lb. Shot Hurled Into the Crowd

THE RECORD ALSO BROKEN

Jamestown, N. Y., Sept. 11th. — While the sixteen pound hammer-throwing event was in progress at the national championships recently, J. J. Walsh, of the Pastime Athletic Club of New York, an A. A. C. official, was struck with the lead ball of a hammer and knocked to the ground. John J. Flanagan, the athlete of the Irish American A. C., was making the last throw when the wire handle of the hammer broke. The ball shot through the air and hit Walsh, fifteen feet away, on the right leg, half way between the knee and ankle. The bone snapped with a clip that could be distinctly heard on the grand stand. Walsh attempted to rise, but the broken bone doubled under him. He was attended by a physician and taken to his hotel. Flanagan won the event easily, beating his field, including Matt McGrath, of the New York A. C.

WAS HONOURED BY THE C. L. S. TEAM

Mr. Jos. Dwyer Who is Coming to Peterborough Recipient of Presentation

The other evening a pleasant affair took place in the rooms of the Catholic Literary Society, when Mr. Jos. Dwyer, who has all summer acted as manager and trainer of the society's ball team in the Town League, was presented with a handsome shaving set and smoking outfit as a token of the boys' appreciation of his valued services and his never fatiguing interest in their work on and off the field.

President J. Rogers called the meeting to order, and after referring briefly to Mr. Dwyer's great work for the hockey and ball teams, he was followed by Ven. Archdeacon Casey, R. Kylie, R. Spratt, R. J. Bagley, T. Burke, J. Fleury, J. Gillogly and others, each of whom made reference to the loss the society was about to sustain through Mr. Dwyer's departure, and the difficulty that would have to be faced by the athletic bodies of the society in securing as capable and popular a trainer. All joined in wishing the recipient of the gifts every success in his new home on the banks of the Otorabee.

Mr. Dwyer made a brief but feeling reply, expressing his regret at leaving the good old town and comrades, but the change was to his own advantage. He thanked the hockey and ball teams for their loyal support—whatever success they had attained was the result of their earnest endeavours to excel by fair means.

Mr. Dwyer has secured an excellent position in the Peterborough Shovel Works, and will remove his family to that city in the near future.—Lindsay Post.

MID WEEK MARKETS ARE GROWING IN SIZE

Plums Are The Chief Article Offered—Green Gages at 10c per Quart

The mid-week market would have been better this morning but for the downpour of rain in the early hours, which made the roads rather muddy. However there were a number of loads of plums, and other fruits, which were in good demand, and were disposed of rapidly.

Blue plums sold to-day at three quarts for 25 cents; and the green gages at 10 cents straight. Pears were offered at 30 cents and 40 cents per peck, and crab apples at 15 cents per peck. Hay is still selling at $18 and $19 per ton, according to the quality.

The Wednesday morning market during the fall promises to be better than usual, and if purchasers only come for goods, the farmers will supply them.

VALUABLE HOUNDS ARE BEING SHOT; HUNTERS MAD

Several gentlemen in the city who take an interest in hunting and devote considerable time to the sport, are indignant at the shooting of several valuable hounds in the country by unknown parties. When the dogs take the run they do not always return with the hunters, especially in the woods in the neighbouring township. Mr. H. Larocque has a number of hounds, and among them a black one, which he prized very highly. It was out for a run not long ago, and left to come home, but failed to show up. Mr. Larocque heard that it was lying dead in North Monaghan, about two miles from the city, and it was ascertained by the owner that the report is true. Another gentleman lost his hound and he is at a loss to know what has happened to it, but believes that it has suffered the same fate. The owners do not know who the parties guilty of this mean trick are, and it was suggested that farmers may have killed them with or without provocation. The hunter said that it was more likely that other city fellows did the deed, and if they can be found out they will be sorry for it.

If your system needs toning up, take Miller's Compound Iron Pills. Sold by W. Madill.

Conservative Leader Addressed Gathering in The Opera House

Mr. R. L. Borden's Speech Last Night Was Characterized by a Reply to Mr. Aylesworth's Statements—Declares He Used Clean Methods.

MEET HIM ON PLATFORM

The Lesser Lights Carried Off The Honours Last Night—Mr. Bergeron Was Funny—A Demonstration Without Enthusiasm.

An audience which numbered possibly in the neighbourhood of 800 or 1,000 persons listened with patience—and it must be confessed that it required considerable—to Mr. R. L. Borden's declaration of what he termed the Conservative platform, last night, in the Grand Opera House. There were other features to the evening's programme which, if the truth were told, proved more entertaining and interesting than the address of sixty minutes' duration of the Conservative leader, Mr. Bergeron's Gallic English and his happy epigrams being among them.

Local Conservatives are unfortunate in their demonstrations. Last night was one not conducive to enthusiasm. The rain had a depressing effect, or was it a lack of enthusing inspiration in the leader himself? At any rate it was a quiet and well-behaved crowd which heard the Conservative "Big Guns" last night. It must be admitted that it's hard to become enthusiastic over Mr. Borden. His style, quiet, subdued and serious, does not lend itself well to outbursts of feeling. With Mr. Bergeron it's different. He was funny, and the audience liked him for it. They enjoyed his humour-our sallies and were glad he was there to cheer them up after the sixty minutes of solid oratory.

The feature of Mr. Borden's address was his refutation of the statement attributed to Mr. Aylesworth that if the Conservative leader's election petition came to trial evidence would be produced which would unseat him and disqualify him for eight years for occupying a seat in the House of Commons. Mr. Borden declared that he was innocent of wrongdoing in his election, and, as proof of this fact stated that he had voluntarily appeared before the judge and had answered every question which had been put to him. The question of the state-ownership of railways and other public utilities was dealt with at some length by Mr. Borden; and the re-organization of the Railway Commission and the enlargement of its scope of work were measures advocated.

In addition to Mr. Borden and Mr. Bergeron, Mr. A. Claude Macdonnell, of South Toronto; Col. H. A. Ward, of Durham and Col. Sam Hughes, of Victoria, were speakers. A number of local Conservatives occupied seats on the stage, among them being Mr. T E Bradburn, M.P.P.; Mr. Jas. Stevenson, ex-M.P.; Mr. J A Sexsmith, of Belmont, defeated candidate for East Peterborough; Mr. C L Owen, of Campbellford, Conservative candidate for the bye-election in West Northumberland; Mr. W H Moore. Reeve Thompson, of Hastings; Joshua Smithson, Otonabee; J W Garvin; L M Hayes, F H Dobbin; R B Rogers; H O Winch, F Adams, Ald. Tovey; R M. Waddell; Dr. Coughlin, Bellevile; A O Langley, Lakefield, H. C. Strickland and others.

In opening the meeting Mr. Jas. Kendry, ex-M.P., who occupied the Evangelists' "Union" The Newest Organized Labour

Canadian Association of Evangelists Formed in Toronto—Rules and Regulations are Published

HOW ABOUT WAGES?

Examiner Special.

Toronto, Sept. 12.—The evangelists have formed a "union," and may follow the example of the Colorado Preachers' Union, which affiliated with the Trades Council. The new organization, notice of which is contained in the Christian Guardian of this week, will be known as the Canadian Association of Evangelists. It will be inter-denominational, the evangelists from all the churches being admitted, provided they can comply with the rules of the organization, which, however, are not given publicity. Those desiring admission to the union, however, must, it is understood, subscribe to certain regulations for the government of the conduct and procedure of religious revivals before they can be admitted to the association. A committee of credentials has been appointed to pass on all applications for membership.

The officers of the new association are:—
President—Rev. J. E. Hunter.
Secretary—Rev. W. Meikle.
Treasurer—Rev. A. H. Ranton.
Executive Committee—Messrs. Will Pugsley, J. McD. Kerr and Walter Russell, with the officers, members ex-officio.

Engineer Took on Insurance And Was Killed Next Trip

Accident Near Ottawa on C. P. R. Last Night—Engine Struck a Ballast Car — Engineer Blackburn Killed.

TRAINMEN WERE INJURED

Examiner Special.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—Ottawa auxiliary trains have gone to Plantagenet, near here, where, late last night, on the C.P.R., a train of empty coaches being taken to Montreal, collided with a ballast car. Herbert Reynolds, an engineer, aged 28, of Ottawa, was seriously injured, and John Knox Blackburn was killed. Reynolds is unconscious. It is said that the train was travelling between 40 and 50 miles an hour. It hit the ballast car with terrible force, and the engine and several cars were badly smashed up.

Both men were very careful employees, and a very curious co-incidence is that just before Blackburn pulled out of the Ottawa station on his way to Montreal he had taken out an insurance policy.

The short line between Ottawa and Montreal was blocked for several hours, and the trains had to travel by way of Smith's Falls.

CHINESE TROOPS PROTECT THE CHRISTIAN MISSIONARIES

Examiner Special.

Hung Chow, Hu Nin Province, China, Sept. 12.—It is reported here that troops of the Empire have had a serious engagement with the insurgents. The latter were routed, and over one hundred of them were killed, and twenty of them were taken prisoners.

The Chinese authorities are affording adequate protection to the missionaries at Lin Chow and Pak hoi.

Miraculous Escape From Death; Falls Off C.P.R. Bridge

John McKee Struck His Head on Iron Work in His Fall and Landed in Shallow Water—Reported Helpless at the Time

A TEAMSTER FOR YEARS

Only one chance in a thousand, saved John McKee, a teamster employed for many years by the Dickson Company, from death, when he fell off the C. P. R. bridge, that crosses the Otonabee, above Matthews' packing house.

At least that is the general opinion of those who saw him fall, for, according to their statements, he was almost helpless. He was picked out of the water near one of the piers, where it was rather shallow, and it was found that a long, ugly gash had been made at the back of his head, received probably by striking some of the iron work, or one of the rocks below.

The C. P. R. trackmen were passing at the time, as it was just after six o'clock, and they quickly brought him to safety and carried him to the C. P. R. station. He was bleeding profusely from his injury and was in a bad condition. The trackmen say that they thought he was almost dead.

Mr. McKee's wife drives in to the Wolfe street wharf every night to meet him and convey him home, as they live in North Monaghan, near St. Peter's cemetery. She was greatly alarmed, and unnerved, by the accident, but soon prevailed upon her husband to go to a doctor and have the wound dressed. This was done and to-day it was learned that Mr. McKee was progressing favourably, and no serious results are anticipated.

Fall's Arrival and Church Activity

Peterborough is essentially a church city. Practically everyone is interested more or less actively in some one of the many churches in the city. With the opening of September the fall work of the different churches is being taken up. The several auxiliary church organizations are planning their campaigns to interest the younger portions of the congregations in church enterprises, and it is recognized that it is to the young people that the churches must look for their future success and prosperity. The Young Men's Guilds, which for the last few years have flourished in Peterborough, the home of the organizations of that name have apparently outlived some of their popularity, since there is not the same activity being manifested in their reorganization as in the resumption of work in the societies in which the young men and young women are both interested. It is expected, however, that within a few weeks the young men's societies will be called together and work in them will be again taken up with the vigour which formerly characterized their operation.

Church news is of interest to the community. The Examiner recognizes this and will be glad to publish any news respecting the work of the different church organizations in the city.

WAS IT A SUCCESS?

The question of the success, or degree of success, of Mr. Borden's meeting in the Opera House last night is a mere matter of opinion. Much depends upon the point of view. If one judges by the attendance of the public, it was a pretty fair success. The Opera House contained a large number of persons not all, however, of Mr. Borden"s party, there being a considerable number of Liberals present. This condition should constitute a success from Mr. Borden's point of view, for to adopt, without irreverence, a line of Scripture, to the case, "he comes not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance." They that were whole, the faithful of the Conservative party, needed not a physician, but the Liberals that were sick. As to the speeches of Mr. Borden and his associates, if they were intended to impress Liberals with the truth of the chairman"s sentiment that, "it is time for a change," the meeting was by no means a success. The nebulous academic programme of Mr. Borden laid down with rather laboured effort, did not appeal to any supporter of the Laurier Government, as a desirable substitute, in the interest of the progress of the country, for the energetic and progressive, practical, and applied, not theoretical, policy of the present government. Judged by his previous appearance and speech in Peterborough Mr. Borden did not do himself justice last night. He was evidently suffering from physical, if not moral, fatigue—his voice seemed to be tired, and his speech showed traces of bitterness which stand somewhat in contrast with the more dignified and moderate utterances of his last speech in this city. If Mr. Borden's aim was to arouse enthusiasm over his programme the meeting cannot be regarded as a district success. During his address he was subjected to no serious interruption in the form of applause or enthusiastic demonstration. The chief applause of the evening went to the fiscal funnyisms of Mr. Bergeron, showing that the bulk of the audience enjoyed and appreciated more, a witty hit at their political opponents, than the more stately, more abstruse and deeper mysteries and even pleading postulates of Mr. Borden. For his remarks were chiefly postulatory—he assumed—he asserted without producing proof. He was very strong in invective. He denounced the present government as guilty of every sin in the political, constitutional and moral code, and arrogated all the noble and spotless political virtues to himself and his followers in the House—not even excepting among the latter, Mr. Foster, Mr. Pope, Mr. Fowler, Mr. Bennet, Mr. LeSurgey et al. Particular insistence was made upon his public ownership proposals, but it was not made very clear how the scheme could be removed from the academic to the practical column. The manner in which Mr. Borden became entangled and struggled in the wires of his telegraph and telephone proposition must have failed to appeal to those of his hearers most anxious to be convinced. From the Liberal point of view last night"s meeting was a great success, for it demonstrated that however amiable and estimable, gifted and worthy of respect personally Mr. Borden may be, his policy, platform and appeals cannot be seriously regarded as a menace to the perpetuity of the splendid, progressive and live administration of public affairs the country now enjoys, and has enjoyed at the hands of the Liberal Government led by Rt. Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Major Munson, the chairman of Mr. Borden's Cobourg meeting, said that Mr. Borden "had been carrying the white flag of purity, and would do much to improve the tone of politics in this country"—with, no doubt, the "assistance" and "gifts of money" of Mr. Hugh Graham, of the Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Bergeron seems to have been selected as the "shepherd" of the little Conservative flock of seven, in the Province of Quebec.

The iron must enter into Mr. Borden's soul, when he appreciates the intense, but unintentional, irony of labelling an empty box with the legend, "Borden, our Next Premier."

THE INSURANCE MEN ARE ORGANIZING

Mr. H. C. Cox Tells of The Remarkable Increase in the Number of Local Insurance Associations

Mr. H. C. Cox, of the Canada Life, has just returned from Pittsburg, Pa., where as vice-president of the National Association of Life Underwriters, he addressed the annual meeting of the life insurance agents of Pittsburg. In the course of his remarks Mr. Cox gave as an instance of the growth of the organization in Canada the fact that since the recent convention in Toronto 14 new associations had had their inception in Canada, due largely to the inspiration gained from the convention. The plans for this year are to double the present organization of life insurance agents in Canada, the appeal of self-interest, together with the need of bettering life insurance conditions generally, having great force in drawing the agents together in local associations.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

YOUNG CONSERVATIVES' RECEPTION

Social Function Was Held Yesterday Afternoon in Young Conservative Club Rooms

Yesterday afternoon a reception was tendered to Mr. R. L. Borden, in the club rooms of the Young Conservative Club, by the members of that organization.
There was a good attendance of men, the chair being occupied by Ald. H. Phelan. An address of welcome was read to Mr. Borden by Mr. Peter Gardiner, on behalf of the club, and the leader made a short, appropriate reply. Other addresses were given by Mr. Bergeron, Mr. Macdonnell, Mr. C. L. Owen, Conservative candidate in East Northumberland, and Mr. James Kendry. Those present were given an opportunity of meeting Mr. Borden, and the majority took advantage of it.

PHOTOGRAPH OF THE QUEBEC BRIDGE

One Taken by Rev. DR. O'Brien is Attracting Much Attention

An interesting photograph appears in the show case window of the Roy studio to-day. It is a picture of the Quebec bridge, which collapsed two weeks ago, and was taken on June 30, by Rev. Father O'Brien, from the deck of the steamer on which he was passing up the St. Lawrence, on his way from the Old World. The photograph is a very clear one, and gives a good idea of the immensity of the structure, as it looked before the terrible accident. The picture is attracting considerable attention.

GOOD RECORD OF DAIRY COW

Animal Connected With Pine Grove Association Gave 1360 Pounds of Milk During One Month

SOME WERE LOWER

According to a bulletin published by the dairy branch of the Department of Agriculture, one cow in the Pine Grove Testing Association, in connection with the Peterborough Board, gave a yield of 1360 pounds of milk during the month for which the test was made. This is one of the best records for the whole of the Dominion. The average for the Pine Grove Association, however, was not high, 133 cows yielding an average of 818 pounds of milk. There were several poor individual yields going under 550 pounds in some cases. Referring to the necessity of individual tests and comparisons, the bulletin says:—
The occasional high individual yields of milk in many associations just emphasize the fact that the average yield is low, thereby calling loudly for the increase of cow testing associations to detect these individuals whose low yields of milk and fat pull the average yields down.
In the Milton, Ont., association, for instance, one herd of nine cows in the last thirty-day period gave a total production of 5270 pounds of milk, an average of 586 pounds per cow. Another herd of nine cows had a total yield of 8,455 pounds during the same priecd, or an average of 939 pounds each. The cows in these two herds all freshened about the same times from September to June. The average yield of the 128 cows tested here was 733 pounds of milk. A third herd of nine cows comes midway between these two yields, having a total production of 7,240 pounds of milk, and an average of 804 pounds per cow. But this herd includes one of the highest individual yields in the association, namely, 1,320 pounds in thirty days. Simply taking averages of milk production for calculating profits from a herd is unsatisfactory in the extreme. One of the most urgent needs of the present day is a systematic recording of the performance of each individual in the herd; this is the only safe basis from which to commence steady improvement of the general average. Cow testing associations are thus bound to increase, because dairy farmers appreciate the definite information that they convey.

chair, remarked that he was sure the gathering would be delighted to meet and hear the leader of the Conservative party, Mr. Borden, who would be, he believed, as the motto said, "The next Premier." He was glad to welcome Mr. Borden to Peterborough, and he was sure he would be heard with pleasure. In Ottawa the speaker believed, there was the worst Government, possibly, that had ever held power in Canada, and it was time for a change. He hoped to see them turned out soon, and Mr. Borden and his party returned to power. He predicted that when Mr. Borden, at the head of the Conservative party had been placed in power, an honest administration of the country's affairs would be given.

Mr. A. Claude Macdonnell

Mr. A. Claude Macdonnell, M. P., for South Toronto, the first speaker, was given a good reception, when he rose to his feet. After thanking the chairman for his flattering introduction, he said that he was particularly pleased to be present, because he had near and dear interests here.

Mr. Borden, he said, was laying before the people of Canada a platform and a policy created by the Conservative party in the belief that it would be in the best interests of the people, and which the speaker believed would put Mr. Borden into power.

He urged upon his hearers the desirability of taking an interest in the public affairs of the land, and appealed to the young men, especially, to display a lively and active interest in matters that were of the greatest importance in their town, their province and the Dominion. The Conservative party, he said, appealed to them to take that interest, not a biassed interest, and to inform themselves on the questions of the day, and he had no doubt, when they had done that, and contrasted the past history, the present doings, and the future possibilities of the two parties, their judgment would lead them unerringly into the ranks of the Liberal-Conservative party.

Speaking of the platform of the Conservative party he said that it was of a peculiarly national character, in which every plank was of national importance. It did not appeal to any particular creed or race, bu was a great, broad platform, upon which all could stand. "It is in no sense a provincial platform," said Mr. Macdonnell, "it is in every sense a national one."

Continuing, the member for South Toronto said that he had not one word to say against the honest Liberalism, which had done so much for Canada, but there was much to be said against the leaders of that party. "We are told," the speaker remarked, "that we are conducting a campaign of scandal, trying to make use of the muck-rake." He thought that it was the duty of the Opposition to leave no stone unturned to bring those who have offended against the duty and responsibility of office, to task. There had been scandals brought out in the courts of justice, which he proceeded to comment on, referring to elections in Saskatchewan, the thin red line of Manitoba, conditions in London and Quebec, including the Abitibi land transaction, the issue of which the speaker stated, largely hung on fraud in administration of public affairs. It was not the Liberal-Conservative party, but the law courts that were bringing to light these things.

"Those who stand high," said Mr. McDonnell, "have many winds to shake them, and, if they fall, they are dashed to pieces."

The South Toronto member then proceeded to deal with the claim of the Liberal party that the prosperity of Canada was due to their policy. His argument was that the prosperity now existing in Canada was enjoyed by nearly all nations of the world, that there never was such an era of prosperity. He went on to compare the conditions in Canada with those in other self-governing British colonies, referring particularly to New Zealand and Australia. He claimed that their prosperity exceeded that of Canada and declared that it was unfair to delude the people of Canada with the statement that the good times being enjoyed here were due to the efforts of a beneficial government.

Figures were quoted to show that Australia and New Zealand had larger volumes of trade than had Canada. The people had state-owned railways, telegraphs and telephones, as nailed down by Mr. Borden in his platform, and they gave not only high class service but large surpluses as well.

Passing on Mr. McDonnell remarked that ten years ago the expenditure of $38,000,000 was characterized by the Liberals as extravagance, and the promise was made that if they were put in power they would see that it was reduced. Now the expenditure was $136,000,000. The national debt was being increased, and during the next few years some $100,000,000 would have to be raised for the Transcontinental Railway, and $150,000,000 for incoming indebtedness. He wanted to know what price the people of the country would have to pay. The Minister of Finance, he declared, had made no arrangement for meeting this amount; he would have to go naked, as it were, into the money markets of the world and pay through the nose for it.

The speaker accused Sir Wilfrid Laurier of always taking the line of least resistance in election matters. There were five vacancies in the House, and nothing was being done to fill them, while in Brockville and St. John, only just vacant, the Premier, he declared, was making test cases, hoping, by the prestige of the Cabinet, to win them, to get a snap verdict, as it were.

The speaker concluded with another appeal to the men to take more interest in the affairs of the country.

Col. Warde's Remarks

Col. H. A. Ward, M.P. for Durham, spoke briefly, referring to the speech of Hon. Mr. Aylesworth at Dundas on Tuesday. In the course of his remarks he stated that the Minister of Justice was fond of raising straw men for the purpose of knocking them down again. The speaker paid a tribute to Mr. Borden, whom, he said, did not need to fear comparison with any man in the Dominion. Any one who had followed Mr. Borden's course in public life was bound to respect him. He compelled the respect of not only his own followers, but of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues.

Member For Victoria

Col. Sam Hughes, M.P. for Victoria, was next introduced, and paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Borden's ability in debate, saying that he had never seen anyone who could cross swords with him in the House. He had, he stated, made Sir Charles Kirkpatrick tremble in his boots, and the speaker did not think that Mr. Aylesworth would care to stand on the platform with Mr. Borden and discuss the issues of the day.

Col. Hughes also eulogized what he called Mr. Borden's sterling determination for an honest administration.

In conclusion, he said that public honour and public opinion were being trailed in the dust from one end of Canada to the other. Men were in office, he said, because they could point political revolvers at the heads of those in power.

Address of Welcome

Before calling upon Mr. Borden, Mr. R. M. Waddell, secretary of the West Peterborough Conservative Association, read the following address, and pretty little Miss Pauline Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hayes, presented him with a bouquet of flowers, receiving the usual reward:

R. L. Borden, Esq., M.P., K.C., LL.D.,

We, the members of the Liberal-Conservative Association of West Peterborough, on the occasion of your visit to the city of Peterborough, desire to extend to you a cordial welcome, and assure you that your presence here is esteemed an honour to the city, and a source of gratification to your many friends and supporters in this, as it is in the adjoining ridings.

This is not the first occasion we have had the pleasure of greeting you. We retain most pleasant memories of your visit here nearly three years ago, and the splendid reception then accorded you. We feel certain that the demonstration this evening in your honour will be even more earnest and enthusiastic.

We beg to offer you our warmest congratulations on the success which has thus far attended your trans-continental tour. We have learned with pleasure of the wide interest aroused by your progressive policy, and admirable speeches, not only in your native Province of Nova Scotia, but in New Brunswick and Quebec, and we are assured that Ontario and the great West will join in many warm tributes that have been paid you, both as a leader of the grand old Conservative party, and as an exemplary citizen of this fair Dominion.

We further congratulate you upon the advanced, constructive and comprehensive policy that you have laid down, one which we believe will be endorsed by all free thinking and independent electors, and will result in the Liberal-Conservative party being returned to power at the next election.

Your firm hand manly stand for morality and purity in public life, the overthrow of bribery and corruption, for honest, efficient administration of federal affairs, for clean elections, for a non-partizan public service, for the maintenance of Provincial rights, for wiser and more desirable immigration system, for better postal facilities, for the development of and improvement of our great national waterways,—a non-partizan operation of Government railways, and for the strong, vigourous fiscal policy that will continue the splendid results wrought by the National Policy,—Sir, your attitude on these questions, and on many others which might be mentioned,—have won for you the admiration and devotion, not only of the members of the Liberal-Conservative party, but many other citizens of Canada, who place principle before party, honesty and uprightness before selfishness and party interest, and efficiency and economy before expediency and opportunism.

We cannot fail to admire your personal characteristics, and to recollect that you have ever stood for all that is highest, best and truest in both public and private life.

Assuring you of our continued loyalty and devotion, and predicting that under your strong, aggresive leadership, victory will soon be achieved for the Liberal-Conservative party, and the reign of recklessness, scandal and extravagance at Ottawa, terminate,

We beg to subscribe ourselves,

Yours, etc.,
R. M. WADDELL,
Secretary.

JAS. KENDRY,
President,
Liberal-Conservative Association of West Peterborough.
Peterborough, Sept. 11, 1907.

Mr. Borden's Address

In rising to respond, Mr. Borden received the address of welcome with a few words of acknowledgment, thanking the Young Conservative Association for their kind words and he deemed it especially gratifying to know that his platform recently laid down in Halifax, commended itself to the Association. He also expressed himself as being glad to be on the platform with the two men who had borne his standard in West and East Peterborough in the last election, but who had met defeat, probably due to a lack of organization and to delays. But he had every reason to believe that they or two other members of the Conservative ranks would be his successful standard bearers in the coming elections of 1908 or 1909.

After these few and other remarks of introduction the Conservative leader aimed his statements against Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, Postmaster-General of the Dominion and member of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Cabinet. He had read some of the honourable gentleman's remarks about himself in the Toronto Globe of yesterday, the substance of which were that Hon. Mr. Aylesworth stated he had been told by some person that information could be obtained to disqualify him (Mr. Borden) for eight years from sitting in the House of Commons. The speaker was willing to have the alleged evidence brought forward and he would meet it at any place or time.

In two journals it was announced that Mr. Aylesworth, and the Conservative platform had been stolen from the Liberal party. Mr. Borden questioned this assertion and he directed his remarks during his address principally to demonstrate to his satisfaction that this was untrue. In laying down his platform he had placed in it the three essentials of honest government and on this proposition the denunciation of the present administration was based. The essentials were—honest appropriation and expenditure of the public money; decent appointments to the public service, based, not on party pressure, but on consideration of fitness and elections untainted by bribery or fraud. He would like to say to Mr. Aylesworth that every one of the these three had been violated by the government now in power and he proceeded to discuss the record of the Laurier Government under these heads. The public domains in the Canadian West, he said, had been stripped to pay officials and he charged the Government of showing itself to be shameless in carrying out the essentials alluded to.

Quoting from the Halifax platform the speaker next referred to the necessity of better election laws and better enforcement of them and in reference to his proposal to reform the mode of selecting the Senate he said that the Government had filled it with men many of whom had been worn out in politics and "cast to the winds." He believed it should be composed of men such as would inspire confidence and raise the dignity of the Senate in the estimation of the country.

Immigration Question

Another plank in his platform was "a more rigid inspection of immigrants with a view to a more desirable quality," and in speaking of this Mr. Borden again dilated on the greatness of the Canadian West. He thought the Government had paid too much attention to the quantity of the settlers implanted here, and, in his estimation, the Conservative party on coming to power would be doing a service to the people of Canada by removing the dangers that he could see arising from the present situation.

Also had the "management and development of public utilities" been chair, remarked that he was sure the gathering would be delighted to meet and hear the leader of the Conservative party, Mr. Borden, who would be, he believed, as the motto said, "The next Premier." He was glad to welcome Mr. Borden to Peterborough, and he was sure he would be heard with pleasure. In Ottawa the speaker believed, there was the worst Government, possibly, that had ever held power in Canada, and it was time for a change. He hoped to see them turned out soon, and Mr. Borden and his party returned to power. He predicted that when Mr. Borden, at the head of the Conservative party had been placed in power, an honest administration of the country's affairs would be given.

Mr. A. Claude Macdonnell

Mr. A. Claude Macdonnell, M. P., for South Toronto, the first speaker, was given a good reception, when he rose to his feet. After thanking the chairman for his flattering introduction, he said that he was particularly pleased to be present, because he had near and dear interests here.

Mr. Borden, he said, was laying before the people of Canada a platform and a policy created by the Conservative party in the belief that it would be in the best interests of the people, and which the speaker believed would put Mr. Borden into power.

He urged upon his hearers the desirability of taking an interest in the public affairs of the land, and appealed to the young men, especially, to display a lively and active interest in matters that were of the greatest importance in their town, their province and the Dominion. The Conservative party, he said, appealed to them to take that interest, not a biassed interest, and to inform themselves on the questions of the day, and he had no doubt, when they had done that, and contrasted the past history, the present doings, and the future possibilities of the two parties, their judgment would lead them unerringly into the ranks of the Liberal-Conservative party.

Speaking of the platform of the Conservative party he said that it was of a peculiarly national character, in which every plank was of national importance. It did not appeal to any particular creed or race, bu was a great, broad platform, upon which all could stand. "It is in no sense a provincial platform," said Mr. Macdonnell, "it is in every sense a national one."

Continuing, the member for South Toronto said that he had not one word to say against the honest Liberalism, which had done so much for Canada, but there was much to be said against the leaders of that party. "We are told," the speaker remarked, "that we are conducting a campaign of scandal, trying to make use of the muck-rake." He thought that it was the duty of the Opposition to leave no stone unturned to bring those who have offended against the duty and responsibility of office, to task. There had been scandals brought out in the courts of justice, which he proceeded to comment on, referring to elections in Saskatchewan, the thin red line of Manitoba, conditions in London and Quebec, including the Abitibi land transaction, the issue of which the speaker stated, largely hung on fraud in administration of public affairs. It was not the Liberal-Conservative party, but the law courts that were bringing to light these things.

"Those who stand high," said Mr. McDonnell, "have many winds to shake them, and, if they fall, they are dashed to pieces."

The South Toronto member then proceeded to deal with the claim of the Liberal party that the prosperity of Canada was due to their policy. His argument was that the prosperity now existing in Canada was enjoyed by nearly all nations of the world, that there never was such an era of prosperity. He went on to compare the conditions in Canada with those in other self-governing British colonies, referring particularly to New Zealand and Australia. He claimed that their prosperity exceeded that of Canada and declared that it was unfair to delude the people of Canada with the statement that the good times being enjoyed here were due to the efforts of a beneficial government.

Figures were quoted to show that Australia and New Zealand had larger volumes of trade than had Canada. The people had state-owned railways, telegraphs and telephones, as nailed down by Mr. Borden in his platform, and they gave not only high class service but large surpluses as well.

Passing on Mr. McDonnell remarked that ten years ago the expenditure of $38,000,000 was characterized by the Liberals as extravagance, and the promise was made that if they were put in power they would see that it was reduced. Now the expenditure was $136,000,000. The national debt was being increased, and during the next few years some $100,000,000 would have to be raised for the Transcontinental Railway, and $150,000,000 for incoming indebtedness. He wanted to know what price the people of the country would have to pay. The Minister of Finance, he declared, had made no arrangement for meeting this amount; he would have to go naked, as it were, into the money markets of the world and pay through the nose for it.

The speaker accused Sir Wilfrid Laurier of always taking the line of least resistance in election matters. There were five vacancies in the House, and nothing was being done to fill them, while in Brockville and St. John, only just vacant, the Premier, he declared, was making test cases, hoping, by the prestige of the Cabinet, to win them, to get a snap verdict, as it were.

The speaker concluded with another appeal to the men to take more interest in the affairs of the country.

Col. Wardo's Remarks

Col. H. A. Ward, M.P. for Durham, spoke briefly, referring to the speech of Hon. Mr. Aylesworth at Dundas on Tuesday. In the course of his remarks he stated that the Minister of Justice was fond of raising straw men for the purpose of knocking them down again. The speaker paid a tribute to Mr. Borden, whom he said, did not need to fear comparison with any man in the Dominion. Any one who had followed Mr. Borden's course in public life was bound to respect him. He compelled the respect of not only his own followers, but of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his colleagues.

Member For Victoria

Col. Sam Hughes, M.P. for Victoria, was next introduced, and paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Borden's ability in debate, saying that he had never seen anyone who could cross swords with him in the House. He had, he stated, made Sir Charles Kirkpatrick tremble in his boots, and the speaker did not think that Mr. Aylesworth would care to stand on the platform with Mr. Borden and discuss the issues of the day.

Col. Hughes also eulogized what he called Mr. Borden's sterling determination for an honest administration.

In conclusion, he said that public honour and public opinion were being trailed in the dust from one end of Canada to the other. Men were in office, he said, because they could point political revolvers at the heads of those in power.

Address of Welcome

Before calling upon Mr. Borden, Mr. R. M. Waddell, secretary of the West Peterborough Conservative Association, read the following address, and pretty little Miss Pauline Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hayes, presented him with a bouquet of flowers, receiving the usual reward:

R. L. Borden, Esq., M.P., K.C., LL.D.

We, the members of the Liberal-Conservative Association of West Peterborough, on the occasion of your visit to the city of Peterborough, desire to extend to you a cordial welcome, and assure you that your presence here is esteemed an honour to the city, and a source of gratification to your many friends and supporters in this, as it is in the adjoining ridings.

This is not the first occasion we have had the pleasure of greeting you. We retain most pleasant memories of your visit here nearly three years ago, and the splendid reception then accorded you. We feel certain that the demonstration this evening in your honour will be even more earnest and enthusiastic.

We beg to offer you our warmest congratulations on the success which has thus far attended your trans-continental tour. We have learned with pleasure of the wide interest aroused by your progressive policy, and admirable speeches, not only in your native Province of Nova Scotia, but in New Brunswick and Quebec, and we are assured that Ontario and the great West will join in many warm tributes that have been paid you, both as a leader of the grand old Conservative party, and as an exemplary citizen of this fair Dominion.

We further congratulate you upon the advanced, constructive and comprehensive policy that you have laid down, one which we believe will be endorsed by all free thinking and independent electors, and will result in the Liberal-Conservative party being returned to power at the next election.

Your firm and manly stand for morality and purity in public life, the overthrow of bribery and corruption, for honest, efficient administration of federal affairs, for clean elections, for a non-partizan public service, for the maintenance of Provincial rights, for wiser and more desirable immigration system, for better postal facilities, for the development of and improvement of our great national waterways,—a non-partizan operation of Government railways, and for the strong, vigorous fiscal policy that will continue the splendid results wrought by the National Policy,—Sir, your attitude on these questions, and on many others which might be mentioned,—have won for you the admiration and devotion, not only of the members of the Liberal-Conservative party, but many other citizens of Canada, who place principle before party, honesty and uprightness before selfishness and party interest, and efficiency and economy before expediency and opportunism.

We cannot fail to admire your personal characteristics, and to recollect that you have ever stood for all that is highest, best and truest in both public and private life.

Assuring you of our continued loyalty and devotion, and predicting that under your strong, aggresive leadership, victory will soon be achieved for the Liberal-Conservative party, and the reign of recklessness, scandal and extravagance of Ottawa, terminate,

We beg to subscribe ourselves,

Yours, etc.,
R. M. WADDELL,
Secretary.

JAS. KENDRY,
President,
Liberal-Conservative Association of West Peterborough.
Peterborough, Sept. 11, 1907.

Mr. Borden's Address

In rising to respond, Mr. Borden received the address of welcome with a few words of acknowledgment, thanking the Young Conservative Association for their kind words and he deemed it especially gratifying to know that his platform recently laid down in Halifax, commanded itself to the Association. He also expressed himself as being glad to be on the platform with the two men who had borne his standard in West and East Peterborough in the last election, but who had met defeat, probably due to a lack of organization and to delays. But he had every reason to believe that they or two other members of the Conservative ranks would be his successful standard bearers in the coming elections of 1908 or 1909.

After these few and other remarks of introduction the Conservative leader aimed his statements against Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, Postmaster-General of the Dominion and member of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Cabinet. He had read some of the honourable gentleman's remarks about himself in the Toronto Globe of yesterday, the substance of which were that Hon. Mr. Aylesworth stated he had been told by some person that information could be obtained to disqualify him (Mr. Borden) for eight years from sitting in the House of Commons. The speaker was willing to have the alleged evidence brought forward and he would meet it at any place or time.

In two journals it was announced that Mr. Aylesworth, said the Conservative platform had been stolen from the Liberal party. Mr. Borden questioned this assertion and he directed his remarks during his address principally to demonstrate to his satisfaction that this was untrue. In laying down his platform he had placed in it the three essentials of honest government and on this proposition the denunciation of the present administration was based. The essentials were—honest appropriation and expenditure of the public money; decent appointments to the public service, based, not on party pressure, but on consideration of fitness and elections untainted by bribery or fraud. He would like to say to Mr. Aylesworth that every one of the these three had been violated by the government now in power and he proceeded to discuss the record of the Laurier Government under these heads. The public domains in the Canadian West, he said, had been stripped to pay officials and he charged the Government of showing itself to be shameless in carrying out the essentials alluded to.

Quoting from the Halifax platform the speaker next referred to the necessity of better election laws and better enforcement of them and in reference to his proposal to reform the mode of selecting the Senate he said that the Government had filled it with men many of whom had been worn out in politics and "cast to the winds." He believed it should be composed of men such as would inspire confidence and raise the dignity of the Senate in the estimation of the country.

Immigration Question

Another plank in his platform was "a more rigid inspection of immigrants with a view to a more desirable quality," and in speaking of this Mr. Borden again dilated on the greatness of the Canadian West. He thought the Government had paid too much attention to the quantity of the settlers implanted here, and, in his estimation, the Conservative party on coming to power would be doing a service to the people of Canada by removing the dangers that he could see arising from the present situation.

Also had the "management and development of public utilities" been

Put the Blood In Condition

BY THE RESTORATIVE BLOOD-FORMING PROPERTIES OF

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

It is weakness that causes most of our sufferings — weakness of the heart, weakness of the stomach, weakness of the liver, kidneys and bowels.

The result is feeling of langour and depression, and impaired action of the vital organs, headaches, indigestion, spells of dizziness and weakness, sleeplessness, irritability, and a general rundown condition of the system.

Put the blood in good condition by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and you have a foundation for health to build on. Weakness and disease will give way to new strength and vigor, and angour and discouragement will yield to ne hope and happiness.

Mr .Fergus Conn, Lily Oak, Ont., writes:—"As a result of the severe winter and an attack of la grippe, I was all run down this spring. I soon improved very much by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. My appetite is better than it has been for years, and though sixty years of age I am able to do a man's work on the farm following a team. I believe that I owe my good health to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Mrs. Geo. Battie, Carr's Brook, Colchester Co., N.S., writes: — "Last spring I was very much run down, felt tired all the time and did not seem to have life or energy enough to do my work. Three boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food did me a world of good and made work a pleasure to me. I have not had occasion to use any medicine since, and have recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to all my friends.

"We always keep Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house to be used for constipation, pains in the back and stomach troubles."

By means of good blood only can Nature make weak people strong, and Chase's Nerve Food is composed of the most powerful blood-forming elements known to medical science. Every dose is bound to be of some benefit to you; 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

NO TYPHOID EPIDEMIC SAYS HEALTH OFFICER

Dr. Bingham Pays His Respects to Chairman of Board of Health — Not a Plague Stricken City

AN UNFORTUNATE CHARGE

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir, — In reply to Mr. Eyre's remarks in yesterday's issue of the Examiner, I beg to state that there is no controversy at all with that gentleman, as a private citizen. It is only in his official capacity as chairman of the Board of Health, that there is any friction, and if his deplorable action in libelling the city could have been discussed apart from his bodily existence, his name, as far as the writer is concerned, would not have appeared at all; and here it may be mentioned that the chairman was the first to rush his own name into print when he talked about being up against some terrible problem, of which nobody, but himself, had the slightest conception.'

Now, when the chairman in an evil hour, circulated the damaging, and incorrect, report, that the city was infested with typhoid fever, everybody will see that it is the boundem duty of the Health Officer to place the truth before the public. But it will be hard to heal the wound which the chairman of the Board of Health has inflicted on Peterborough, when he represents it as a plague-stricken city.

The Belleville papers have taken up the scare and it is likely the bad news will travel all over the province. I have written to the press in Belleville, asking them to correct the untruthful report.

We have an intelligent Mayor and Council and it is certain that they, as well as every good citizen, will use their influence to remove the black pall which the chairman of our Board of Health has thrown over Peterborough.

The fact may be repeated that there is no epidemic of typhoid fever in Peterborough, and that we have the healthiest city in the Dominion.

The chairman complains that in a former letter the writer had no facts. If he condescends to mention one word in that letter which was not a fact, the writer would have been pleased to consider it with him, but the chairman is in a hopeless plight, from which it is impossible to extricate him. It is a pity that the chairman should have taken this tantrum at this inconvenient season, when fall fairs are in vogue, and when students from many parts of the country are coming to spend the winter at our numerous seats of learning.

Most people are chary about going to a city infested with an epidemic of typhoid fever, but no one need be afraid to come to Peterborough; they will find here a cordial welcome from a healthy and contented people, and they will witness on every side nothing but signs of prosperity and progress.

J. BINGHAM.
Medical Health Officer.

Marriage For Life The Greatest of all Crimes

Sensational Statement by Prof. Larkins—The Anglo-Saxon Race Doomed to be Wiped Out if it Continues

HE GIVES HIS REASONS

New York, Sept. 11.—The Herald has received the following despatch from San Francisco: In a lecture before the San Francisco Sociological Society last evening, Professor Edgar Larkin, an astronomer, said:

"Marriage for life is the greatest crime that can be committed in the world, from either a physiological, psychological or anthropological point of view, and the third party who joins a man and a woman in a marriage for life, whether he acts in civil or religious procedure, or as witness to the contract, is the greatest criminal in the world."

Professor Larkin said his views were the result of twenty years' close study of anthropology and of human nature. Continuing, he said:

"Ninety-five per cent. of the crimes in the world are due to marriage for life, a contract that must be abolished in time. If it continues, the Anglo-Saxon race will be wiped out. I know what I am talking about, for aside from my study of these matters, it has been proven to me that I am right. I have asked and received letters from 1,800 women in the United States—women who are talented, intellectual and college-bred—and they tell me I am right."

TORONTO AND LINDSAY INVITES SALVATION ARMY BAND

The Salvation Army Band is being sought after by several places where it has not been heard. Lindsay is trying to secure it for a week-end and will probbaly visit the northern town on October 5th and 6th.

Their services are also requested in Toronto where they have been asked to play at the Salvation Army Temple. If possible they will take this trip, but the matter has not been definitely settled.

"PURE AIR" CONDEMNS PURE GALL OF THE AUTHORITIES

Editor of Examiner,—

Sir, — On all sides we hear complaints about burning rubbish in our back yards, in the densely-settled parts of our city. Only this morning an invalid was awakened from his peaceful slumbers by the suffocating fumes of poisonous smoke, from a rubbish fire, underneath his open window, while a second fire was in full blast but a few feet away. While this was going on our Chief of Police was enjoying his morning snooze, and breathing the pure air of his up-town residence, regardless of the sufferings of others. There is no attempt at enforcing the law by the Chief, and there is no attempt by the Mayor to force the Chief to do his duty. In common with others, I am bound to vote against the Mayor and every alderman for not enforcing the laws and looking after the sanitary conditions of this city. No wonder the chairman of the Board of Health has protested against the unsanitary condition of Peterborough, and declares that we are in danger of contracting typhoid fever and cognate diseases, and has given warning of the danger that surrounds us.

Yours, etc.,
PURE AIR.

BREAKING OF AN AXLE STOPS EMILY FARMER

His Wagon Falls by the Wayside on Hunter Street

An Emily farmer in the city to-day with a load of oats, had the misfortune to have his wagon broken before they were safely landed at the Quaker Oats Company's factory. A wheel came off on Hunter street, at the other side of the Munro House, which let down the wagon and broke the rear axle in two. He was within a few hundred yards of his destination when the accident occurred.

A PRESENTATION TO SALVATION ARMY GIRL

Miss Butcher Leaves For Army Training School, Toronto

Last night at the Salvation Army Barracks Capt. Hurd of Montreal, again give his lecture and limelight views on "Rhoda, or the Gypsy Girl's Mission of Love." During the evening Miss Jennie Butcher was presented with a complimentary address on behalf of the Sunday School and also given a purse on the evening of her departure for Toronto. The address was read by Mrs. Thos. Long, Corps Cadet Guardian, and the presentation made by Miss Ethel Card.

Miss Butcher made an appropriate reply, speaking of the work in connection with the Sunday School where she was a teacher, and the regret it gave her to leave the class. She was also presented with a letter-case on behalf of the G.B.M. branch of which she was the local agent, by Capt. Hurd.

Accompanied by Miss Alice Leader, she left this morning for Toronto where they will enter the Army Training Home.

EASY TO RENT A HOUSE IF PROPER MEDIUM IS USED

"For goodness sake, take that advertisement of 'House to rent" out of the paper!" This was the imploring message sent into this office yesterday by a lady who had a house to rent, and who told the public so through the medium of the Examiner. The preceding day she inserted the advertisement, and yesterday she had fully forty persons looking at the house, and it could have been rented a dozen times over. This incident indicates two interesting facts: First, that there is still a demand for good houses to rent, an evidence of the continued prosperity of Peterborough; and that the Examiner is the best medium through which to communicate one's business announcements to the public.

SCARCITY OF CARS IS REPORTED

And as a Result Operators of Quaker Oat Company's Mills is Handicapped Considerably

Difficulty in securing sufficient oats from Owen Sound, where the company has a quantity of grain stored, is resulting in the closing of the mills of the Quaker Oats Company during the night shift, though it is anticipated that sufficient grain will be secured to keep the mills running during the day.

While the company is buying all the oats the farmers here can supply, and incidentally paying good prices for them, the local supply is not nearly enough to keep the mills in continuous operation.

The railways are experiencing considerable trouble in getting enough cars to transport the grain from the lake ports to the mills here, but it is anticipated that in a short time the trouble will be remedied and a steady supply of grain will be given.

Darey of Burleigh Falls, for alleged illegal sale of liquor, will be heard before Magistrate Edmison. E. G. CLARKE,

BISHOP OF LONDON NOT COMING TO PETERBOROUGH

It is stated that efforts were made by the local Church of England clergy to secure the Bishop of London for a day's visit to Peterborough, but though it was hoped at one time that he could be induced to remain over here a day on his way to the west, it was eventually found that the itinerary of his tour had been so arranged that this could not be effected; and those who were instrumental in endeavouring to have him give one day in Peterborough, were reluctantly obliged to abandon the proposal.

TAXES PAID WITH GREATER PROMPTITUDE THIS YEAR

The tax collector has 170 pages of cash book to go over in posting up the first instalment of taxes paid by the ratepayers of Peterborough. this work will require about six or eight weeks' time. Mr. Green informed the Examiner that this year the proportion of taxes paid by August 1 was slightly higher than that of 1906. He was unable to give the increase, but was confident that it would be higher. The ratepayers were evidently becoming better able to pay their taxes, or had a greater inclination to take advantage of the discount for prompt payment.

To Broaden The Scope of Children's Aid Societies

General Superintendent Advocates Adopting Steps to Prosecute Persons Who Initiate Children Into Vice—An Effort to Save the Latter

MR. J. J. KELSO'S PLANS

The officers of the Children's Aid Society recently received a letter from Mr. J. J. Kelso, General Superintendent of Children's Aid Societies for Ontario, in which he makes some suggestions with respect to new lines of work which they are asked to take up in addition to that already in operation. Each of thee sixty-two societies now operating in Ontario, has received a copy of this letter and it is anticipated that good results will follow. Some of the new phases of work which he advocates are:—

1. Systematically agitate against all that tends to rob children of the right to grow up in an atmosphere of purity and moral cleanliness.

2. Suppress vice and close up resorts of questionable character where children are permitted to congregate, or where their patronage is solicited.

3. Prosecute parties who contribute towards the delinquency of children, who initiate them into vice, and who prey upon their innocence for criminal or unlawful purposes.

4. Create a sentiment for the establishment of counter-attractions with wholesome uplifting influences, such as small parks, play grounds gymnasiums, free baths, communal social centres and the like.

5. Establish a personal service corps, so that individual attention may be given to children by interested men and women.

6. Start an educational campaign on subjects relating to child saving, such as laws with regard to the care and protection of minors, the compulsory education act, the laws regarding child labour and other juvenile problems.

WEDDING BELLS

SLOMAN-SLOAN

A quiet wedding took place at the residence of Rev. E. A. Paerson, pastor of the George Street Methodist Church, last night, when Mr. George Alfred Sloman and Elizabeth Sloan, both of Norwood, were united in the bonds of matrimony, the ceremony being performed by Mr. Pearson. The bride was attended by Miss Jennie Sanderson, while Mr. Wm. J. Kirk assisted the groom, both attendants being residents of Peterborough. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Sloman will be in Norwood, to which town they went last night.

At the George street Methodist parsonage last night, Rev. E. A. BURNS-WESTLAKE

A very interesting event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Westlake, Bethany, on Wednesday, Sept. 4th, when their second daughter Anna Rosamond, was united in marriage to Mr. Walter Burns, of Guelph, formerly of Millbrook.

The bride entered the parlour on the arm of her father, while Mendelssohn's wedding march was being played by Mr. Rollin McGill, of Yelverton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Marvin, Bethany.

The bride was gowned in champagne voise-voile, trimmed with embroidered chiffon and silk lace, and carried a shower bouquet of cream roses. Her only ornament was a gold necklace set with amethysts and pearls, the gift of the groom. She was attended by her sister, Bertha, who wore white organdie and carried pink roses; while the groom was supported by Mr. Stanley Fallis, of Bethany.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a Scotch pebble brooch, set with diamonds, to the groomsman a pearl stick pin. The gifts to the bride were many and beautiful, among which was a linean shower from the choir, showing the high esteem in which she was held. The bride's going away gown was of green tweed with hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Burns left on the evening train for Guelph, their future home, amid the good wishes of the whole community.

CONSERVATIVE LEADER ADDRESSED GATHERING

violated by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He had urged in 1903-04 that by giving the promoters of the G. T. P., almost sufficient to construct the whole road, that the people by aiding it were entitled to some of the profits. Among the other parts of his platform mentioned were the necessity for the operation and management of railways by the government, and development and improvement of our national railways, reduction of freight, etc. His proposal to reorganize the present railway commission, with wider powers, so as to secure control of all public utilities, was next advanced by the speaker, and enlarged on later.

Referring to his platform again, he touched upon the special plank dealing with the proposal for the establishment of national telegraphs and telephones. The telephone, above all other utilities, must be a monopoly in any city. Peterborough could not have two or three telephones, he said, operated by different corporations, which would be profitable to the owners, and he believed the government could make it just as successful as the corporation makes it.

Improvement to the existing postal facilities, and, particularly, in the rural sections, and the inauguration, where the cost would not be too great of rural postal delivering were among of the opposition leader's proposals to be carried out, when he got into power.

Fiscal Policy

Mr. Borden also claimed the ownership of a fiscal policy in that Halifax platform. It was a policy to promote the production in Canada of all articles that could be produced by our natural resources. He wanted a fiscal policy that would make Canada a great manufacturing country, as well as a great agricultural country. He also wanted to see the promotion by negotiation and legislation of a mutual preferential trade within the empire. This idea was scorned by Sir Wilfrid Laurier,, who the British people in 1897 that Canada wanted no preference.

The restoration of public lands to Alberta and Saskatchewan, which lands, he charged, had been used by the Government to further their interests by controlling votes, was another of the speaker's proposals. He next touched upon "the unimpaired maintenance of all powers of self government," and passed again to the "controlling of public utilities by the government," and his ideas of public ownership.

The interest of the people regarding the control of enterprises by private corporations, was hardly realized, Mr. Borden thought, but yet he considered it was gaining way and he referred to the government control of post offices, yet it was retained, he said, in the case of railways. He believed in a railway commission, but if he had the opportunity he would change its name to "Public Utility Service of Canada," and give it larger powers, as it was the most important tribunal or court in Canada.

Predicates a Victory

In his concluding remarks, Mr.Borden asked that the people take no consideration of the reports circulated in the press to the effect that if he were premier of Canada he could not form a cabinet. He looked for a victory in the coming elections, and the meetings during his tour in Ontario had been satisfactory. He referred to the recent Cabinet changes stating that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had not sufficient confidence in any of his own colleagues to appoint two of them to join his ministry, but that he had to get them from outside. He closed his appeal with the usual plea for clean elections, and with compliments to everybody.

The Hit of the Evening

Mr. J. H. G. Bergeron, the member for Beauharnois, made the real hit of the evening, and the audience found in his droll French accent ready wit and funny gestures, a reward for their patience in listening to the other speakers. A large proportion of the audience had began to leave when the leader finished his remarks, but when Mr. Bergeron commenced his speech they came back. The audience was kept in a continuous roar of laughter, and when he had finished, after nearly an hour's oration, there were loud outcries from all parts of the house to go on.

In beginning, the member from Beauharnois said that he wanted to show several things; first, that the party in power was not composed of giants; secondly, that they were not honest, and, thirdly, that if the men in Opposition were not angels, they were, at least, one hundred per cent. better than the men in power.

Mr. Bergeron first touched upon the question of tariff, and made much fun at the expense of the Liberal party for its frequent changes in its tariff policy, bringing down the house, as he painted, in humourous language, the changes from revenue tariff to commercial union, then to continental free trade, and, in 1891, unrestricted reciprocity.

Now, the speaker stated, the Liberal Government had the National Policy, but did not know how to use it. He made sarcastic references to their an election promises, all of which, he said, they had absolutely failed to carry out, with the exception of one, the abolishing of the Franchise Act, in which they had done wrong. Speaking of the effects of the National Policy, Mr. Bergeron pointed out what it had done for Peterborough in the way of industries.

He touched upon the Trent Canal, and asked why the Government did not complete the work. In this connection he got into a tangle in the intricacies of the English language, and after groping for some time for the word "outlet," gave up in despair, and exclaimed, "Why don't they give you something that will carry you down into the Lake Ontario?"

The election methods of the Liberal party were referred to at some length by Mr. Bergeron, and the audience found his remarks in this connection decidedly amusing.

The speaker criticized the Government's immigration policy. "What are they bringing into this country?" he asked, and answered his own question with: "Doukhobors, Galicians!" Why, they would bring in dogs," he went on, "if they could pass them off as human beings."

The piece de resistance of Mr. Bergeron's speech, from an enjoyment point of view, however, was his characteristically funny description of the cruise of the "Arctic" to Hudson"s Bay. He referred to the ship as the new fast line, which took thirty-five days to cross the Atlantic. He pictured the crew of the "Arctic" spending the winter at Hudson's Bay and entertaining the Eskimo Indians at 5 o'clock tea. It was funny to think of an Eskimo lady smoking tobacco that cost the Canadian Government $1.34 per lb., and wearing hats bought in Montreal with the money of the people of Canada.

The speaker's raillery was so much appreciated by the audience that when he took his seat they wanted more, but Mr. Bergeron declined owing to the lateness of the hour.

At the conclusion of Mr. Bergeron's speech, Col. Miller moved a vote of thanks, which was seconded and carried in the usual manner. Three cheers were given for the King, Mr. Borden and Mr. Bergeron, the latter responding with a proposal of three cheers for the ladies which were given with a will.

Following the meeting, an informal reception was held, when Mr. Borden met those of the audience who wished to be introduced to the speaker of the evening.

A CROWN OF GLORY

As Well as a Mark of Beauty is Luxurious Hair

It has been truly said that the crowning glory of our race is a luxuriant growth of hair.

It used to be thought that this was one of the blessings which the gods bestowed capriciously, and it is only recently that scientists have discovered that its beauty is dependant upon the absence of a minute germ which flourishes in the hair follicles, where it destroys the life of the hair.

To restore this life and kill the germs which cause the mischief is the mission of Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide surely kills the germs and is the best hair dressing on the market.

It contains no grease or oil, neither will it stain or dye.

EPILEPTIC TOOK A FIT IN COURT

Distressing Scene at This Morning's Police Court

The usual morning idlers at the police court, witnessed a sight at today's session, that made up for the past few days of inactivity. A man named Ferguson, from Port Hope, was brought up from the cells, but he was in such a condition from the result of whisky and epilepsy, that he could scarcely walk. He shook in every limb, and with difficulty kept himself from falling. There was a charge of stealing several auger bits from Mr. Charles Nixon, but, while sitting in the prisoner's box, he was suddenly taken with an epileptic fit, that left him in convulsions for several minutes. The police attended him and brought him back to consciousness, but he was not considered in a proper condition to plead to the charge. By being remanded he will be given a week in gaol, where he may somewhat regain his health.

Ed. Shields pleaded guilty to having been drunk in a public place last night. A fine of two dollars, which he paid, allowed him his liberty.

GOOD CATCH OF BLACK BASS

Mr. L. P. Spence of Brockville Landed Some Beauties in the River Ouse

The Hastings Star of this week, says: Mr. Lewis P. Spence, who lives with Mr. Thomas Stevenson of Hricksley, while out on a fishing expedition on Monday morning, up the Ouse, landed one of the finest strings of bass seen in town this season, seven bass in all. The largest weighed five pounds, and four others tipped the scales at more than 4 1-2 pounds each, and the other two were over 3 1-2 pounds each. A very fine string of fish for a morning's catch.

PASTOR BRACE GIVES EXPLANATION

Why Plans For New Park Street Baptist Church Were Given To a Toronto Architect

LOCAL CONTRACTORS FIRST

Editor Examiner,—

Just a word in explanation re Toronto architect. In the first place, a gift of such a nature is very hard to refuse. Three years ago the drawings and plans were presented to the church, and when an enlargement was decided upon, a new drawing and specifications were supplied, and at much less than half ordinary charge. We have every confidence in our local architects as men of good standing and ability, but we could not expect this of them, and a church, composed of working people and spending public money, could not reject such an offer. Secondly, Mr. J. Francis Brown is a recognized architect for Baptist churches, and is working on Baptist churches throughout Ontario and Quebec. This is the second church he has undertaken for the writer on the same terms. We have a brainy and practical Building Committee composed of mechanics and working men, and "local loyalty" dominates. "Home enterprise" may rest assured that the local contractors will be safe in their hands and will have the first show, other things being equal, though steps will be taken to see how outside men will figure on the building, which, when completed, will be a credit to the enterprising city and will raise the value of all the property around it.

As the dates of the Peterborough Industrial Fair approach, the work of the directors naturally increases, and, judging by the determination and energy which they are putting into their efforts this year's exhibition bids fair to surpass anything ever held in Peterborough before. To-night an important meeting of the directors will be held when some matters in connection with the fair will be dealt with.

CHANGE MADE IN THE BEE HIVE

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Have Returned From a Buying Trip

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Elliott have just returned from a trip to the Canadian fashion centres and have ransacked the leading wholesale houses of Toronto and Montreal for new ideas and new styles in wearing material, which will be found at the Bee Hive. Mrs. Elliott picked up many new ideas in fancy work, and many pretty conceits along this line will be shown. Some of these will be taken up in the free fancy work classes in the Bee Hive, beginning in February.

Some changes have been going on in the mantle department of the Bee Hive which have made a big improvement in the appearance of that part of the establishment. The room has been repainted and renovated, the ceiling papered in gold, and with a gold border corresponding, new carpets have been laid down, and other improvements made.

"Imported" Does Not Mean "Better"

There is a fascination about the word "imported," that some men can't resist.

They think that because a beer is imported, it must be good.

In the case of lager, "imported" simply means "higher prices," on account of the excessive duty.

Because—you can get a purer, finer lager that is brewed right here in Canada, for about HALF what imported beers cost.

This Canadian brew—on which there is no duty to pay—is

GUNS and AMUNITION

SAYS THIS IS BEST

A leading health journal in answering the question, "What is the best prescription to clean and purify the blood?" prints in a recent issue the following:

Fluid Extract Dandelion one ounce;
Compound Salatone, one ounce;
Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, four ounces.

Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.

A well-known physician states that these are harmless vegetable ingredients, which can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy.

This mixture will clean the blood of all impurities. In just a few days the skin begins to clear of sores, boils and pimples. It puts vigor and energy into run-down debilitated men and women. For many years Sarsaparilla alone has been considered a good blood medicine. But while it built up and made new blood, the impurities remained within and the good accomplished was only temporary. Sarsaparilla, however, when used in combination with Compound Salatone and Extract Dandelion, works wonders. This combination puts the kidneys to work to filter and sift out the waste matter, uric acid, and other impurities that cause disease. It makes new blood and relieves rheumatism and lame back and bladder troubles.

Want Peterborough in a Professional Hockey League

A Proposal From Brantford to Form a League Which Would Include a Team From This City

WILL HOLD A MEETING

Examiner Special.

Brantford September 12. — With the approach of the autumn season, hockey is again the subject for discussion, and a proposal is being made here to form a professional league to embrace the leading towns and cities in the province. It is believed that a good team of former Brantford men could be secured to represent this city, and it could give any of the other teams which might enter the league a run for the championship.

Peterborough is mentioned as one of the places in which a professional team might be conducted, and other towns included in the proposed league are Galt, Woodstock, Guelph, Stratford, in the west; and Toronto, Belleville and Kingston, in the east.

It is the belief here that under the conditions existing last year there will be no senior series in the O. H. A., this season, and it is recognized that if there is to be senior hockey at all in Ontario it will have to be on a professional basis.

SATURDAY'S GREAT BALL GAME

Many Fans Will Accompany the Local Team to Cobourg

Indications point to the fact that a very large crowd will accompany the Peterborough baseball team to Cobourg on Saturday, when they meet Port Hope in the finish game for the championship of the Midland League. Reports from Port Hope and Cobourg go to show that the fans of both towns are greatly excited over the contest, and the crowd should be the largest that ever saw a game in the league. Barring accidents, Peterborough should win the contest without trouble. The team is in good shape, and with a final workout this afternoon at Riverside Park will be ready for the big battle. They will have to be at their best to beat Port Hope, however, as the Lakers will undoubtedly be strengthened for the occasion and will make a big bid for the honours.

Judging by the battle of last week, a treat is in store for the fans who take in the trip to Cobourg. The fare is exceptionally low, only 85 cents, and the fact that the train does not leave until [illegible] o'clock makes it possible for nearly everyone to get away.

RUGBY CLUB WILL MEET TO-NIGHT

Election of Officers and Other Business To be Transacted

If you take any interest in rugby you will be welcomed at the meeting of the Peterborough Rugby Club in the Oriental Hotel at 7.45 o'clock to-night. There is considerable business to be transacted, among other things the election of officers and the discussion as to what series the team will play in this year. It is therefore important that the attendance should be large and representative. The meeting will start well on time and you should be on hand early.

PROPOSAL TO FORM JUNIOR O.R.F.U. CLUB

Meeting at Y. M. C. A. To-Morrow Night To Discuss the Question

To-morrow night a meeting of all interested in the proposal to organize a junior rugby club in the city will be held at the Y.M.C.A. The idea of forming a city league, as last year, apparently has been dropped by the promoters, and everything points to a junior rugby team for the O.R.F.U. Should such a step be decided upon to-morrow night, the officers of the club will be elected, so that a large attendance is requested.

A CRIME THAT IS NOT PUNISHABLE.

How many people reading this article have gone into a drug store and asked for some well known and highly tried medicine and some unscrupulous druggist has said, "Yes! we have that, but have you ever tried this remedy, it is just as good and costs less." Any druggist doing this has not the interest of your health at heart, but the interest of his pocket, as he can make more profit out of the cheap substitute.

For the protection and benefit of the public, we wish to say that DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY has been used in thousands of homes for the past sixty-two years and has never failed to give prompt relief and cure in all cases of Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Stomach Cramps, Summer Complaint, Sea Sickness, Cholera Infantum, Cholera Morbus and all Fluxes of the Bowels. When you buy DR. FOWLER'S, you are not experimenting with a new and untried remedy, but are getting one that has stood the test of time.

Miss Lettie Reid, Vivian, Ont., writes: "Last year I suffered untold agony from cramps in the stomach and did not know what to do until a friend suggested I should try DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY and as I was glad to try anything I purchased a bottle.

"When I had taken four doses I found relief and since then I never fail to keep a bottle in the house."

HOWARD IN FIVE MILE RACE

Will Go Up Against Longboat, Seller, Coley and Other Cracks on Saturday

Peterborough county is to be represented in the five-mile event at the C.A.A.U. athletic meet in Toronto on Saturday. Ben Howard, the Hiawatha Indian, who won the five-mile race at Hamilton last week, has sent in his entry. He will be drawn against the best men in the Dominion, but should make a good showing. A Toronto despatch says:—

Alf. Shrubb is working Tom Longboat into good shape for his meeting with Tom Coley, Percy Sellen, Fred Meadows and other good five-milers at the C.A.A.U. fall championships. He accompanied the long Indian three miles at Varsity yesterday in 15.17, which is mighty good going on a slow, sodden track.

"Tom has got to step this time or he will be trimmed," said Shrubb, after they pulled up to-day. Ben Howard, the Sunderland I.C.A.C. Indian, who beat Sellen at Hamilton, is entered, and between him, Coley, Sellen and Meadows, the boy will be chased pretty hard. He is in fair shape and should win.

There are 18 entries in the five-mile race, and in such a field a man has to be good all the way.

BASEBALL

The athlete mentioned in the following despatch is well known here, having played hockey with the Argos here last winter, and also with the Arctics ball team here this summer:

"While playing ball recently at Winnipeg Bob Clewlo, the former well known Toronto athlete, fractured a small bone in the ankle, and the limb is now in a plaster cast. Clewlo has had much success rowing single in the Winnipeg Rowing Club, and was expected to make a good showing at the fall regatta. The accident will also keep him out of football and hockey during the coming season."

PETERBORO' TEAM FOR BIG GAME

Dubbie Shea Will Wear a Blue and White Uniform Saturday

The Peterborough baseball team is practising this afternoon at Riverside Park. Fred Anderson, second-baseman, arrived last night, and he, with the local members of the team, are having a final workout for the game on Saturday. Local fans will be glad to learn that "Dybbie" Shea, the popular shortstop of the Peterborough team two years ago, has returned to the city and will be found on the line-up in Saturday's game. "Dubbie" has been hitting over .400 in the Brantford City League, and will be a great addition to the locals.

The line-up for Saturday's game has been decided upon. Clements, who pitched such a clever game last week, will be on the slab, and the team will line up as follows:

Clements, p.
Burridge, c.
Hickey, 1b.
Anderson, 2b.
Cheatham, ss.
Haliburton, 3b.
Murphy, lf.
Burns, cf.
Shea, rf.

This is admitted to be the strongest team that ever represented Peterborough, and should carry off the honours.

French Goverment Likes The Lorimer Telephones

Two French Gentlemen in the City To-Day Tell of Automatic Phones in Paris

PLEASED WITH THE SYSTEM

The French Government has been so impressed with the advantages of the Lorimer system of telephones that a contract has been given to the parent company for the installation of two systems on a commercial basis, one at St. Dennis and the other at Paris. This is the statement made to-day to the Examiner by Mr. Rocheraeau de la Sablicre, of Paris, who is a director of the American Machine Telephone Company, the concern which owns the Lorimer patents. He was accompanied to Peterborough by Mr. H. Moreau, of Paris, who is interested in the telephone business, and together they inspected the local system, and expressed themselves as greatly pleased with it. In Paris at the present time there is a sample system in operation, but Mr. Moreau was anxious to see one in practical commercial operation, hence his visit to Peterborough.

In France the telephones are all operated by the state, and in order to secure the adoption of the automatic 'phone the ambition of the Machine Company it is necessary to interest the Government. Recently the Minister of Postals and Telegraphs made a thorough investigation with his engineers of the Lorimer system, and the result of this investigation is seen in the fact that the contract has been awarded for the installation of the two systems mentioned.

It is expected too, that Lorimer systems will be operated in Russia and in the Scandinavian countries, where it has already created deep interest.

In his inquiries from local subscribers, Mr. Moreau received evidences that so far as Peterborough users of the 'phone are concerned it is satisfactory.

DEATH OF ANOTHER OLD RESIDENT

Mrs. Abraham Ball Passed Away This Afternoon

Death's inevitable hand removed another of the older residents of this city this afternoon, in the person of Annie Cluxton, wife of the late Abraham Ball, who passed away about 20 years ago. The late Mrs. Ball has been ill for some time, and at her advanced age, the illness proved fatal.

The deceased was born in Dundalk, county Lowth, Ireland, and was in her 84th year, when called to her eternal reward. After her marriage she removed with her husband to Sunderland, in Durham, in the northern part of England, where the children were nearly all born.

In the year 1871 the family came to Canada, locating in Peterborough, and have lived there during these years.

Mrs. Ball was a sister of the late William Cluxton of Peterborough, of the late Mrs. McKiver of Douro, and of the late Richard Cluxton of Trenton, N.S.

Her surviving children are John, of Buffalo, N.Y.; Edward, of Brooklyn, N.Y.; Abraham, of Rochester, N.Y.; William, of Rochester, N.Y.; George, of Peterborough; and Mrs. Chas. Murty of Peterborough.

The late Mrs. Ball has been residing with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Murty, 26 Cedar street.

As yet no funeral arrangements have been made.

BRONCHIAL TROUBLES

Readily Yield to Soothing, Healing Treatment of Hyomei

Bronchial troubles are purely local. They cannot be helped by stomach dosing. They are caused by irritation in the air passages, and can be relieved and cured by medicated air alone. In this lies the secret of the great success of Hy-o-mei in the treatment of bronchial troubles.

The first breath of Hy-o-mei's medicated air soothes the inflammation, stops the cough, and relief soon becomes permanent, and a cure results.

Hy-o-mei has made many remarkable cures in the worst and most chronic forms of bronchial troubles, and is sold by Wm. Madill with the same guarantee as he gives when Hy-o-mei is purchased for catarrh, that is to refund the money in case the remedy does not give satisfaction. The complete outfit costs but $1.00.

HARTLEY WILLING TO RACE REYNOLDS

On Any Day and At Any Wager—Is He Ready to Accept Challenge

David Hartley, the East City long distance walker, has some back at Port Hope's famous fast stepper, Jimmy Reynolds, and accepts the latters' challenge to a jaunt from Port Hope to Toronto and return. Mr. Hartley says he will cover any amount Mr. Reynolds wishes to throw down, and race him even any day he will name.

The local walker further stated that he would make the return trip in four hours less than that in which the Port Hoper attempted to do it, which means that he will do it in 24 hours if any person wishes to contradict him. Hartley is quite confident that he can trim Reynolds in an even race, and is ready to back up his statements if his attempt will be worth while.

On Saturday, Hartley walked in from Bridgenorth, beginning half a mile further back than Sergt. Major Brittain, and arrived at Mervin's butcher shop, at the corner of Aylmer and Hunter streets, in exactly one hour—a distance of over 6 1-2 miles. If Reynolds beats him he will have to move along some. Hartley is 54 years of age, which is only about two years younger than the Port Hope man.

ROY

ENGINEER PROVIDED WITH POOR CARS

C.P.R. Engineer Ritchie Had 13 Good Freight Cars Out of a Train of 24

INQUEST WAS ADJOURNED

The inquest held at Manvers yesterday afternoon to inquire into the death of Edward Wansbrough near that station on Aug. 28th, was adjourned last night at 9 o'clock after sitting with but one hour's intermission from 11 o'clock in the morning. The result of yesterday's session does not promise a concise solution of how the accident was caused, and it is probable that the car inspector at Windsor, and other men who had anything to do with the cars that made up the train which suffered the accident, may have to be brought before the jurors for examination.

Coroner Gray conducted the inquest which was held at the Orange Hall, Manvers, with all the jurors present. Mr. W C Kerr, of Cobourg, appeared for the Crown; Mr. Geo. A Walker represented the C.P.R., and Mr. J W Godfrey appeared in behalf of the engineer of the train, Mr. John Ritchie.

The testimony of the engineer was the most important received yesterday. Messrs. F. Howe, who was in the van at the time; Chas. Williams, assistant air brake inspector; R. J. Hay, conductor; Eben Knapp, brakeman; George Fee, fireman; Alexander Pirie, and Wm. J. Richmond, car inspectors at Havlock, were those examined. At the next session of the inquest, Messrs. John Blake, of Toronto Junction, air brake inspector, and Harry Falconer, of Havelock, car repairer, will be the chief witnesses and if no verdict is reached the Crown Attorney will look for others who were involved with cars. Most of them were or American manufacture ,and there is no estimating how far the inquest will proceed before the facts are thoroughly understood.

WILL MOVE PRESENT CHURCH

Building Will be Removed to West Side of Park Street—Delegates to Convention Appointed

At the quarterly business meeting of the Park street Baptist church, last night, the delegates were appointed to attend the convention of Ontario and Quebec Baptists, to be held in Woodstock in October. Those who will go from that church are Rev. A. H. and Mrs. Brace, Charles Barrie and Mr. Everson.

It was decided to move the present church building to the west side of Park street early next week, in order that work may be commenced on the new church. Considerable other important business was transacted.

CHARACTER READING BY HAND WRITING

Do you know that temperament and character are indicated by one's handwriting? It's a fact, though, and it is recognized by scientists that one's handwriting, accurately gives an index into character. To those who have studied this science it is easy to give a delination of character after a short study of one's writing.

Arrangements have been made by the Examiner to establish a new department to its Saturday issue and, commencing to-morrow character readings will be given.

Those who wish to take advantage of this service may do so without charge. All that is necessary is to write a short letter on any subject, addressed to the Scientific Department of the Examiner, and as soon as possible afterwards your reading will be published.

Peterborough Youth Meets With Accident at Stoney Lake

Wm. Brotherson Falls on Saw and is Severely Injured—Is Brought Home to the City

ARM IS BADLY LACERATED

Another sawmill accident, accompanied by distressing conditions, occurred yesterday at Gilchrist's Bay, the result being that Wm. Brotherson, son of Andrew Brotherson, of 666 Concession street, East City, now lies seriously injured. The accident happened at the sawmill operated by Lynch and Ryan at Gilchrist's Bay. Young Brotherson, who is employed there, attempted to put the belt leading from the engine on the jointer, when his hand slipped and was thrown upon the saw.

The flesh was badly lacerated from the elbow down to the wrist, and so serious was the injury that he was brought home yesterday evening. He now lies at his father's home, but it is scarcely known yet just how serious his injuries may be.

2500 Barrels of Cement for The New Middle Falls Dam

Tenders Now Being Called for Supplying This Quantity—Work in Progress at Present Time

MR. AYLMER'S CONTRACT

The Department of Railways and Canals, is calling to-day for tenders for 2,500 barrels of cement, for use in work undertaken on the Trent Canal by the Department. Tenders for supplying this quantity will be received up to September 18th, and information concerning it will be furnished by the Superintending Engineer of the canal, Mr. A. J. Grant, at Peterborough. This cement will be for use on the construction of the new dam at Middle Falls on the Campbellford section of the canal, the contraction for which was awarded to Messrs. Brown and Aylmer. It is the practice of the government to supply all the cement for work to be done on the canal, either by contract, or otherwise.

It is expected that a considerable quantity of this cement advertised for will be used this fall, work having already been commenced on the erection of the dam.

CUNARD LINER FAILS IN HER EFFORTS TO BREAK RECORD

Examiner Special.

New York, Sept. 13. — The steamship Lusitania arrived off the Sandy Hook lighthouse at 8.05 to-day, making the trip from Queenstown in 5 days, 1 hour and 55 minutes. This is six hours and twenty minutes better than the previous record of 5 days, 7 hours and 23 minutes, held by the Lucania of the same line. The Lusitania, however, has not beaten the average speed per hour record, both the Kaiser Wilhelm II., which has made 23.58 knots per hour from New York to Plymouth, and the Deutschland, with a record of 23.51 knots per hour to Plymouth, having made better time. The Lusitania's speed per hour on her maiden voyage is estimated at 23.01 knots.

A Scarlet Fever Case Presents Serious Situation

Necessity for Isolation Hospital Was Forcibly Emphasized To-Day—Board of Health Will Take Radical Action

A HOSPITAL TENT

The need for an Isolation Hospital which the Board of Health have been endeavouring to impress upon the Council without effect for some time, has been strikingly emphasized during the last twenty-four hours. For a long time the city has been free from infectious diseases, and the Isolation Hospital question was allowed to drop into oblivion.

Now, however, a case of scarlet fever has developed in the city. A maid in the home of a well known business man where there are six small children is ill with the disease, and the health authorities this morning were confronted with the problem of what to do with her.

A meeting of the Board of Health was hurriedly called and, although there was not a quorum present the matter was discussed at length. Mr. Eyres, the Chairman of the Board of Health, and Dr. Burnham, were the only members in attendance.

Both the city hospitals will not take in cases of infectious diseases and as there is no isolation hospital the Board had to determine on some other way of disposing of the case.

Finally it was decided to place an hospital tent on the Hilliard Farm and install the patient there with a trained nurse to look after her and to charge the expenses in connection with this course to the city.

"The Council has refused to provide an isolation hospital," said one of the members. "They will have to provide for this case."

The Board's authority for such a step is found in Section 100 of the Public Health Act, which is as follows:— In case the small pox or any other disease dangerous to the public health, breaks out in any municipality, the health officers, or local Board of Health, in case the municipality has not already provided the same, shall immediately provide such a temporary hospital, hospital tent, or other place for the sick and infected, as they may judge best for their accommodation, and the safety of the inhabitants, at the cost of the municipality, and for that purpose may, themselves, erect such hospital tents, hospitals, or places of reception.

FOUR BILLION SQUARE MILES AREA OF SOLAR DISTURBANCE

There is a peculiarly noticeable disturbance on the face of the sun today. It was seen yesterday by Rev. Dr. Marsh, near the solar meridian, and he secured a good photograph of it. This morning he discovered that during the 24 hours it had developed rapidly, and the measurements of the disturbed area to-day give the remarkable length of 112,959 miles and 37,635 miles in width, the disturbed area therefore being about 4,433,245,000. This is the largest disturbance that has been noted for some months.

Unless the cavity is filled in the spots will be noticeable for about a week, until the sun revolves sufficiently to bring them out of range of view.

Ill Temper From a Bad Liver

Carlyle justly attributes the ill-temper which made him a monster in the eyes of the world, to a bad liver. Nothing makes one feel more gloomy and discouraged, than liver complaint and consequent biliousness and dyspepsia and nothing so promptly and thoroughly sets the liver right and overcomes these ailments as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, the great family medicine.

The Ingredients of Zutoo

One ingredient is soda—just old-fashioned soda, that our grandmothers took to settle the stomach, and there is nothing better.

Among the other ingredients there is not one that did not come from old Mother Earth herself.

There is not one that is not approved by both the British and American Pharmacopoeias,—the highest medical authorities in the world.

There is not one that your family physician, even if a personal friend, would not approve of and prescribe.

If you are using some other headache remedy, why do you not change and use Zutoo instead?

It will cure your headaches and colds just as quickly and safeguard you against the bad after effects which may some day come from using the ordinary remedies. Zutoo tablets

THE ISOLATION HOSPITAL

With the usual deliberation — to use a very mild term — that characterizes the action of the city council, it has provided opportunity for the assertion that the harvest is past, the summer is ended, and the Isolation Hospital not built; and now there is urgent need of it, not only in the interests of an afflicted person, but in the interests of the safety of the families of other citizens. There is no epidemic of contagious diseases in the city, but an individual case is eloquent in its pleading for care, and in reproach of inaction. At a meeting of the Board of Health this morning, a citizen reported that a domestic servant, who had only been with him for a week, had been attacked with what the physician pronounced scarlet fever. The citizen stated that his wife, in delicate health, and a family of six children, were driven out of their home, and had to camp on the lawn of his residence. Now, the family will have to remain driven from home, or the suffering patient thrust into the streets, so far as any provision made by the city council is concerned. The hospitals will not receive this scarlet fever patient. She can't remain where she is. The result will be, that, as the law provides, the Board of Health may take action. It is in their power to provide a temporary hospital for the patient, either a tent or building, provide a nurse, physician, provide remedies, and disinfect the premises where the disease broke out, so that the family can return to their home. Now, the expense of this series of proceedings will be considerable, and the city will have to foot the bill—the law says so. It is possible that the bill may be very much in excess of a year's interest on the cost of an isolation hospital, where patients, suffering from contagious diseases might receive the treatment and attention which humanity dictates should be given. If an isolated case creates such conditions, what would result from an epidemic of contagious diseases, such as often breaks out autumns and winters? Many months ago, the Board of Health submitted plans of an Isolation Hospital to the city, modified according to the request of that body to the lowest point of cost, consistent with a reasonable degree of efficiency. The council, however, has taken no action.

No one will deny, not even the deliberate city fathers, that Peterborough should have an Isolation Hospital. It is absolutely necessary, as indicated by the case mentioned above, which is but a mild example of what might prevail in a greatly intensified form. If the Hospital is to be built, it should be built at once. If we are to be compelled to pay the costs of cases like the one now in the hands of the Board of Health, and in respect of other cases that may occur, would it not be better business to incur such expenditure, possibly to a lesser amount in paying interest on the cost of an Isolation Hospital? If we had the Hospital we should very probably pay less. This is, however, a minor consideration compared with the feeling of safety on the part of citizens, and the avoidance of the hardship and exposure and facilities for communicating contagion, and spreading the disease, which an Isolation Hospital would represent.

WHERE WE LEAD

The total trade of Canada is $83.25 per head of the population, in contrast with the total trade of the United States, which is a little over $30 per head. Canada's superior showing in proportion to population is also demonstrated in the matter of railway mileage. The total mileage of Canadian railways is 23,700 miles, or a mile for every 253 of the population, while the railway mileage of the United States is 222,706, or only a mile for every 330 of the population. Canada is also favoured by the investment of British capital. According to the London Quarterly Review, British capital invested in the United States amounts to 5,849 millions of dollars, or $77.94 per head of population, taking the latter at seventy-five millions, as in the foregoing calculation, while the British capital invested in Canada is 1,259 millions of dollars, or $209 per head of population. It is natural that ties of common nationality and political realtionship should represent a preference for this country, but capital has no sentiment, invariably seeks the safest and most profitable field, and that British capital invested in Canada should be nearly three times per head greater than that finding placement in the United States, is a very practical tribute to the superior confidence, which Canadian resources, governmental stability and Canadian respect for financial and other obligations, develops.

REFORM SHOULD BEGIN AT HOME

Mr. Borden's admirers are claiming for him that he has nailed the white flag of purity to the mast. Although it is rather early in the fight to hand out a flag of truce, it is worth while to note the tremendous impudence of his claim, that all the political virtue of the country is enshrined in Mr. Borden, his followers and his party. Public memory is not short, nor is the record very distant of the political corruption of the Conservative party. It is all very well for stainless men like Mr. Foster to preach purity, but Mr. Borden while he is trying to explain away the malign connection of himself and his party with the Zandrax, Zandrig corruption fund in Nova Scotia, should get his personal party organs in his own province to whistle in tune. Mr. Borden may deny that there was anything crooked in the conduct of the General Election of 1904 in Nova Scotia, but his principal Halifax supporter, the Halifax Herald says:—

"It is the simple and damnable truth that as late as the general election of 1904 Conservative heelers were armed with corrupting funds," that "the Conservative central fund for Nova Scotia was $75,000;" and that, as some ridings were hopeless, "in some the outpouring of money was very great."

Before Mr. Borden denounces his political opponents for telling unpleasant truths, he should not withhold reproof from his organ which confirms the admitted outpouring of corruption funds, "gifts of money" and "assistance" by Mr. Graham of the Montreal Star. Reform, like charity, should begin at home.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Mr. Borden is not always mindful of the rebounding nature of his logic. At the opera house on Wednesday night he illustrated the poverty in ability of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's following—he had to go outside Parliament to get fit and capable men for filling Cabinet vacancies. Did you ever hear of a Conservative leader who had to go outside his native province to get a seat in Parliament? No? Then Mr. Borden is the man. He was not only defeated in his own riding in 1904, but not a single follower of his leadership was elected in the whole of his own province. This is not meant as a reproach to Mr. Borden, but a sort of tu quoque reminder that persons inhabiting vitreous domiciles should not practice the emission of lapidaceous projectiles.

Imitation is proverbially asserted to be the sincerest flattery. Mr. Borden, the staid, the cold, the unemotional Mr. Borden, has assumed Hon. Mr. Whitney's sonorous promiscuity of generalization and sacrifice of fact to the telling rounding of an oratorical period. Speaking in the opera house in praise of the success of Hon. Mr. Whitney and his Cabinet, he stated that in the brief time since they had handled the reins of power, there had been passed more useful and important legislation than had been enacted during the whole thirty years of the Liberal lease of power. A responsible public man who will deliberately utter, on a public platform, a statement of that absurdly reckless nature, should be fitted with a snaffle bit.

Saleswomen's Peril

GRAVE DISEASES, DUE TO STANDING

Facts About Miss Merkley's Dangerous Illness and Complete Cure.

Have you ever thought why so many women or girls rather walk an hour than stand still for ten minutes?

Miss Margret Merkley

It is because most women suffer from some derangement of their delicate organism, the discomfort of which is less trying when they are in motion than when standing.

In some states laws compel employers to provide resting places for their female employees.

But no amount of law can regulate the hard tasks of these women. They must get the strength which this work demands or run the risk of serious diseases and the surgeon's knife.

Read about the experience of Miss Margret Merkley, 275 3d Street, Milwaukee, Wis:—

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Gradual loss of strength, nervousness, bearing-down pains and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said I had diseased organs and ulceration, and advised an operation if I wanted to get well. I objected to this and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I soon found that all the good things said about this great medicine were true. The ulceration soon healed, backache, headache and nervousness disappeared, and in a short time I was strong, vigorous and perfectly well. I wish every working girl who suffers would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a vegetable tonic which invigorates and strengthens the entire female organism, and will produce the same beneficial results in the cases of other sick women as with Miss Merkley.

SPECIAL EFFORT TO COLLECT FUNDS

Salvation Army Band Has Decided to Make an Appeal For Aid

THE BAND IS APPRECIATED

The management of the Salvation Army Band has decided to make a special appeal to the citizens of Peterborough as they did about four years ago for the purpose of assisting the Army in collecting $500.00 for the Band. The officers are confident that the people will assist them to meet their expenses as they did before. They require seven new instruments and they have had all their old instruments silver plated. These besides other expenses have to be met and by a special endeavour the management believes that they can raise the necessary sum.

The Salvation Army Band is peculiarly prevented from making money by engagements. If they play for any religious body or a church society they may receive money, but they are not allowed to appear in public for companies. For instance they are not allowed to play for institutions and the Street Railway, or Skating Rink, etc., if they did they could have accepted many engagements which were offered them. Thus they have largely to depend upon the kindness of the public and being an excellent organization that has brought credit to the city they deserve some support.

The head officer at Montreal has given his approval of a special endeavour and a meeting will be held at the Barracks to-night to make arrangements for the effort.

The Harvest Festival will likely be held from the 21st to the 24th of this month and it will also come up for discussion this evening.

WOMAN PAY MORE

Why Insurance Companies Discriminate Against the Gentle Sex

If one is to believe the medical examiners the reason a woman pays more for the privilege of life insurance is that she is much more commonly a victim of indigestion and stomach troubles, and the fatal ailments that spring from these causes.

It is not the acute attacks of disease that influence the insurance examiners alone, but the constant feelings of weakness, headache, indigestion and stomach troubles. These things, physicians say, kill more people than many of the serious diseases.

For curative power in all stomach troubles nothing else is as safe yet effective, nothing else can be so thoroughly relied upon to relieve all troubles of indigestion, as Mi-o-na. It is unlike any remedy heretofore known; it is not a mere digestive tablet; it strengthens and restores to natural action of the stomach and bowels, and makes a complete cure in even the worst forms of stomach troubles.

Mr. Madill sells Mi-o-na in 50-cent boxes under a guarantee to refund the money unless it does all that is claimed for it.

AN EXAMPLE OF THE VALUE OF THE TELEGRAPH

To Friends of Dead It Affords Quick and Easy Communication

The present strike among the telegraph operators in the United States is a serious drawback to the communication of freinds of those who have died with relatives in the affected parts. There are some Peterborough people who have experienced difficulty ins ending messages to relatives whom they know would wish to return when serious illness or death results.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete generally until it is known whether relatives at a distance can be present and the mails are too slow for that purpose. When the telegraph fails there iss then practically no alternative. The importance of an every day commodity is not appreciated until the public is separated from it.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor Post Card Column,—

Dear Sir, — I am glad I wrote you a post card about the plans of the new South End Baptist church—glad, because it has brought out a satisfactory explanation from the pastor, Rev. Mr. Brace. You remember telling me when I brought in my communication that it would probably be the case, that some architect had an omnibus commission to prepare plans for Baptist churches. I hope the public will back the enterprise with substantial contributions, and that the new church will be an ornament to the city, and a centre of usefulness and good influence.

Yours, etc.,

HOME ENTERPRISE.

Editor Post Card Column, —

Sir, — Why didn't some of the local Conservative wiseacres tell Mr. Claude Macdonnell, M. P. P., that it is an unwritten law that on a Minister receiving a portfolio, he has to appeal to his former constituents, or those of some riding, for re-election, or election, as the case may be. If the bye-elections in St. John's and Brockville are used by the Government to get a snap verdict, why didn't the Conservatives spoil the snap by putting up candidates, and making a beginning of the sweep of the country, which all the Conservative orators at the opera house on Wednesday night, said would take place at the next election?

Yours, etc.,

QUERY.

Provincial Officer to Raise Funds for Y.M.C.A.

This Step Being Taken by Local Association to Place Finances in Good Shape—A Three Days' Campaign

THE DIRECTORATE MET

The first meeting for the season of the Y. M. C. A. Board of Directors was a well-attended and enthusiastic one and was held in the board room last evening, with the following directors present: Messrs. Harding, President; Shook, Eastwood, Kidd, Galley, Thornton, Bennet, Roger, and V. Eastwood.

Messrs. Eastwood and Thornton were warmly welcomed as new members of the directorate.

A resolution was passed expressing the gratitude of the Association to the trustees of the Nicholls estate for their donation in July, to make the needed repairs to the building possible.

The president gave a most satisfactory report of the new dormitory rooms and the furnishing of the same.

Mr. E. Dingman, physical director, having decided to accept a call to Owen Sound, asked to be relieved on October 1, which request was granted.

A committee, consisting of Messrs. Harding, Eastwood, Galley and Howden, was appointed to take steps to secure a successor to Mr. Dingman.

The question of repairs was discussed and referred to the Property Committee, which is composed of Messrs. Madill, Roger and Cressman.

Mr. Thornton gave a report of the plans for the religious work for the season, and Mr. Williamson gave a similar report for the educational work.

The budget for the year was then presented and discussed.

It was decided, in view of the change in the end of the Association year to December 31, and of the heavy financing to be done by that date, to secure the services of Mr. Thomassin, of the Provincial Committee, to conduct a three-day campaign to put the work in good financial shape.

WILD RICE HARVEST BEGINS; INDIANS WILL BE PROSPEROUS

Examiner Special.

Keene, Sept. 13.—The Hiawatha Indians have commenced their wild rice harvest on Rice Lake. While the crop this year is not large, it is considered fair, and, with the increased prices which will prevail, it is expected that the returns will be satisfactory this year. There is a good demand for the rice, and the Indians are looking forward to a prosperous season's operations.

LOST A WHEEL BUT DRIVERS WERE UNAWARE OF THE FACT

Two men driving up Aylmer street on their way home last night about 8 o'clock met with a mishap, but it not worry them. In fact they drove on half a block before they discovered that they had left one of the rear wheels of the wagon on the street. A pedestrian stopped the drivers and explained that part of the rig had been left behind, and a halt was called, and with the assistance of some of the interested spectators who gathered on the scene the wheel was replaced and the men were able to continue their journey.

DR. LANGFELDT WARNS CLERGYMEN

He Advises Them Not to be Taken in by Plausible Story of Young Swindler

The last issue of the Candian Churchman contains a letter from Rev. Dr Langfeldt, in which he refers to the fraudulent operations of the young Jones man while in Peterborough, and warns other clergymen to be on the guard. It will be remembered that a few weeks ago the Examiner published an article dealing with the methods of this youngster. Dr. Langfeldt's letter is as follows:

Sir,—Will you allow me to use your columns to draw the attention of the clergy to the operations of a young man, Dennis Fisher Jones, 18 years old, who, on the plea of studying for the ministry, "touches" their pockets and otherwise plays upon their sympathies to obtain favours. He is a Barnardo Home boy, and, while in Peterborough, was in the police court charged with, and punished for, stealing money. He obtained money here under false pretences from the local clergy. Later on he went to Apsley, where he acted as lay reader for the missionary-in-charge. When his character became known, and when other facts as to his past became known, he disappeared and went to Toronto, playing the same schemes. Lately he has been in Port Hope and Cobourg, acting similarly. I would advise anyone coming in contact with him to hand him over to the Barnardo Home authorities to deal with him. He is a swindler and an incorrigible boy.

E. A. LANGFELDT.

The Sufferings of the Dyspeptic

DUE TO NEGLECTING TO KEEP THE LIVER RIGHT, THE DIGESTION GOOD, THE BOWELS HEALTHY BY USING

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

You may shudder to think of yourself as a dyspeptic—as one who, through stomach troubles, has come to look on the dark side of things, and to be ill-tempered and grouchy—but if you neglect treatment for repeated attacks of indigestion you will most assuredly become a chronic dyspeptic.

The great mistake is to put the blame on the stomach, and strive in vain for lasting benefit from tablets and so-called digestives. The real cause of trouble in nine cases out of ten is with the liver.

Thousands of persons are being cured of complicated cases of indigestion by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, because of their direct action on the liver, thus ensuring a good flow of bile—good digestion and healthful action of the bowels.

Mr. C. D. Bennett, Maple Grove, Megantic Co., Que., writes: "I had dyspepsia very bad. The food would sour, my stomach would swell up, I suffered a great deal and could not sleep. As the result of using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I am now entirely cured, and can eat any kind of food without feeling any bad effects. They have made a new man and a younger man of me, and I cannot say too much in their praise.

"Dr. Chase's Ointment cured a friend of mine of piles when he was so bad he could not work or even stand up."

Mr. Wm. G. Purdy, Bridgetown, N. S., writes:—"When I wrote to you for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I was a sufferer from kidney disease, stomach troubles, and liver and bowel disorders. By using one pill at bedtime every night my health has gradually improved until I can say that I am in better health than I have been for twenty years. All other medicines failed, but Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me."

This treatment is thorough, far-reaching and of lasting benefit, and cures the most severe cases of chronic and intestinal indigestion, as well as biliousness and constipation; 25 cts. a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

EACH INSTITUTE GOT OVER $50.00

Receipts of the Farmers' Institute Excursion Were $154.50 aftet Paying Expenses

Norwood, Sept. 13.—Mr. Chas. O'Reilly, secretary of the East Peterborough Farmers' Institute has just received from Mr. Wm. Collins of Peterborough, a statement of the receipts and expenses in connection with the annual excursion to Guelph Agricultural College, held in June last. This excursion is run under the combined auspices of East and West Peterborough and West Durham Farmers' Institutes.

The receipts were $221.70 and the expenses $70.20, leaving $154.50 to be divided equally between the three Institutes—$51.50 each. The year before there was $152.10 to divide up after paying all expenses giving each Institute $50.70.

TOWING GRANITES FOR NEW CHURCH

40 Cords Brought Down by Majestic—Wood and Lumber For R. Hicks & Co.

The steamer Majestic arrived at the dock at the Wolfe street wharf yesterday afternoon, with a scow load of 200 tons of stone from Stony Lake. The stone is taken from the Brodie granite quarry, near Eel's Creek, and is for the new Roman Catholic church in the south end of the city.

The Majestic has yet to bring down five more loads, or about 120 cords, making a total of about 1000 tons of the material.

The same steamer has a very heavy season's work in towing before it. Next Monday it will begin to tow down 700 cords of wood from Gilchrist's Bay, for R. Hicks & Co., which will be brought to the city. It has also 50,000 feet of lumber to tow for the same company during the autumn which, in addition to considerable other work, will keep her busy.

LIGHT FIRES TO DRIVE MOSQUITOS AWAY FROM OXEN IN WEST

A gentleman, who recently returned from a trip to the West, tells a pretty good mosquito story. In the district around Prince Albert, in the northern part of Saskatchewan, a large number of oxen iss used by the farmers, and it appears that the oxen are considered good meat by the mosquitoes; so goo, in fact, that recently they became so thick that farmers driving oxen were at times obliged to stop and light fires to drive the troublesome insects away.

Even in Winnipeg, one is not immune from the mosquitoes, and this gentleman relates that while sitting in church last Sunday night there were thousands of mosquitos around his head.

NEW DISTRICT DEPUTY PAYS VISIT

Mr. D. Walker at Norwood on Official Visit to the Masonic Lodge

An emergent meeting of Norwood Lodge, No. 223, A. F. and A. M., was held on Monday evening, the 9th inst., when R. W. Bro. Duncan Walker, D.D.G.M., Otonabee District, No. 20, paid his official visit to the lodge. His coming was on short notice but the attendance was good. After the work of the evening had been completed the D. D. G. M. addressed the lodge and spoke in very high terms of the manner in which the work was done by the officers of the lodge. He also complimented the lodge upon its excellent financial standing—not one member being in arrears for dues.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was thought to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure in the market. It is taken internally in doses of from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous membrane of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Two Miles of Granolithic Walk Is Yet to Be Laid

Forty-One Crossings Remain to be Constructed---Lengthy Docket For Board of Works---Another Journey About the City---Petitions and Communications Received

A score or more of small matters on the Baord of Works file were dealt with by that body last night previous to the council meeting next week. The discussion touched upon sidewalks and sewers principally, although on a few occasion bridges and drains and streets were "rung" in and placed under the fire of the committee . The Board decided to take another ramble about the city in the near future with a view to determining what improvements were necessary to be fulfilled before the autumn season passes into winter.

The chairman produced a list of sidewalks which yet had to be constructed during 1907 which showed that there still remained 10,978 feet or a little more than two miles of granolithic pavement to be laid down. In addition to this 41 cement crossings have yet to be built during 1907.

Those present at the meeting were Chairman Duncan, Ald. Johnston, McIntyre, Wilson, Mayor McWilliams, the City Engineer and the Street Commissioner.

A communication was received from Mrs. Hammond, asking for sewer connection with her residence on Smith street with the Bethune street sewer.

Ald. Johnston moved that Mrs. Hammond be given privilege to connect with the Bethune street sewer at the usual charges of $25 and the cost of connection. This was seconded by Ald. Wilson and carried.

Mr. Pringle of the Board of Education wrote the Board stating that the King Edward School was to be opened on Monday, Sept. 9, and asked whether the Romaine street sewer was in working order or not.

The City Engineer had written Mr. Pringle, as the Board was not meeting before Sept. 9, stating that there was a little sand at the manholes but that this could be easily removed by flushing out the sewer.

The Peterborough Light and Power Company asked permission to erect some poles on Gladstone avenue. On motion of Ald. Wilson and McIntyre, the matter was left in the hands of the City Engineer, with power to act. —Carried.

Belated Petitions

Residents on Maitland avenue asked for a granolithic sidewalk on the east side of the street. The city is now constructing a sidewalk on the west side, so that the petitioners considered now a good time to build it. The petition, however, was too late, and, according to past rules of the committee, it could not be granted at present. On suggestion of the City Engineer, it was moved and seconded, that a gravel walk be laid down to serve the purpose of a sidewalk for the winter, and carried.

A petition, largely signed, was received, asking for the opening and grading of Aylmer street, from Lansdowne street north to the King Edward School, and for the grading of Prince and Princess streets. Mr. A. E. Dixon was present in the interests of the petitioners to have the above streets water-tabled. Ald. Wilson did not think the petition should be granted unless it was certain the streets were of the proper width. Princess street, it appears, is not wide enough, but Prince street is of sufficient width. The Mayor considered that it might be advisable to grant the petition regarding Aylmer and Prince streets, if deeds of the land on the former could be obtained. Last year's Council granted the opening of these two streets, but the work was not carried out. Ald. Johnston moved, seconded by the Mayor, that the Chairman and Ald. Wilson be a committee authorized to look into the matter with a view to obtaining a lease of the proposed continuation of Aylmer street. —Carried.

The question of granting walks on the south side of King street and on St. Joseph street, requested by Messrs. Porter and T. J. Moore, respectively, was next brought up. The Mayor did not think that a piece of walk should be built for only a short distance on any street. Ald. Johnston and McIntyre considered that if the two men were willing to assume their share of the cost they should be granted the walk.

Ald. Wilson did not like the system, but believed that a responsible city official should look after the work.

The committee was again partly prevented in granting the sidewalk, as Mr. Moores' petition was not in before the first of May, but Mr. Porter had petitioned before that date.

After considerable discussion Ald. Johnston and Wilson moved that as soon as the crossings at the corner of Aylmer and King streets are completed the sidewalk be constructed for Mr. Porter. — Carried.

In connection with Mr. Moore's petition it was moved by the Mayor and Ald. Wilson, that no action be taken until the lines of the street are settled.—Carried.

Looking Forward

In discussing whether the sidewalks be constructed on Sherbrooke street on the inside or outside of the tree line, the Mayor thought that the former was the better plan. Looking ahead, he believed that Sherbrooke street being a through street, would soon become a main traffic road to the country. Charlotte street now contained the street railway tracks and on King street some of the sidewalks were outside the tree line. Therefore, the only thing, in his estimation, to do, was to keep Sherbrooke street as wide as possible.

Ald. Johnston suggested that the Board of Works look over the situation on Saturday evening, with a view to deciding what shall be done. It was decided that the committee take another jaunt about the city to see how the streets were left where the sewers were laid down, and that the members would then visit Sherbrooke street, to determine what is the best thing to be done.

Mr. A. E. Dixon, in the interests of Mr. W. W. Tamblyn, Donegal street, was present, stating that the latter was willing to give a right of way for the Downie street creek diversion, providing the piece of land in front of lot 19 on Edinburgh street, was transferred to him.

It was moved by the Mayor and seconded by Ald. Johnston, that notice be given of the intention of the council to close the gore on Donegall street at Edinburgh street, and to convey the piece of land in front of lot 19 to Mr. Tamblyn, and the part in front of lot 19, north of Dublin street, to Mr. Grant, in exchange for a right of way, Mr. Tamblyn to pay the expense.—Carried.

Ald. Wilson moved, seconded by the Mayor, that the engineer be authorized to grade and watertable Gilmour street from Park street to St. Joseph street. — Carried.

Ald. Johnston and the Mayor moved that a catch basin be placed at the corner of Ware and Lock streets to carry off the surface water, and that the street be gravelled on Lock street between Ware and Romaine street, east of Lock street. — Carried.

Repairs to Bridge

The Engineer reported that he visited the King street bridge on August 28, and that, with some temporary supports and with a few new planks in the spring, it would be sufficient. He estimated the cost at $30, and, on motion of the Mayor, the Engineer was authorized to have the necessary repairs made.

The Engineer also wrote stating that Jno. Kenneally, who has taken the place of Martin Neary, the latter being laid up with a broken ankle, was asking to be placed on the same basis as the other foreman on the sewer work. Kenneally at first received $2.25 per day, but his wages were afterwards raised to $2.75, and he asked for $3.00. Moved by Ald. McIntyre and Johnston, that the new foreman be paid the $3.00 requested, dating from September 1, until Mr. Neary is able to resume duties. — Carried.

The City Engineer recommended that pipes be laid on Homewood avenue to carry off the water which has been damaging Mr. Londerville's property. This matter was laid over until the Board has taken its proposed trip.

A recommendation was made by the Engineer to have the hydrant on Wolfe street, near Rehill's ice-house, removed to Mr. Rehill's yard, and to have the water drained off into the creek. This recommendation was made on account of a complaint from the Ontario Coal Company, which claimed that the water from the hydrant lay in front of its gates. Ald Wilson and McIntyre moved that the chairman and the Engineer be a committee to look over the situation, with power to act.—Carried.

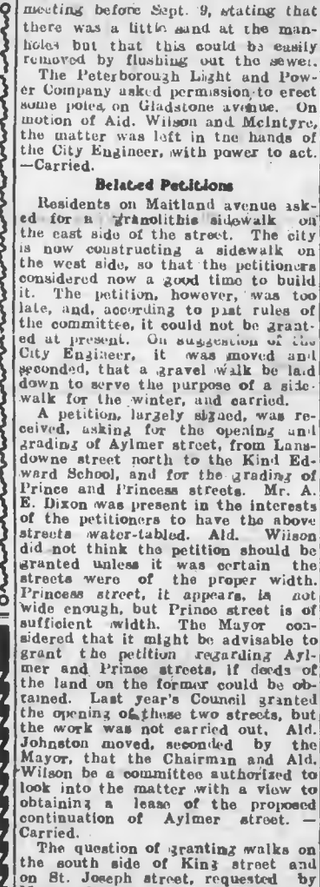
Pay for Bridge Company

The Mayor moved, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that Hill and Company, of Chatham, the contractors of the Charlotte street bridge, be paid their account, deducting $50.75, which was the cost of repairs, on account of the company's delay in fulfilling its contract, and less the sum necessary to paint the hand rail.—Carried.

Ald. Johnston moved that the Mayor and Chairman be a committee to wait on the Water Commissioners regarding the getting of the water for street watering for the autumn.—Carried.

Ald. Johnston brought up the question of the construction of the Benson street sewer. The Engineer stated that the next sewer gang free would go to Benson street to build the sewer there.

A petition, asking for a 70-foot granolithic sidewalk on Townsend street, this side of Park street, was received, and, on motion of Ald. Johnston, was granted.



Made in easy shapes, and with reinforced button-holes, they fit the shirt-band snugly and yet comfortably. They wear longer than other collars.

Police Looking For Men Accused of Assaulting A Tweed Hotel Clerk

Because He Refused to Give Them a Drink After Hours They Are Alleged to Have Assaulted Him

CAME TO PETERBOROUGH

The local police have been asked to be on the look out for two men who, it is stated, made an attack on Arthur Freeman, night clerk at Huyck's Hotel in Tweed, on Wednesday morning. The Tweed news of yesterday, referring to the assault, says:

It seems, according to Mr. Freeman's story, that late on Tuesday night, a man named Reneau, entered the hotel and demanded a drink, but as it was after prohibited hours, Mr. Freeman refused his request. He left making threats, to which no attention was paid.

It is one of Mr. Freeman's duties to meet the incoming trains, and he was standing waiting for the 3.30 a.m., C. P. R. express to pull in, when his arms were suddenly grasped by Reneau and another unknown man, while a third party, said to be Phil Simmons, struck the imprisoned man several blow on the face. Mr. Freeman, however, succeeded in throwing off his captors, and drawing a revolver, threatened to shoot the first man to come near him.

The whole affair was over so quickly, that no assistance could be rendered. Fortunately Dr. Burrows of Marlbank, was on the train when it arrived, and he gave the injured man immediate attention. He said the victim had sustained a broken nose, besides other severe injuries.

As soon as Mr. E. R. Huyck heard of the affair, he advised Justice of the Peace Davis, and asked that a warrant be issued for the arrest of Phil Simmons, but the magistrate refused to go to any expense to secure his arrest unless Mr. Huyck would guarantee the costs. Reeve Bowlby, who is also a justice of the Peace, was consulted by Magistrate Davis, and agreed that the costs must be guaranteed by Mr. Huyck. The latter then had to take the matter in his own hands, and wired the police in Peterborough to be on the lookout, as it was thought the men had boarded the west-bound express. The action of our local magistrates has caused a good deal of unfavourable comment.

43 MEN WANT TO BE JANITOR

Property Committee Has a Big Batch of Applications to Consider To-Night

It looks as if the Property Committee of the City Council is going to have difficulty in selecting a janitor for the city buildings and the trouble is not that there are not enough applicants, but rather too many. The committee has been advertising for applications for a week and they will be dealt with at the meeting to-night. No less than 43 men have applied for the position and the committee will have all kinds of trouble in selecting the man who is to receive $150 for looking after the city buildings and doing the messenger work in connection with the city hall.

The Chairman Quotes Law To The Medical Doctor

Mr. Wm. Eyres Again Writes Respecting Dr. Gray's "Schedule" of Prices—Dr. Bingham's Assertions in the Press

THE LAST WORD NOW

Editor Examiner.

In your paper of the 12th inst. I observe that Dr. Bingham is still persisting in misrepresenting and abusing me. My attention was first called to this matter last Monday by Dr. Bingham. I then told him that "the statements in the Examiner were not correct; that I never said that there was an epidemic of typhoid at Stony Lake or in Peterborough; that I was not responsible for what the Examiner said, and that I gave nothing to the Examiner for publication." I also told him in my last letter that "his assumed facts were not facts." What I did say was in substance, that "there was considerable typhoid at Stony Lake, and several of the patients were being brought to the Nicholls Hospital, and that it was now the duty of the Board of Health to guard carefully, that the disease be not allowed to spread in this city. I thought that this would end the matter, so far as the public press was concerned, and now it is Dr. Bingham who is keeping this matter before the public, and if there is any damage to this city, he, and he alone, is responsible. The doctor should have accepted my denial and explanation, and let it drop. But, no! I suppose he must do something for his salary,—which, I understand, is $400, and, so far as I know, he does little except oppose the Board of Health at almost every point. If our Council thinks that the doctor's course is beneficial to the city, I would suggest that it make the doctor the Board of Health, or, failing this, that it appoint an up-to-date Medical Health Officer who will assist your Health Board in the discharge of the important duties that it is so frequently called upon to perform, and that without a cent of salary.

Re Dr. Gray's statement published in your paper yesterday, I would say that the Board of Health is trying to obey the law—nothing more—and, for Dr. Gray's benefit, I am quoting the statutes respecting the responsibility of reporting cases of infectious diseases. The sections referring to it are as follows:

"Whenever any physician knows that any person whom he is called upon to visit is infected with smallpox, scarlet fever, diphtheria, typhoid fever or cholera, such physician shall (subject in case of refusal or neglect to the penalties provided by sub-section 2 of section 115) within 24 hours give notice thereof to the local Board of Health or Medical Health Officer of the municipality in which such diseased person is, and in such manner as is directed by rules 2 and 3 of section 17, of Schedule B., R.S.O., 1887, c. 208, s. 80.

"2—Any person who violates any other provisions of this Act shall, unless it is otherwise specially provided, be liable for every such offence to a penalty not exceeding $20, in the discretion of the convicting justices or magistrates, besides costs, which may also be inflicted if the convicting justices or magistrates see fit to impose the same." R.S.O. 1887, c 205, s. 106 (1-2).

I take it that the learned doctor is a law-abiding citizen, but whether he can be compelled to furnish reports re infectious diseases in the city without payment for same is not a question in my line just now, but I agree with the doctor that valuable services rendered should be paid for in some way. This question strikes others as well as the doctor, but to allow every man to be the judge of the law, and decide whether he shall or shall not obey it, would certainly lead to serious trouble. I prefer to be law-abiding, with the privilege of using all lawful means to have any errors supposed to be in the law corrected by the law-makers.

It is my intention to follow this discussion no further, no matter what Dr. Bingham may or may not say, believing, as I do, that it will do no good, and possibly might do harm.

Yours respectfully,
W. EYRES,
Chairman Board of Health.

The Peterborough local of the Barbers' Union will be considerably strengthened from now on by the fact that the barbers in Port Hope are joining the union, making a large increase in the membership. Messrs. Geo. Brousseau, president, and Harry Gainey, secretary of the local union, are in Port Hope to-day going through the necessary business in connection with the admittance into the Peterborough union of the barbers of that town.

It is likely that the Cobourg barbers will also become members of the Peterborough local, as a letter has been received from them, asking information about coming in as members, and it is altogether probable that in a few weeks they will also be admitted, which will give the local a membership of about sixty. The barbers of Lindsay are also discussing the advisability of such a step, but as yet nothing has been heard from them in connection with the matter.

WATES COMMISSIONERS DEFEND SUIT FOR $2.25 IN COURT

In the Division Court to-day the Peterborough Water Commissioners are defending a suit brought against them by Mr. Dumble for $2.25. The case is in many respects unique. It appears that Mr. Dumble, as the owner of a house signed an application for water service for the house and the lawn, on behalf of the tenant, and agreed to pay for the service. The tenant did not use the water on the lawn, and when the account was rendered there was an objection raised to paying the rates. They were, however, eventually paid, but but Mr. Dumble was of the opinion that if the water was not used on the lawn it should not be paid for, and his suit to-day is to recover the amount which he claims he has had to pay without adequate service having been given.

FORTY CASES IN DIVISION COURT AFTER LONG VACATION

The first sitting of the Division Court after the long vacation was held this morning before His Honour Judge Weller, and it was seen that the lawyers had not been idle during the summer, since the docket contained nearly forty cases, only a few of which, however, were taken up in detail to-day, the majority being laid over until a later session. One of those taken up was a suit entered by Miss M. Poole against Mr. P. T. Cuffe for $26.50, balance on rent due on a house on George street. Mr. Cuffe entered a counter claim for a similar amount for damages done to his furniture through an alleged defective roof. Judgment was given Miss Poole for $13, the difference between that amount and the claim being allowed Mr. Cuffe for damages. Mr. L. M. Hayes acted for the plaintiff, and Mr. R. F. McWilliams for the defendant.

NEW TIME TABLE ON THE G.T.R.

Will Likely go into Effect About the End of September—Morning Train to Port Hope Likely To Be Continued

The fall time table of the Grand Trunk Railway will, in all probability, go into effect on the last Sunday in this month. It is not anticipated that so far as Peterborough is concerned, there will be any material changes. The usual winter service will be given to Lakefield, two trains each way, instead of three, as at present.

The new morning train to Port Hope, and returning at 11.45, put on the run this summer for the first time, will, in all probability, be continued during the winter. It has proved a great convenience during the few months that it has been running and enables persons leaving Toronto at nine o'clock to reach Peterborough before noon. A considerable local traffic, too, has been developed since the new train was put on.

THE TRAVELLERS REPORT GOOD BUSINESS

Peterborough Merchants are Buying Liberally—Prospects for Satisfactory Winter's Trade

The usual fall rush of commercial travellers has commenced, and this week the city is besieged with the knights of the grip. After the Toronto exhibition, the travellers for the wholesale houses in that city are sent out upon the road, and those coming east usually make a line for Peterborough, which is usually the first stop for them this side of Toronto. As a result the lives of the local merchants are being made miserable these days.

The travellers, however, are content. The business prospects, so far as Peterborough is concerned, they report, are excellent, and the merchants are buying good bills of goods, in the expectation that the winter's business will be satisfactory.

Superstitions on Skin Diseases

Of all superstitions probably the most foolish is that when a rash or sore is healed and cured by means of external applications, it will "strike in" and do further harm. No reputable physician will give countenance to such a notion. Skin diseases of every form, and especially eczema, salt rheum, scald head, etc., are promptly relieved and certainly cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

OTONABEE'S FIRST TRIP TO CHEMONG

Steamer Ran Excursion Yesterday From Chemong to Clear Lake for The Canadian Foresters

Yesterday the steamer Otonabee ran her first excursion on Chemong Lake. The excursion was under the auspices of Court Bridgenorth, Canadian Order of Foresters, and the objective point was South Beach, on Clear Lake. There was a good crowd on board, and a pleasant trip is reported, the Bridgenorth and Chemong people patronizing the steamer well on her first appearance on this water. She returned to Peterborough to-day in time to make her regular Friday night trip to Rice Lake for the Saturday week-end journey to Peterborough.

THE HOUSES ARE TO BE RE-NUMBERED

Legal Committee Took up The Matter Yesterday Afternoon

The Legal Committee of the City Council met yesterday afternoon, to take up the question of improving the street numbering service in Peterborough, which has been referred to them by the council. There has been much complaint about the way in which house are numbered, or rather not numbered, in some sections of the city.

It was finally decided that the houses on all streets west of Park and south of Lake streets, should be re-numbered, and this will be recommended to th council on Monday night.

MOORS ARE ROUTED IN BATTLE

Allied Armies Make Successful Move on Taddert.

BOMBARD TRIBESMEN'S CAMP

Enemy Flee to the Hills Leaving Many Dead on the Field—French Losses Small—Moors Set Fire to Farms and Woods—Sudden Attack Was Made Under Cover of Fog—Completely Routed.

Casablanca, Sept. 13.—The allied Franco-Spanish army on Wednesday made a sudden and successful move on Taddert, where the Moors were massed in force.

The camp of the latter was destroyed by bombardment, and the enemy was put to flight, leaving many dead on the field. The French lost one man killed and six men wounded.

The attack was carefully planned, and was based largely on the observations of the Moors' position made from a military balloon.

The allied army, which was divided into two columns, left the camp at 6 o'clock in the morning, leaving several companies of infantry to defend the base at Casablanca.

The first column was composed of four companies of regular infantry, several companies of sharpshooters, a battery of artillery and all the cavalry.

The second consisted of six companies of infantry and a battery of artillery. The march was skillfully carried out under the cover of a fog until within half way to Taddert, when the fog lifted and disclosed several large bands of the enemy.

The allies then charged several large bands of the enemy at the point of the bayonet, and although the Moors resisted with their old-time courage they were finally compelled to retreat in the face of a superior force, and both of the columns of allied troops advanced on Taddert.

After the bombardment of that place by the French artillery, as well as by the guns of the French cruiser Gloire, which fired 75 shells, the allied infantry advanced on the Moors' camp, where the enemy was making a last, desperate stand. A short engagement followed, and the Moors fled in wild disorder, pursued for several miles by the irregular Algerian cavalry in the French service. The Moorish camp was destroyed. The exact loss of the Moors is not known, as they carried away many of their dead.

The allied army later returned to Casablanca.

During the engagement the Moors endeavored to employ their now familiar tactics of circling rapidly in front of the advancing troops, with the object of cutting them off and surrounding a section of the allied forces, but the attempt utterly failed yesterday, largely on account of the rapid advance of the two independent columns, whose movements seemed to puzzle the Moors and made them believe that a trap was laid for them. When assailed from a long line of troops, the Moors retreated from Taddert, where many of them fell under the accurate firing of the field artillery and the guns of the Gloire, at anchor off the coast.

When the Moors saw their camp in flames, they set fire to all the farms and woods which they could reach, and soon the country surrounding Taddert became covered with smoke and flames.

Gen. Drude personally conducted the military operations.

Paris, Sept. 13.—The War Minister, Gen. Picquart, yesterday received the following despatch from Gen. Drude, commanding the French troops at Casablanca:

"I am pleased to notify you that, thanks to a land fog we have been able to surprise the Moroccan camp at Taddert, which was burned. The Moors were dispersed and fled to the hills, followed by the shells of our artillery and effective projectiles from the Gloire. On our side one man was killed and six were wounded."

Got Away With $100,000.

New Orleans, Sept. 13.—Charles E. Letten, chief clerk in the office of the first district tax collector here, who disappeared two days ago, leaving a shortage of over $100,000, was discovered yesterday afternoon standing on the banks of the Mississippi, attempting to summon up courage enough to jump in the water and commit suicide.

He said he had started toward the water several times, but each time his courage had failed him.

He made a full confession.

Hog Frightened Horse.

St. Vincent, Sept. 13.—Joseph Taylor, a farmer near Meaford, was putting his team in the stable about 6 o'clock when a hog ran into the stall where he was unharnessing a horse. The beast began to plunge and kick and knocked Mr. Taylor down, rendering him unconscious. When found both jaw bones were broken, as well as his nose, while his head and body were a mass of cuts and bruises. He lingered unconscious until Tuesday morning, when he died.

Colchester, Sept. 13.—The body of a young man was found on the lake shore two miles west of here yesterday morning, with the letters "P. D. L." tattooed on the right arm. The body is supposed to be that of Percy Langdon of Conneaut, Ohio, who was drowned from a small boat near Bar Point one day last week.

ALIENS MUST LEAVE THE COUNTRY

Bellingham Asiatics Receive Anonymous Letters.

JAPS THREATEN TO FIGHT

Chinese Will Not Make Strong Stand—Canning Industry Will Suffer—Tokio Press Comments on Vancouver Riot—Trusts Canada to Protect Orientals — Admits Japs Are Not Good Class.

Bellingham, Wash., Sept. 13.—An anonymous letter received here warns all Japanese and Chinese in this city to leave at once.

Japanese working at the canneries are armed and say they will resist any attempt to force them out of town. The Chinese, however, will not make a strong stand.

E. B. Deming, general manager of the Pacific American Fisheries, says if the Orientals leave, the salmon canning industry is doomed.

Tokio, Sept. 13.—The Jiji says in reference to the recent trouble at Vancouver.

"The regret already expressed by the Canadian Government, with assurances of the prevention of the recurrence of a similar incident, even a royal message having been sent to the Dominion authorities in reference there to, furnishes the clearest evidence that the Japanese have official sympathy on their side. However, the power of the Dominion Government at Ottawa, and the Canadian police are more efficient than those at San Francisco, and there is every reason to believe that the fullest protection will be given to our compatriots at Vancouver.

The Hochi publishes the experience of a high Japanese official who visited a place near Vancouver, where Japanese are engaged in salmon fishing. He went in company with the Japanese consul and men who had interests there, and states that the Japanese laborers fairly insulted the party, saying: "You have no business here. Run away or receive our fists."

The paper quotes this Japanese official as saying that the Japanese there were the roughest and rudest he had ever seen. They were totally ignorant of common politeness and he did not wonder they had become objects of hatred. They are ready to insult their consul when in good health, but when taken sick they appear at the consulate for assistance, as if claiming it by right. The presence of such characters only arouse the enmity of their neighbor.

Japan's Good Taste.

London, Sept. 13.—(C. A. P.)—The Morning Post remarks, anent the statement that Japan will voluntarily limit immigration to Canada, that in thus refraining from demanding her pound of flesh Japan is showing her good will in a more convincing way than another power which, exploiting the friendship of a kindred nation, habitually claims two pounds for every pound guaranteed by treaty.

Hindoos Have Money.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 13.—The eight hundred Hindoos who arrived Wednesday night on the Monteagle debarked yesterday morning. There is no semblance of trouble.

They scattered around the town. More than half the number will have to sleep in tents.

They are well supplied with money, averaging $50 each. Many will go on railway work up country.

There is not one woman amongst the immigrants.

Cathedral Dedicated.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Sept. 13.—The dedication of the new St. Dunstan's Cathedral, the construction of which was commenced 11 years ago, took place yesterday. The interior has just been completed, although services have been held for some years in the uncompleted building.

The naves of the church are about 20 feet in width and are majestically flanked by a tier of wall columns on one side and the grand arch columns on the other, and when viewed perspectively convey some idea of the grandeur which marks the monumental Gothic churches built in England and France during the 12th and 13th centuries. The transept measures 120 feet by 42 feet and the ceiling of both its extremities are vaulted across this span by beautiful larches of Norman design.

Labor Scarce In West.

Winnipeg, Sept. 13.—The crop situation is still bright. A large proportion of the crop in Manitoba has been cut, and stacking is in progress. The scarcity of labor is causing alarm in spite of the large number flocking to the west. Reports from northern Saskatchewan and Alberta state that late crops are now suffering from severe frosts, but these reports are in the minority. It is estimated that 75 per cent. of the wheat was cut before the arrival of damaging frost.

Fatal Blast at Cobalt.

Cobalt, Sept. 13.—Jandre Kuartere, while at work on the scaffolding on Kendall shaft of the Nipissing Mining Co., was yesterday killed by a piece of rock fired from a blast on the Kerr Lake branch of the T. & N. O. Railway. The blast sent a stump about 200 feet in the air. The unfortunate man was 500 feet away.

MAIL TRAIN ROBBED OF VALUABLES

Masked Thieves Compelled Engineer to Stop Express.

CRAWLED OVER THE TENDER

Kept Up Continual Fusilade With Their Guns—Passengers Were Terrified — Robbers Rifled Registered Mail Bags—Found Nothing In Safe After Blowing It Open With Dynamite — Reward.

St. Paul, Sept. 13.—The Great Northern Oriental Limited train, No. 1, which left St. Paul Tuesday morning, was held up by two masked men near Rexford, Mont., early yesterday morning.

The robbers crawled over the tender, and at the point of their guns commanded the engineer to stop the train. The robbers kept up a continual fusilade with their guns to terrify the passengers.

The robbers went through the mail cars and robbed the sacks of a large quantity of registered mail. Then they went into an express car, which carried an overflow of mail, baggage and express, and which contained a regular through safe. After exploding three dynamite charges, the safe was opened and found to be empty.

On finding the safe empty, the highwaymen helped themselves to the registered mail, and, after firing a parting volley, disappeared.

A reward of $5,000 is offered for them.

NATIONS TO ARBITRATE.

Model Treaty for General Use Drafted at The Hague.

The Hague, Sept. 13.—Special care was taken in drafting the general arbitration treaty just concluded, in behalf of their respective Governments, by the Italian and Argentine delegates to the Peace Conference, in order that it may serve as a model for other treaties of like nature which Italy and Argentina expect to conclude with other countries.

By the terms of this treaty, the two countries interested agree to submit to arbitration all the differences which may arise between them, with the exception of those affecting provisions of the constitution or questions of nationality. In case of a conflict of views, each country will appoint an arbitrator, and they will appoint a third. In the event of the two countries being unable to agree on the appointment of a third arbitrator, the appointment will be made by the Queen of the Netherlands.

FIRED LUMBER YARD.

Then Drove Jews Into the Flames—Atrocities at Kishinev.

Vienna, Sept. 13.—According to the reports received here the disturbances which caused the circulation of alarming rumors in Roumania began at Kishinev, Bessarabia, during the night of Sept. 8.

A band of rowdies which arrived there from Odessa were joined by a Kishinev mob and committed fearful outrages in the suburbs. They set fire to a lumber yard, into which the Jews, who were aroused from their sleep, were driven.

The police, during the disturbances, were entirely passive.

These Factories "O. K."

St. Catharines, Sept. 13.—Local canners are indignant at the published reports of conditions said to exist in local factories, and invited an inspection by the city newspapers, which was made yesterday. Both The Standard and Star-Journal declare that all the city factories are in the best possible condition, and to be sanitary, clean and healthy.

Concrete Preserves Bodies.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 13.—Delegates to the Portland Centennial cement manufacturers' convention, in session here, reported the discovery that concrete lined graves, hermetically sealed, would preserve bodies far longer than any other method except the embalming of the ancients.

Treaty Approved.

London, Sept. 13.—(C. A. P.)—The approval of the British Government has been given to the Franco-Canadian treaty, but some small matters of details are still unsettled.

A Big Crowd is Expected For The Game To-Morrow

Cobourg Despatch Says That all The Fans of That City Will be on Hand---85c Gives the Peterborough Enthusiasts a Chance to See The Game

The local members of the Peterborough baseball club had a lively practice at Riverside Park yesterday afternoon and are in the best of shape for the big game with Port Hope in Cobourg to-morrow. With the line-up that has been selected for the game Peterborough should win, although they will have to fight all the way.

A despatch from Cobourg says that the biggest crowd that even saw a ball game in that place is expected to-morrow. All the Cobourg fans will be on hand with a big representation from Port Hope and Peterborough. The diamond is in grand shape and on such a perfect ground the game should be decidedly fast.

The Peterborough rooters will accompany the team in large numbers and one of the biggest excursions ever taken out of town by the ball team is expected to leave to-morrow to see the final game in the Midland League.

A special train will leave the G.T.R. station at 1.30 o'clock, leaving Cobourg on the return trip at 7.30 o'clock. The return fare is only 85 cents, one of the lowest rates ever secured for an excursion to Cobourg.

The Peterborough team will line-up as follows:—

Burns, lf.
Hickey, 1b.
Burridge, c.
Cheatham, s.s.
Haliburton, 3b.

The Rugby Club Elected Officers For The Season

Enthusiastic Gathering Was Held in the Oriental Hotel Last Night---Mr. Crowley Will Manage the Team With The Mayor As President

A most enthusiastic meeting of rugby players and supporters was held in the Oriental Hotel parlours last night, when the officers for the season were elected, and other business necessary to the successful working of the club transacted. There was a large attendance, and a feeling of confidence that the coming season will be a most successful one seemed to pervade the gathering. With the material that is in sight and with the excellent board of officers that was elected last night, there seems no reason why this confident feeling should not be realized this season.

Among those present last night were Mayor McWilliams, who occupied the chair; Messrs. T. W. McDonough, W. F. Crowley, E. Hurtubise, C. G Graham, J Crough, J E Sullivan, Jas. Dorris, R Cameron, E S Clarry, R Hall, A T Johnston, Harry Burridge, Corney Burns, Graham Ferguson, J D Clarke, W J Metheral, S T Caniff, and others.

No decision was arrived at as to what series the team will play in this year. The matter was discussed at some length, and the general feeling seemed to be that if the proposed Big-Four Union, of the Rough Riders, Montreal, Argos and Tigers, is not carried out, the Toronto Victorias and Peterborough should go into the intermediate ranks and form a strong series with the western teams, leaving the Argos and Tigers to fish for themselves, as one speaker expressed it. If, of course, the Victorias want to remain in the senior series, the Peterborough club will likely follow their example. If, on the other hand, the union is formed as proposed, the team will have no course to follow but play in the series that the O.R.F.U. shall decide to be the senior. The matter was left in the hands of the club's representative on the executive.

The election of officers was then proceeded with, resulting as follows:

Patrons and Patronesses — Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Patterson, Hon. and Mrs. J. R. Stratton, Dr. and Mrs. Wightman.

Hon. President — A. A. Hollingshead.

President—Mayor McWilliams.
1st Vice-Pres.—E. Hurtubise.
2nd Vice-Pres.—C G Graham.
Secretary—T W McDonough.
Treasurer—Jas. D Clarke.
Manager—W F Crowley.
Executive Committee—E A Ford, J E Sullivan, S T Caniff, A T Johnston and R Cameron.
Team Committee — The captain, when elected, and manager.

The question of securing lights for practising at nights was left in abeyance for the present. It was announced that the club had been granted the use of Riverside Park free of charge for practice purposes.

The membership tickets, it was decided, should be placed at $1, the same as last year. The announcement was made that Mr. Ed. Huff, the George street tailor, had donated to the club a pair of $8 trousers, for which draws might be made, and money obtained in that way.

Another offer which is much appreciated is that of Mr. Fred Cook, to supply the team with streamers for advertising purposes free of charge.

RUGBY PRACTICE TO-MORROW

All The Players are Requested to be in Uniform

There will be a practice of the Peterborough Rugby Club to-morrow afternoon at 3.30 at Riverside Park, and as many as possible of the players are asked to be out in uniform. As outdoor practice at nights may be arranged, it is important that good use should be made of the few Saturday afternoons that intervene before the opening of the season. There is plenty of material in the city, but it will take a lot of practice to get the team into championship shape. Anyone who intends to play the game this season should get out to-morrow if it is at all possible, and a practice game may be played. The invitation is open to all the players of the city, senior and City League alike.

LINDSAY'S IDEAS ON THE BIG GAME

The Post Makes Some Comments on To-Morrow's Battle

The Lindsay Post has the following to say of to-morrow"s big ball game:

The championship of the Midland League will be decided on Saturday between Peterborough and Port Hope, at Cobourg, when these two teams play the third and final game of the series of three.

"Big Chief" Crawford of the Port Hope crowd, is leaving no stone unturned to bring the laurels to the Ontario town, but Manager Johnston doesn"t see things in that light. All Peterborough will be on hand to holler and it is a foregone conclusion that Cobourg will do their best for the Petes.

Port Hope wanted to play in Toronto. Don't wonder a bit when Cobourg was the optional town.

They say Peterborough and Port Hope play Eastern League ball. Well, they hire Eastern League ball players.

Fast as Eastern League ball, said the Port Hope Guide, referring to the Peterborough-Port Hope game on Saturday. Well, there"s nothing like having a good opinion of oneself, anyway.

Port Hope Baseball Club will wind up the season with a dance in the town hall to-night. The Petes will no doubt think the affair somewhat premature — they had arranged to make the Port Hopers dance to their music next Saturday in the final game for the championship.

A meeting to decide on placing a junior team in the O. R. F. U., will be held in the Y.M.C.A. to-night, when it is likely a club will be organized.

PORT HOPE TO BENCH SURPHLIS

Report That He Will Not do The Twirling for the Team in Final Game

The chances are that the redoubtable Henry Surphlis will not do the twirling for Port Hope to-morrow in the final game for the League championship in Cobourg. The Port Hope Guide yesterday, had the following item in reference to it:—

There is a rumour about town that Surphlis will not occupy the box on Saturday, and while there is some foundation for this story it might be well to explain the circumstances. Last Saturday's game was a very strenuous one and when about half over Surphlis strained his side severely and is still suffering from the effects of it. He has been unable to work this week, but is feeling much better to-day, and Manager Crawford has every hope that he will be in shape for the game.

Should Surphlis be unable to play, a fast twirler will be on hand, so the local enthusiasts may rest assured that Port Hope will be represented by a strong nine. It is the desire of the management and in fact of every Port Hoper to have Surphlis pitch the game. He has pulled Port Hope out in many a hard struggle and in our opinion is the best amateur pitcher in Ontario. Surphlis will be in uniform at any rate and if Port Hope needs his assistance he will take a chance on the sore side.

Charge is Apparently Laid Against The Wrong Party

Mr. Lawless May Not Have Had Possession of Lakefield House on August 3rd---Case Adjourned To Discover This Point---Government Detectives in Court---Counsel For Licensed Victuallers' Association Conducted Case For Defendant.

All that remains to be shown in the charge against J. A. Lawless, formerly of Peterborough, of selling liquor on August 3rd, is when the proprietorship of the Lakefield House was changed to Mr. Quinn; and from the evidence and discussion which took place, this morning, before Magistrate Edmison, it appears that the alleged offence was committed, not while Mr. Lawless had possession of the premises, but after he had handed over the business to the present proprietor. Mr. Jas. A. Haverson was present in the interests of the defendant and surprised the crown by attempting to show that his client was not in possession of the hotel on August 3rd.

The Crown's evidence rested principally on two license detectives sent out by the department in Toronto, who stated they had received the liquor on the above mentioned date at 6.25 o'clock in the evening. Mr. Jos. Stewart, License Inspector, who laid the information, was also in the witness box for the prosecution. The case was not concluded this morning, but was adjourned until this afternoon; when Mr. Quinn was summoned to show when the transfer took place.

In opening the case Mr. Jas. A. Haverson, K.C., of Toronto, counsel for the License Victuallers' Association, who, assisted by Mr. G. W. Hatton, who was counsel for the defendant, asked that the three charges be taken up at once. Mr. W. H. Moore, acting Crown Attorney, objected, and the charge of selling liquor at 6.25 p.m., on August 3rd, without a license, was first taken up. Mr. C. Clementi acted as court stenographer.

The first witness for the Crown was Mr. Richard Hanson of Toronto. He testified to Mr. Moore that he was in Lakefield on August 3 at the hotel, then managed by Mr. Arthur J. Lawless. He entered the bar with Walter Belleau about 6.25 in the evening. He did not see any liquor bottles behind the bar. There were two other men with them who asked for some kind of soft drink. The two men, he thought, were the captains of two steamboats. Mr. Simpson was tending bar. One of the captains asked if he wanted gingerale.

"I will if I have to," the witness answered.

The bar-tender poured out some whisky, he said, and then was going to put in some gingerale, but, said the witness, "I told him not to spoil it, and I received and drank the pure liquor."

Mr. Belleau was with him at the time, and he received whisky, too. He paid forty cents for the four drinks.

To Mr. Haverson the witness stated that there were four or five more in the bar at the time, but he did not know who the others were. He remained there about four minutes.

Mr. Haverson asked when he returned, but the witness refused to answer. Mr. Moore objected to evidence about any charge taking place after the one at 6.25 before the court, but the counsel for the defence submitted that he was not transgressing on any second charge.

"The learned counsel for the crown," he said, "is trying to close all avenues of escape I have, and I shall not allow it."

The witness then stated that he entered the bar on two other occasions afterwards, and, as on the first occasion, he saw Simpson.

He also stated that he was a license detective, working for the License Department of Toronto.

"You go about asking men to violate the law?"

"No, I dont," said the witness.

The evidence of witness, Hanson, closed with a few more questions, and the Crown asked for the next witness. Inspector Stewart went out to the room where the witness, Belleau was in waiting, but the reading of the evidence of the first witness necessitated a delay. The inspector remained with the second witness, but Mr. Haverson strongly objected to this, and hastily brought the inspector in, remarking, as he did, that there were too many dummies in the court.

Second Witness

Walter Belleau of Toronto was the second witness for the crown. He knew the defendant's hotel in Lakefield, and had visited it on August 3. He had whisky and gingerale on the first occasion. The whisky was gotten under the bar out of a tin, and the gingerale was drawn from a bottle. He was certain that Hanson took gingerale in his whisky.

In further cross-examination, Mr. Haverson induced the witness to take back the statement that the hotel belonged to the defendant, as he was not certain.

To Mr. Moore, Belleau said that he thought his friend, Hanson, took gingerale and whisky.

License Inspector Stewart next took the box, after considerable cross-firing between the counsel in connection with his not being excluded, while the other witnesses were testifying. Mr. Stewart visited the Lakefield House in July, when he told Mr. Lawless that he had to provide it with a ladder as a fire escape. He went back about August 10, but did not see Mr. Lawless. He saw Mr. Quinn in the bar, and asked him where the proprietor was, to which Quinn replied that he was the proprietor. The inspector also said to Mr. Haverson that he would not swear that Lawless was the proprietor of the house on August 3.

Adjournment Asked

Mr. Moore asked for an adjournment of the case until a witness could be called to show just when the change of proprietorship took place, as he had been taken by surprise at the questioning of the defendant's management of the hotel when the alleged breach of the law took place, Mr. Haverson objected to this stating the defendant had papers to show that the business had changed hands on August 1st, and that he was not on August 3rd the proprietor of the Lakefield House.

Mr. Moore gain claimed a surprise and asked again the right of an adjournment. The Magistrate stated that the Crown had no reason to claim a surprise.

Mr. Haverson submitted that it was Mr. Stewart's business to find out when the change of ownership took place. The inspector had accidentally stated, but not in evidence, that Mr. Quinn told him he took possession on August 7th, and therefore Mr. Stewart should have taken every means to bring Mr. Quinn to court, to prove that this was true. The defendant and the defendant's solicitor were present, he said, with the necessary documents to show that the change of proprietorship took place on August 1st.

After more cross firing on the question between the counsels Mr. Lawless was placed in the box for the second time, but before the difference rested he again resumed his seat and the Magistrate decided to adjourn the case until this afternoon at 3 o'clock, when the prosecution agreed to bring Mr. Quinn from Lakefield, to determine when the change exactly took place.

Eternal Battle With Microbes; The Part Science is Taking

The Germs of Disease in The Human Body and the Modern Means of Fighting Them—How Science Helps

TO CURE CONSUMPTION

Bacteria in the Water Supply and the Serious Effect Upon The Public Health—Some Interesting Statistics

If you could be reduced by some fantastic necromancy, to the microscopic world, you would not necessarily become a vicious microbe, you might even be a virtuous and valiant protector of the human microcosm that gave you refuge; or you might look on, as many do in the major world, indifferent to concerns around you, happy in an innocuous existence.

The virtuous agents have not yet received much attention, their good deeds dying with them. The vicious are ever in our thoughts, adn constantly invading our bodies, which fortunately are provided with armies of defence, ever on the watch to encounter enemies to internal peace and disorder. The blood contains myriads of these. If the bacillus tuberculosis, for instance, gets into your right knee, thither rush armies of leucocytes, or white corpuscles of the blood, to do battle with the foe. But, strange to relate, our defenders cannot do their duty without certain chemical fluid, which prepares the bacteria for assimilation in the nuclei of the corpuscles. In the absence of this, which is called opsonin, the white corpuscles are inert, and pay no heed while the bacilli tear down walls of tissue and and pile up their scrap heaps of disease. But tthe opsonins—each class of bacteria have their special kind—are invariably present in the blood, and the fortunes of the body depend on their quantity.

There may not be sufficient of opsonin of tuberculosis and the patient is unable to combat the disease, but if typhoid germs entered, it may have an easy victory. So, when a person has local consumption, the latest idea is to ascertain, what is the relation of the specific opsonin in the diseased body to that in a normal individual, and the variation is what is known as the opsonic index. When this has been ascertained, the doctors set about trying to stimulate the creation of this material, and it is done by injecting under the skin an emulsion of dead bacilli tuberculosis, the very microbe from which the patient is suffering. This the opsonin has an affinity for, just as though they were alive; and, in accordance with the custom of the human system, the body responds by making a vigorous effort to create more opsonin; and there arises an excess of the fluid that cripples the bacilli, and render them a prey to the white corpuscles. The opsonic index rises; but later the temporary stimulus wanes and a fresh emulsion is injected, the index this time surpassing the point reached before, and so on, with each fresh injection, until the white corpuscles absorb and digest the whole of the bacilli and the patient is restored to health.

The Time to Fight

Of course much depends on the ability of the body to respond to the stimulus, and if it is too low in vitality, it cannot do so, and doctors wait for a favourable time, when the index is comparatively high, for the system fluctuates a great deal during disease, and, if caught at the right time, may be maintained on the upward movement and kept from going back to the low point to which it had previously sunk.

The taking of the opsonic index is the latest aid to the cure of the sick. The method was discovered by Professor Wright of London, and is being adopted in Toronto and Winnipeg, where a doctor, who studied under the discoverer, recently did some work at the medical college. The provincial bacteriologist is now taking up the study, and has applied it to several cases of local tuberculosis and cycosis (an affection caused by the germ staphylococus), obtaining good results. The process has a drawback, because it demands too much time for it to be carried out by the ordinary medical man. It also requires much care. The work, however, will probably be done in connection with the pathological department of the hospitals.

The methods employed are too technical for popular description. A number of glass pipettes are used for taking up the bacteria, white corpuscles and the opsonin, which is to be found in the blood plasma. Without the opsonin the corpuscles do not work, but in its presence they immediately become active, and some, at least, of the bacteria are soon found in the nuclei of the corpuscles, being digested and absorbed. The pipettes are like fountain pen fillers, only much longer and of a fineness, which justifies the description of the stem as being capillarly. By means of this instrument the separated and washed parts of the blood are sucked up in the requisite quantities; and subsequently it is incubated. After, a smear is made, and examined under the microscope. The movements of the bacteria are watched, and the number of these inside the nuclei of the white corpuscles are counted. The results are compared with the achievements of the opsonin in the normal man; and it is invariably discovered that the numbers of bacteria inside the white corpuscles of the standard smear are generally more. The relation of these figures is the opsonic index. In order to ascertain this, much delicate work has to be performed, the whole process occupying about three hours. So it is obviously out of the question that doctors should undertake it; and it must be done, if anywhere, in the pathological departments of the hospitals or at the government and civic bacteriological establishments.

Where Opsonins are Protectors

Opsonins do not exist for all diseases. The protective agency, in some cases, is anti-toxins. But in so far as diseases caused by staphylococcus pyogenes are concerned, diseases such as furunculosis, acne, and cycosis, or those other diseases caused yb bacillus tuberculosis, there can be no doubt that they stake their existence against an opsonic combat.

Professor Wright reported to the Royal Society a case of boils which illustrates the beneficial use to which knowledge of this fact has been put. The patient was a medical man who had suffered from boils almost continuously for years. His opsonic index was 0.6 to staphylococus pyogenes (the bacteria that causes such eruptions). Wright inoculated him with 2,000,000,000 dead staphylococci. On the day following there was a diminution of the quantity of opsonins. From this point, however, there was a steady rise in opsonic power from day to day until an index of 1.4 was reached. While the opsonic power was still high, another inoculation was given, which resulted first in a negative phase, than a rapid increase to a high tide of opsonic power equal to twice the normal. The clinical result was eminently satisfactory. After several weeks of treatment the boils quite disappeared."

Dr. Wright's methods are also useful in diagnosing systemic consumption. It, however, cannot supply a remedy because of certain peculiarities of the disease, which render it impossible to ascertain whether the consumption would be fed or the body stimulated to resist.

It may be mentioned for comparison that while there are 5,000,000 red corpuscles in a cubic millimetre, the number of polynucolear white corpuscles that scavenge the blood is only from 6,000 to 8,000. These are merely infinitesimally small particles of protoplasm, like water amoebe, which make a projection of their cell and enfold a speak of matter, too small to see with the naked eye, and gradually assimilate it.

The Bacteriologist

The bacteriologist, who handles micro-organisms, strikes you almost as a magician. The light and inconsequential way in which he fingers tubes, charged with the unnumbered hosts of disease and death, reminds you of a snake charmer; he allows them to welter in clear soup and muttiply or, it may be, to form a striated culture on agar, which resembles gelatin, but has the advantage of remaining solid at blood heat, which the former does not. When he wishes to stimulate their re-production, which, in many instances takes place once in twenty minutes, he puts his bacteria into an incubator. This instrument is on thes ame principle as the poultry incubator; but is of more refined workmanship, possessing doors of furbished copper and a water jacket.

Dr Pierce, who is in charge of the city laboratory, while Dr. Leeming is away, frequently sets microbes to catch microbes—at least he uses them to manifest the presence of typhoid in the blood. This is what is known as the Widal reaction test. A drop of a patient's blood is drawn off, say from the ear, and diluted. Next, a very small part of serum is mixed with a pure culture of typhoid. In about 15 or 2 0minutes the bacteria, which twist andt urn and wriggle about, lose their activity and eventually become clumped together. Something which the fresh bacteria brought with it from the blod has caused the bacteria of the pure culture to stick together. This agglutinating matter is always present in the blood, when typhoid germs exist. Of course, if there is no sticking together, the patient is pronounced not to have typhoid; but is suffering from some other disease. The symptoms of the disease are not very definite and in the first two or three days even the most experienced doctors are deceived. After about a week has elapsed the patient"s ear is pricked, and a small sample of blood taken, the same being subsequently sent to the city bacteriologist, whose test is supposedt o be final.

Diphtheria and Consumption

Examinations for diphtheria are also made. The laboratory supplies medical men with a wire, having a swab of cotton wool at the end. The patient's tonsils and throat are rubbed with this, and what the swab takes up is analysed by the bacteriologist, to whom it is returned in the box in which it was sent out. The box is also labelled, showing the name of both doctor and patient. The swab is subsequently scraped over the surface of a special diphtheria culture, consisting of the serum of an ox, and bouillon, which also contains sugar. This culture has been boiled and has set like an egg does. Now diphtheria is a fast growing germ, and on the culture being put into the incubator overnight, there will be a growth of germs the next morning, most of which may be assumed to be diphtheria. The culture is then examiend under the microscope, and the bateriologist ascertains whether it has the diphtheria germ or not.

In the city laboratory sputum is also tested for tuberculosis. It is spread on a glass slide, dried, fixed, stained and examined under a microscope. The film on the glass is first stained red; and then it is subjected to a dilute acid, which takes the red out of everything except the tubercle bacteria. The film is then counterstained in blue. When the bacteria is present you get a red-stained organism on a blue background.

The bacteriologist is the doctor's factotum. His laboratory is the resort of the profession. He examines urines for Bright's disease and other ills; he investigates stomach contents, and he tests water and milk for deleterious organisms.

Water Tests

The bacteriological examination of water is about the most complicated work there is. The germ sought after to prove contamination is the bacillus, which inhabits the intestines of every warm blooded animal, and whose presence therefore signifies that there is sewage in the water.

No attempt is made to separate out the individual species of bacilli; but the presence of bacillus coli is sufficient to suspect that there may also be typhoid in the water. The chase after the bacillus has not its equal in sport. There are two parts to the analysis: first a count of the micro-organisms in a cubic centimetre; and second the examination of those present to see whether they are injurious. The bacteriologist puts a cubic centimetre of water into two Petri dishes, which do not look unlike glass pin trays. Two test tubes of agar are then heated until liquid; allowed to cool down to 40 degrees centigrade; and poured into the glass dishes. It solidifies, and is then put into the incubator. The jelly holds the germs, and if they are to multiply they must do so in the spot, where they first located themselves.

When the germs, if any, have been growing for 24 hours in the incubator, the colonies can be plainly seen; they are little round disoks. Each of these colonies has developed from one microbe. You can therefore count the number of germs to each cubic centimetre, the original water which was being experimented with having been carefully sub-divided. If no colonies are found no bacilli are present; at least, if they are, they cannot be one to every cubic centimetre and are consequently of small account.

One of the Petri plates contains litmus coloured agar. If there are acid forming germs the litmus around them will turn red. A certain number of the red colonies are then picked out and reproduction takes place on agar. If one of the test tubes proves not to contain coli, then the others may. The organism is first examined under a microscope to see if it has the form of the bacillus coli, but even if it has that is no conclusive test because there are similar organisms. Next the bacteriologist has to note whether the organism is non-motile, which is one of the characteristics of bacillus coli. Then a culture has to be planted, and it is tested in a fermentation tube for gas. If it does

The bacillus has been missed and the bactreiologist will have to retest. If, however, he finds that the bacillus produced about 50 per cent. gas, then that would be another point in the elucidation. Then, again there is the gas formula to be ascertained. The gas should consist of one part of carbon dioxide (the gas human beings expire) and two parts hydrogen. The two gases are separated by a mixture of caustic soda, which absorbs the carbon dioxide. When this takes place, the remainder is tested for the hydrogen over a flame, hydrogen causing an explosion. The gases are also measured.

A further stage in the process is the planting of the organism in gelatin, which certain microbes liquify, but bacillus coli does not. Coli, however, coagulates milk. All these conditions have to be fulfilled or the germ must be accounted something other than the bacillus sought. The final test is the growth of the germ in a medium containing nothing but peptone and, perhaps, a little salt. This should give rise to a substance called indol. Such a reaction shows that it is the bacillus coli; and that the water has been contaminatde with sewage.

Local Milk Good

In connection with milk, a bacterial count is made; and, if the number of organisms is high, the fluid is regarded as suspicious. There is no isolation for typhoid; because no satisfactory process has yet been devised. Dr. Pierce says that much of the local milk is exceptionally low in micro organisms. The method of discovering tuberculosis is to inject a portion of the sediment of milk into guinea pigs. In two or three weeks they are killed, and the carcase examined for the bacillus tuberculosis. This, however, is not done in the civic laboratory.

Cultures of pure typhoid and diphtheria are sold by manufacturers, just like any other commodities, but most of the basteriologists grow their own cultures.

Dr. Gordon Bell, the Provincial bacteriologist, covers very much the same field as the city basteriologist. He undertakes most of the post-mortems, prepares the specimens of diseased organs in pickle for the museum and examines the anthrax and black-leg and other diseases of animals, besides doing a great deal of work in connection with the hospital and medical college.

Dr. Leeming, the city basteriologist, is now at Professor Wrights' laboratory, studying opsonins with a view to applying the knowledge in Winnipeg. He and Dr. Bell will be able to co-operate when he returns, and no doubt much good will be done locally in the improvement of the treatment of disease.

Manitoba, by using the opsonic index, is following closely in the wake of scientific advancement. She cannot be expected to do any original work yet, the country is too new; there are not the funds to spend on apparatus. The older countries must still lead in fighting back ignorance, and winning fresh outposts in the borderland, where there is much speculation and little solid fast. But there may come a day when the captaincy may fall to younger countries, and Canada, from her activity in medical science, may lead the forces, whose mission is but mercy.

ENTITLED TO PARTICULARS

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;
One ounce Compound Salsitone;
Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mix, and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime, drinking plenty of water.

The above prescription has been found invaluable in the treatment of kidney, bladder and urinary troubles, and diseases arising therefrom, such as rheumatism, sciatica, lame back and lumbago, and we feel that the public are entitled to particulars concerning it.

A prominent physician states that the excellent results that have been obtained from the use of the mixture are due to its direct action upon the kidneys, assisting them in their work of filtering all poisonous waste matter and acids from the blood and expelling same in the urine, and at the same time restoring the kidneys to a healthy condition.

He further states that anyone suffering from afflictions of this nature will find it to be very beneficial, and suggests that it be given a trial.

A FOGGY BRAIN

is usually the direct result of a clogged liver, and accompanying this is a disordered digestion, unstrung nerves and general lassitude. Eliminate the waste products of the body and enable the liver and kidneys to perform their proper functions and the entire system will resume its normal condition. King Palmetto Compound is the most perfect kidney and liver tonic, nerve builder and blood purifier ever prepared, and you are not asked to take it on faith. Its formula is not a secret, but is published plainly on the wrapper. If in doubt show it to your doctor. One dose a day is all that is required and the first dose will give you proof of its virtues; sick-headache, biliousness, and general nervous break-down respond immediately to its curative properties. Rheumatism and a host of disorders resulting from impure blood are relieved and eventually cured by its use. Neuralgia and all nervous disorders quickly disappear when their cause is removed. King Palmetto Compound is not an experiment, but a scientifically demonstrated success. Give it a trial. Write for a free sample bottle to the King Palmetto Company, Bridgeburg, Ontario.

A STORY OF LOVE AND ADVENTURE

BY BERTHA RUNKLE.

"Mademoiselle is my religion," he cried, and then laughed, not merrily.

"Pardieu! for all my pains I have not won her. I have skulked and evaded and temporized—for nothing. I would not join the League and break my father's heart; would not stand out against it and lose Lorance. I have been trying these three years to please both the goat and the cabbage—with the usual ending. I have pleased nobody. I am out of Mayenne's books; he made me overtures and I refused him. I am out of my father's books; he thinks me a traitor and parricide. And I am out of mademoiselle's; she despises me for a laggard. Had I gone in with Mayenne I had won her. Had I gone with monsieur I was sure of a command in King Henry's army. But I, wanting both, got neither. Between two stools I fall miserably to the ground. I am but a dawdler, a do-nothing, the butt and laughing stock of all brave men.

"But I am done with shilly-shally!" he added, catching his breath. "For once I shall do something. Mlle. de Montluc has given me a last chance. She has sent for me and I go. If I fall dead on her threshold I at least die looking at her."

"Monsieur, monsieur," I cried in despair, "you will not die looking at her, for you will die out here in the street, and that will profit neither you nor her, but only Lucas and his crew."

"That is as may be. At least I make the attempt. A month back I sent her a letter. I found it to-night in Lucas's doublet. She thinks me careless of her. I must go."

"Monsieur, you are mad," I cried. "You have said yourself Mayenne is likely to be behind Lucas. If you go you but walk into the enemies' very jaws. It is a trap, a lure."

"Felix, beware what you say!" he interrupted with quick-blazing ire. "I do not permit such words to be spoken in connection with Mlle. de Montluc."

"But, monsieur"——

"Silence!" he commanded in a voice as sharp as crack of pistolet. The St. Quentins had ever the most abundant faith in those they loved. I remembered how monsieur in just such a blaze of resentment had forbidden me to speak ill of his son. And I remembered too, that monsieur's faith had been justified and that my accusations were lies. Natheless, I liked not the look of this affair, and I attempted further warnings.

"Monsieur, in my opinion"——

"You are not here to hold opinions, Felix, but your tongue."

I did at that, and stood back from the bed to let him do as it liked him. He rose and went over to the chair where his clothes lay, only to drop into it half swooning. I ran to the ewer and dashed half the water in it into his face.

"Peste, you need not drown me!" he cried testily. "I am well; it was but a moment's dizziness." He got up again at once, but was forced to seize my shoulder to keep from falling.

"It was that damnable potion he made me drink," he muttered. "I am all well else; I am not weak. Curse the room; it reels about like a ship at sea."

I put my arm about him and led him back to bed; nor did he argue about it, but lay back with his eyes shut, so white against the white bed linen I thought him fainted for sure. But before I could drench him again he raised his lids.

"Felix, will you go get a shutter? For I see clearly that I shall reach Mlle. de Montluc this night in no other way."

"Monsieur," I said, "I can go. I can tell your mistress you cannot walk across this room to-night. I can do my best for you, M. Etienne."

"My faith! I think I must e'en let you try. But what to bid you say to her—pardieu! I scarce know what I could say to her myself."

"I can tell her how sorely you are hurt—how you would come, but cannot."

"And make her believe it," he cried eagerly. "Do not let her think it a flimsy excuse. And yet I do think she will believe you," he added with half a laugh. "There is something very trust-compelling about you, Felix. And assure her of my lifelong, never-failing service."

"But I thought monsieur was going to take service with Henry of Navarre."

"I was!" he cried. "I am! Oh, Felix, was ever a poor wight so harried and torn betwixt two as I? Whom Jupiter would destroy he first makes mad. I shall be gibbering in a cage before I have done with it."

"Monsieur will be gibbering in his bed unless he sleeps soon. I go now, monsieur."

"And good luck to you! Felix, I offer you no reward for this midnight journey into the house of our enemies. For recompense you will see her."

CHAPTER XIII.

I went to find Maitre Menard, to urge upon him that some one should stay with M. Etienne while I was gone lest he swooned or became light-headed. But the surgeon himself was present, having returned from bandaging up some common skull to see how his noble patient rested. He promised that he would stay the night with M. le Comte; so, eased of that care, I set out for the Hotel de Lorraine, one of the inn servants with a flambeau coming along to guide and guard me. M. Etienne was a favorite in this inn of Maitre Menard's; they did not stop to ask whether he had money in his purse before falling over one another in their eagerness to serve him. It is my opinion that one gets more out of the world by dint of fair words than by a long purse or a long sword.

We had not gone a block from the inn before I turned to the right-about, to the impatience of my escort.

"Nay, Jean, I must go back," I said. "I will only delay a moment, but see Maitre Menard I must.'

He was still in the cabaret, where the crowd was thinning.

"Now what brings you back?"

"This, maitre," said I, drawing him into a corner. "M. le Comte has been in a fracas to-night, as you perchance may have divined. His arch-enemy gave us the slip. And I am not easy for monsieur while this Lucas is at large. He has the devil's own cunning and malice; he might track him here to the Three Lanterns. Therefore, maitre, I beg you to admit no one to M. le Comte—no one on any business whatsoever. Not if he comes from the Duke of Mayenne himself."

"I won't admit the Sixteen themselves," the maitre declared.

"There is one man you may admit," I conceded. "Vigo. M. de St. Quentin's equerry. You will know him for the biggest man in France."

"Good. And this other; what is he like?"

"He is young," I said, "not above four or five and twenty. Tall and slim—oh, without doubt a gentleman. He has light brown hair and thin, aquiline face. His tongue is unbound too."

"His [illegible] not get around me," Maitre Menard promised. "The host of the Three Lanterns was not born yesterday, let me tell you."

With this comforting assurance I set out once more on my expedition with, to tell the truth, no very keen enthusiasm for the business. It was all very well for M. Etienne to declare grandly that as recompense for my trouble I should see Mlle. de Montluc. But I was not her lover, and I thought I could get along very comfortably without seeing her. I know not how to bear myself before a splendid young noblewoman. When I had dashed across Paris to slay the traitor in the Rue Coupejarrets I had not been afraid; but now, going with a love message to a girl, I was scared.

And there was more than the fear of her bright eyes to give me pause. I was afraid of Mlle. de Montluc, but more afraid of M. de Mayenne's cousin. What mocking devil had driven Etienne de Mar, out of a whole France full of lovely women, to fix his unturnable desire on this Ligueuse of Mayenne's own brood? Had his father's friends no daughters, that he must seek a mistress from the black duke's household? Were there no families of clean hands and honest speech, that he must ally himself with the treacherous blood of Lorraine?

I had seen a sample of the League's work to-day, and I liked it not. If Mayenne were, as Yeux-gris surmised, Lucas's backer, I marvelled that my master cared to enter his house; I marvelled that he cared to send his servant there. Yet I went none the less readily for that; I was here to do his bidding. Nor was I greatly alarmed for my own skin; I thought myself too small to be worth my Lord Mayenne's powder. But I had, I do confess, a lively curiosity to behold the interior of the greatest house in Paris, the very core and centre of the League. Belike if it had not been for terror of this young demoiselle I had stepped along cheerfully enough.

Though the hour was late many people still loitered in the streets, the clear summer night, and all of them were talking of politics. As Jean and I passed at a rapid pace the groups under the wine shop lanterns we caught always the names of Mayenne and Navarre. Everywhere they asked the same two questions: Was it true that Henry was coming into the Church? And if so, what would Mayenne do next? I perceived that old Maitre Jacques of the Amour de Dieu knew what he was talking about: the people of Paris were sick to death of the Leagues and their treachery, galled to desperation under the yoke of the Sixteen.

Mayenne's fine new hotel in the Rue St. Antoine was lighted as for a fete. From its open windows came sounds of gay laughter and rattling dice. You might have thought them keeping carnival in the midst of a happy and loyal city. If the Lieutenant-General found anything to vex him in the present situation he did not let the commonalty know it.

The Duke of Mayenne's house, like my duke's, was guarded by men-at-arms; but his grilles were thrown back, while his soldiers lounged on the stone benches in the archway. Some of them were talking to a little knot of street idlers who had gathered about the entrance, while others, with the aid of a torch and a greasy pack of cards, were playing lansquenet.

I know no way to do but to ask openly for Mlle. de Montluc, declaring that I came on behalf of the Comte de Mar.

"That is right; you are to enter," the captain of the guard replied at once. "But you are not the Comte de Mar yourself? Nay, no need to ask," he added with a laugh. "A pretty count you would make."

"I am his servant," I said. "I am charged with a message for mademoiselle."

"Well, my orders were to admit the count, but I suppose you may go in. If mademoiselle cannot land her lover it were cruel to deny her the consolation of a message."

A laugh went up and one of the gamblers looked round to say.

"It has gone hard with mademoiselle lately, sangdieu! Here's the Comte de Mar has not set foot in the house for a month or more, and M. Paul for a quarter of a year—is vanished off the face of the earth. It seemed as if she must take the little cheese or nothing. But now things are looking up with her. M. Paul has walked calmly in, and here is a messenger at least from the other."

In a flash he was out of their grasp, flying down the alley.

"But M. Paul has walked calmly out again," a third soldier took up the tale. "He did not stay very long, for all mademoiselle's graces."

"Then I warrant 'twas mademoiselle sent him off with a flea in his ear," another cried. "She looks higher than a bastard, even Le Balafre's own."

"She had better take care how she flouts Paul de Lorraine," came the retort, but the captain bade me march along. I followed him into the house, leaving Jean to be edified, no doubt, by a whole history, false and true, concerning Mlle. de Montluc. We bow down before the lofty of the earth, we underlings, but behind their backs there is none with whose names we make so free. And there we have the advantage of our masters, for they know little of our private matters, while we know everything of theirs.

In the hall the captain turned me over to a lackey, who conducted me through a couple of antechambers to a curtained doorway whence issued a merry confusion of voices and laughter. He passed in, while I remained to undergo the scrutiny of the pair of flunkies whose repose we had invaded. But in a moment my guide appeared again, lifting the curtain for me to enter.

The big room was ablaze with candles set in mirrored sconces along the walls, set also in silver candelabra on the tables. There was a crowd of people in the place, a hundred it seemed to my dazzled eyes; grouped, most of them, about the tables set up and down, either taking hands themselves at cards or dice or betting on those who did. Bluff soldiers in breastplate and jack-boots were not wanting in the throng, but the larger number of the gallants were brave in silken doublets and spotless ruffs, as became a noble's drawing-room. And the ladies! mordieu, what am I to say of them? Tricked out in every gay color under the sun, agleam with jewels—oh bien, the ladies of St. Quentin, that I had thought so fine, were but serving maids to these.

I stood blinking, dazed by the lights and the crowd and the chatter, unable in the first moment to note clearly any face in the congregation of strange countenances. Nor would it have helped me if I could, for here close about were a dozen fair women, any one of whom might be Mlle. de Montluc. My heart hammered in my throat. I knew not whom to address. But a young noble near by, dazzling in a suit of pink, took the burden on himself.

"I heard Mar's name; yet you are not M. de Mar, I think."

He spoke with a languid but none the less teasing derision. In truth I must have resembled a little brown hare suddenly turned out of a bag in the midst of that gorgeous company.

"No," I stammered; "I am his servant. I seek Mlle. de Montluc."

"I have wondered what has become of Etienne de Mar this last month," spoke a second young gentleman, advancing from his place behind a fair one's chair. He was neither so pretty nor so fine as the other, but in his short, stocky figure and square face there was a force which his comrade lacked. He regarded me with a far keener glance as he asked:

"Peste! he must be in low water if this is the best he can do for a lackey."

"Perhaps the fellow's errand is to beg an advance from Mlle. de Montluc," suggested the pink youth.

"Who speaks my name?" a clear voice called; and a lady, laying down her hand at cards, rose and came towards me.

She was clad in amber satin. She was tall and she carried herself with stately grace. Her black hair shadowed a cheek as purely white and pink as that of any yellow-locked Frisian girl, while her eyes, under their sooty lashes, shone blue as corn flowers.

I began to understand M. Etienne.

"Who is it wants me?" she repeated, and catching sight of me stood regarding me in some surprise, not unfriendly, waiting for me to explain myself. But before I could find my tongue the man in pink answered her with his soft drawl.

"Oh, that is it!" she cried with a little laugh, but not, I think, at my uncouthness, though she looked me over curiously.

"He has not come himself, M de Mar?"

"It appears not, mademoiselle."

She did not seem vastly disconcerted for all she cried in doleful tones:

"Alack! alack! I have lost. And Paul is not present to enjoy his triumph. He wagered me a pair of pearl-broidered gloves that I could not produce M. de Mar."

"But it is not his fault," I answered her eagerly. "It is not M. de Mar's fault, mademoiselle. He has been hurt to-day and he could not come. He is in bed of his wounds; he could not walk across his room. He tried. He bade me lay at mademoiselle's feet his lifelong services."

"Ah, Lorance!" cried a young demoiselle in a sky-colored gown, "methinks you have indeed lost M. de Mar if he sends you no better messenger of his regrets than this horse-boy."

"I have lost the gloves, that is certain and sad," Mlle. de Montluc replied, as if the loss of the wager were all her care. "I am punished for my vanity, mesdames et messieurs. I undertook to produce my recreant squire and I have failed. Alas!" And she put up her white hands before her face with a pretty imitation of despair save that her eyes sparkled from between her fingers.

By this time the gamesters about us had stopped their play, in a general interest in the affair. An older lady coming forward with an air of authority demanded:

"What is this disturbance, Lorance?"

"A wager between me and my cousin Paul, madame," she answered with instant gravity and respect.

"Paul de Lorraine! Is he here?" the other asked, unpleased, I thought.

"Yes, madame. He dropped from the skies on us this afternoon. He is out of the house again now."

"But while he was in the house," quoth she in sky color, "though he did not find time to pay his respects to Mme. la Duchesse, he had the leisure for considerable conversation with Mlle. Montluc."

The other lady, whom I now guessed to be the Duchesse de Mayenne herself, turned somewhat sharply on her cousin of Montluc.

"I do not yet hear your excuses, mademoiselle, for the introduction of a stable boy into my salon."

"I beg you to believe, madame, I am not responsible for it," she protested. "Paul, when he was here, saw fit to rally me concerning M. de Mar. Mlle. de Tavanne informed him of the count's defection, and they were pleased to be merry with me over it. I vowed I could get him back if I wished. The end of the matter was that I wrote a letter which my cousin promised to have conveyed to M. le Comte's old lodgings. This is the answer," mademoiselle cried with a wave of her hand toward me. "But I did not expect it in this guise, madame. Blame your lackeys who know not their duties, not me."

"I blame you, mademoiselle," Mme. de Mayenne answered her tartly. "I consider my salon no place for intrigues with horse-boys. If you must hold colloquy with this fellow take him whither he belongs—to the stables."

A laugh went up among those who laugh at whatever a duchess says.

"Come, mesdames, we will resume our play," she added to the ladies who had followed her on the scene, and turned her back in lofty disdain on Mlle. de Montluc and her concerns. But though some of the company obeyed her a curious circle still surrounded us.

"Dame! if you must be banished to the stables we all will go, mademoiselle," declared the pink gallant. "We all want news of the vanished Mar."

"Indeed we do. We have missed him sorely. And I dare swear this messenger's account will prove diverting," lisped the sky-colored demoiselle.

I was not enjoying myself. I had given all my hopes of glory to be out in the street again. I wished Mlle. de Montluc would take me to the stables—anywhere out of this laughing company. But she had no such intent.

"I think madame does not mean her sentence," she rejoined. "I would not for the world frustrate your curiosity, Blanche; nor yours, M. de Champfleury. Tell us what has befallen your master, Sir Courier."

"He has been in a duel, mademoiselle."

"Whom was he fighting?"

"And for what lady's favor?"

"Is it a pretty Huguenot this time?"

"Does she make him read his Bible?"

"Or did her big brother set on him for a wicked papist?"

The questions chorused upon me; I saw they were framed to tease mademoiselle. I answered as best I might:

"He thinks of no lady but Mlle. de Montluc. The fight was over other matters. I am only told to say M. le Comte regrets most heartily that his wound prevents his coming, and to assure mademoiselle that he is too weak and faint to walk across the floor."

"Then exceed your instructions a little. Tell us what monsieur has been about these four weeks that he could not take time to visit us."

Woman's World

MISS GERTRUDE BEEKS.

Girl Sent to Panama by Secretary Taft to Investigate Social Conditions.

When Secretary Taft wanted to find out exactly how things were going in the homes of the 5,000 American workers who are digging the Panama canal he sent a woman to find out.

The woman who went to the isthmus at the request of the secretary was Miss Gertrude Beeks, secretary of the welfare department of the National Civic federation.

Miss Beeks went to Panama not to do social stunts, but to find out facts pertaining to the question of life in the canal zone. She wanted to know exactly how the workers and their families lived, and as the best means of finding out she lived while in the tropics in the same kind of house that a workingman's wife calls her home, ate the same kind of food and attended the same places of amusement that the men attend.

The question of the entertainment of 30,000 laborers, all but 5,000 of whom are foreigners, is more important than might be considered at first glance. The government has done much to enable the canal laborers to enjoy themselves nights and Sundays. Free Sunday excursions are given on the water at the expense of the nation.

What Girls Should Read.

After she has left school for good every girl should make a point of becoming really familiar with all the famous old authors. She should know all the standard works well, from the plays of Shakespeare to Scott's Waverley novels, and the earlier in her life she can begin on this delightful task the better, but just at first, when she begins to read with real interest and intelligence, born of her literature work at school, it is perhaps better for her to take up just one or two works of the more modern writers and to gain a general if incomplete knowledge of many writers whose works have been prominent instead of keeping consistently to one style of writing for the last century and more. When first starting in to read with really serious intent it will be found easier to shift about from history to poetry and from a writer of a century ago, with his long discussions, somewhat whimsical ideas and personal theories on all subjects thrown in the commencement or middle of a chapter, with apparently no regard to the thread of the story, to the terse, quick, energetic style of the writer of modern historical novels, who is apparently very much afraid of losing for a moment the absorbed interest of the reader.

Scott, Thackeray, Dickens, George Eliot—every girl must be able to look intelligent when these names are mentioned, and there is probably no girl of fourteen who has not read some works of each of these famous writers. "Ivanhoe" and "Kenilworth" are perhaps most interesting to begin on, and after them must follow the rest of the Waverley novels, while, if she has not already read them in school, another summer must not pass by until Scott's most famous poetical works have been read, "The Lady of the Lake," "The Lay of the Last Minstrel" and "Marmion." "Vanity Fair," as Thackeray's most famous character study, should be read first, while, because of its excellent history of the times and the well known people living then, "Henry Esmond" is all important. Dickens is so well known that it is hard to select any one book to begin with, but "David Copperfield" shows Dickens' style to perfection, and after reading it it is hard to pick up anything else before becoming acquainted with more of his inimitable characters. "Silas Marner" gives a good picture of the country and the times that seem to have appealed most to George Eliot, and no girl could read his history and not feel sympathy for the old weaver of Raveloe and the little girl Eppie who brought sunshine to his old age.

Inventive Genius.

People gifted with a strong imagination are sometimes the possessors of strange powers of invention. All sorts of quaint ideas come to them which would not occur to the ordinary mind, and these ideas they must perforce work out with something material.

Genius has been defined as "the capacity for taking infinite pains," but genius is seldom practical in financial matters, and only too often it falls to another less imaginative person to perfect and protect the invention so as to apply it for general use, while the inventor himself probably gains little profit out of the transaction.

This, I believe, was actually the case with the inventor of the mackintosh, which might otherwise have been known to posterity by the name of Morrison.

At the beginning of the last century a Scotchman named Morrison invented a waterproof material, and in order to test its reliability he clothed himself in an entire garb of it and went out in the pouring rain. The garment kept out the damp, but it also prevented all evaporation from the heated body enveloped in it. Mr. Morrison died as the result of his experiment, and a subordinate in his office took out a patent and rescued the waterproof from oblivion under the name of the mackintosh. This is proof positive as to the importance of patenting any invention immediately, even if it appear to be a matter of small consequence. The mackintosh has now a worldwide reputation, and the original patentee or his heirs must have profited considerably by the invention.

What Daintiness Means.

Look around you as you ride in the street cars. Is one girl in fifty dainty? Not one in a hundred, not one in fifty is perfectly neat, and but a small number are even clean and wholesome looking. To be clean is not to be dainty. Buttons off, placket gaping, skirt and waist divorced—even absolute cleanliness does not atone for these. Neatness is not daintiness. Then is daintiness equivalent to taste? Hardly. Daintiness is none of these, and yet embraces them all—taste, neatness and cleanliness and something more—lightness. The girl who would be dainty perhaps had better take a peep into her room. Are your shoes peeping from under a carelessly made bed? Is the wee corner of a rug kicked up? Are the curtains white and fresh looking? Is your dresser scarf soiled and littered? Are the drawers partly open, revealing confusion within, and are there any little threads of hair attached to the carpet or floor covering? Perhaps not the whole list, but a few or one. Leave the room alone, then, as a room, but turn your attention to the top of your dresser. Remove the cloth if it be soiled ever so little. If you haven't a dainty one, make one. Make two or three and watch them as a miser watches over his gold. If a tiny smut appears, send them to the washtub, but leave everything else alone, strictly alone.

To Protect Skirts.

A useful hint for the stenographer or for any business woman who must spend much time at an office desk is to spread a newspaper under her chair. Office floors, whether covered or not, and most of them are bare in summer, get very dusty, to say the least, and white and light colored skirts suffer thereby.

It is extravagant to have to put a dress in the wash when all that is the matter with it is an extremely dirty hem; but, on the other hand, that hem militates against further use.

Prevent it by protecting your skirt as far as possible, and, if this is impossible in walking, at least keep the space around your desk free from dust and other varieties of dirt.

It is hardly necessary to say that the newspaper must be changed at least once daily, for paper is no more immune from uncleanliness than are other materials.

Paint Old Carpets.

If you have an old floor and cannot afford a carpet try painting it. The floor must be thoroughly cleaned, all rough places smoothed with a carpenter's plane and the cracks between the boards filled in with patent filler. Give the floor a coat of ready mixed cream paint, and when dry give a second coat. When thoroughly dry, and you should wait for several days, give it a coating of oak oil stain. The material for this work is not very expensive, and when completed you have a good imitation of a hardwood floor.

Fruit Cookies.

One cup of butter worked to a cream with two cups of granulated sugar. Add three well beaten eggs, one teaspoonful of baking soda dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of sour milk, one teaspoonful each of cloves and cinnamon, ground; one-half teaspoonful of nutmeg, one cup of raisins, stoned and chopped; one cup of nuts, chopped; enough flour to make a dough that can be rolled out. Roll thin, bake in a quick oven, brushing over before baking with an egg beaten with a tablespoonful of sugar.

Cool House in Summer.

In the early morning open wide every door and window for two hours. Then close the doors, leaving each window open not more than six inches. Leave this opening in every window all over the house, high and low, east and west, and draw down the shades close to the edge of the opening. By keeping the sun out and providing a circulation of air a house may be kept cool.

GIVING BABY CASTOR OIL.

It's Very Easy if You Only Know How to Do It Properly.

Castor oil should never be given without first heating it a little. This does not mean getting it hot or putting a burning spoon into the little mouth. The object of heating is merely to thin a little the consistency of the heavy oil, and the most gentle warmth will do this. This change alone makes the liquid go down more easily.

When the dose is to be given it is well to call in a member of the family to act as assistant. Put baby down on the bed on his back and have ready a small napkin or other bit of linen wrung out in cold water. Fold this flat, just large enough to go under baby's chin up to the ears. Give this to the assistant and instruct her in her duty, which is merely that of holding the wet compress against the chin at the psychological moment. This second is when you gently hold the infant's nose, which you are to do just as you put the oil well back into his mouth, but not in the throat, which would then cause him to choke.

Holding the nose destroys the sense of taste, and the wet compress causes a flow of saliva that helps to send the medicine down. The thing necessary to success is that all shall be done together and that the oil shall fall on the precise spot on the tongue—that is to say, it should drop as close to the throat as it can without going into the throat. To put it too near the front of the mouth gets it all over baby's gums and gives him full benefit of the nasty flavor. If an infant fights at taking any kind of liquid medicine, it may be given in this way, but as a rule the little one swallows it unconsciously.

If medicine in a powdered form is to be given, the simplest and, for a young child, the best way is to give it dry. Open his mouth and have the dose ready on the point of a spoon. Drop this quickly well back on the tongue and then nurse or give him a bottle at once.

WOMEN AS PHOTOGRAPHERS.

Why They Do Not Succeed In Their Profession.

It seems strange that so few women succeed as photographers, for women prefer to go to their own sex to be photographed rather than to an obviously "professional" man whose attentions remind them uncomfortably of those of a dentist.

The trouble with the feminine photographer is that she endeavors to be too artistic, at the expense of the wishes of her patrons. People get their pictures taken because they desire a likeness, and they do not relish an impressionistic portrait vanishing into the shadow. Furthermore, she disregards her subjects' individuality. She should first of all try to find out how they imagine they look—a very different thing from their actual appearance—and then strive to attain that ideal. She must somehow make a nervous, dishevelled, unattractive woman a miracle of charm, and all without such gross flattery as to cause suspicion.

None of the other feminine arts will come amiss in her makeup. She must know just what clothes and what alterations in the dress will work the transformation, and she must in a way play the hostess and put her subject at her ease.

It is difficult art, but those who do succeed find that in every way they are repaid for the trouble it took them to reach their present status. And the best of all is that the evernesthetic photographer will find that by suppressing her early "artistic" tendencies she has arrived at that true art which is only expressed in simplicity and naturalness.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

To shine boots quickly do not blacken, but rub with a piece of an orange. Let the juice dry in, then polish with a soft brush, when they will shine like a mirror.

A good method of washing windows is to take two or three pieces of lump starch, dissolve in the water and wash windows with the same. Let it dry and polish with a dry cloth.

Common tray cloths may be made from wornout tablecloths by cutting the desired size from the strongest parts and folding a hem one and one-half inches wide with miter corners.

One of the best remedies for removing corns is turpentine. Touch the corn every night before retiring with a little turpentine. It will come out in a very short time. Apply the turpentine with a toothpick.

ART OF SWEEPING.

There Is a Wrong Way and There's a Right Way to Do This Work.

Every one does not know how to sweep a room. It requires skill, combined with patience, to clean a room properly. The chief mistake made by a novice is to think she can hurry through it and to think the room will be clean if she takes long, heavy strokes with her broom. Short, light strokes which are firm will do the work as it should be done. It is always best to sweep a heavy brussels carpet or one of similar make once with the grain, then once across it, going over each three or four yards in this way until the entire carpet is swept. When a carpet is old and evenly worn this is hardly necessary, but if it is new or has any perceptible ridges this method should surely be followed. After going over a room thoroughly allow the dust to settle, and in ten or fifteen minutes give it a final brushing, sweeping it lightly, and nothing is more satisfactory than a sweeper or dampened broom.

Tea leaves scattered over the carpet are good. They should be squeezed as dry as possible and sprinkled over the carpet before the final sweep.

Another good plan is to sprinkle the floor before starting to sweep with dry table salt. The salt seems to brighten the colors of a faded carpet as well as to aid in removing dust. When the second sweeping is over use a whisk broom in the corners and around the edges. After the walls are dusted and the carpet clean it is well to wipe off the surface of the carpet with a cloth dipped in salt and water which has been wrung out as dry as possible. This will remove every trace of dust. The cloth used for the purpose must be frequently rinsed in fresh water and then dipped into the salted water again and wrung out as before. Then, some folks like to go over the carpet with ammonia water, but I prefer the salt, as salt keeps out moths.

It is needless to say that in sweeping as thoroughly as this every article which is movable should be removed first or dusted and carefully covered with old sheets. When buying heavy pieces of furniture be careful to select those that have good, easily moved casters, so the articles may be pushed about and the dust be kept from behind and from underneath them.

It is a great mistake to neglect sweeping as thoroughly as this every two weeks. If you do, the dust becomes ground into a carpet and helps it to wear out. Besides, dust discolors it more than or quite as much as wear. Fortunately many houses of today are built with hardwood floors, so the burden of sweeping is greatly lessened, as rugs are lifted, shaken or beaten out of doors. Hardwood floors, if swept with a hair brush instead of a broom, then rubbed with a little oil or simply polished with a waxing brush, can be kept in good condition with comparatively little labor.

A Polite Thrust.

"Professor," said a senior, trying to be pathetic at parting, "I am indebted to you for all I know."

"Pray don't mention such a trifle," was the reply.

An Amercian Stage Beauty SAVED HER HAIR WITH Newbro's Herpicide

She Writes as Follows to the Herpicide Co.:

"For the past two years I played a part that necessitated the wearing of a wig. My scalp would perspire under the wig and it was not long until dandruff made its appearance and constantly grew worse. I used every remedy I could find to rid my head of it, but all to no avail. I finally decided to give Newbro's Herpicide a thorough trial.

I cleaned and dried my hair before applying Herpicide and after three or four applications I was delighted to see the dandruff disappear and my hair is now as nice as ever.

I could not be without Herpicide and I can recommend it most highly and believe it will do all that is claimed for it." Respectfully,

The One Opportunity of a Life-time

Once in a life-time "OPPORTUNITY" knocks at the door of every human being, and if not at once grasped, passes on. Some, with commendable foresight, open the door and seize that opportunity to their future advancement and delight; others carelessly, thoughtlessly or indifferently, allow it to pass by and it becomes a life-long regret.

Business Systems Commercial School, strictly the first school, decidedly the only school giving a complete course of Modern Loose Leaf Accounting, now opens the "Door of Opportunity" to you. Loose Leaf Accounting is the system of to-day, and from present prospects will be the system of the future. Every young man, every young woman of business should therefore have a thorough knowledge of it.

Business Systems Commercial School has outlined a superior course in both Business and Shorthand Departments. We want this fact to become known. Newspaper advertising, while good in its place, is not the only kind. We want to send out within a year a large number of walking and talking advertisements in the person of graduates whose success during their course and in their subsequent positions will commend this school to their brothers, their sisters, their relatives and friends.

OUR PROPOSITION

In our new rooms in the new Systems Building we can at once accommodate two hundred energetic, ambitious students. Ours is a new school—we know it. We are human beings and know how suspiciously new things are looked upon until they have been tested. Our testing time has come. We do not fear results. We will meet you half-way. To the next two hundred who register we will give a bonus as follows:

To those who register for six months day classes, paying fees in full therefor, according to our regular schedule, we will give as a bonus three months tuition extra, or nine months in all. To those who register for three months day classes, paying fees therefor, we will give as a bonus one month tuition extra, or four months in all.

If you would be one of the two hundred—start now.

MR. ALFRED PLEAU.

PERUNA STRENGTHENS THE ENTIRE SYSTEM.

"Two years ago, an accident necessitated my confinement for several weeks. The good health I had enjoyed was slipping away and there developed a complication of diseases. My physician said my case was one of general debility.

"Among the many ailments which developed was a serious attack of catarrh, which annoyed me considerably and kept me awake whole nights.

"I decided to give Peruna a trial and soon found it acting as a wonderful tonic to my system. The catarrh grew less severe and shortly afterward disappeared, as did also the various other maladies.

"I attribute my prompt relief and ultimate cure entirely to the use of Peruna and gladly recommend it."

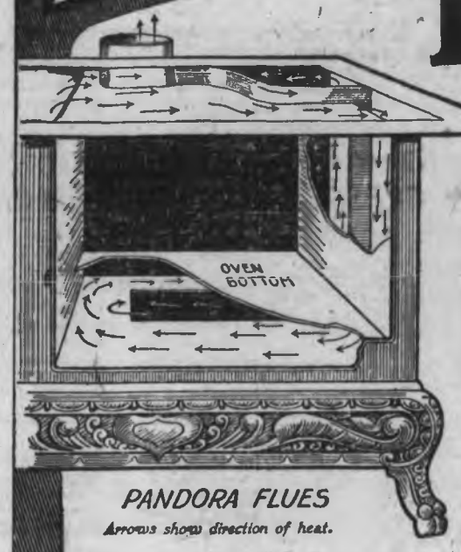
PANDORA RANGE



PANDORA FLUES
Arrows show direction of heat.

The Pandora Flue System is an Immense Improvement

While we don't desire to say that the usual flue construction is not good, for it is considered good, still we do say that the Pandora flue system is an immense improvement.

In the ordinary range the flues conduct the smoke and heat by the shortest route to the chimney (as shown by illustration in lower corner). The heat does not pass directly under all pot holes, nor around all surfaces of the oven.

In the Pandora (illustrated in upper left hand corner) when the draft is set for baking, the heat, by means of a curved flange, is made to pass under and heat every pot hole except the back inner one, before it is drawn down the outer half of the back end flue and under the oven—a dividing flange under oven bottom prevents the heat from short cutting, and forces it to travel, first under the outer half of oven, then under the inner half.

The result is that the heat is spread uniformly over the oven. And every loaf of a whole batch of bread will be done equally well on all sides.

From under the oven bottom the heat travels up the inner half of back end flue, and passes under the back inner pot hole before disappearing up the chimney.

Thus it will be seen that all the heat circulates around the oven twice and under every pot hole before it goes up the chimney—that the draft for baking is also the best for cooking.

And, as the heat is made to perform a double duty by this improved system, the fuel bill is greatly reduced.

The most economical as well as the most improved range on the market to-day bears the name Pandora. It's a name worth remembering when buying a range.

If your local dealer does not sell the Pandora, write direct to us for free booklet.

ALL RUN DOWN!

Weak---Nervous---Unstrung.

Thousands get run down and become invalids before they realize anything is wrong. By permitting low vitality to develop, the way is paved for fevers, pneumonia and diphtheria. To put off makes it all the harder to get well. The time to repair the system is right now, before the damage gets any worse. The remedy is Ferrozone; it revitalizes, renews, builds up vitality that outlasts old age.

FERROZONE is a genuine invigorator that banishes weakness, and instils surplus force and vigor into every organ of the body. Ferrozone sharpens the appetite, produces rich nutritious blood, and thereby contributes that sense of buoyancy that adds so enormously to one's pleasure and usefulness in life.

For all forms of debility, weakness, lack of blood or nerve tone, sleeplessness, tiredness and exhaustion, there is no medicine so vitalizing and potent as Ferrozone. Even one trial demonstrates its rapidly and certainty of action.

To restore the energy of youth, to get back your vital stamina and reserve force, there is positively no treatment so certain as Ferrozone. You have only to try Ferrozone to know the enormous benefit it invariably brings to all in poor health.

FERROZONE

Miss Dorothy E. Ledue of Chester gives the following convincing evidence of Ferrozone's power:—"My work compels me to rise early in the morning and work ten hours daily as a saleslady. Last Spring I was run down, lost my color, and fell off in weight. I seemed to lack ambition and the life was out of me. A friend recommended Ferrozone, and I took one tablet after meals with wonderful results. Ferrozone brought back my complexion, and has given me new strength and abundance of energy and spirits. I would advise all young ladies to use Ferrozone."

Mrs. H. G. Wilder of Dexter says—"My daughter was not very well last Winter, and lost her strength completely when the Spring came. I gave her Ferrozone, and am glad to say it did wonders. After six boxes were used my daughter was strong, and looked the picture of health."

A pretty child of twelve years, with long golden locks, described to the Nottingham coroner recently a ghastly crime. She was Alice Maud Rose, whose father a few nights previously cut the throats of four of his children, three of whom died, the other being saved by the remarkable pluck of the girl Alice. She was the only witness of the crime. She said her brothers, Stephen, aged eight; Archie, seven; Bertie, three, and Freddie, fourteen months, had gone to bed before half-past eight. She slept in a room by herself. Her mother had gone out, and she heard her father come in and tap his razor on its box. She heard him come upstairs on tiptoe and go into the baby's room. There was a sharp cry; then silence. He then went to the boys' room and said: Archie, Stephen, hold your heads up." He kissed them; then she heard screaming, and thought he was frightening them. She ran into the room and the sight was horrible, blood being everywhere. Archie was breathing his last in a corner of the room, and her father was trying to cut Stephen's throat. Bertie was screaming in the bed, and although in a terrible state of mind she lifted him out, his throat being cut right across. He died in her arms. Stephen, with a bleeding throat, struggled free from his father, who, without speaking, then seized Alice herself, pulled her on the floor by the hair, and got the razor under her throat. She struggled free, and ran downstairs screaming. Stephen, who was still in the room, shouted: "Oh! Alice," and the girl bravely rushed back, dragged him downstairs, unlocked the door, and escaped into the street. The father then tried to cut his throat, but is still alive. Stephen is also recovering. A verdict of wilful murder was returned.

Disguising himself as as "assistant carman," a Customs officer accompanied a consignment of horse cakes from Holland to their destination in Lewisham recently, with the result that Charles Hall, the receiver was charged with having been concerned in the fraudulent evasion of customs duties in respect of six pounds of cigars. When the cas ewas brought before the magistrate it was stated that a few minutes after th ecrate of horse cakes was delivered, Inspector Fox and the "assistant carman" visited the house. Hall had opened the crate, and it was alleged that when the officers knocked at the door he hailed it up again. On the crate being examined, it was stated that there were 50 cakes. Twenty of these were genuine, but the other 30 contained each a card-board tube which held 14 cigars. Mr. Boswell, who defended, handed in letters from the Holland firm. Mr. Cecil Chapman, the magistrate, read extracts to the effect that the writer could not come in consequence of the bulb season being on. He stated frankly that Mr. Hall had nothing to do with the matter. In one letter the writer said that he was advised to do "what he had done, being told that it was often done as an introduction. It was meant to be a surprise for Mr. Hall. The magistrate, however, refused to accept this, saying that if it came as a surprise packet the wretched horse would get the cigars instead of the man.

At the Esperanto congress, concluded at Cambridge recently, the ordinary proceedings were enlivened by the relation of some stories which show that the new language has been utilized by Cupid. A Frenchman, desiring to practise his knowledge of the new language, began a correspondence with a fair English Esperantist. The letters that passed between them soon grew out of the formal stage, and they agreed to meet at the Geneva congress of last year. The result was an engagement, followed by a happy marriage, an enthusiastic friend of the couple composing a song to commemorate the event, entitled "Mia Esperantistino" ("My Fair Esperantist"), which has since become a favourite ditty with Esperantists. There is also a Russian gentleman attending the congress, who attributes a peculiarly happy union to his knowledge of Esperanto. He was travelling upon the continent, and came upon a Spanish lady who was in great distress at the unaccountable disappearance from the room of her hotel of a case containing some valuable jewelry. The gentleman was aching to assist her; but he knew no Spanish. Judge of his delight, therefore, when he discovered that they both possessed a knowledge of Esperanto. Not only did he trace her jewel case, but he also succeeded in winning her hand.

A Welsh colliery fireman named Evan Howells died recently as the result of terrible injuries he had sustained in a fire in the Rhondda Valley. While the men were working at the pit bottom the pit "knocker" clanging gave warning that something was wrong. Howells went up in the cage to see what was the matter, and near the top of the shaft he found a fire had broken out. The cage was drawn up into the middle of the flames, and just as the man arrived in the heart of the fire the "knocker" wire broke, and the signal to stop the cage was given automatically. The shrieks of the man in the cage drew the attention of those on the bank, and by the time the cage had been drawn to the top, Howell's clothes had all been burned upon him. It is stated that the guide ropes were white with heat, and as soon as the fan was stopped to prevent the fire getting into the pit a ball of flame rose from the shaft, shot up by the air pressure.

The great London entertainment hall known as Olympia is being thoroughly cleaned and repainted for the first time since its erection twenty-one years ago. Nearly a hundred men, most of them old sailors, are hard at work on the inside of the immense glass roof, and they clamber about with apparent unconcern among the girders, when the least slip would mean almost certain death. The accumulated dust of a quarter of a century is falling to the ground all the time in a fine shower. Seven cartloads have already been dislodged and taken away. Thirty tons of paint will be used to pick out the girders and woodwork in yellow and green, and of the many thousand panes of glass in the roof—each of which measures 7 ft. by 3 ft., and is 3-8 in. in thickness—some hundreds will have to be renewed at a cost of ten shillings each. Altogether the work will cost about £10,000.

Capt. H. Fraser, of the Hamburg-American liner Kaiserin Auguste Victoria, described to the Plymouth police an exciting scene which occurred on board his ship a few hours before reaching Plymouth Sound. During the voyage there is said to have been gambling for high stakes among a small group of passengers, the game chiefly being poker. One of the players is alleged to have lost $2,000 to another member of the party, and in due course he paid over the sum. Then the luck changed, and he won $1,500 dollars, but payment was not forthcoming. He demanded the amount, and the loser is said to have flatly declined to pay. As a consequence there was an angry scene, the two men rushing at one another and exchanging blows before they could be separated. As both men landed Pat Plymouth they were kept apart by their friends, and police officers remained on the scene until their train left Plymouth for London.

SCOTLAND

While the occupants of about fifty rowing boats were out fishing at the Gantock Rocks, in the Firth of Clyde, off Dunoon, recently, a strong northerly wind arose, and many of the boats could not be rowed back to land. Fifteen were carried down channel, and an occupant of one of the boats got on to the Gantock Rocks, and by his shouts attracted the attention of the river steamer Neptune and the turbine vessel King Edward, with excursionists, whichu lowered boats. After a search of half an hour the parties in the five boats were picked up, the boats being allowed to drift. The greatest excitement prevailed on board the steamers, and several motor-launches went out to the rescue, but, owing to the darkness and choppy sea, they failed to do anything. Meanwhile the occupants of the other boats were carried across the channel and were in imminent danger of being run down by the deep-sea steamers. The Belfast boat leaving Greenock, picked up one party, who arrived safely at Dunoon. Another party was picked up by a Glasgow boat. Several boats drifted to the opposite side of the Firth, and the occupants returned by tug. Of the fifteen boats which were carried out, twelve are accounted for. Harrowing tales have been told by survivors of witnessing companions sink before their eyes, and of rescues when all help had been abandoned.

The Committee of the Royal Humane Society, under the presidency of Colonel Horace Montagu, late 8th Hussars, recently began its investigation of nearly one hundred cases of bravery in saving life from drowning sent in during the month of July, and made the following awards:—Testimonial to Colour-Sergeant Charles Burn, 1st Battalion Highland Light Infantry, for his gallant attempt to save Sergeant Underwood, of the same regiment, who was drowned at Dinapore, India, on May 24. Testimonial and £1 to Andrew Paterson, Urquhart Road, Aberdeen, for his pluck in saving two lives from the Victoria Dock, there, on July 11. A girl named Anderson fell into the dock, which is 20 feet deep and very foul. Again, on July 28, a boy named Matson fell in at the same place, and on both occasions Paterson plunged in and swamm with them to the landing. Testimonial to John Paterson, Reform Lane, Lerwick, aged fourteen, for his gallantry in plunging, fully clothed, into 12 feet of water and saving Joan Goodland on July 15.

The burial place of an adult, probably of the Stone Age, was excavated in the Island of Tiree, one of the Hebrides. The body had been placed in the smallest possible compass on its right side, with knees drawn up to the chin, but rather breast downwards. The relics around and upon the skeleton are in harmony with the theory, deducible from the position in which the body had been placed, that the burial belongs to a very early period. The condition of the bones and the relics is so good that they could readily be set up in a museum in the original positions. Discoveries have also been made recently in the Island of Coll. An important find was that of a set of thirty small, finely made flint implements, probably of the Bronze Age. The objects include one of the most beautifully-made flint arrow points, of a type more common in Ireland than in Scotland.

A thrilling rescue of sailors was witnessed at Shalil Bay, near Stromness, recently, where, during a heavy gale, the three-masted schooner Celtic, of Chester, was driven ashore on the rocks. Swept by enormous seas, the vessel immediately filled with water and became a wreck, surrounded by boiling surf. The crew consisting of six men, were placed in a very perilous position and one seaman was carried overboard. He was carried inshore by the breakers and thrown on the rocks, where he was rescued. The ship's boat having been smashed to matchwood, the five remaining members of the crew fastened on lifebelts and sprang into the sea. They were all thrown within reach of the shore and dragged out of the water bruised and in an exhausted condition.

A gallant rescue was witnessed a couple of weeks ago of two St. Annet brothers, who were playing with a raft made of three railway sleepers joined together with boards, when a strong west wind caused the raft to drift seawards. A visitor from London, Mr. William Darby, saw the plight of the boys, and, stripping, swam to the rescue. The wind was too strong for him to tow the raft back to land but he checked its progress seawards. An alarm having been raised, a boat-hirer and two companions rowed off in a boat from the Bruce Embankment to the rescue. The raft was about half a mile away and the boys and the gentleman were so benumbed with cold that restoratives had to be administered.

There occurred recently at his mansion, Aljangrange, Ross-shire, the death of James Fowler Mackenzie, the chief of the Mackenzies, and heir male to the dormant honours and ancient titles of the historic Kintail and Seaforth families. Deceased succeeded to the estates in 1849, on the death of his brother, and was a son of George Falconer Mackenzie, fourth of Allangrange, who in 1829 was served heir male to his ancestor, the Hon. Simon Mackenzie, of Lockshin, and heir male in general to Simon's father, Kenneth, the first Lord Mackenzie of Kintail, and to Lord Kenneth's brother, Colin, created first Earl of Seaforth, in 1623. Deceased was unmarried, the heirs male of the family being now extinct.

While a charity bazaar, at which a raffle had been arranged, was proceeding at Moncrieffe House, near Perth, recently, in aid of funds for erecting a new hall at Bridge of Earn, a telegram was received from the Public Prosecutor of Perthshire, reminding the committee that raffling was illegal, and requesting them to abandon it immediately. Several members of the Perthshire county constabulary were in attendance ready to act if necessary. A hurried meeting of the committee was held, and it was decided to cease the sale of raffle tickets.

A shocking fatality occurred at Carnoustie recently, the victim being a young man named John Murray, 19 years of age. Murray was working at a grindstone used for the burnishing and finishing of golf clubs. It is estimated that the stone was revolving at a speed of 1,000 revolutions per minute, when, without warning, it burst. Murray was instantly killed, and another lad, named David Morris, Kinlock street, seriously injured.

IRELAND

Now on his way back to the United States is James Lyncheham, who two months ago made a wager in Cleveland, O., that he would visit Ireland within three months and return to America, although he ran the risk of a life sentence by so doing. Twelve years ago Lyncheham was convicted of attempted murder and arson for firing the cottage of Mrs. McDonnell, at Achill, Ireland. After eight years in Maryborough Prison he escaped from his cell leaving a dummy in his place. Several persons, including a clergyman, were arrested, charged with aiding him to escape. He made his way to the United States, and in 1903 he was recaptured in Annapolis. Extradition was refused by the United States on the ground that the crime was in the nature of a political one. Recently a well-dressed man of middle age arrived at Mallaranny Railway station, 10 miles from Achill Island, and engaged a local car owner to drive him to see his friends. The car owner recognized him as Lyncheham, but kept his secret, although there is still a reward of $1,000 out for the arrest of the convict. The curious part of the story is, that Lyncheham was actually arrested while in Achill Sound on the charge of robbing the new hotel, and taken to the constabulary barracks. He was afterward released because the person who charged him with the crime refused to appear against him.

At a public meeting held in Strokestown a few days ago, under the auspices of the United Irish League, Mr. Denis Kilbride, M.P., referred to the fact that shopkeepers in the county took land on the eleven months' grazing system, and said they were going to tell the eleven months' men of that class that they would make a vow never to darken the doors of one of their shops. (Cheers.) Those of that class who took lands on the eleven-months system in future would not find a man in Roscommon to drive a horse or put a scythe in his hands. Mr. Lawrence Ginnell, M.P., said if they were meditating some method of practical action he would advise them to attack no estate under Judge Ross' control, but there were not many estates in the Land Judge's Court and they could attack others. They had cattle note-takers with them, and he asked them to take note of this—that he said to the people of Strokestown that the cattle ought to be driven off the ranches. They ought to relieve the pressure on the people of other parishes by giving some occupation to the police thereabouts. If they were worth their salt there would never be in that parish another piece of land taken on the eleven-months system.

A remarkable accident occurred on the railway at Whitehead, a station on the line between Larne and Belfast, one night recently. The guard of a train travelling to the city was a man named Nelson, of Hogarth, and accompanying him in the van was a railway porter named Cunningham, belonging to Greenisland, and a third man. It appears that when the train was between Kilroot and Carrickfergus one of the men leaned against the door of the van which flew open, and either the guard and porter fell out together, or one of them fell in attempting to save the other. The third man pulled the communication cord and stopped the train. Willing helpers went back along the line to assist Nelson and Cunningham, who were discovered lying in the side of the permanent way in an unconscious condition and bleeding profusely. Both men were removed to Belfast in a critical condition, and Cunningham soon afterwards succumbed to his injuries. It is not known how the accident occurred, and the inquest, which opened next day was adjourned.

The rescue of two man from drowning in the Liffey at Dublin, one evening recently caused much excitement. The two men, James M'Kenna and William Healy were sitting on the wall at Burgh quay, when one of them lost his balance, clutched his companion, and fell into the river. Two life buoys were thrown to them, which they grasped, but one of the belts broke. On the other side of the river at Eden quay, two other men named Gray and O'Reilly, dived into the water with the object of rescuing them. Gray swam across, and tied two belts around M'Kenna and Healy, who were hauled to the side, and them climbed to the quay by one of the iron ladders. Meanwhile a boat was put out from the quayside and Gray and O'Reilly were taken into it.

The affection of a dog saved its master's life at Kildsart recently. The owner of the dog, John Cleary, who is employed by the agent of the Lower Shannon Steamship Company, was mooring his boat after conveying two passengers from a steamer in the river when he fell into deep water. He was unable to swim, but he grasped and clung to the mooring cable of the boat. No one witnessed the accident, and Cleary's cries for help were unheard, but the whining and strange behavior of his dog on shore attracted the attention of the passengers he had landed and one of them immediately swam out and succeeded in rescuing Cleary.

A strange accident occurred in Christ Church Cathedral, Dublin, recently which resulted in damage to a portion of the building. As the bells of the church were chiming six o'clock the half-ton weight which supplies the motive power fell from the belfry owing to the steel rope connecting it with the carillon snapping. It fell a distance of 60 feet and struck the top of the arches over the choir with great force, the concussion being so severe that a portion of the grioning of the arches was dislodged, and fell into the choir, where the members were at practice. Fortunately nobody was injured.

While returning from Galway one night recently in his cart, Patrick Sheeham, of Newtown, Ballindereen, accompanied by a man named Martin, was shot at three times from behind a wall on the roadway between Clarenbridge and Kilcolgan. Sheehan was severely wounded in both hands. The horse was also hit. Sheehan is the tenant of a grazing farm, and within the last year he was fired at upon three occasions. No discovery has so far been made in connection with the accident.

At Omagh, recently, John Devlin, a poor-law guardman, was remanded charged with wilful murder of John Daly, with whom, it is alleged, he had an affray with spades outside accused's public house. A coroner's jury found that Daly's death was caused by injuries inflicted by Devlin, who is under police supervision in hospital.

Looseness of The Bowels.

It is very seldom during the summer months that most people are not troubled with "looseness of the bowels."

Sometimes it only goes that far, but generally it develops into Diarrhoea, Dysentery or Summer Complaint and has a tendancy to weaken the whole system.

When the bowels get loosened up in this way and you wish to check the unnatural discharge without bringing on constipation, there is only one remedy to use, and that one is DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY. This remedy is not an experiment as it has been used in thousands of families during the past sixty-two years.

When you ask for DR. FOWLER'S be sure you get it, as many unprincipalled druggists will try to palm off a cheap substitute on you.

Miss M. Hopkins, Roseview, Sask., writes: "I have used DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY and found it is all it is recommended to be for Diarrhoea and Summer Complaint. We would not be without a bottle of it in the house."

DEATH CALL CAME ON BRIDAL DAY

Miss Thompson Summoned to Bedside of Fiance, Who Died in New York

NUPTIALS WERE DEATH

New York, Sept. 11.—On the day when she was to have become the bride of Frank Slavin, a prosperous young business man of Flushing, Miss Martha Thompson of Toronto, Canada, left her home to hurry to his deathbed. Mr. Slavin died last night at his home, No. 11 Bradford avenue. His fiancee was with him.

Miss Thompson visited Flushing last spring and first met Mr. Slavin then. He was 29, connected with a large lumber company and prominent in Roman Catholic society. Friends say that it was a case of love at first sight. Two months ago they were told of an engagement.

Several weeks ago they received invitations to attend the wedding at the bride's home, set for last Wednesday. Immediately afterwards they learned that Mr. Slavin was furnishing a home for his bride and himself. It was to be occupied after a somewhat prolonged wedding tour, and it was to be opened with a reception.

Mr. Slavin fell ill two weeks ago. Typhoid fever developed, and last Wednesday Miss Thompson received a message that caused her to lay aside the trousseau, turn from the wedding presents, and hurry to Flushing.

There was no hope held out when she arrived, and last night came the death.

WEAK, SICKLY PEOPLE

Will Find New Strength Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

A great many young men and women are suddenly seized with weakness. Their appetite fails them; they tire on the least exertion, and become pale and thin. They do not feel any specific pain—just weakness. But that weakness is dangerous. It is a sign that the blood is thin and watery; that it needs building up. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will restore lost strength because they actually make new, rich blood—they will help you. Concerning them Mr. Alfred Legage, of St. Jerome, Que., says: "For several years I have been employed in a grocery and up to the age of seventeen I had always enjoyed the best of health. But suddenly my strength began to leave me; I grew pale, thin and extremely weak. Our family doctor ordered a complete rest and advised me to remain out of doors as much as possible, so I went to spend several weeks with an uncle who lived in the Laurentides. I was in the hope that the bracing mountain air would help me, but it didn't, and I returned home in a deplorable state. I was subject to dizziness, indigestion and general weakness. One day I read of a case very similar to my own cured through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to give them a trial. After taking four boxes of the pills I felt greatly improved, so continueed their use for some time longer and they tuny cured me. I am now able to go about my work as well as ever I did and have nothing but the greatest praise for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

The blood — good blood — is the secret of health. If the blood is not pure the body becomes diseased or the nerves shattered. Keep the blood pure and disease cannot exist. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make rich, red blood—that is why they cure anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, headache, backache, kidney trouble and the secret ailments of girlhood and womanhood. Sold at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by all medicine dealers or by mail from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

RIP VAN WINKLE COMES OUT OF BLUE KNOTS

Weeps on Learning That Bank With His Money Failed Years Ago

Hollidaysburg, Pa., Sept. 14.— Eleven years ago the banking house of Gardner, Morrow & Co., in this city, closed its doors, and since then its affairs have passed through various stages of liquidation, creditors receiving a small percentage of their claims.

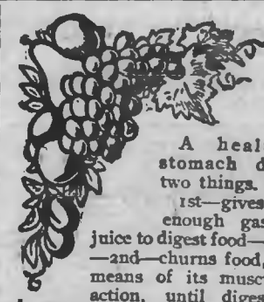
Yesterday, Jas. Ritchie, 80 years of age, a resident of the Blue Knob district, about ten miles from Hollidaysburg, came to town with a certificate of deposit, issued by the institution, for $5,000 that had been placed there many years ago. When the old man learned that the bank had passed out of existence, he broke down and cried.

He said he had not heard of the failure and had not been away from Blue Knob for fifteen years.

COMIC POST CARD WON FORGIVENESS FOR ELOPERS

Youthful Couple Ran Away and Were Married—Sent Post Card to Papa

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 14. — Joseph H. Pritchard, aged nineteen, of Mt. Washington, eloped yesterday to Youngstown. Pritchard's father declared that he would never see his son again. This morning he received a comic post card from his son, showing a father, with his son over his knee spanking him. "Dear Old Dad," the boy had written, "when can we come home?" Pritchard softened by the picture and the message, telegraphed them to come at once.



A Proven Cure For Indigestion

A healthy stomach does two things.

1st—gives up enough gastric juice to digest food—and —and—churns food, by means of its muscular action, until digestive juice and food are thoroughly mixed.

An unhealthy stomach is either too weak to properly churn the food or it does not give up enough gastric juice to make digestion complete.

Thousands have been cured of Indigestion and Dyspepsia by "Fruit-a-tives" alone.

Then you have Indigestion—Heartburn—Distress after Eating—Sour Stomach—Headaches—and finally chronic Dyspepsia.

SOCIALISTIC SNOBBERY.

Bernard Shaw Declares Gentility Fatal to Progress.

Mr. George Bernard Shaw has something to say in one of the weekly reviews on Socialism and gentility. He wants the latter kept in the drawing-rooms and banished utterly from the House of Commons. He says:

"Whether a member be Conservative, Liberal, Irish Nationalist, Labor, or Socialist, he will do no good there until he ceases to be a gentleman and becomes a shameless realist. When the strain becomes too great he can go out on the terrace and become a gentleman again for half an hour. The House of Commons never understood this. It is always trying to live up to its reputation as the best club in London. That is why it is so soulless, so futile.

"All the aristocrats and others who have done the thinking and leading of revolutionary movements have idealized the proletariat, and yet what Socialist who really knows the working class is not appalled by its capacity for snobbery and humbug? When the Labor party has secured for the English laborer a minimum standard wage of £78 a year he will become more particular about his clothes and skin, he will become more particular about his language. As far as his means will allow he will obliterate one by one the visible distinctions in personal habit between his class and the middle class, just as the noble class tries to obliterate as far as its means will allow the visible distinctions between it and the plutocracy. He will call his dinner lunch and his tea dinner. When he entertains, his wife will suppress his beer and offer the guests a choice of red ink or vinegar, which she will call claret or hock.

"But, above all, he will begin to pick up the ideals, especially the Tory ideals, for which sentimental Socialism is such an excellent training, the difference indeed being merely a sordid detail as to the distribution of the national income."

Swettenham Explains.

Sir Frank Swettenham writes a long letter to The Times, concerning the circumstances which led to his resignation as governor of Jamaica. "The governor," he says, "did as he was commanded, withdrew his whole letter, apologized, and resigned his post. He could not do otherwise. The net result is that, a foreign admiral having twice landed armed men in a British colony (the second time in direct opposition to the expressed wishes of the governor), and having, under the circumstances described been requested to re-embark them, the writer of that request has been compelled to withdraw it and to apologise for making it. He was not directed to withdraw any words or sentences in the letter, but the whole letter. It would, therefore, appear that in future there is nothing to prevent a foreign power from landing armed men in a British colony, even though the colony is garrisoned by British troops and the chief British authority declares that he is not in need of foreign assistance. This is a sufficiently serious situation, which might easily be complicated by the landing of armed parties from the vessels of several foreign powers, to be brought in contact with each other and with a native population excited by the strain of very unusual circumstances."

Man Attacked by an Otter.

A young man named Tom Barker was boating on the River Eden at Kirkby Stephen, Eng., when he saw an otter in the water and struck at it with his oar. The otter jumped into the boat and attacked him, but Barker killed it after a severe struggle.

THE BLACK ART IN INDIA

SUPERSTITIOUS NATIVES BELIEVE IN DEMONS.

A Tribute Peculiar Powers to the Imp Kuttichathen—Most Dreaded of All—Sorcery Good Business With the Natives—Ordeals Necessary to Subdue the Evil Powers—Lonely Vigils in the Jungle.

It may not be generally known that the black art flourishes to a certain extent in southern India, especially on the west coast, says a writer in The Indian World.

In this country the place of honor is given by the superstitious Malayalee to the imp Kuttichathen, who is considered by him to be the most mischievous and frightful of demons. This imp is about three feet high, with hair all over the body and capable of any mischief. He is the most dreaded of all and manifests his displeasure in a thousand ways.

Primarily he begins with throwing stones over the house of a man under his displeasure. If steps are not taken immediately after the preliminary stages of the manifestation of his displeasure, it is said the consequences generally are very violent.

It is said that every sorcerer has a devil or demigod under his command to do his wishes and carry out his commands. To get mastery over a demigod, it is said, one has to undergo severe trials. Keeping vigils, incessantly utterng the name of the devil or the demigod he wishes to subdue, in crematories and lonely jungles, is the primary duty of a man who aspires to become a sorcerer.

On the 41st day of the vigil the devil will present himself to the candidate who aspires to take the degree of honors in sorcery and surrender himself to the latter. A sorcerer who has already one devil at his command generally aspires to exercise sovereignty over another.

This can only be enjoyed after a great trouble. It is said that the demon whom the sorcerer wishes to captivate will generally ask the candidate to fetch inaccessible and impossible things as a proof that he is sincere and capable of doing anything. They say that such candidates generally meet their demand through the aid of the devil already under his command.

DOG SERVES CHICKENS.

Great Dane Acts As Water Carrier On the Farm.

A noble specimen of his particular breed of dogs is Elcho, a great dane, standing approximately 33 inches high and weighing 125 pounds, which is the property of a well-known farmer out west.

Elcho is 4 years old, bred in a Medford kennel, and he is of a race that is extensively cultivated by both American and English dog fanciers. While the great danes in their early history, were noted for their ferocity, Elcho, to the members of the household, with whom he lives, is as gentle as a house cat, permits a young boy connected with the place to ride upon his back, and he is sometimes harnessed in a dogcart for a trial of speed about the premises.

On one of these occasions, however, a fleet-footed "cotton tail" rather intertered with the comfort of the occupants of the dogcart, for Elcho forgot both his dignity and the comfort of his passengers as he sped with all the power of those great muscles in the forelegs after the nimble-footed rabbit.

Elcho is also used as a common carrier. He transports water in the pail shown in the illustration to the chicken coops, and he is likewise intrusted with a lighted lantern about the lawn and, when someone is present, in the stables.

But Elcho's greatest achievement was the finding of the trail of two fleeing calves that belonged to the dairy herd, tracking them for half a mile, turning them homeward, and safely driving them to the inclosure from whence the two little animals escaped.

Benefit of Peerage.

Every one may not know what the term "benefit of peerage" implies. A peer can demand a private audience of the sovereign to represent his views on matters of public welfare. For treason or felony he can demand to be tried by his peers. He cannot be outlawed in any civil action, nor can he be arrested unless for an indictable offense, and he is exempt from serving on juries. He may sit with his hat on in courts of justice, and should he be liable to the last penalty of the law he can demand a silken cord instead of a hempen rope.

Hardly.

Cabman (sitting in the street amid the ruins of his cab and horse, to driver of the bus which occasioned the disaster)—You — —! — — —!! ——!!! — — — — —!!!! —-!!!!

Constable (to the orator)—Now, now! You mustn't call him such names as that.

Cabman (in frenzy)—Him wot smashed me cab an' killed me 'oss an' left me a 'elpless cripple! Wot the —— do 'er expect me to call 'im—a 'owlin' hangel? —London Judy.

FIGHT WITH JACKALS

MAN HAS FIERCE STRUGGLE WITH HUNGRY PACK AT CAPE.

Was Fourteen Miles From Home—Mistook Them For Herd of Buck—Assumed the Aggressive—Used Rifle As Club—Despatched Twenty-One of the Vicious Brutes—Rescued Just In Time.

While he was on a shooting trip about fourteen miles from his home at Beaufort West, Cape Colony, the other day, A. E. Clarke Kuir, a British settler, had a terrible fight with jackals.

What he took to be a herd of buck approaching him turned out to be a pack of "Panne" jackals, the large variety so much dreaded by farmers and herdsmen. Instead of allowing the pack to pass unmolested, he fired and killed the leader.

The others advanced on him, and before they surrounded him he killed three more and wounded two. Then a grim fight against overwhelming odds began, for he was alone in the bush. Using his rifle as a club, Mr. Kuir disposed of a few more of the brutes, but his weapon broke and he was left with only the two barrels to defend himself. By this time he was fearfully torn and mauled about the neck, arms and thighs, and was rapidly growing exhausted.

Just before he sank to the ground unconscious one large jackal sprang on his shoulders and buried its teeth in his neck, and he remembered nothing more. When he recovered his senses he was in a sheep kraal with four friends, who had saved his life.

They came on the scene as he was falling, and as the infuriated beasts were rushing on him to tear him to pieces a few shots and a combined rush scattered the animals in all directions.

After taking him home, Mr. Kuir's rescuers returned, and found twenty-one dead jackals, which they skinned. They sent him half a dozen of the skins as mementos of the incident.

Why Elephants Fear Mice.

It seems incredible that so small and harmless an animal as a mouse is able to frighten an elephant almost out of his senses. One little mouse in the hay on which they are feeding will stampede an entire herd. In their native land there are little animals, known as chacanas, which feed on a small, sour berry of which elephants are very fond. They live in settlements, something after the manner of prairie dogs, under the berry bushes. When feeding, the elephants trample the little towns, and the chacanas, in their fright, run up the tubes of the elephants' trunks. Their long, sharp claws catch in the flesh, and they cannot be ejected. The more violently the monster blows through its coiled trunk the more firmly the hooked claws of the little animal become imbedded in the flesh. Inflammation and death are the result. In captivity the elephants think they are in danger of the deadly chacanas when they see a mouse.

Early Baseball Teams.

Baseball teams existed as early as 1845, but the first league was formed in 1857, when the National Association of Baseball Players was organized. This, as the title implies, was an organization of players—in fact, of amateur players. They did not remain true amateurs for long, however, and in 1871 baseball was placed squarely on a professional basis, when there came into existence the National Association of Professional Baseball Players. It will be noted that the players still governed the sport, and they continued to do so until 1876. It was in this period that there grew up the great abuses which menaced the very life of baseball—namely, gambling and the buying and selling of games. In 1876 the players were deposed from the government of professional baseball, and they have never since controlled the game.—Henry Beach Needham in Success Magazine.

Almost Prehistoric.

Her voice in the midsummer gloaming had a plaintive sound.

"I haven't anything new to sing to you tonight, Cyril," she faltered.

"Then sing me one of the old songs, love," said the man tenderly.

High, thin and a little cracked, her soprano rose in quaint, sweet melody of "Over the Garden Wall." When the song was ended her lover laughed and said:

"That was indeed an old one, Clara."

Two hard lines formed about the corners of her mouth.

"Yes, Cyril," she said quietly; "I sang that song to you the night we became engaged."

They Let It Go at That.

They were holding down the parlor sofa together.

"Women," he remarked to the dear girl by his side, "are not good listeners."

The dear girl said nothing.

And the dear girl's mother, who was doing an eavesdropping stunt at the keyhole, was not in a position to contradict him.

It Takes Cash.

"Why are there no lynchings in this city?" said a New York policeman. "Because the officers always get there ahead of a rope. There are several patrolmen on each block, and it takes some time to hunt up a hardware store and get a rope. The man who goes after it usually loses his enthusiasm when he finds that even a clothesline means cash on delivery."

Another In the Field.

She was pretty, and the drug clerk was glad to sell her a stamp.

Also to weigh her letter.

Also to lick the stamp and affix it to the envelope.

"Put it on upside down, please," she simpered. "That means something to Charlie."

Then the drug clerk lost interest.

Held Canada's Cup.

The Seneca won all three races in the contest for the Canada's Cup. The series of contests proved beyond a doubt that she is the superior of Mr. Cawthra Mulock's challenger, the Adele, in any sort of weather.

The official time for the three races was as follows:

First race—Start, Adele, 1.00.25; Seneca, 1.00.31. First stake, Seneca,

THE SENECA.

2.35.30; Adele, 2.42.38. Second stake, Seneca, 3.34.38; Adele, 3.45.45. Finish, Seneca, 5.58.23; Adele did not finish.

Second race—Start, Adele, 11.30.00; Seneca, 11.30.05. Turn, Adele, 1.05.-21; Seneca, 1.05.36. Finish, Seneca, 2.51.16; Adele, 2.56.54.

Third race—Start, Adele, 11.15.10; Seneca, 11.15.13. First turn, Seneca, 12.46.42; Adele, 12.52.14. Second turn, Seneca, 1.38.19; Adele, 1.45.04. Finish, Seneca, 2.31.50.

Mr. Jarvis again proved himself to be a fine, cool, resourceful skipper but he had a hopeless task. It was a contest between designers, and the designer of the best racing machine won. It seems to be the opinion of sportsmen that English yacht designers, who know nothing of conditions of water and weather here, cannot be counted upon to design a winner for such a contest as that for the Canada's Cup.

Fight With an Otter.

Mr. Tom Barker recently had an exciting struggle with an otter on the river Eden, at Kirkby Stephen, Westmoreland.

Otters had infested the river at Kirkby Stephen for some days past, unsuccessful attempts being made to unearth them by means of dogs. Mr. Barker set a rat-trap on the brink of the river, and secured it to a tree by a chain.

On going to the place in a boat next morning he found a fine dog otter fast by two claws in a trap. The otter snapped viciously at him, and caught hold of the gunwale of the boat in the attempt to reach him.

Mr. Barker then loosed the chain from the tree, and the otter, thus partly liberated, actually pulled the boat from one side of the stream to the other in its frantic attempt to escape. Hauling the otter to the surface of the water, Mr. Barker endeavored to despatch it with his stick, but the otter seized and almost bit the stick through, and gnawed the edge of the boat, trying to reach its opponent.

The man then drove the animal beneath the surface, and, fastening the chain to the boat, pulled up and down the river until the otter was drowned. It was found to measure forty-six inches from snout to tip of the tail, and weigh 18 pounds.

Crossing the Herring Pond.

The liner was rolling frightfully.

"Jack," moaned the pale green but still lovely bride, "promise me you will send my remains to the old home for burial."

He promised. The motion grew gradually worse.

"Jack," she moaned again.

"Well, dear?"

"You needn't bother about my remains. There won't be any."

The Blue Grass Regions.

The blue grass region of Kentucky and Tennessee was the first national park and game and forest preserve in America. It was so set apart before the white man had come with profaning foot and conquering firearms by the great Iroquois tribes of Indians—the Six Nations. They forbade any settlement or agriculture in all that great region, and it became known as the "hunting grounds."

Hopeful.

Granger—How are you getting along at your house? Timson—Pretty well, on the whole. We are nearly out of everything but debt, and in time, if things go on as they have been goin', we ought to be out of that.

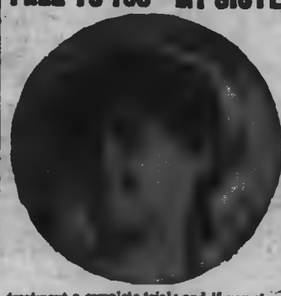
FREE TO YOU—MY SISTER


FREE TO YOU AND EVERY SISTER SUFFERING FROM WOMEN'S AILMENTS.
I am a woman.
I know woman's sufferings.
I have found the cure.
I will mail, free of any charge, my home treatment with full instructions to any sufferer from women's ailments. I want to tell all women about this cure—you, my reader, for yourself, your daughter, your mother, or your sister. I want to tell you how to cure yourselves at home without the help of a doctor. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is a safe and sure cure for Leucorrhœa or Whites, Menorrhagia, Ulceration, Displacement or Falling of the Womb, Prolapse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors or Growths, also pains in the head; back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weakness, kidney and bladder troubles where caused by weaknesses peculiar to our sex.
I want to send you a complete 10 days' treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, easily, quickly and surely. Remember, that it will cost you nothing to give the treatment a complete trial; and if you should wish to continue, it will cost you only about 12 cents a week, or less than two cents a day. It will not interfere with your work or occupation. Just send me your name and address, tell me how you suffer, if you wish, and I will send you the treatment for your case, entirely free, in plain wrapper, by return mail. I will also send you free of cost, my book—"WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVISER" with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. Every woman should have it, and learn to think for herself. Then when the doctor says—"You must have an operation," you can decide for yourself. Thousands of women have cured themselves with my home remedy. It cures all, old or young. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain a simple home treatment which speedily and effectually cures Leucorrhœa, Green Sickness and Painful or Irregular Menstruation in Young Ladies. Plumpness and health always result from its use.
Wherever you live, I can refer you to ladies of your own locality who know and will gladly tell any sufferer that this Home Treatment really cures all woman's diseases and makes women well, strong, plump and robust. Just send me your address, and the free ten days' treatment is yours, also the book. Write to-day, as you may not see this offer again. Address:

GIRL DUPES SOCIETY

EVA STRANGWAY'S CAREER OF FRAUD IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Posed as Earl's Daughter and Lived High For a Time—Tricked Hotels and Tradesmen—Followed by Detectives But Made Good Her Escape—Adventure on the Steamer—Had Charming Manner.

The detention in New York of "Mrs. Eva Fox-Strangways," who passed herself in America as the daughter of an earl, and succeeded in obtaining the confidence of persons prominent socially in New York and Philadelphia, recalls her career in England.

She was a fascinating young Englishwoman, and represented herself to be the Hon. Eva Fox-Strangways, the daughter of the Earl of Ilchester. With nothing to help her but her wits and an undeniable charm of manner, she succeeded in living at the rate of $50,000 a year without visible means of support.

"Miss Fox-Strangways," before her visit to the American aristocracy, was staying in London at one of the most fashionable and select of the West End hotels.

Miss Strangway, which is her correct name, is a well-educated and extremely self-possessed young woman—a striking brunette, plump of face and figure, with alluring eyes and determined manner.

She is—although she does not admit it—of humble origin.

Eva Strangways' first step toward improving her position in life was to add the prefix "Fox" to her previously undistinguished surname. This unauthorized change gave her the family name—Fox-Strangways—of the Earl of Ilchester, who owns large estates around her native place.

For some years the girl was in receipt of a handsome income owing to the friendships she made and the confidence she inspired by reason of her social claims. Motor cars, yachting trips and society functions, with expensive entertainments at first-class hotels all over the continent, were enjoyed by the "Hon. Eva," to whom the quiet, well-ordered life of a governess or school teacher did not appeal at all.

Afterwards the "Hon Eva" was thrown entirely on her own resources, and sought to earn fresh fame by contributing articles on her "travels" to magazines and posing as famous woman shooter of "big game." She was able to persuade many wealthy and well-connected people that she was all she claimed, and her very boldness was her greatest safeguard.

Told Tales to Suit Occasions.

She told various tales to suit her ever-changing companions. One of her stories was that she owned parts of Achill Island, some 32,000 acres of land, off County Mayo, Ireland, and that she traveled for pleasure, and to do good to the poor.

To others she said she was touring the world for an important London weekly newspaper, and to those unacquainted with journalism she stated that she owned an important English newspaper, which she edited "from a distance."

In September of last year she wrote from a Winchester address to a West End hotel, asking for "good rooms," and giving as her country seat a high-sounding Hampshire address, which has since proved to be a boarding-house, where she also owes money.

She ordered and drove about in motor-cars at the expense of the hotel, and made a tour of the leading Regent street and Bond street shops. Within a few days she ordered $200 worth of dresses and knick-knacks, which she instructed the hotel to pay for. As in some cases bills for as much as $1,000 in a week are settled for any well-known visitor to the hotel, this request was regarded as in no way unusual or suspicious.

At the end of the week the "Hon. Eva," who had been entertaining "friends" in private rooms, gave a cheque for $360 for her bill, and obtained a few pounds change, before she vanished.

After swift and profitable visits to Matlock and Winchester, she removed her luggage, and was off to Manchester, and thence to Liverpool, with men from Pinkerton's, the American detective agency, now hot at her heels.

It was at this crisis, when the game seemed up, that the "Hon. Eva" proved that her nerve and assurance were equal to most emergencies. She convinced the justly indignant hotel proprietors that she was about to marry a fabulously rich New Yorker, and that she must at once cross the Atlantic at any cost, but that she would return and spend her honeymoon—regardless of money—at the hotel that trusted to her honor!

She was allowed to leave Liverpool on the strength of this promise, and she went on board the Campania, still followed by a zealous Pinkerton detective, who was calling her immediate attention to dishonored cheques. She had at the moment neither money nor ticket, but she mingled with the saloon passengers of the big Cunarder, and with some dignity turned an apparently deaf ear to the shadowing detective.

The purser, who had heard something of this embarrassing situation, then politely enquired for her ticket.

"I have none," replied the "Hon. Eva" indifferently.

"Then I must trouble you for the money, madam," replied the purser.

"I will give you a post-dated cheque for the amount in full," said the lady promptly, ignoring the detective and his pointed enquiries about long-drawn cheques held by his clients.

"I am sorry, madam, I cannot accept a cheque of any kind," replied the Cunard official, but the lady was in no way ruffled.

"You shall have the money before you leave Queenstown or I will then go ashore and wait for the next boat," was all she said, and calmly went down to supper in the saloon.

Man Pays Her Passage.

At Queenstown the purser sent for the lady and told her, kindly but firmly, she must go ashore.

It was then the "Hon. Eva Fox-Strangways" rose to the occasion. Her luggage had been sent ashore on one tender and she was requested to leave the ship on the second and last tender, without further appeal.

At this moment a gentleman, whose sympathies had been enlisted by her moving tale of distress, went to the purser on her behalf and guaranteed the money. In this fashion the "Earl's daughter" crossed to New York—the life and soul of a merry Atlantic party.

When the Campania berthed in New York docks another detective was sitting on Miss Strangway's luggage to ask further awkward questions, which she waved aside, or answered as the occasion demanded. She declared she was going to well-connected friends at Westover, Virginia. Later, it was found she, indeed, went there, not as a guest, but as a governess, and was discharged almost immediately, because of her intemperate habits.

Life is hard for many people, and we have no right to withhold any word or touch or act of love which will lighten the load or cheer the heart of any fellow struggler.—La Belle Star.
